Our camp fireplace is still cold, July 30, waiting on the Chimney swifts to hurry up and get out. They are fed every five minutes with mosquitos and such like. Great friends to have about the camp. One lady, visiting us, was quite annoyed that we should refrain from lighting a nice log fire. "Ah, smoke them out—let them go elsewhere and nest," said our unthinking friend. I took her up on the roof, at risk of having her fall down and pull me with her. When she looked down the big open chimney and saw the nest against the wall, made of saliva cement and twigs, with the little ones there, and heard of how they are fed insects, and saw the parents catching them in the air and pumping them into the babies' throats, she was not so ready to chase them out. Then a mosquito bit her ankle, so that she slipped and grabbed me and I grabbed the chimney and we just saved ourselves. "Go catch mosquitoes, Mr. Swift" said she.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DISEASES OF JOINTS DUE TO INFECTION.

It is not uncommon to see a man in a restaurant place a tablet or wafer in his glass of water.

If you observe his hands, you may notice that the joints of the fingers are enlarged. Or he may limp when he gets up from the table.

It is probable the man we are noticing stealthily has rheumatism. He may have "rheumatoid arthritis."

What is rheumatoid arthritis? you ask.

This condition, sometimes called "arthritis deformans," is a chronic disease of the joints, resulting in thickening and deformity of the bones. There may be a history of rheumatism and, sometimes, the trouble appears to be a family trait.

It is difficult to get away from the old "uric acid" theory. The man who adds the tablet to his drinking water is probably acting in the belief that by "getting the acid out of the system" he will escape the evils of rheumatism and joint deformity.

The trouble with most of our pet theories is that they aren't true. I think I have told you before that a would-be naturalist defined a lobster as "a red fish that walked backward." The only trouble with this description is that a lobster is not a fish, is not red and does not walk backward. The chief defect in the uric acid theory is that it does not satisfy the modern scientific ideas about rheumatism and arthritis.

There are certain causes which appear to bring on an attack, but it is probable that every case of rheumatoid arthritis is due to an infection. There is no hope of relief or of preventing an increase in the disability without locating and removing the source of infection.

This disease occurs in both sexes and at any age, but more frequently between thirty and forty. It is more common in women and usually appears at the change of life.

The germs of disease possess the power of "selective affinity." The particular tissue which appeals to them is made the objective of their attack. The joints are the favorite battle field of certain types. But the warfare does not begin there—it starts somewhere else, perhaps far away from the joints which are invaded much later.

It is a great mistake to endure the evils of pus infection in the gums or teeth, the tonsils or nasal sinuses. A chronic running ear, an obstinate bronchitis, or a diseased intestinal tract may be the source of the infection which is beginning to disturb the joints. The generative organs may be the chief seat of trouble.

There is much to do to relieve the distress of this ailment, but my purpose today is merely to point out the cause. Knowing where the real trouble is, good sense will dictate immediate attention to that.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. A. F. G.—How and with what preparation should I massage my face to get rid of wrinkles?

A.—Massage with cocoa butter very lightly with the tips of the fingers.

M. C. Q.—What will improve poor intestinal elimination?

2.—Is it harmful to resort to laxatives every day?

A.—Proper diet and exercise should bring about satisfactory results. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—Yes. When you have followed the above instructions this practice should not be necessary.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

(By Blanche Silver.)

Dee Makes the Acquaintance of a Happy Little Family.

DEE tiptoed down to the edge of the stream and watched the queer little fellow swimming around in the water.

"I look like who?" laughed the little furry animal swimming over to the bank beside Dee. "Who did you say I looked like?"

"Billy Beaver," replied Dee. "But I can see now that you are not a beaver."

"I'll say I'm not," chuckled the creature. "I'm Bobby Duck Bill, at your service."

"Duck Bill?" laughed Dee. "Why how funny! How in the world did you get that name. You're an animal, not a bird."

"Guess from the shape of my bill or beak and my webbed feet," replied Mr. Bobby Duck Bill. "I'm an animal all right, for you see I have four legs, but my wife lays eggs like a bird."

"Just the same, we have the proof of it, unless the youngsters have hatched since I left home," chuckled the queer creature. "Come on and I'll let you take a peek at the wife and eggs," and he jumped into the water and swam to the other side of the bank. Dee ran around to meet him and after he waved his funny beaver-like tail over her three times she was able to dive right down into the water to the entrance of the Duck Bill home.

They ran up a long tunnel just above the water line where they found Mrs. Duck Bill on a comfy little nest with her six little youngsters curled up like little balls at her side. They were just as naked as could be.

"I'm glad to see the babies," cried Mr. Duck Bill, "but I'm sorry Dee didn't get to see the eggs."

Mr. Duck Bill reached in his cheek pockets and brought out some tiny fish which he gave his wife.

"I didn't know you had cheek pouches," said Dee. "How handy they must be!"

"Indeed they are," laughed Mr. Duck Bill, "and so is this sharp spur on my heels," and he moved it around to show Dee. "When an enemy disturbs me I run that spur into him and give him some poison, which flows down through the spur. You didn't see that either, did you?"

"No I didn't," said Dee. "I'm sure glad you introduced yourself to me. I don't believe we have any Duck Bills in America. I never saw any until I came to Australia. There's Auntie calling me now. Goodby folks, I'll come again," and Dee ran out of the little tunnel into the sunshine and back to her Aunt's house to tell of the adventure she had just had.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

YOUR GARDEN

PLANTING THE ROCK GARDEN.

As in the placing of the stones in the rock garden, so the planting should emulate nature. Therefore, the plants should be arranged in clumps or colonies of one variety. Mixed plantings are not so satisfactory as the strongest growing kinds overrun the weaker, and under such conditions many varieties would soon perish. The size of the clumps will vary, of course, as will the size of the largest clumps in relation to the size of the area in rockery. That is to say, the size of the clump should be in scale, should fit and not dwarf the area. Thus the clumps in a rockery covering around forty square feet, one and a half feet square, approximately, would form a large clump, while in one covering several hundred square feet, a clump three feet by six, approximately, be none too large.

Late spring is the very best time to plant alpines, and great care should be taken in transferring them and, if they are obtainable, small potted plants are most easily handled. Native plants are best moved in August, after their period of rest, as explained in a previous article.

It is as well to remember also that planting and building may be done at the same time.

Much other planting material besides the true alpines may be plant-ed and will look quite natural. Small shrubs and evergreens are particularly useful and add an appearance of stability. Unfortunately, the greater number of the heaths and related plants, possibly the most useful families, will not survive in our climate. The evergreens should be used sparingly and those having golden or silvery foliage should be left out entirely as out of keeping with the naturalness aimed at. Also the tall upright types are unsuitable, and the dwarf prostrate type rather should be chosen, such as Juniperus Tamariscifolia, J. Sabina Prostrata and Retmospara Obtusa Nana.

Many of the more delicate appearing and dwarf perennials, as well as the smaller spring blooming bulbs, can all be fitted in and made to look quite natural.

SHORTEN DANCING TO AID GAMBLING

By MINOTT SAUNDERS.

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 26.—(United Press).—Although the season is now in full swing, with hotels and villas crowded, the annual orgy of heavy gambling has been slow in getting underway. The stage directors are worried, and taking subtle steps to liven things up around the tables.

For all the world's a stage, and men and women merely players, even at this gay resort where the men and women are among the chosen from the four corners of the world who possess wealth, or social position, or smething that admits them to the inner shrine of fashion's fanfares. Titles and jewels and checkbooks notwithstanding, the players strut as they are told.

The gaming rooms proper open at midnight, and here the elite dine late. The Casino restaurant is always gay, with much fancy food and mermerizing music by an American jazz band. The popularity of the restaurant, with its alluring dancing, has been such that the tables in the other wing have often been neglected.

Dancing Cut Short.

But a mysterious system has been detected for the shifting of the scenes. Suddenly the waiters speed up remarkably and serve patrons with great gusto, bringing coffee before the sweet is tasted, and the bill before the liquors are raised. Simultaneously the orchestra men feel the need of a breath of air and a smoke, and so the dancing lags. Naturally there is nothing to do but stroll into the Casino and have a fling.

Even the post-midnight supper seance has at times been curtailed for the benefit of the tables, with the result that players once bitten, much shy, buy more chips and stay on to retrieve their losses. This system has greatly bucked up the playing.

EARLY HISTORY OF ENNISMORE.

By P. G. Towns.

The Township of Ennismore is triangular in shape, and is bounded on the north by Pigeon and Buckhorn Lakes, on the south-east by Chemong Lake, and on the west by Victoria County. Ennismore was surveyed in the year of 1825. This township might be considered a portion of the Township of Smith cut off by Chemong Lake, which is a beautiful stretch of water 12 miles long by one mile wide. The name, Chemong, is Indian, while the lake is ofttimes nicknamed "Mud Lake," which to strangers would give the impression that it was a swamp or marsh, instead of a beautiful surface of water, surrounded by a high bank, with prominent hills covered with beautiful forests, a real Paradise for tourists and campers. A floating bridge one mile long crosses the lake from the Village of Bridgenorth to Ennismore. It is a beautiful landscape view at twilight on a summer's evening as the sun bids good-bye to the forests, hills and the lake shore, and the reflection casts its shadows on its calm waters with all the colors of the rainbow.

The first settlers of Ennismore came out from Ireland in the emigration of 1825, under the supervision of Hon. Peter Robinson. Many of those located in Emily, Asphodel, Douro, Otonabee and Smith, while 67 took up homesteads in Ennismore, while they, along with their families, made a total of 297, who were the first settlers of that township. The Government scow brought those brave emigrants across Mud Lake, as it was then called, and as it reached the Ennismore shore, Patrick Gallivan jumped ashore and, landing on the bank, he exclaimed: "Gentlemen, behold I am the first settler of Ennismore." Amongst the first settlers who landed in Ennismore were the following, and their families: Garrott Gallivan, who settled on the shore of Buckhorn Narrows; John D. Smith, who kept a store and traded with the Indians; Mr. Smith's store was kept in the house, which is still occupied by the Gannon family, after which Gannon's Narrows has been named; Edward Sullivan, Joe Sheehen, Tom Cahil, Peter Flood, Tim Caddigan, Pat Caddigan, Peter Cavanaugh, Ned Corkery, Patrick Brick, John Sullivan, Larry Driscoll, Tim Murphy, Eugene McCarthy.

Ennismore had the distinction of having a visit of Sir Peregrine Maitland, Governor of Upper Canada, and also Col. Alex. McDonnell, in the year 1825. They called to see how the new settlers were getting along. They had driven across Chemong Lake on the ice, as their visit was in the winter time. During their visit they were the guests of Eugene McCarthy, whose shanty was considered the most comfortable in the township at the time. Settlers came from all parts of the township through rough and rugged trails, many of them poorly clad to protect them from the inclement weather in those winter months. When asked by the Governor what they most desired, the spokesman said, "Give us the clergyman to administer to us the comforts of our holy religion, and good schoolmasters to instruct our children."

Patrick Galvin was the first collector of taxes in Ennismore Township. The first year he collected the entire tax of the township, which was a little better than $16. He had to carry this on foot to Port Hope.

"Though the taxes were light, much difficulty was experienced in making them up. We might relate an anecdote of a settler of the early days of Ennismore by the name of Hourin, who had not the price of his taxes, so, expecting to make them up, he caught a fat sheep and, partly by leading and partly by carrying, he got it to Peterborough in two days. Not being able to sell it, he killed and quartered it, and converted the sheep into cash, and came home rejoicing, as he had just the change to meet his tax bill. While this to the present generation may appear as impossible, however, they were realities to the early settlers who cleared the land and turned Ennismore from a wilderness, inhabited only by wolves and wild-cats, in 1825, to a rich and prosperous township some years later.

First Crops.

In the year 1826 the number of homesteads occupied in the township was 67, while they had 195 acres cleared, which spoke well for the industry of the early immigrants who settled the township. The following shows the amount of produce raised in that year by those settlers:

Potatoes, 8,900 bushels; turnips, 3,000 bushels; Indian corn, 1,042½ bushels; bushels of wheat sown, 86; maple sugar, 1,345 pounds, while the following stock had been purchased by them: Oxen, 4; cows, 9; pigs, 10.

In spite of the brave determination and industry of the early settlers of the township, the population diminished instead of increasing, during the first ten years. In the year 1832 the number of persons assessed was 32; number of acres under cultivation, 118; assessed value of property, $7,088; total rate of taxes for all purposes, $34.

Spiritual wants of the early settlers were attended to by Rev. Father John Buttler, who was parish priest of Peterborough from 1834 to his death, June 25, 1853. Later on, by ecclesiastical changes, a priest was appointed to reside in Emily. Rev. Father Burke, Father Coyle and Rev. Father Hogan, for a short time, attended Ennismore.

Great difficulty was experienced by the early settlers in clearing the land, their inexperience as axemen made work very difficult. Instead of harrowing the grain as we do now, they covered it with a hoe. The land was very fertile. The early settlers were supplied with the necessities of life for a year also with tools to be used in cultivating the soil and to build their shanties. A large fireplace was built of stone in each shanty, flat stones being used as a hearth. The floors were made of poles flattened on the top side with an axe.

Great difficulties were experienced in getting their wheat ground. Sometimes they pounded it in a maple stump hollowed out for the purpose, and many mothers chewed the wheat and then gave it to their children. Owing to the township being isolated from Smith Township by Chemong Lake, and the settlers not having boats or canoes, and not being able to make them, they were forced to carry their supplies around the head of the lake. In many cases they carried great burdens of provisions on their back, and guided only by blazes made with an axe on the trees through the forests. During the first 10 years very great difficulties and privations were experienced by the first settlers, but in spite of that, both men and women worked with great energy against all obstacles. During the first year, including the trip from Prescott among the settlers of Ennismore, there were 9 births and 23 deaths. It will be remembered that during the dry summer months, a man with long boots could walk across Chemong Lake, but after the building of the Buckhorn dam the lake was flooded, as it is to-day. Great love existed among those early settlers, which made the home of the humblest more happy and attractive than the more wealthy of to-day. Lads and lassies flocked from shanty to shanty, while Irish songs resounded from every social gathering in those early days of the settlement of Ennismore.

In the early days it was quite common to meet those first settlers carrying their supplies from Port Hope to Ennismore through the blazed trail. When night overtook them they lit a fire with flint, steel and punk, and camped in the open air, with the blue sky for a tent and the grassy bank for a pillow. In after years, at a gathering, one of the younger generation, in hearing an older gentleman relate of those trips, exclaimed: "Could that be possible?" "My boy," said the old settler, "Carrying them was a pleasure, but to get them was the trick."

It might be well to state that for a number of years those men and women walked to mass to Peterborough. Some of them walked a distance of fourteen miles, and carried a few cakes in their pocket, which they ate on their road back. After Father Burke had been appointed parish priest of Emily, he also had charge of Ennismore. The priest's house was one mile from where Downeyville is now. Every second Saturday he walked to King's Wharf, which was on Pigeon Creek, five miles from his residence. At that time King's Wharf consisted of a big tree which fell in the creek. Off this he got into a large punt and rowed to Sullivan's Landing in Ennismore. Then he walked three miles and stayed at Patrick Gallivan's. Saturday and Sunday morning he walked through the woods to the Ennismore cross, a distance of five miles, to say mass in a log church, which was built by the people themselves in Father Burke's time.

The Church of St. Martin's, which was built by Rev. Father Coyle in the year 1874, was a neat building built of red brick in Gothic structure. It was 80 by 140 feet, with a spire 150 feet high, which could be seen from a great distance around. This beautiful church was destroyed by fire in the year 1922, and is replaced by a beautiful white brick church, larger and more beautiful than ever.

Patrick Gallivan was appointed first postmaster of Ennismore, while Thomas Lehoane was the second. Ennismore was represented at the Coleburn district as district councillor from 1842 to 1850 by Daniel Costello.

Peterborough County was organized in 1850. The following are the names of the councillors who represent Ennismore at the County Council in the early years. In the years 1850 and '51, Ennismore was united to Smith Township for municipal purposes:

In the early days the settlers would walk from one end of the township to the other to help one another out, either building or saving the crop. Sociability was considered a virtue among the early settlers. Each settler of Ennismore raised a flock of sheep, and had great difficulty in those early days to protect them from the wolves. The wool, when taken off the sheep, was corded and spun by the good housewife, and taken to the weaver to make into cloth. The first weaver in Ennismore was a man by the name of Cunningham.

In the early days all the crops were cut with a reaping hook. The first grain cradle was brought from the States by a man by the name of McIlvena. Men flocked from all sides of the township to see it tried in a field of wheat. It was looked upon as wonderful. One man said, "He can do as much as six men," while another said, "He can beat twice six." They had no electric lights or coal oil in those early days; candles were a luxury. Torches were made by winding a rag around a stick and dipping it in grease and put several of them aside during the day so as to have them ready for the night. It might be stated that an old settler by the name of John Stoddard, who lived in Ennismore at Sullivan's Landing, used to place a candle in his window to show those rowing up Pigeon Creek from Emily, where to land.

dard. Garrot Gallivan, who now resides in Peterborough, was the first mail carrier for Ennismore. He carried the mail from Bridgenorth. The postmaster at Bridgenorth at the time was Marquis Dean. Tom Cahil was the first fiddler in the early days. Here in the wilds of Ennismore, the lads and lasses of bygone days, who long since have passed away, reeled and step-danced to his Irish strains, in the days of the early settlement of the township.

Justices of Peace.

Following were the justices of the peace in Ennismore previous to the year of 1866: Daniel Costello, Patrick Sullivan, John Sullivan, Martin Corkery, and Patrick Brick.

Local superintendents of schools: Patrick Sullivan, 1844-1852; Dr. John Frons, 1853; Daniel Donahoe, 1854, '55, '56; James Brennan, 1857, '58, '59, '60 and '61; Daniel Donahue, 1862, '63, '64; Dr. T. W. Poole, 1865; James Stratton, 1866.

Great inconvenience was experienced by the settlers in the early days of the northern townships in getting from Peterborough to Bobcaygeon. As the direct route between those two places passed through Ennismore, and settlers and travelers passing between those points were forced to go around the head of the lake, which added considerably to the distance, which might have been saved had there been a bridge across Chemong and Pigeon Lakes. Several attempts were made to build those bridges, but they proved a failure. However, in February, 1844, the County Council voted 26 pounds currency from the wild land assessment fund of Ennismore. This was to be set aside for the purpose of building a scow or ferry-boat on Chemong Lake to run from Galt's Landing in Ennismore to Edmison's Landing in Smith. A public meeting was called and one councillor and two other men were appointed as a board to control the establishment of the ferry, and to employ ferrymen to run the same. The following were the tolls to be charged: For a team of horses and wagon, one shilling; single horse, without wagon, sixpence; a yoke of oxen, with vehicle, ninepence; horned cattle, per head, threepence; pigs and calves, per head twopence; each passenger, threepence. Owing to the great expense of running the ferry, though it was a great convenience to the public, it was dropped after a few years. For many years again they were forced to go around the lake.

In the year 1854 a joint stock company was formed to build a gravel road from Peterborough to Bobcaygeon, intending to cross Chemong Lake at Bridgenorth. The following were officers of the company: August Sawyer, President; Wm. Sundy, Elias Burnham and W. S. Congor, Esquire, were Directors, while Thos. White was Secretary. The Town of Peterborough passed a by-law pledging itself to 5,000 pounds while the Township of Ennismore pledged 3,000 pounds, and private individuals the sum of 1,100, on condition that the project went ahead. However, the undertaking was dropped. The same year the County Council was met by a large deputation and was induced to call for estimates to build a bridge across Chemong Lake at Bridgenorth. Mr. Dumble, the gentleman charged with the preliminary survey and cost of the above-mentioned road, estimated that the bridge is as follows: Across Mud Lake, 70 chains, bridging to consist of piles, stringers, corals on planks and railing, a 50-foot span to admit navigation; estimated cost, 3,500 pounds. However, in course of time, a floating bridge was placed across Chemong Lake from Bridgenorth to Ennismore. The bridge was built by William Trenum.

Four Taverns.

The population of Ennismore in the year 1861 was 862, of which 462 were males, and 400 were females. There were in 1860, three deaths, 32 births and 172 attending school. Up to the year 1881, in the small Village of Ennismore, there were four taverns, which, in many ways, proved a great detriment to the prosperity of the township, and the surrounding country. In the year 1879 Rev. Father Kelly was appointed the first resident priest of Ennismore by the late Bishop O'Brien of Kingston. His first undertaking was to endeavor to close those taverns. To this end he worked with great vigor, and in the year 1881 the taverns were shut out within the township limits. In the year 1889 Rev. Father Keilty was appoined parish priest of Douro. He at once made war on the taverns there, and they shared the same fate that the ones in Ennismore ten years previous received. He died in Douro in the year 1909, leaving as a monument that beautiful stone church there which was dedicated to St. Joseph, and was built through the untiring efforts of Rev. Father Keilty.

IT IS NOT BUNK

A few days ago two men sat in the parlor car of one of our transcontinental trains. The one was apparently nearing man's allotted span; the other was a young man about thirty. "There's something worth reading," said the old gentleman, turning to his companion, "It is the speech Bryan had prepared to deliver to the jury in the Dayton evolution trial. He says some grand things." "I've read it," replied the other laconically. "What do you think of it?" asked the old gentleman. "It's mostly bunk," said his younger companion. The old gentleman said no more, but turned in his chair and gazed wistfully out of the window.

The old gentleman's thoughts would have been worth much. He had reached the time of life when his eyes were turned toward the setting sun. He had read the undelivered address of William Jennings Bryan and no doubt his heart had glowed as he read the Great Commoner's vivid defence of the eternal truths of the Bible. Perhaps his mind went back to the time when he was young and he, too, was skeptical and thought it smart to be cynical. But he had lived since then, and out of the fulness of years had probably come great experiences, experiences when earthly comfort see med futile and he had turned for succor to the Saviour of Men, of whom the late William Jennings Bryan was always such a fervent champion.

Whether the theory of evolution is a correct or false one, we are not prepared to say, nor were we vitally concerned. But this we do know, that although it is nearly two thousand years, since the great sacrifice of Calvary in all those two thousand years there has been produced nothing finer, nothing sweeter and nothing that conduces more to peace, contentment and happiness than simple, loving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. The Old, Old Story that has brought comfort to weary souls all down through the ages is not "bunk." It is the grandest message of all time and one that millions still love to hear.—Kingston Whig.

BETHANY PERSONALS

BETHANY, Aug. 26—The United Church was well filled Sunday evening, when Rev. A. Poulter preached an excellent sermon on the subject, "What It Means to Be a Christian." He chose his text from the passage found in Act 11, 26: "And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch."

Dr. J. J. Hamilton and family have returned to their home here from their summer cottage at Greenhurst.

Lloyd Staples shipper a car load of cattle from here on Monday, paying $13. per cwt. for hogs. He intends shipping every two weeks after this.

Mr. and Mrs. George McIver and children motored from Cobourg on Sunday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Whitesides.

Mr. Edward Swanson is improving his house with a fresh coat of paint.

Mrs. John Porteous was called to Hamilton on Saturday to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Spencer, who has been ill since April.

Messrs. P. C. Brown, Irwin Fallis and Edward Swanson spent Sunday in Peterboro.

Mr. Louis Staples, Reeve of Manvers, was a business visitor to Lindsay on Saturday.

WOULD SAVE NIAGARA.

Niagara Falls is slowly committing suicide, according to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who declared this week that it was very important the United States and Canada should reach some agreement to prevent further diversion of water from the Falls if their scenic grandeur is to be preserved to posterity. A modification of the present treaty could bring the desired remedy.

TRAPPERS DIED IN WILDERNESS

Two Bodies Found in Cabin Had Been in Woods a Year.

FURS CACHED.

VICTORIA, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press). — The badly decomposed bodies of Peter Ackerman and Geo. Williams, trappers, who went into the wilds of Northern British Columbia more than a year ago from Fort George, have been found by Provincial Police, according to a report reaching headquarters here.

Diaries found on the bodies of both men indicated that they were overcome by sickness. The bodies were found in a cabin littered with furs which had been scattered about by wild animals.

NINE HURT WHEN RETURNING FROM BANDIT PURSUIT

BANDITS ESCAPED.

Attack on Pay Car Yesterday Was Foiled—Cashier Wounded.

SUDBURY, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Returning from a futile search through the country around Levack for three armed bandits who yesterday afternoon dangerously wounded the cashier of the Mond Nickle Company in attempt to capture the ten thousand dollar pay roll, eight members of a volunteer posse were seriously hurt, and one, Frank Lebara, was fatally injured when the mine jitney crashed into the company's yard engine. The injured men, all employees of the mine, were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital here at 11.45 o'clock last night by a special train.

The motor car took fire and the driver and passengers in front were severly burned. Frank Lebara was fatally injured and doctors state that he cannot live. Edward Lebara, brother of the man who is fatally hurt, received injuries about the head. Joseph Smith sustained crushed ankles. Edward Taylor, a fractured leg; Joseph Bloom, a fractured rib; and three other men named Duncan, Hotter and McAllister, sustained severe body injuries. Four others who were injured were able to be taken to their home in Levack. Firing without warning upon three employees of the Mond Nickel Company, in charge of the company's pay car, on its way from headquarters at Coniston to the mine at Levack, three masked men were foiled in their effort to secure loot when the [illegible] was forced ahead and travelled beyond the range of the robbers' bullets, before any of them took serious effect. Harry Stevenson, the cashier, however, was shot in the thigh and medical attendants state that unless complications set in, he is likely to recover.

A Sudbury taxi driver, Joe Dabowski, tells a story of being accosted by three men later in the afternoon and at the point of a revolver relieved of $100 after which the men commandeered the auto and obliged the driver to convey them to a lonely point in the district.

FASHION AGAIN FAVORS VELVET

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 26. — Velvet is coming into its own for both afternoon and evening. The pastel shades crepe de chine and georgette two pieces remain locked up in trunks owing to the cold and rainy weather, while long mannish coats reaching to the knees, with skirt to match, launched Saturday, bid fair to be the rage of Biarritz for the early fall season.

A small beaver cloche with a tiny bow of ribbon on top, and pulled any which way over the eyes, complete a costume which is the smartest tailormade in year.

Mrs. Jean Nash, who first sponsored the revival this week of the Gibson girl black velvet evening gown, entirely untrimmed and unadorned, except for a short string of pearls and a big bunch of aigrettes, secured to the head by an invisible clasp, scored an immediate success.

Classic Lines Return.

"It shows," said Henri Letellier, who is considered a great expert on women's fashions, "that the time of extraordinary freaks is over and that women prefer conservative, classic lines to the results of overstretched imagination."

That the trend may soon turn to old-fashioned lines is demonstrated by the fact that bobbed or shingled hair no longer is considered smart for evenings. Women wear switches at the side and low on the neck with great success in softening the lines of the face. The only difficulty so far is how to fix them firmly. Scores of such switches are lost nightly and remain unclaimed in the Casino cloak rooms.

Footwear Elaborate.

An "ocean green" cloak worn by Gilda Gray on Grand Prix evening had an old rose brocade lining, edged with fox fur, dyed light green.

Footwear promises this year the most elaborate conceptions ever devised. For morning wear shark skin is extensively used, or calf with the fur uppermost and patent leather applications.

For afternoon, suede of brilliant shades, also with patent leather applications, or light antelope with gold piping, are popular, while for evening wear crepe de chine edged with gold piping, or embroidered satin slippers with hand embroidered heels to match the gown, and with rhinestone buckles, are extremely popular.

COMING OVER.

Mrs. G. E. Colthrop, prominent in English society, is here shown on her arrival in America aboard the S.S. Majestic.

GAS PRICES DOWN.

Motorists Overjoyed in Atlantic States—Another Tumble.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Gasoline prices came tumbling down in many Atlantic seaboard and middlewestern states today, giving widespread joy to motorists.

The Morning After—

"What's the matter with Bill this morning—he's so stiff he almost squeaks!" enquired the sales manager.

"O, they gave a Kids' Party at his house last night and Bill entertained them so strenuously that this morning he can hardly move" laughed the bookkeeper, as he carefully sharpened his pencil to a needle point.

"Well, he evidently doesn't know about Absorbine Jr. That's what I always use after unaccustomed exercise, and it saves me all that unpleasant and even painful stiffness the next day."

Absorbine Jr. is just the thing—a few drops rubbed briskly into over tired and stiff muscles limbers them up, seems to inject new life into them and wonderfully refreshes them. $1.25 at your druggist's.

The Conservative picnic is to be held at Presqu'ile Point on Wednesday, Aug. 26.

Another addition has been made to the Windsor Seven Orchestra at Presqu'ile in the person of Fred. Jamison. Fred. Jamison is a stellar saxaphonist and trumpeter, formerly of Tommy Cantle's Blue and White Orchestra of international fame, and who during the past six months has been travelling with the Melody Lane Orchestra. He left them at Columbus, Ohio, to begin his fall and winter engagement with the Windsor Seven.

KEENE PERSONALS.

KEENE, Aug. 26.—Mrs. McDonald, who is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. McLauchlan, delighted large congregations at both Union Church services here on Sunday. Mrs. McDonald has a wonderful contralto voice, and it is very rare for a trained singer like Mrs. McDonald to be heard here. The attendance at both services was very large.

Mrs. Scott and daughter are visiting at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. McNeil of Keene.

Mrs. McLauchlin of Toronto is visiting her son, Rev. Andrew McLauchlin.

Miss Hazel Brown is home for two weeks holidays.

Wm. Bishop, Jr., is improving nicely after his recent operation, although he will be laid up for some time.

Mrs. Alice Browne is able to be around again after being ill during the last week.

Mr. T. B. Sharpe and son, Billy, returned to Toronto Monday evening.

Mr. Duncan McFarlane, Road Superintendent, is having an addition built to his house, and also having the house remodelled.

Farmers are having difficulty in getting help to get their harvest in. There is a lot of crop out yet, and many are compelled to thresh some before they can get the balance of the crop in, which is a good sign.

MUTUAL ADMIRATION

By Juanita Hamel

Isn't she truly lovely? She whirls into the room stands before the mirror and asks "How do you like my new gown?" Vain little bunch of loveliness! She knows she's adorable and she knows he thinks she is but she stands like a little peacock before the mirror waiting for him to pass judgment on her. She is well pleased with the image reflected, while he looks and admires and praises until she's satisfied. Intently watching the mirror she sees herself, then him, and is filled with wonder and admiration at the loving devotion he gives her. Mutual Admiration? Of course, for it is on this that true Love is builded.

Let's Talk It Over

LOVE'S FUTILITY WITH A FORGETFUL ROMEO.

Didja ever see "Romeo and Juliet" played upon the stage? Migosh how that boy could love! No wonder Juliet was swept right off her balcony. Of course the boys nowadays lack the scenery. They don't have the pink tights and the feathers in their hats, and but few of them can play the ukelele, let alone a mandolin. Still, even an average sort of a guy in pants and a necktie can pull pretty fair love scene when popping the question to Juliet, or Kate, or Mabel, as the case may be. She's the only girl in the case for him, her eyes are stars to wonder at, her little hands were made to hold, and just one kiss will mean more to him than all of John D's rocks. He'll be the happiest man in all the world if she'll marry him—and he'll make her the happiest girl—"honest he will." Just leave it to him.

Sure it will! But how long does he remember the starry eyes? How often does he think of holding those little hands, so often in the dishpan now? How many husbands make good the pretty promises they murmured so touchingly before the wedding day? And how many treat the Ex-Light of their eyes like this letter tells:

I read in the headlines of a paper the other day—"Lonely Wife Kills Herself," and oh, pal of mine, sometimes I wish that I too had the courage to do the same, for I am so lonely.

My husband is no companion to me whatever. He is gone all day long, and the minute he comes home he reads the paper or argues about automobiles (the only subject in the world that really interests him) with our boarder.

I can work all afternoon and serve a real fussy dinner or serve only soup. It makes no difference to him. Sometimes after really trying to serve a dinner that is wonderful and receiving no compliment, I fish for one: "How do you like the dinner?" I ask. "It's all right," he answers invariably. Just that—no more.

Its' the same with my appearance. I can look like a scrub woman or put on my best and he will never notice the difference. It seems as if every one in the world notices what I do wear, excepting him. He is absolutely unresponsive. But I still love him. God only knows why I do. I don't know whether he loves me or not. Since we've been married I've never heard him say, "I love you"—and if I ask him—yes, so hungry am I to hear him say it that I do, "Do you love me, sweetheart?"—he answers, "Don't ask such foolish questions."

He doesn't gamble, he doesn't drink, nor does he beat me up, nor fail to provide for me, so I guess I am doomed to loneliness, and oh, dear pal, with tears in my eyes and an aching heart, my hand is groping for yours tonight. Friend Hubby is sitting in the living room where he has been reading for over an hour, while I am out here in the kitchen sobbing out my grief with pen and ink to you. It doesn't occur to him to wonder what I am doing out here alone, and if he should see me in tears he would only be annoyed. The few times he has seen me cry he has never tried to comfort me. I still dread his harsh: "What are you bawling about?"

I know my letter is incoherent, but it is hard to compose your thoughts with a breaking heart.

LONELY.

I do understand, girl, and I give you my love and my sympathy. Perhaps he'll pick up the paper tonight and read your letter and realize how cruelly he has hurt you. Perhaps some other husband will read it and realize the day he promised so much I hope so.

Monkey Fur

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(United Press).—Whether we once had prehensible tails or not matters little to the girls of Fifth Avenue. These sleek-haired misses are certain that hats trimmed with black monkey fur are becoming and regardless of ancestors they are wearing them.

Hair has become so straight and short these days that one needs a wisp of hat trimming to keep one's head from looking like a waxed peanut. Monkey fur is one of the most flattering and tricky trims chosen by the sleek-haired New Yorkers. Tassels and long fringes of this fur adorn one or both sides of some of the smartest black felt and satin hats of the early Fall season. Some so-called monkey fur is eight inches in length and one wonders what a live monkey covered in this fur would look like. We have seen no such animal in the Zoos.

Black cloth coats with collars, cuffs and borders of monkey fur are also shown among the Winter fashion displays. An imported evening wrap of vivid green velvet is trimmed with vivid green monkey fur. Dyed furs, by the way, will not be uncommon sights during the Fall season. Dipping the ends of monkey fur in gilt is another new fur note.

Black monkey fur has, of course, had adherents for many seasons. Women who wear black unrelieved by color often believe that there is no black fur quite as stylish as the long, glistening fur of the monkey. And curious enough, it appears to be only the smart women who choose this fur in preference to fox, skunk or other dark furs.

The monkey has been given a lot of publicity lately and who knows but that his fur will soar to unheard of prices since 'It pays to advertise.'

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

THREE MENUS FOR AN AUGUST DAY.

August is a trying month for the cook with fickle Summer appetites to please. Foods should be light and temptingly served. As much fish as possible should take the place of meat. Egg and vegetable dishes, cool crisp salads, and fruit deserts will find the greatest favor. Menus given are arranged for small families.

Menu.
Hot Clam Broth Broiled Fish
Broiled Potatoes Tomato Sauce
Cress and Radish Salad
Peach Shortcake Coffee, hot or cold

For the broth scrub a dozen hard clams, then lay them in the saucepan with a cupful of cold water, cover and let steam until the clams are all open and cooked. Then lift the clams, remove from the shells and chop coarsely. Strain the broth through damp cheesecloth and set to cool. Add to the clams a cupful fine bread crumbs, pepper, salt, a beaten egg, a saltspoonful of sugar, a full tablespoonful of soft butter, and fill buttered ramekins with the mixture, and put a tablespoonful of cream in each. Bake until a delicate brown and serve with the fish course as an entree. For the shortcake make it of biscuit dough, and when baked split and butter, then lay up like a strawberry shortcake. Cut the peaches up in small pieces and sugar well and let stand in a cool place until ready to use.

Menu.
Shrimp Canapes
Broiled Chicken Saratoga Chips
Peas Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Blueberry Pudding. Hard sauce.
Coffee or Iced Tea

When preparing the canapes take a sharp knife and split the shrimp lengthways, then marinate them in French dressing for a half hour. Drain the shrimp and arrange them on the toast rounds, sprinkle with a tiny bit of chopped celery leaves and red pepper, then add a little white mayonnaise. There are two versions of the blueberry pudding; one is the old-fashioned roly poly with a real pudding sauce. The other is the regular blueberry cake, served hot, as soon as baked, with a hard sauce. The cake is made in this way. Cream together a cupful of sugar and a heaping tablespoonful of butter, add a fresh egg, a cupful of rich milk, and add two and a half cupfuls of sifted flour and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix, adding a little nutmeg; stir gradually three cupfuls of carefully picked over blueberries. Bake in a buttered pan about thirty-five minutes.

Menu.
Fruit
Broiled Chops Creamed Potatoes
Peas Vegetable Salad
Watermelon Iced Coffee or Cocoa

Boil two potatoes, two carrots and two turnips. When cold, dice and add a half cupful of cooked string beans, cut in small pieces, and half a cupful of cooked green peas. Marinate for fifteen minutes in French dressing to which has been added the juice of an onion, then drain and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with a spray of fresh cress and stuffed olives.

TODAY'S FASHION

This Simple Afternoon Frock Exploits the Smart Wistaria Shade.

The latest news from Paris tells us that the soft wistaria tint is being featured in all manner of frocks for morning, afternoon and evening.

The youthful dress sketched above is most attractive in its use of wistaria crepe-back satin. The dress shows the dull side of the material, with the front V inset exploiting the shiny side.

A bit of color interest is added in the chiffon collar and cuffs. They use three layers of chiffon, shading through three different tints of purple.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

KEEP YOUR HAIR LUXURIANT.

Falling hair is the despair of many a beautiful woman. She knows that no woman can be truly beautiful unless she possesses lovely hair, and when she finds that her hair is falling out and becoming thin and dull in appearance she is truly alarmed for her beauty.

Now the cause of falling hair is undernourishment of the scalp.

Your blood, of course, is the agent for carrying nourishment to your scalp. Strangely enough, your scalp is rather sparingly supplied with blood vessels, and this is why so many women and men find early in life that their hair is becoming thin and straggly.

Massage of the scalp is, of course, one of the best ways to stir up circulation and make it brisk and strong, so that food is carried to the cells of your scalp in large quantities. With an abundant supply of rich blood your hair thrives and grows.

Now another most important fact which many women do not know is that without the proper foods your hair cannot be nourished. The blood which courses through your scalp must carry the right ingredients to make your hair grow, or its presence there will not mean much.

Sulphur is a generous ingredient in the structure of your hair. Your hair needs sulphur to renew itself and keep growing. Therefore you must eat foods which contain this mineral. And, by the way, far too many people in America overlook the necessity of minerals. Our forefathers, who were not so easily supplied with prepared foods and pastries, had more of this mineral in their diets than we have.

So, if you must have sulphur for the maintenance and repair of certain tissues, you must eat foods which contain sulphur. The foremost among these are eggs, milk, lean beef, whole wheat bread and crackers, beans, peas and potatoes.

I advise that you eat more of these foods and less of the other kind, so that your hair will be supplied with the necessary sulphur.

Also, here is an excellent tonic to be rubbed into your hair after you wash it:

Fluid extract pilocrapine ½ drachm
Quinine ....1½ drachms
Sulphur precipitate ....2 drachms
Balsam of Peru .....6 drachms
Lard ....3 ounces

Do not depend upon this alone. Stick to your foods which supply sulphur, and remember that they are rich in the mineral supply that is necessary to give you strong, luxuriant, beautiful hair.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Please tell me if it is proper to write on the first and then third page of a letter and come back to the second? DUMB BELL

DUMB BELL: The method you describe is not correct, my dear. There are only two forms: the first is the book method, whereby you write on pages 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the order named. The second and preferable methods is this: first page 1, then page 4, which is the outside of the sheet, and then pages 2 and 3, which are treated as a single page and used lengthwise.

CANADIAN COTTONS EQUAL WORLD BEST

One of the most interesting and instructive features of the Canadian National Exhibition in recent years have been the display of different manufacturing processes, as put on by manufacturers in Canada. This year the Wabasso Cotton Company, Limited, of Three Rivers, Que., are showing in the Manufacturers' Building, Booth No. 7, the different processes used in making up from the finished web, the Wabasso hemstitched sheets and pillow slips that are a delight to Canadian housewives.

The Wabasso Cotton Company, Limited, established in 1907, has in a few short years proven to Canadian housewives and dealers that Canadian-made cotton products are the equal of any in the world.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—The New York Giants strengthened their hold on second place today by winning the first game of their series with Cincinnati, 7 to 6. Catcher Hartley's hitting was the big factor in New York's victory. He doubled in the fourth, and scored on Nehf's single. He cleared the bases with a triple in the fifth and scored the winning run in the eighth on Frisch's single. Score:

BANQUET ENDS DANFORTH VISIT TO C. G. E. TEAM

His Worship Mayor Turner Welcomes Guests and Pays Tribute to Sport.

MISS RAY THERE.

Following the baseball game in which the young ladies of the C.G.E. took a fall out of the fast Danforth ladies' softball team, the party repaired to Hooper's confectionery, where a dinner worthy of such athletes had been prepared. They did not go, however, in the staid and orderly manner which might be indicated by the word "repaired," but announced their approach in no uncertain manner.

Members of the teams acted as figure heads when they perched precariously on the bows of their taxis while the big 'bus was arrayed with Danforth ladies clinging like leeches on its fenders.

Accompanying the procession was the Danforth jazz band, composed solely of ball players, and they demonstrated their versatility by delivering an impromptu programme of all the latest ditties.

Some time elapsed before the festal crowd resolved itself into the comparative calm of active gastronomy, but the subsequent attack on the foodstuffs left little to be desired. Occasionally the silence was broken by the efforts of the band to impinge itself on the consciousness but otherwise the field was clear for conversation in which the male guests took a part too.

Address of Welcome.

After the pie and ice cream had been spirited away, J. O'Brien, acting as chairman, welcomed the guests and paid a glowing tribute to the sportsmanship which had been evidenced by the girls of both teams; following his remarks he called upon His Worship the Mayor to officially welcome the Danforth team and its attendant supporters.

Mr. Turner pointed out the fact that the word welcome was carried not alone on sign posts and doormats, but written deep in the hearts of Peterboro people. He said it was not the winning of a game which counts, but the way in which victory is attained. Though not present at the game, he had heard of it, and was well pleased with the attitude taken by victor and vanquished. He eulogized in particular the third base player on the Danforth team who, he had been informed, turned in a splendid game.

On behalf of the citizens of Peterboro, he welcomed Aldermen Somerville and Smith of Ward 1, Toronto, who had taken the trip with the players, and tendered an invitation to return at an early date.

At this point the diminutive mascot of the Toronto team came forward and presented Mayor Turner with a basket of flowers for Mrs. Turner and a resounding kiss for himself, both of which His Worship received in a becoming manner.

Aldermen Reply.

Alderman Somerville, in reply to the Mayor's address of welcome, said that in Toronto they had been endeavoring to develop clean sport to develop a cleaner manhood and womanhood.

Alderman Smith said that he liked the game of ball which had been played that afternoon. He also liked Peterboro, and offered his assistance and co-operation at any future sports of a similar nature.

Promoter Speaks.

Miss Ray, the foster mother of girls' softball, was mighty proud of the Danforth team, and she was mighty glad that Peterboro had won because of the good to the game which results when the home team is victorious.

She said that in the Toronto and District Ladies' Softball League there were 1,500 players, who were members of 52 teams, and she told some of the difficulties which had been overcome before such an organization was brought into active operation. There will likely be a Girls' Softball Union next year, but it is hoped that everyone must get together and standardize the rules and equipment.

Mr. Stubbings, president of the Ladies' League in Toronto, declared that he had never seen a better brand of softball than that played here last night. Win or lose, he said it is best to show a fine essence of good sportsmanship.

Mr. Pilling, C.G.E. team manager, replied that his team had shown good sportsmanship, not only last night, but throughout the entire season.

Miss Littlefield, of the Y.W.C.A., hoped that the Danforth girls would return in a short time, and asked especially that Miss Ray accompany them. Mr. Chisholm of Toronto gave a short sketch of the managerial policy under which the Toronto League is operated.

Mr. Nelson, in response, glowed with pride in his team, and recited a diatribe against agencies which had denied assistance and co-operation commensurate with their efforts.

Mr. Moore, connected with the Danforth team, also told some instances where knockers from the stands had hindered the advance of organization and fallen asleep when the collection was taken. They had, however, triumphed over those obstacles and vindicated the game.

Mr. Nelson reported that the gate receipts for the game were sufficient to send the C.G.E. girls to the Exhibition at Toronto for tournament play.

Thus was concluded the invasion of Peterboro by Danforth softball artists for, amid the vociferous tooting of their band, the great 'bus tooled down George Street and farewells were called to and from it as it passed. All hoped that this would not be the last occasion of its kind.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Suppose you were swinging a stone, attached to a string, around your head in something like the path the clubhead yould take if it were so swung. If you wished to speed up the stone the merest finger pressure, as you know, would accelerate it. But if, in trying to speed it up, suppose you made a terrific shoulder and body lunge. What would happen? The string would fairly crumble and the flying stone, instead of gathering more speed, would lose all the speed it had. The same principle identically applies to the clubhead. The shaft corresponds to the string exactly. So when you push your body into the forward swing the shaft simply crumbles and the clubead with your hands. Keep and wait an instant for the clubhead in the down swing—then throw the clubhad with your hands. Keep the body out of it. Hold your body back.

SENATORS AND MACKMEN LOSE

Unusual Double Play By Red Sox in Detroit Game.

YANKS BEAT SOX.

DETROIT, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—Detroit walloped Boston today, 14 to 4, in the series opener, cutting loose in the first inning to score nine runs and send Johnniser to the showers. The easterners treated the crowd to a rare double play in the seventh, when Rigney doubled to deep centre. Bassler was on second and Haney on first. Haney was on Bassler's heels as they trotted across the rubber to be tagged out together by Stokes after Flagstead had relayed the ball to the plate via Rothrock. Score:

New York 7; Chicago 4.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press).—New York bunched hits today and easily defeated Chicago, 7 to 4, in the first game of the series. Thurston, who started for the locals, was driven from the mound in the first inning. Kerr checked the hitting until the third inning, when the Yankees scored two more runs. Edwards, the third pitcher to go on the hill for Chicago, pitched a better game but was touched for two runs, one of which was a homer by Meusel in the seventh inning. Score.

SCOUTS BEATEN BY C,S.E.T. BOYS

Millbrook Lads Were Beaten 25-7 in One-Sided Softball Game.

CORN ROAST, TOO.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 27.—On Thursday afternoon last the Boy Scouts of the Anglican church, Millbrook, motored to Rice Lake and played a game of softball with the C.S.E.T. of the United church, who are at present camping at Barnard's Landing. The C.S.E.T. boys had the advantage over the Scouts and the score at the end of the seventh inning was twenty-five to seven.

The line ups:

Scouts—L. Russell, c; K. Donley, p; C. Budd, 1b; B. Russell, 2b; L. Sanderson, 3b; B. Raper, ss; H. Grey, ss; G. Grey, lf; A. Fallis, rf; Umpire—Mr. Barnes.

RIVERSIDE HAS AN INNOVATION AS GIRLS PLAY

C.G.E. Ladies Win Hot Contest From Danforth Softball Team.

EXTRA INNING.

Players and Spectators Peppered Up To High Pitch of Excitement.

Last night the war torn diamond at Riverside took on a gayer complexion, when the Danforth Girls Soft Ball Team battled ten innings to a decision, which resulted in a win for the C.G.E. girls, but it was a game which kept the players and spectators on their toes until the winning counter was scored.

There was a different atmosphere present than that which usually hovers over the Central Ontario or other games staged by male athletes. It may have been the strangeness resulting from the vision of bloomered and bobbed females cavorting over the lot for it was a novelty to the usual Riverside commuters, but it is a safe bet that the majority of fans present were soft ball enthusiasts—fans who have taken an interest in the game from its birth, as well as fresh converts.

Those who saw the game last night will agree that for snap, dash, pep, precision and tensity, it rivalled many of the senior engagements witnessed on that piece of real estate this season, and it will be passing strange if soft ball, as a civic pastime, does not receive an impetus and patronage that will vindicate those who have stood by the girls' teams in spite of discouragement and opposition.

How it Happened.

In the curtain raiser, Danforth headliners were prevented from registering by a peppy double play of Miss Underwood's fly, after Miss Leslie and Miss Taylor had walked. This play made three out as Miss Heaton had whiffed previously.

C.G.E. ladies then took up the cudgels but laid them down again as the first three faded by the strike-out route. Danforth in their half of the second were blanked again.

Miss Taylor, first up for the C.G.E. in the second period, was granted a bye to first, showed her gratitude by stealing second, and third in order, and rang up the first score on a passed ball. Miss Bater regretting her liberality struck out the next three, using an assorted delivery, which had the C.G.E. girls swinging uselessly.

Danforth then hopped into the score space for two runs off two healthy blows, by Misses Heaton and Leslie, and Miss Bater continuing her frugality blanked the C.G.E. ladies in the third and fourth innings, but in the fifth they forged ahead again when three more runs were placed besides the one already acquired.

Tied Up.

The Danforths stung to the quick, went to work and got two runs of their own which left the books with a perfect balance of four for each at the end of the sixth.

The seventh saw nothing added to the Toronto record but C.G.E. having the habit, took three more as a result of two 2 base blows, a walk and a single.

Danforth evened the count in the eighth when they too amassed three runs. C. G. E. got another in their half and Danforth closed up the gap in the ninth.

In the extra innings Miss Childs and Miss Ireland both hit safely after two were out but Miss McLean flied out to the pitcher, ending their session.

In the Peterboro half Miss Evans hit, stole second, reached third on a passed ball, and was sitting pretty, while Miss Mortimer and Miss Forsyth popped to Misses Evans and Bater. Miss Connors then came through with a hit and Miss Evans dashed to the pan with the winning counter attended by a close play.

HOME RUNS WIN FOR THE LEAFS

Toronto Overcame Four-Run Lead of Birds in Last Two Innings.

STARS WIN TWO.

TORONTO, Aug. 25—Joe Kelly's 26th and 27th homers of the season gave the Leafs a 5 to 4 victory over Baltimore today, when a four-run lead was wiped away in the eighth and ninth innings rallies. Kelly hit for the circuit with on in the eighth and a single by Layne, another by Capes and a double by Bernard. Toronto's new shortstop added a third. In the ninth Gilhooley pounded the ball into the bleachers, and then Joe Kelly hit his 27th homer, winning the game and giving him the slugging leadership in the International League. The score:

CRICKET RECORD BY MAURICE TATE

Sussex Bowler Exceeds 200 Wickets For the Season.

LONDON, Aug. 25. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Maurice Tate, the brilliant Sussex bowler, by taking four wickets for 42 runs in the first innings and six wickets for 101 runs in the match against Northamptonshire, has brought his wickets for the season to more than 200. He is the first man to accomplish this feat this season, and he has also created a record in as much as this in the third successive season that he has taken more than 200 wickets, and also scored more than 1,000 runs. In the game against Northamptonshire, in which Tate did such splendid bowling, Sussex won by 168 runs. Sussex 161 (Wensley 50) and 389 (Bowley 104, Holdsworth 110 not out), Northamptonshire 96 and 286 (Woolley 121).

Nottinghamshire beat Gloucestershire by six wickets. Gloucestershire 168 and 242 (Sinfield 65), Nottinghamshire 292 (Whysall 65, Lilley 59) and 122 for four wickets (George Dunn 51 not out).

Leicestershire defeated Glamorgan by three wickets. Glamorgan 154 and 58. Leicestershire 122 and 92 for seven wickets.

Warwickshire beat Middlesex in the first innings. Warwickshire 408 (Santall 110, Parsons 106, Fiddian-Green 67). Middlesex 185, followed by 79 for two wickets.

Two other matches, as follows, were drawn: Surrey 246 for eight wickets declared (Fender 81 not out, Knight 55). Yorkshire 82 for no wickets (Sutcliffe 53 not out).

Essex against Hampshire scored 146 runs in one innings and Hampshire 102 for nine wickets. Rain interfered greatly with most of the matches played.

Is a Star His Own Boss?

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Is the individual as great or greater than the organization in sport? Can any athlete occupy a position, which challenges the governing authority of the game—and get away with it?

The innocent bystander may not see anything perplexing in either of these queries. The answer, ehmay say, is negative in both cases, pointing to the generally accepted axiom of sports that the individual must always be subordinate to the whole. But before the echoes of the chorus have died away altogether, it may be well to recall a few pertinent cases.

Case of Paddock

Paddock, for instance, engaged in a tempestuous joust a season or two ago with the Amateur Ahtletic Union over his right to compete abroad without official sanction. As a matter of fact, this was not a private fight. The chunky sprinter was largely an instrument of defiance in a clash between athletic governing forces. He went through with his program, but assumed a penitent attitude later and returned to the A.A.U. fold in time for the Olympics.

Dempsey's bouts with the New York State Athletic Commission have been the only ones in which he has engaged in two years but the heavyweight champion has lost few decisions in them up to date.

The burning issue has been whether the champion will or will not agree to fight his foremost challenger, Harry Wills. The commission, wielding all the authority it could muster, finally obtained Dempsey's agreement to the match—in 1926—but the title holder, since then, has skipped West and avoided further discussion of the subject—while the boxing rulers "hold the bag."

Remember About Ruth?

Not long after he had been crowned as monarch of the wilds of wallop a few seasons ago, Babe Ruth became imbued with the old idea that the king could do no wrong. It was a costly notion, however, for after tasting of the forbidden barnstorming fruit, the Bambino was exiled and otherwise punished by high Commissioner Landis.

There seems no room left for argument about the relative positions of the individual and the organization in baseball. Its discipline is administered with an iron hand.

Unless it is Dempsey, however, the individual whose position stirs the popular imagination more than any other now on this subject is Tilden. The national tennis champion, it seems, has jumped out of the frying pan of his victorious player-writer battle of 1924 into the fire of the player-interviewer tussle of 1925, but appears so far to be holding his own.

"I shall do as I please about it; I am not violating the amateur rule," he is quoted as saying in reply to intimations that he would be called before the United States Lawn Tennis Association to explain his action in giving interviews on tournaments in which he is playing to the syndicate for which he writes.

Well, He's Tilden.

How does he get away with this? Because he is Tilden, say the observers, who see in the tall Quaker the one clear and outstanding example of individual superiority over organized force.

The chief trouble nowadays seems to be that amateur codes of a generation ago do not fit the modern situation. Player-writers such as Tilden, Richards, and Hoff, of Norway (who was suspended for six months for writing uncomplimentary things about athletic officials) and "Travelling amateurs" such as Nurmi, Paddock and Murchison, present new problems which are becoming increasingly difficult to solve.

In the light of current events, incidentally, it might be nothing short of a disaster for American Davis Cup hopes were Tilden to come under any official ban. The defeats of "Little Bill" Johnston at the hands of Tilden and Dr. George King, serve to emphasize more than ever the reliance, which must be placed on "Big Bill's" recquet if international honors are to remain here.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Cornelius McGillicuddy, who sat atop the baseball world most of the time from 1910 to 1914 inclusive, is having much of the same thrill at the age of 62 that he had at 47 and still at 51. But he is having it under different conditions.

There is considerable space between the Athletics that carried the tall and lean Mr. McGillicuddy to fame through a stretch of four baseball seasons mentioned and the team that, under his part ownership and sole management, is the sensation of the major league pennant races today. The old Athletics machine was regarded generally as the smartest team in a decade and more, one of the fastest thinking baseball teams of all time.

The Philadelphia team that has done so remarkably well this season can not compare to the old team for intelligence but, is the comparison fair?

The great Mackian machine that got going 15 seasons ago played ball under entirely different conditions than the team now representing Philadelphia in the American League. That team knew the value of a single run and knew how to play for it. In how man games today does a single run amount to anything?

Someone remarked a week ago that the Athletics of 1911 could never win 101 games in 1925 if they played the ball that they played in 1911. This refers wholly to the attack.

The Athletics of today do not play ball like the Athletics of 1912. They do not try to. It would be useless to follow the same lines of attack now that were good then. The thing today is to hit through. Batters take a good cut at the ball. Managers try for runs in bunches.

Philadelphia's present plan of attack is free hitting. Nearly always the batter has the privilege of using his own judgment. He picks the ball he likes. He is not handicapped by sets of restrictions which compel him to pick a second or third ball or take one or two strikes. If he thinks he can hit the first one that comes along he swings, or if he likes the second or third one he swings. He has nearly always, his choice. The result is plenty of confidence and plenty of hits.

This does not mean that the Athletics of 1911 could not have done the same thing. It is quite probable that they could. Had Philadelphia been playing under the same conditions from 1910 to 1914 and with the same style of opposition, it is quite likely that the Athletics of that time would have done quite as well as they did under the other conditions then prevalent. We cannot conceive of many batting orgies being staged by opposing teams while such gifted pitchers as Chief Bender, Jack Coombs and Eddie Plank were working. We doubt whether these three pitchers, working today with the same ability they had at that time, would be hit freely very often. Chances are that the average against each would be considerably less than one hit per inning.

It would be easier to drive the lively ball through the old Athletics infield, but still harder than against any other infield. There is no in field combination the equal of Jack McInnis, Eddie Collins, Jack Barry and Frank Baker in either major circuit at the present time.

The McGillicuddy team of this season is winning by using the methods of the day, the same methods that other teams are using but doing it with better results than three out of every four teams. Whether this method is entirely due to the lively ball or whether it is due to a combination of ball and desire of players to hit home runs, is debatable.

Babe Ruth said recently that the chief reason for the lack of real baseball is the desire of all players to hit the ball a mile. He observed:

"They are all swinging from the ground, holding the bat at the end of the handle. They don't choke the bat any more and they don't try to place their hits.

"How many times today do you see the hit and run play tried and fail? The reason is simple enough. When you swing from the ground it is impossible to place the ball and the style of batting they use now doesn't allow hit and running."

Among the opinions contributed is one from Mr. McGillicuddy himself. He said:

"You don't see smart pitchers hammered all over the lot. You don't see pitchers like Urban Shocker, Howard Emke, Walter Johnson or Urban Faber battered by batsmen."

According to the veteran manager of the Athletics then, there is considerably bad pitching in the major leagues these days.

The intelligent pitchers have found a way to combat the lively ball. Just as Mr. McGillicuddy is directing a plan of attack to meet present conditions so these pitchers meet the lively ball and the changed style in batting. Pitchers can not pitch the way they used to any more than teams can go along with the same offensive tactics. That much seems fairly well established at this date.

OMEMEE GIRLS WIN FROM MILLBROOK

Final Play-off Scheduled For Friday at Mt. Pleasant.

OMEMEE, Aug. 26 — The girls' softball team which organized late this season, is well on the way to making a name for themselves and that the villagers are steadily growing more enthusiastic was quite evident from the splendid turnout to the game of last Friday evening, when the local girls again met the Millbrook girls' team in a return game. The visitors were accompanied by many soft ball fans from their home town who watched with regret their team go down to defeat the score being 11-5 in favor of the local girls.

Omemee—Helen Johnson, p; Mabel Rowan, c; Helen Mackey, 1b; Meta Thorne, 2b; Ethel Stephenson 3b; Eileen Pogue, ss; Gertie Pogue, lf; Elda Overholt, rf; Agnes Clemett, cf.

Mr. Ephraim Pogue, of Wakerville, umpired the game to the satisfaction of all, following which the visitors were invited to the skating rink where a dainty lunch was served by the girls and their friends.

The final play-off will take place on Friday evening of this week when the local team will meet their opponents at Mount Pleasant where it is expected they will be accompanied by many rooters from each village.

POST OFFICE IS DECORATED

AWAIT COLOR.

A gang of men employed by Alex. Heron has been busily engaged in freshening up the interior and exterior of the Post Office building during the past few days.

All the wood work and metal work on the outside of the building is being repainted, and the entire interior will be done up.

Painting the clock face was a ticklish task. The man on the job stood on a ladder which was suspended from the coping on the top of the clock tower. On account of the projection, this ladder hung a full arm's length from the clock face, and the painter was barely able to reach the distance with his brush.

Three coats of paint are being applied on the outside. The final coat cannot be put on until instructions are received from Ottawa as to the exact color or shade that is to be used.

FAIR BOARD MUST PREVENT GAMBLING

"In reply to numerous inquiries which have been received in regard to gambling devices at Fall Fairs, I beg to call attention to Sub-section 2 of Section 32 of The Agricultural Societies Act (Chap. 47, R.S.O. 1914), which reads as follows:

"The officers of the Society shall prevent all immoral or indecent shows and all kinds of gambling and all games of chance, including wheels of fortune, dice games, pools, coin tables, draw lotteries or other illegal games at the place of holding the exhibition or fair, or within 300 yards thereof, and any association or society permitting the same shall forfeit all claim to any legislative grant during the year next ensuing."

I am instructed to advise you that this section is being strictly enforced and I trust we may count on your co-operation to see that no violations are permitted in connection with the Fair in your charge.

PROGRESS MADE AT LAW CONFERENCE

Seek to Better Conditions of Succession Duties in Provinces.

WINNIPEG, August 26. Canadian Press. — Substantial progress looking towards the amelioration of present conditions regarding inheritance taxes in the various provinces of Canada has been made by a conference of representatives of the provinces which concluded its second business session here last night.

At the present time each of the provinces has a different law which affects in different ways property situated within the boundary of the province.

STRIKE SPREADS.

LINDON, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—While dispatches from several Australian ports say the strike of British seamen there continues to spread and the crew of a steamer at Durban South Africa, has walked out, the movement is making little headway in Great Britain.

London, Liverpool and Southampton have been ports chiefly affected here, but at none of these places is the situation serious.

Sailings of the White Star liners Doric and Canopic from Liverpool have been somewhat delayed. The Gunarder Scythia and some of the other boats, however, are finding no difficulty in getting crews.

MORE DRUNKENNESS.

LONDON Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Statistics of convictions for drunkenness in England and Wales for the past year show a slight increase over the figures for the previous year although in London there has been a decrease. Nearly 84 per cent. of the total numberg 79,082 were males.

WAR LEADER DEAD.

Baron Von Holtzindorf Commanded Austrians on Italian Front.

VIENNA, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Field Marshal Baron Franz Von Conrad Hoetzindorf, chief of staff of the Austrian Army in the World War, and later Commander-in-Chief on the Italian front, died to-day at Mergentheim in Wurttemberg, Germany.

These noted Canadian experts made swimming history at the recent 50th anniversary of the Montreal Swimming Club at St. Helen's Island. Shier Mendelssohn, at the right, winning the 200-yard breast stroke Canadian championship; Miss Irene O'Byrne, centre, 100-yard back stroke Canadian champion and also holder of the 200-yard title and one of the contenders for the world's all-round swimming championship; David McCullough, left, high diving champion of Canada for the second year in succession. At the extreme left, Miss O'Byrne is shown making a perfect dive at the High Park tank, of which club she is a member.

SKIRMISHES ON MOORISH FRONT

Tribesmen Attacked French Positions, But Were Repulsed.

SHARP FIGHTING.

FEZ, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Air scouts report resumption of activity by enemy tribesmen on several parts of the battle front in Morocco, notably in the western sections. In the Taoul country the rebels marched up to the French advanced positions, which they attacked with bombs and bayonets. They were driven off after a sharp fight, leaving some dead and wounded on the field. A minor attack also has been made on Kolleine by Djebala tribesmen. The Moors were repulsed and left several wounded in the hands of the French.

STEAMER AGROUND.

President Garfield Ran Ashore—Expect to Get Off at High Tide.

BOSTON, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press).—The Dollar Line steamship "President Garfield" was aground on Half Moon Shoal off Cape Cod today, radio despatches to the coastguard headquarters here stated. The captain reported the ship was in no immediate danger, and expected to get off at high tide.

SHOTS FIRED AT STRIKE MEETING

Believed To Be Protest Against Union's Opposition to Strike.

NOBODY HURT.

LONDON, Aug 26. — (Canadian Press).—Five shots were fired this afternoon from a window of the office here of the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union during a meeting of the striking seamen, which was in progress outside the building. The shots are believed to have been a protest against the union's action in opposing the present unofficial strike of British seamen.

George Reed, secretary of the local branch of the union, was arrested, following the shooting, as a result of which no one was injured. It is asserted the strikers threatened to smash the union's office.

GERMANS FIGHT FRENCH BATTLE

16,000 ENLIST.

PARIS, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Once enemies-at-arms, sixteen thousand Germans are in Morocco fighting the battles of France against rebellious Moorish tribesmen. Applications from German soldiers for enlistment are coming in so fast that it is impossible for the French Ministry of War to accept them all.

MORE PRISONERS IN ONTARIO GAOLS

Increase of Nearly Two Thousand Over 1923 Figures.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—An increase in prisoners committed to the prisons in Ontario last year, over 1923, is shown in the report on Prisons and Reformatories in Ontario, for 1924, this increase being 1,884. The number of convictions for intoxication in 1924 was 4,027 compared with 3,482 the previous year. Prisoners received by Ontario jails in 1924 numbered 15,879.

PROPOSE AMALGAMATION

Delegates Think Catholic M. B.A. is on the Wane—Father Phelan Opposed.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press.) — Opinion that the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association was on the wane and should seek amalgamation with other prominent Catholic societies was expressed at the annual convention here to-day by Hon. Judge Choquette and several other delegates.

Rev. Father Phelan, of Campbellford, Ontario, General Chaplain of the Association, urged the members to "stick by the old ship."

ELECTRIC TRAIN

today from Montreal. The 271 miles from there to Port Hope were covered in 7 hours—time which equals that of the ordinary train. The distance from Brockville to Belleville was covered in exactly the same time as that of Train No. 15, the fastest on the route. From Port Hope to Peterboro, the average speed was lessened by the severe grade which is encountered, some distance from Port Hope. Going to Lakefield, the car pulled out at 3.50, arriving at 4.20, doing the journey in the same time to a minute as that of the passenger train. The return journey was accomplished in 27 minutes.

In contrast with the steam engine, which calls for the services of experienced engineers, the car today was driven by men totally unaccustomed to driving similar engines. One of the operators never had his hand on a controller until he was called upon to make today's trial trip. The engine was originally designed for experimental purposes and was not at first intended to drive an attached trailer. In spite of this fact a maximum speed of 50 miles per hour was attained.

Some interesting facts were gleaned from the experiences of the journey. Five miles were travelled on one gallon of oil. Fuel cost was 2 cents per mile, which compares very favorably with the 20c to 26c per mile fuel costs of a steam engine pulling an equal load, which represents a saving of $6,000 per normal year in fuel alone.

The high costs of coal and the increasing competition from motor driven vehicles are the chief factors in the National Railways' attempt to blaze the trail in the introduction of this latest idea in locomotion.

The whole affair is still in the experimental stage and many improvements are pending, particularly in the elimination of vibration, and in the development of higher powered engines. But it needs no very elastic imagination to vizualize the overcoming of all these obstacles and the dawning of a new era in the history of the steel arteries of the country.

Among those who made the trip to Lakefield today were W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.; Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen R. Denne and E. M. Turner; Messrs. S. R. Armstrong, R. H. Parsons, V. Eastwood, R. M. Glover, G. Gillespie, and A. McMab.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

GEORGIA MINSTRELS ARRIVE SOON.

The Grand opera house announces the engagement of the famous Georgia Minstrels which will be seen here for one night only Tuesday, September 1st. Local theatre-goers may safely look forward to witnessing an entertainment of the higher order. This attraction comes after achieving great success in all the large cities of the country.

It is said to combine the utmost in comedy dance and music, with a wholesome cleanliness that is refreshing and is interpreted by a cast of artists seldom seen away from New York theatres.

AT THE CAPITOL

PARAMOUNT'S CASTING OFFICE COMES THROUGH IN A PINCH.

The casting department of the Paramount Long Island Studio prides itself on being able to produce on short notice any "type" player desired. From under-fed vagabonds to over-fed bankers, from flighty chorus girls to frigid society matrons, the Casting Director has 'em at his finger ends.

Bust his lists and cross index files of extras were of no avail recently when Allan Dwan put in a request for a dozen taxi chauffeurs to appear in a scene showing the exterior of the famous El Fey Club at the height of the midnight traffic. He rounded up a number of his roughest and toughest looking extras. But the ensemble effect was not all he had hoped for—the applicants looked too much like delegates to a church convention. Again he thumbed his lists and photographs, hope growing fainter with each letter in the progress from A to Z.

Finally he decided that no extra man in New York could look as hard boiled as a taxi driver really is, so he hired a dozen of the original article, taxis and all. Then to make realism complete, he added a couple of real New York cops—the only kind he was convinced, who could handle the taxi drivers.

Featured in the cast of "Night Life of New York" due on hursday, at the Capitol Theatre, are Rod La Rocque, Dorothy Gish, Ernest Torrence and George Hackathorne, Helen Lee Worthing, who played the lady-in-waiting in "The Swan;" Arthur Housman and Riley Hatch are prominent in support. The story is an original for the screen by Edgar Selwyn noted playwright and producer.

HOXIE PROMISES THRILLS IN NEW WESTERN DRAMA.

Jack Hoxie, in a thundering Western adventure story in which not a gun is pulled and not a shot fired, but which still keeps the audience on edge from start to final fadeout—this is the feature coming Thursday to the Royal Theatre, when "Daring Chances," Universal's new Hoxie Western attraction, is to be shown.

It is a story told almost entirely on horseback — with Jack Hoxie astride his favored mount Scout, and the Universal Ranch Riders dashing through adventure after adventure—a sensational rodeo, a breath-taking race—followed by a grim chase after bandits and a sensational rescue, on the very brink of a yawning chasm—and all culminating in a delightful romance.

Clifford Smith, director of many of the William S. Hart successes, handled the new production, of which Isadore Bernstein is the author. The story starts with an accident, leads to the Western Rodeo—then into a kidnapping and hold-up and desperate ride to save a life.

But underneath the thrills Bernstein has written a poignant story of human hearts: and Hoxie's acting is no less surprising than his sensational feats of horsemanship. Alta Allen, well known screen leading lady, portrays the school teacher heroine of the story. Others in the cast are Claude Payton, Doreen Turner, Catherine Wallace, Jack Pratt, Genevieve Danniger, Milton Campbell, William McCall, and the whole force of the Universal Ranch Riders are out to do their stuff.

LEGAL PROFESSSION CAN BE IMPROVED

President Says There Are Weak Characters Among Lawyers.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press)—In his tenth annual address before the Canadian Bar Association annual convention today, Sir James Aikens, the president, while commeading the high moral standing of the legal profession in Canada, nevertheless emphasized that there was room for improvement. The profession contains characters too weak to resist temptation while the "clever crook of a lawyer" was more dangerous to the profession and to the community than a stupid one. Sir James held that no student should begin the study of law until past the teen ag and until his fitness for the profession has been revealed.

Trading Steady In Mines With Fractional Changes

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was steady this morning, transactions totalling 175,560 shares. Hattie Preferred, under heavy sales, advanced 1 7-8 to 6 1-8. Argonaut also advanced fractionally to 31¼. McIntyre declined fifteen cents to 19.20, and Teck Hughes was also down one point to 169. Tough Oakes was two points higher at 42, with Castle Trethewey one point lower at 103. Everett was active at 8¼, fractionally higher, while Mining Corporation declined one point to 259.

Wide List Dealt In With Steamships Leading Stock

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Canada Steamships Preferred came into sudden prominence on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, when, following its two-point advance of yesterday, it climbed a further two points and a quarter to 50¼, closing at noon at 50, for a net gain of two and one-eighth points. With transactions totalling more than a thousand shares, Steamships was the most active issue. The market as a whole took on renewed strength, and the decline of the past two days seemed fully checked. Brazilian, the second most active stock, climbed to 66 3-4 and held the high point, for a net gain of one and a quarter. Smelters sold up to 120¼, then closed at 119 3-8, an eighth higher, and Canners improved a quarter at 119¼.

Trading was scattered over the widest list dealt in for some time.

Good Demand In Many Classes On Wall Street

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Reactionary tendencies in Wall Street became more pronounced as trading progressed, Chrysler extending its loss to 9 points before it encountered sufficient buying support to stem the tide of liquidation. Other motors were brought forward, however, by operators for a rise, Willys-Overland Preferred being run up over five points on apparent anticipation of early action toward the payment of 29 per cent. back dividends, and Studebaker being taken in fairly large blocks at advancing prices. A good demand also developed for International Paper, and General Railway Signal. Despite reports of moderate improvement in weekly steel trade reviews, heavy selling took place in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, which broke four points before noon, while Midland Steel Products Preferred fell back 2½ points. The marking up of the call money renewal rate to 4½ per cent. was generally construed as reflecting the withdrawal of funds in anticipation of heavy month-end requirements.

Slight Sag In Wheat On Chicago Market To-day

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Wheat took another drop during the early dealings on the Board of Trade to-day, induced by lack of influential news of any character. A number of local operators who had been on the buying side recently, dumped quite a lot of offerings of all deliveries into the pit, and buying was not of a nature to give the market substantial strength.

There was enough, however, to hold values within fairly narrow limits. Wheat opened unchanged to 3-8c down, with September 159 to 159⅜ and December at 157 3-8 to 157½, but before the first hour had passed September touched 158 and December 156¾. Then buying became more general, the downward movement stopped and a slight reaction set in. Corn also suffered from the lack of sustaining influence. Offerings were grudgingly taken and as the market was easily influenced, a drop in values was recorded. After opening ⅛c up to 1-8 down, with September 96 to 98⅛c, corn registered a full two-cent loss, but then recovered part of it.

Oats opened at a shade up to a shade down, with September at 38¼ to 38 3-8, but the market was listless and hovered within narrow limits.

Provisions were steady.

WRECKED PARTY FLOATED ON ICE FOR MANY HOURS

Forty-six Men and Two Women on Floe Fifty Yards Square.

IN RAIN STORM.

Story Told By One of Party Rescued in Hudson Bay.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 26 (Canadian Press)—Forty six men and two women marooned on a drifting ice floe fifty yards square, sixty miles from land in a driving rain storm which lasted ten hours, this is the story of the wreck of the Hudson Bay supply ship Bay Eskimo in Ungava Bay on July 23 as told by one of the survivors who has reached Montreal. After the little ship had been squeezed in pack ice on her journey through the bays and inlets of the sub-arctic, she sprung a leak and sank, carrying with her the supplies for all the out posts as well as for the Esquimo settlements in the vast Northern Territory. Capt. J. L. Lloyd transferred her crew and passengers to floating ice and ten hours later they were picked up by the steamer Nascopi and landed at one of the trading settlements.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 26. — Mrs. Ryder and little daughter of Toronto, who has been visiting her husband, Mr. R. W. Ryder, manager of the express office, returned to Toronto on Wednesday, and was accompanied by Miss Violet Osterhout who will spend a few days with her in the city.

Seymour West Women's Institute.

The regular meeting of the Seymour West . I., was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chas. Longmuir. The meeting opened in the usual form.

Moved by Mrs. Robert McCullough, and seconded by Mrs. James Clark that the Institute send a box of fruit to the Sick Childrens Hospital, Toronto, same to be packed in September.

Moved by Mrs. David Stilman and seconded by Mrs. Harry Stevenson, that all accounts be paid by the secretary.

It was decided that the Institute give a prize to the Agricultural Fair, same to be left to the officers to decide.

A discussion re a debate took place and the following committee was appointed re same to meet at Mrs. Charles Macoun's on Monday next: Mesdames Vanyolkenburg, R. Fleming, Charles Macoun, David Stilman. An interesting contest was put on by Mrs. Roy Fleming.

An interesting exhibit of things used and worn in our grandmother's time was put on by Mrs. Longmuir.

A pleasing feature of the afternoon was a presentation of a fern stand and bar pin to the hostess, Mrs. Longmuir, who is soon to take up residence at Campbellford.

The hostess assisted by the lunch committee then served dainty refreshments, after which all sang "For she's a jolly good Fellow."

Following is the address accompanying the presentation:

Dear Mrs. Longmuir:

It is with feeling of regret that we the members of Seymour West Women's Institute, meet to say goodbye to you as a resident of our community. When we call to mind the fact that you were the one instrumental in having the W.I. organized, and also when we count the many things accomplished since then we feel what a debt we owe you. Our thoughts go out to our splendid war works, our encouragement of rural fairs, our remembrance of sick and bereaved ones, social encouragement to better life of our young people, the contribution to the development of athletics, and these count for naught against the wonderful benefits we have received in our intercourse as Institute members, who have followed the motto: "All Love for Home and Country."

"We wish you every success and happiness in your new home and hope you will not sever your relations with us.

As a slight rememberance from the W. I. members we ask you to accept these tokens of resect. Signed,

Officers of Seymour West Womens Institute.

Reichstag Head Taking Part Austro-German Union Meet

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—(Special by United Press).—Herr Loebe, President of the Reichstag, with forty German deputies and four hundred members of the German branch of the Austro-German People's Union, will go to Vienna next Sunday to participate in a huge demonstration for the union of Austria with Germany.

Herr Loebe, it has been learned, later intends to go to France to confer with former Premier Herriot on the potential Austro-German union.

OUTSTANDING LADY WORKER APPOINTED

TORONTO, Aug. 26. — Canadian Press. — In the recent apointment of Miss Eileen O'Brien to the staff of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, as organizing secretary of the newly formed branch at Montreal, Canada had secured an outstanding figure in international public health work. Her work along these lines for the past seven years has been carried out in Great Britain, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Servia, Hungary, Poland and the United States.

Miss O'Brien was educated at Bedford College for Women. After passing in London University as a sanitary inspector to Serbia. In that country she was active in a general clean-up campaign. Last year Miss O'Brien came to America to study public health methods, choosing as best centres for this purpose New York, Philadelphia, and Toronto.

ATHLETICS FOR WOMEN

permeates, but would not be as comfortable as the thicker woollen variety.

His Worship recalled days which had passed when women found their pleasure in less arduous pursuits, but sports which nevertheless brought undoubted enjoyment and provided sufficient exercise for body stimulu

Girls could then find pleasure in simple tasks about the house, such as crocheting or knitting, and croquet was a game which would lend sufficient diversion to the day's routine.

The moderns, however, explore wider ranges for amusement and play games with ease which tax the energies of the male sex.

What will be the outcome? Mayor Turner asked. Will these girls of to-day settle down and be the mothers of to-morrow, or will their love and desire for a home environment be lost in the scramble for new athletic achievements?

There is one thing, he concluded, for which women in the sport world must be given credit. They accept victory and defeat wtih equal grace, and do not quibble over the inconsequential issues of the game. They do not provoke the petty razzing which is the unfortunate attendant of male sport, where players are subjected to an endless hail of abuse from the stands, and personal grudges are aired indiscriminately.

The outcome will be awaited with interest. Whether the girls of this super-athletic age shall be drawn away from the home life by the glamour of sport, is a matter for conjecture, but it is quite credible that the age old instincts will prevail and that the race to come will be the better for the high plane of physical development attained by the modern girl.

Sports Exploited

G. H. Roper of the Y.M.C.A. is not averse to the modern trend toward athleticism as evidenced by the girl of today but he is against the idea of exploitation which usually accompanies endeavours in this field. Mr. Roper believes that the box office ruins sport and that golf holds its high place in the pastiming world today because it is practically to garner gate receipts on the occasion of matches.

Tennis, he said, was at one time free from incidental considerations of finance but now consideration of gate receipts attends all match play.

If the girls are indulging in athletics because of the game in itself then all is well and good but if they are playing at the request of managers who see personal gain in the attraction which female sport provides then as the primary principal is faulty, so the whole structure collapses because of the distorted purpose at the foundation

Mr. Roper believes that from the physical standpoint women are benefitting by the athletic exercises and that the mere fact of fresh records in every line of sport created daily is an indication of improved health conditions.

Physical Benefit

The girls of the present day are certainly benefitting from a physical standpoint," said F. M. dela Fosse, "because of the athletic programme which has been adopted universally within late years." The representatives which have journeyed from Canada and United States have been acclaimed for their development and proficiency in sport endeavours. When they excite such favorable comment in Europe it should not be for us to discriminate against the practices which produce such results.

Mr. de la Fosse was of the opinion that the dress adopted by women was quite suitable with the possible exception of the modern swimming habit of which the least said the better.

The psychological aspect, he said, presented quite another side from the physical and was a point on which he did not feel competent to express an opinion. It was a matter for the physician to debate.

GASOLINE PRICE REDUCED 1 CENT

Conflict of Opinion Among Local Dealers as to Cause.

DROPS IN STATES.

Oil companies and gasoline supply dealers in the city received notification this week of a 1c drop per gallon in the price of the all powerful fluid.

Inquiry at supply stations this morning disclosed various opinions as to the cause of the reduction. All agree that the drop is a move in sympathy with the downward trend in prices over the line, but as to the cause of this, different opinions were advanced. One dealer thought it was merely on account of the fact that the summer tourist traffic has passed its zenith for the season, both here and in the States. "You never see a reduction in the middle of June," he said. Another said that reductions were usually to be looked for in the Fall. That keen competition all over the Continent constituted the reason was the opinion of the proprietor of one of the largest supply stations in the city. Several cling to the belief that a gasoline war is pending between the gigantic oil corporations of the States — in which case further reductions may be looked for—and the pious hope is expressed on all sides that this war may not be brought to a premature close.

COLLEGIATE IS NOT SUFFICIENT

quate for the purpose and which is saved from being condemned only by considerable fixing up. Scholars are compelled to travel from one school to another to get instruction that should be imparted within the Collegiate, and High School students and younger children are being crowded into one building.

The problem of finding accommodation for incoming collegiate students is one that cannot otherwise be solved satisfactorily. The erection of the new school will mean an increase of some mills in taxes, but this building which will give the city all the technical accommodation required and which will cover all the expansion of the Collegiate for years to come will cost he city no more than did the Prince of Wales School. The total expenditure would of course be larger, but Government grants would meet the extra cost.

WEDDING BELLS.

ADAMS—COLLINSON.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in All Saints' Church this morning, when Gladys Serena, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collinson, of Peterboro, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Chapman Adams, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Adams, of Denbigh, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. P. Heaven.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a rosewood ensemble suit, with gloves and hose to match, a black velvet hat and black shoes.

Many handsome gifts testified to the esteem with which the young people are regarded by their many friends in Peterborough and other places.

You will find many things you thought you couldn't afford in the Classified Ads. of the Examiner.

TOO MUCH POLITICS IN TEMPERANCE ORGANIZATIONS DECLARES PREMIER FERGUSON

VACATIONS AND STOCK-TAKING REDUCE EMPLOYMENT FIGURES FOR THE DOMINION DURING JULY

Fewer Workers Affected by Seasonal Lull Than at Same Time Last Year.

LESS ROAD WORK

Statistics Do Not Include Increase Demand for Labor on the Farms.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Canada's employment situation this month manifested a slight slowing up of industrial activity by a decrease in the employment index number of .5 on August 1, as compared with July 1 last.

Reports from 5,855 firms, employing 791,227 persons, or 5,140 less than in the preceding month of July show the index number standing at 96.3 on August 1, as contrasted with 96.8 on July 1 last, and with 94.7 on August 1, 1924.

This decline, which is the first to be recorded by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics since the beginning of the year, affected less than half as many workers as that indicated on August 1 of last year, and was partly due to temporary shut-downs for holidays and inventories in factories, particularly in automobile works. Marked curtailment of highway construction in the Maritime Provinces also contributed largely to the losses.

Absorbed By Farms.

Agriculture is not represented in the statistics mentioned; and they, therefore, it is stated, do not reflect the important increases in employmen afforded in that industry, which has absorbed many more workers than have been laid off from the industries included in the index. The harvest demands upon the labor market, it is pointed out, are a factor in the reductions which are usually recorded at the beginning of September.

Quebec, the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia registered improvment, while in the Maritime Provinces there were declines.

Employment on highway construction in the Maritime Provinces showed a large falling off; while iron and steel plants, lumber mills and fish canneries also reported reductions, although in the last named these were of a seasonal character.

Expansion in transportation, construction, textile and electric current plants, communication and trade, was largely offset, in Quebec, by losses in iron and steel works and logging camps.

Better In Ontario.

Manufactures, apart from the iron and steel industries, were slightly more active in Ontario. There was also improvement in transportation, communication and mining. Automobile works, mainly on account of inventories and holidays, laid off a considerable number of employees.

In the Prairie Provinces manufacturing, mining, trade, railway transportation and communication afforded more employment; while railway construction and local transportation showed some curtailment.

Further improvement was shown in British Columbia, where manufacturing, transportation, logging and trade afforded more employment than in the preceding month.

Charlie Chaplin Bids Baby Son Good-night Over 'Phone Babe Is In California—Charlie Is Working In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (United News)—Does Charlie Chaplin keep his baby son up half the night in order to spare the Chaplin purse, or does he spoil the purse and spare the child?

The foregoing is one of the things Broadway would like to know.

Harry D'Abbedia D'Arrest, Chaplin's personal secretary, has confided to reporters that Charlie telephones to his Beverley Hills home in California every night to listen to the gurgles of his son and to bid the heir good-night.

D'Arrest did not say whether Charlie put his calls before midnight when the toll for three minutes' conversation would be $15.75, or after midnight, when the cost would be but $3.95.

BREAKING UP CITY STREETS WITH STEEL SPIKED WHEELS WILL BE STOPPED BY LAW

ENGINEER ACTS.

Highways Act May Be Invoked to Make Owner Pay Damages.

Police Court proceedings will be taken against the owner of a threshing engine which passed through the city, leaving a trail of damaged roadway in its wake. The engine was unloaded from the Canadian National Freight Station, and passed along Aylmer Street, down King, into Reid Street, leaving behind it cleat marks of the wheels on the tarred surface of the road, like the petrified footprints of an extinct dinosaur. On Reid Street the driver was stopped by R. H. Parsons, City Engineer, who ordered the engine to be taken to the city boundary via Sherbrooke Street. The damage to the roads is estimated at $500.

The charge will be laid under a section of the Highways Act, which decrees a minimum fine of $5 on the owner of a vehicle which damages a public road. The owner may also be compelled to bear the costs of repair.

DEATH TO DOGS SOVIET'S EDICT

Are Guardians of Private Property and Are Therefore an Evil.

ONE EXCEPTION.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—"Death to Dogs" is the latest edict to advance the cause of communism in Lauban, a Cossack region.

The dogs are guardians of private property. Private property is an evil. Therefore, dogs are an evil according to the logic employed by the executive committee of the local Soviet at Slaviansky in a decree ordering the slaughter of such bourgeois beasts and providing for the erection at the place of execution of a monument "depicting a bourgeois man with dogs, the man wearing a top hat."

Only one execution took place when another general order was issued, saying:

"We will permit owners of small houses to keep dogs under the following conditions:

"Dogs must be kept constantly chained and wear muzzles and over the kennels must be written 'Thus was tamed and made harmless our native Bourgeoisie and thus will be chained the world Bourgeoisie just like the capitalistic animal which sits in this kennel.'

A fine of three hundred roubles and imprisonment for three months is fixed for owners of dogs who conceal their pets from the hands of the executioners.

HOPE CONDITIONS OF PEACE NOTE ARE ACCEPTABLE

British Officials Look For Germany to Send Representatives.

Time Has Come For Round Table Talk on Security Pact.

LONDON, August 27. — Canadian Press. — The hope prevails in official quarters in London that Germany will accept the conditions of the security pact note of France, and at an early date will send representatives to London to discuss with British and French statesmen the formulation of an agreement that will make warfare again impossible.

Germany, according to unofficial advices reaching here from Berlin, has agreed with the French representations in a note that the time for an interchange of ideas regarding the situation by written communication has come to an end, and that a round table conference is a better method for disentangling the snarled skein of the controversy.

Crack Pennsylvania Flyer Damaged Near Pittsburgh To-day.

TRAINMEN HURT.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The Buffalo express, a crack Pennsylvania flyer, northbound from Pittsburgh, was wrecked at Braeburn, 20 miles from here. The train, consisting of one express car, a baggage and mail car, three coaches and two parlor cars, left Pittsburgh shortly after 10 o'clock.

Engineer A. G. Miller, of Oil City, suffering from scalds and other injuries, was pinned in the wreckage, and his condition is critical. Fireman I. H. Fidler, of Oil City, was scalded. A number of passengers in the two day coaches were shaken up, but were able to continue their journey to Buffalo.

RESCUED MAN CAN'T REMEMBER ANYTHING FOR LAST FIVE YEARS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 27. (United Press). — Larry O'Keefe, pig sticking Earl of Ballmore, of Austin, Minnesota, appeared here yesterday, his mind a blank so far as the last five years were concerned. Brought to the Salvation Army headquarters by seaman with whom he had shipped in the British schooner Gerhilda and from which he had escaped after the craft, in the rum running trade, was burned, O'Keefe remembered incidents of his early life only and the experiences on the rum runner.

Among other things which he does not remember are these; that he is a married man and has a wife and family living in Austin, Minnesota; that he worked for the Homel Packing Company at Austin; that he ever inherited an Irish estate with a large amount of cash or ever was known as ir Harry or Lord Larry O'Keefe.

Some of the things he remembers are: That he worked in a packing plant in St. Louis, and later was a packing plant inspector for the Government in St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

NURSE A SUICIDE.

Recently Suffered Nervous Breakdown in Regina.

REGINA, Sask., Augu 27. — Canadian Press. — Miss Florence Campbell 33 years old, a trained nurse who recently returned from China, where she served seven years in the Methodist missionary service, was found dead in a garage at the home of W. J. Vancise, Grand Coulee, Sask., near here yesterday.

The body was hanging from a rope that had been used to bind her trunk when she came here from China last March. It is believed she took her own life some time during Tuesday night. Recently she had been under the care of a Regina physician, who treated her for a nervous breakdown.

Refuses His Opinion in Fear of Twisting to U. S. Propaganda

Committee of United States' Senate Assured By Ontario Leader That 4.4 Has Not Weakened O. T. A.—Will Not Discuss Rum Running at Border.

REVENUE NOT ALL EXPECTED.

(Canadian Press and Special Despatch to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, August 27. — Premier G. H. Ferguson to-day received the committee of the United States Senate which is travelling through the Province, investigating the workings of the Ontario Temperance Act and 4.4 per cent. beer. In reply to questions from the members, Mr. Ferguson intimated that the Ontario temperance administration had not been weakened by amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act providing for 4.4 beer.

The Premier told the committee that the Ontario temperance organizations "went in too much for politics and not enough for temperance."

The Premier declined to discuss the question of rum-running at border points, and when one of the members asked him to "cut loose and give his real opinion," the premier said: "I am afraid you would turn my statement to your own uses, as has been done in the past.

During the discussion Premier Ferguson admitted that the revenue from the provincial government's taxation of beer and soft drinks has not come up to the expectations of the government, but he did not indicate the extent of the shortage.

Education Neglected.

Since prohibition came into effect the education of public opinion for prohibition has been neglected. Even Mr. Spence's paper lost circulation. I think we have too much politics in the organizations and too little prohibition."

This was Premier Ferguson's summing up of the temperance situation in Toronto.

"I think there should be a substantial majority for prohibition for the enforcement of it," he continued. "We thought that by making a drink palatable it might meet the agitation for strong beverages and decrease

PRINCE OF WALES IS PEEVED BY MANY CLICKING CAMERAS

Spies Photographer When About to Turn a Sod For Planting Tree and Throws Down His Spade—Satellites Follow His Lead.

BORED BY ENGAGEMENTS.

(By J. B. Powers, United Press Staff Correspondent)

His pique is directed mainly at photographers and newspapermen but the mutiplicity of engagements and the enthusiastic curiosity with which he has been received here have left him bored and peevish according to the press. Of camera men he is particularly gun-sky, though he faced perhaps more cameras than any human being of recent days. Several times he has refused to keep engagements unless the photographer were barred. His latest manifestation of feeling came when he threw down his spade when he spied a photographer as he as about to turn the earth for a tree planting. Subsequently crying, "Enough, enough," he brushed the same photographer aside when the latter sought to take a "close-up" of him.

The papers record, too, that others of his company are showing signs of the same pique. Sir Francis Beilby Alston, British Minister, according to La Prensa, spoke high sounding words in telling a representative of that paper that he neither wished to see or hear newspapermen.

CORN ROAST.

All Saints' Tennis Players Deserted Rackets For Succulent Ears.

A number of members and friends of All Saints' tennis club held a most enjoyable corn roast at the home of the Misses Tucker, Romaine Street, last night. After it became too dark to play tennis, the party repaired to a nearby field and played games. A large quantity of corn was disposed of, along with other edibles, all prepared at a huge camp fire. Vocal and instrumental music brought a pleasant evening to a fitting close.

BUILDING NEW DAM.

Douro Mill Being Being Supplied With New Power Source.

DOURO, Aug. 27.—R. Stapics is preparing to build a new dam at the mill. The dam will be concrete and is badly needed as the old one has been in bad shape for some time. Austin Allen of Peterboro is working with Mr. Staples.

Gardens, corn and buckwheat are beginning to suffer severely for rain

On Saturday afternoon at the Devlin diamond a Peterboro team played the Indian River Tigers, defeating them, the score being 13 to 16.

An aged resident of the township, Mr. John Tedford, passed away at the home of his son, Mr. Archie Tedford. The funeral was held Tuesday morning. Deceased was eighty years of age.

WEDS AN EARL.

MONTREAL, August 27. Canadian Press. — The marriage of Miss Phylis Burstall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Burstall of Quebec, and the Hon. F. W. Erskine son of the Earl and Countess of Mar and Kellie, will take place at the Cathed. of the Holy Trinity, Quebec, on Sept. 24th.

Chief Constable Better After Yesterday's Lapse

Chief of Police S. Newhall rallied this morning after a very trying time yesterday, during which he was unconscious for some time. Though improvement has been maintained, he is still very weak and is confined to bed.

Dr. T. W. H. Young is in attendance.

WINTER DRIVING MACMILLAN ON

Two Ships Are Leaving Waste Places For Protected Spots.

ICE IS FORMING.

WASHINGTON, August 27. — Canadian Press. — Advices received yesterday by the National Geographic Society, indicate that winter's vangards are driving the two ships of the MacMillan Arctic expedition from the wastes of the frozen north.

The cold and foggy summer is fast developing into a worse winter, and the members of the expedition are bending every effort to clear the ice field waters of Melville Bay before the leads are closed by the increasing snow and cold.

KEEP WOMEN OUT

French Press Club Refuses Admission to Female Colleagues.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—(Associated Press).—The latest defeat suffered by women seeking equal rights, privileges and treatment with men, has come from newspaper men who have refused to admit feminine coworkers as members of their press club, which is a state-aided institution.

Although French newspapers as a whole support women's rights in general, the attempt by women journalists to obtain the right of joining the press club has been steadily frustrated for years. The question came before a general meeting of the club and the admission of women was defeated by 78 votes against 48.

FIRES MENACED MONTREAL TWICE INSIDE TWO DAYS

Three Fires Last Night Caused Great Loss of Merchandise.

15 HORSES BURNED.

Brewery Warehouse and Freight Shed Gutted — Church Damaged.

MONTREAL, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press).—Montreal was seriously menaced by fire again last night, within forty-eight hours of the big conflagration which razed 24 buildings in the east end on Monday night. Three alarms were sounded last night from different parts of the city. In a wood and coal yard blaze fifteen horses were burned to death. In another fire a big malt house of Molsons' Brewery was practically gutted. It contained 12,000 bushels of malt and the same quantity of barley, spreading to the Canadian Pacific freight sheds adjoining, the fire destroyed the roof and part of the walls of that structure and much valuable merchandise, including 15,000 bags of sugar, was ruined.

Meantime the firemen had to cope with a blaze which started, probably from defective wiring, in St. Mary's Catholic Church, but this fortunately was quickly brought under control and the edifice is not seriously damaged.

The monetary loss from the three fires had not been gauged this morning, and probably cannot be closely estimated until a check is taken of the goods destroyed in the freight sheds.

CANADA'S FARMS THE BEST ASSET

TO LEAVE SOIL

THREE RIVERS, Que., Aug. 27. —(Canadian Press).—"Agriculture is the basis of all prosperity and no matter how serious is the crisis that affects farmers to-day and despite the fact that your city is passing through a period of industrial prosperity never seen before, I have no hesitation to say that there is more misery among your labor population than among any group of farmer in this province," said Hon. J. E. Caron, Minister of Agriculture in the Provincial Government, at the luncheon of the Three Rivers Exhibtion here yesterday afternoon.

The Minister of Agriculture was emphatic in his statement that agriculture was the most solid asset of Canada, and he denounced in energetic terms those who are discouraging the agricultural class. "Inciting by our critics the farmers to leave the soil," he said, "is anti-national work."

WEATHER

Highest temperature yesterday 86 degrees. Lowest last night 40 degrees. There is usually a light frost during the last week in August, and there came near being one last night. Since the first two days of August there has been but little rain, and none at all since the 14th, when a few drops fell. The following is the August rainfall to date:

IDENTIFY WOMAN FOUND IN WATER NEAR TORONTO

Was Nellie L. Pierce, a Corset Traveller, of Brockville.

KNOWN TO POLICE.

Had Been Brought to Station By Immigration Official on Steamer.

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press)—Patrol sergeant Scott last night identified the body of a woman who was taken from the water near Mimico Bridge on Tuesday afternoon as that of Nellie L. Pierce, a traveller employed by the Canadian H. W. Gossard Corset Company, Brockville. An inquest will be held Sept. 2.

Identification was made possible in a peculiar way. The deceased first came to the notice of the police when she was brought to the Court street station Monday morning, August 24, last. The woman had been handed over by the immigration official aboard the steamer "Kingston." This official told the police that the woman had boarded the steamer without a ticket at Brockville and had tried to enter the United States at Clayton. She was refused admittance and returned to the steamer.

Miss Pierce told the police she came from Stourbridge, Woolston, England, about 18 months ago, and settled in Brockville. There being no charge aaginst the woman, Sergt. Scott allowed her to go.

Identification was made possible by the finding of the woman's clothes near the place where she was drowned. Her coat bore a tailor's label inscribed with the name of "G. Osborn, Woolaston, Stourbridge." She also wore a ring bearing the initials "N.L.P."

What lies behind her death is not known. That it is a case of suicide the police have no doubt.

LADY BYNG TAKING FLOWERS WITH HER

Many People Believe That There Are None in Canada.

JASPER, Alta., August 27. — Canadian Press. — Lady Byng, who is an enthusiastic flower lover, wishes to transplant some Canadian flowers to her English garden, and to that end sent for her English gardener to make a special study of these wild things. Recently at the Lodge, before a little audience invited to meet her, she spoke informally on the subject. She commented on the number of flowers which she said over in England were only to be found in the gardens and which were cultivated at considerable cost, but which out here in Canada people literally trod under foot, they were so plentiful. She urged the members to cultivate rock gardens in Jasper. Her Excellency said it was astonishing how many people overseas thought that there were no flowers in Canada.

CHARLESTON IS PROPER DANCE

Accepted By American Society of Teachers of Dancing.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Flappers and sheiks who love to do the Charleston will be greatly relieved to know that the Charleston was officially accepted by the American Society of Teachers of Dancing at their annual convention at the Waldorf-Astoria.

In the modified version, as introduced by Miss Rose Byrne of the Chalif School of Dancing, the Charleston can be done in the ball room with grace and real finesse.

Shows "Miami Canter."

Adolph Newberger won the approval of the dancing teachers who are gathered from many cities at the convention, with his new "Miami Canter" step. This new creation in dancing combines the charming simplicity of the waltz with the spirit and dash of the popular fox trot. Mr. Newberger explained it thus:

"We do the one-two-three-four of the waltz step and, using the same quiet tempo, canter four steps forward, turn on five and whirl around. This relieves the monotony of the regulation waltz step which so many people object to.'

During the afternoon session of the convention, Miss Sally Starr and Tom Patricol., a stage dancing team, did a professional version of the Charleston.

Display New Steps.

Miss Byrne gave an illustration of the "Cuban Danzan," which the delagates were enthusiastic about. Miss Pearl Wallace of the Wallace Sisters' School in St. Petersburg, Florida, did her new "Sunshine City Waltz." It is the old-fashioned waltz step, with the Hesitation and Tango steps combined.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus

HASTINGS COUNTY RESIDENTS LOOKING FORWARD TO TIME WHEN THE DISTRICT WILL BE THE CENTRE OF MUCH DEVELOPMENT IN THE MINING INDUSTRY

Firm Belief That Nature Made No Waste Places and That Rocky Territory Holds Great Deposits For the Miners.

FLUORSPAR AND ZINC DEPOSIT FOUND.

Peterborough Men Are Among Heads of Company Formed to Mine Unlimited Quantities of These Two Valuable and Useful Minerals.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

MADOC, Aug. 27.—The dream of every loyal resident of Hastings County is that the day is coming when that municipality will be the centre of a mining industry.

He believes that in the rock-ribbed hills by which he is surrounded mineral wealth of untold value lies hidden, that Nature never yet has created a waste space or a vacuum, that everything upon which the sun shines has a purpose in the economy of the universe, and that part of man's mission in life is to discover what that purpose is and to apply it to his own ends.

More and more it appears that this dream or vision will yet be realized. On the shore of Lake Moira, a short distance from Madoc, rich deposits of fluorspar and zinc have been discovered, a company has been organized to work the mine, and the prospects are that in a short time there will be on that location one of the largest and most prosperous mining plants in Canada. It has been established beyond dispute that the ore is there in paying and practically unlimited quantities, and now all that is required is enterprise and capital, neither of which is lacking.

The Discovery.

The ore was discovered eight years ago by Edward James Cowain, who acquired the title to the mining rights of a large section in this district, and it has since been taken over by the Dominion Resources Syndicate, which includes a number of prominent business men in Peterboro.

Toronto Man Failed.

Eight years ago a Toronto prospector had an option on this property and he spent over $7,000 looking for fluorspar. He failed because his system was wrong, or at least anttiquated. Then Mr. Cowain, who studied mining in the school at Kingston and who has been all his life in the business, got possession. He started prospecting on a Monday morning and by Friday had located deposits of fluorspar and zinc in practically unlimited quantities. That is what Mr. Cowain's system of prospecting demonstrated. That system has been proved infallible time after time, it is his own idea and it may be added is his own professional secret.

Next Door To Wealth.

The Toronto man sunk holes in the ground at different points in his search for mineral. In one place he was so near the deposit of fluorspar that the waste from the hole that he was digging was thrown upon the vein of ore for which he was searching and which was only a few feet away. He was close to a fortune as he dug here and in other places without knowing it.

Tunneling Into Rock.

This same prospector spent several thousand dollars blasting a tunnell into solid rock that lay under an adjoining hill. Here again his labor went for nothing, but the artificial cave which he left behind him will not be without its use. Mr Cowain says it will make an excellent magazine for the stroring of explosives when the work of working the mine begins.

Why the Delay?

Some people may ask why nothing has been done with this property since the discovery of the ore eight years ago. The answer is simple. After the war the market for fluorspar and zinc fell off, owing to the stagnation in the iron and steel industry, in which both are used extensively. That market has recently revived, hence the activity of the Dominion Resources Syndicate.

Uses of Fluorspar and Zinc.

There is no question about a market for either zinc or fluorspar once it is brought to the surface. The present price of zinc is 14 cents a pound and for fluorspar $22.50 a ton, just as it comes from the mine as it requires no treatment.

Fluorspar, the value of which is a comparatively recent discovery, is used for fluxing in the manufacture of iron. When added to the molten metal it collects all the impurities bringing them to the surface where they can be easily removed. Any iron ore can be manufactured into steel by the use of this mineral.

Zinc too, is used in the iron industry for galvanizing it so as to prevent its rusting. When added to the iron it is not necessary to paint the latter when it is used in the construction of bridges or otherwise exposed to the weather to save it from the ravages of rust, as the zinc renders it immune. Galvanized tinwear command a high price and all tinware would be submitted to this process if zinc could be found in sufficient quantities.

The Deposits.

So much for the market for flourspar and zinc. The next question is the amount of deposits in sight on the property of the Dominion Resources Syndicate, of which the Bond and Mortgage Securities, Ltd. Peterboro, are trustees.

E. J. Cowain's reputation is at stake in this matter and that reputation has been firmly stablished in the Canadian mining world.

Mr. Cowain has sunk a shaft 7 x 12 at one point to a depth of about 12 feet coming to rock which it will require dynamite to remove. He says that he is satisfied that the first explosion will reveal the fluorspar at a distance of not more than 15 feet from the surface. This vein is about eight feet wide, according to his tested system, and the depth is practically unlimited. It extends out under Lake Moira and into the hills in the other direction. All that would be necessary to mine it would be to build a shaft house at the point where he made his test, bring the ore to the surface, load it on cars and ship it to the steel factories in its natural state, the present price being $22.50 a ton.

Zinc, The Better Proposition.

Valuable as the fluorspar deposit is it is the zinc that gives the greater promise of a rich return. These two minerals are now essential in the iron manufacturing industry and nature has deposited them side by side so that they may be mined together. On this property the zinc vein, as located by Mr. Cowain, is not more than 10 feet from the fluorspar, running parallel to it. It is 80 feet wide and will hold this average for over a mile. A cubic foot of zinc ore weighs 225 pounds so that an approximate estimate of the value of this mineral may be computed. One authority has figured the value of the zinc ore that is practically in sight of $7,800,000.

Concentrating Plant Required.

Mining zinc ore is a more expensive proposition than bringing fluorspar to the surface. Before it is shipped it has to be concentrated and this process requires an expensive plant. The syndicate has sufficient capital on hand to proceed at onc with the mining of the fluorspar and this could be made to pay from the start, but more money will be required before the zinc proposition can be taken up. From the present indication little difficulty will be met with in securing this, once the opportunity for investment is understood. A prosperous mining community with a concentrating plant employing a large staff of highly paid employees, is no very distant prospect.

Has Monopoly In Fluorspar.

Outside of the deposits of fluorspar in question the only other place in which this mineral is found in Canada is in British Columbia but in the latter place the grade is comparatively inferior. Shipping it to the Eastern market across a continent, at a profit, is out of the question. Hastings County practically has a monopoly of this mineral.

A Disinterested Opinion

Under date of January 9th of this year Mr. Cowain received a communication from A. W. Grierson, a mining engineer with regard to this property, the communication giving the opinion of an expert who is entirely disinterested. Mr. Grierson, who was formerly manager for the Canadian Industrial Minerals Ltd., says that while in that position he did considerable work on the property now owned by the Dominion Resources Syndicate and his report is as follows:

For a distance of 316 feet we found nice Fluorspar. At places where trenched the vein will average in width 7 feet on surface for this distance, also I had a diamond drill put down a hole at a 53 degree angle which tapped the vein at 125 feet in depth, the same giving us the width of vein which was seven feet wide of very nice fluorspar.

This property is only about a quarter of a mile from the C.N. railway and the same distance from the Hydro Electric line, which adds quality to the value of your property, on account of easy access from both Railroad and Electric line, also the Belleville Road runs right through this property. I have estimated that at the present prices of fluorspar, and from the showing on the surface and knowing that you have this ore at 125 feet deep, "taken from diamond drill hole, that you have all the way from 150,000 00 to $200,000 worth of ore practically in sight.

In sinking a working shaft, say 6 feet by 10 feet in clear, you should be able to ship a car a week, also I may say that you have a considerable amount of zinc lying alongside the fluorspar, which is encountered in quantity, would make your property a very valuable one, as zinc at the present time is worth from 6c to 8c per lb. according to quality, and the quality I encountered on this property was No. 1.

The amount of ore in sight, mentioned in Engineer Grierson's letter would, at lowest estimate, approximately be 12,000 tons; and if calculated at the most conservative price of $22.50 per ton, would man that the syndicate would realize $270,000 from the product, and the cost of production would not be more than $72,000 so that a handsome return may reasonably be expected, after allowing for charges of management, etc.

The latest quotations on fluorspar range from $22.50 to $30.00 per ton, F.O.B. cars. Cost of ore during development is estimated at $6.00 per ton, and after completion of shaft, at $4.75 per ton, F.O.B. cars. Zinc is worth 6c to 8c per lb. according to g rade. A nice grade of zinc has been uncovered.

How Ore Assays

Thomas Hays and Sons of Toronto made an assay of the minerals taken from this property and reported the fluorspar 85.8 and the zinc 23.92 per cent pure.

Desirable Location

As Engineer Grierson intimates the location of this property is favorable. The C.N.R. is less than a quarter of a mile from where the shaft house will be located and a siding is already constructed. The Hydro line passes between the railway and the mine and all the syndicate will have to do to secure an ample supply of power is to erect 11 poles for the transmission line. The Belleville - Madoc highway passes within a stone throw of the prospective plant.

A Man of Vision

E. J. Cowain is a man of vision, who has faith in the future of his country, believing that its natural resources are unlimited, that all that is required to prove this is development. He is satisfied that there is hidden under the surface of Ontario's soil sufficient soft coal to make this country independent of the United States for a supply of tthis kind of fuel.

CONSERVATIVES HOLD A PICNIC AT PRESQU'ILE

Senator Gideon Robertson Sees All Indications of General Election.

NEAR TRAGEDY.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

PRESQU'ILE, Aug. 27.—"All the indications are that there will be a general Federal election before the year is out. Everything at Ottawa points in that direction."

That was the message that Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor in the days of the Union Government and later in the administration of ex-Premier Meighen, "delivered to the Conservatives of Northumberland County at their picnic held here Wednesday. That message was regarded as semi-official, coming as it did from one who is in close touch with affairs at the Capital, and the Conservatives of this riding will proceed on the assumption that Senator Robertson's information is correct and every corner of the riding will at once begin to hum with the sounds of the campaign. The hope of the faithful is not only that Northumberland is to be held in the Conservative column, but that ex-Premier Meighen is to be restored to power.

A Long Procession.

If the attendance was a disappointment to the committee in charge of the arrangements, it was accounted for by the fact that the weather for the past few days has been ideal for harvesting, and that farmers hesitated to quit work even to listen to the issues of the day discussed by the prominent members of the party who were on the list of speakers.

No municipality sent so large a contingent than did Campbellford, the Conservative stronghold of the riding. Auto after auto filled with the undismayed arrived in Brighton, the rallying point, and the Campbellford Band was out in force. The band inspired the crowd at Brighton with a few of their choicest selections and then headed a long procession of cars for the picnic grounds at Presqu'ile. Some of the autos were decorated, but that of W. J. Abernethy of Campbellford carried more flags and gay decorations than any of them. The car of Harry B. Phillips of Brighton, ex-president of the Association, displayed a huge Union Jack, which left no doubt as to the owner on the flag question. It was a gay parade, but to some in the procession and along the line of march the thought must have occurred that to one or other of the parties now before the public, the long string of cars was in effect a funeral cortege.

Under the Apple Tree.

"In the shade of the old apple tree," a tree venerable and stately in appearance, that grows in the grounds of the Presqu'il Hotel, the speakers of the day held forth, standing on a truck borrowed from a Brighton Township farmer. Col F. D. Boggs, K.C., of Cobourg, president of the Northumberland Conservative Association, presided There was unanimity in the addresses. The tariff is to be the great issue in the coming election. The country, the orators agreed, is headed for ruin or —for what is worse—union with the United States. The ties that bind Canada to the Empire are being strained to the breaking point. The Liberals have failed to implement the promises that they made before the election of 1921. They have been weighed in the balance and the record is against them. Premier King must go. Meighen must be recalled to office, otherwise the national future lacks a single gleam of hope.

"Our Manifest Destiny."

Major J. F. B. Belford, M.L.A. for East Northumberland, never fails in his recent public addresses to rate Premier King as a man whose ambition as a statesman is to deliver this country over in its integrity to the United States. His entire fiscal policy, the Major eloquently declares has no other objective. In this view the Major is not alone, for Col. Boggs, in his opening remarks as chairman, said that the free trade programme of the present Government, if persevered in, could have only one result: Canada would be wrested from her place in the Empire and made an annex of the Republic to the south of us.

Praise for Mr. Maybee

On another point and one of more interest the speakers were in accord and that was in their estimate of Milton E. Maybee, the present Federal member from Northumberland and the unanimous choice of the party for re-election. The two men who know Mr. Maybee most intimately in his public capacity, Senator Robertson and Donald Sutherland of South Oxford, united in their commendation of Mr. Maybee as a man of energy, ability and integrity. Senator Robertson said that Mr. Maybee has earned the respect of his colleagues in Parliament that he is a type of the political morality for which the Conservative party stands as he will remain true to his pre-election promises. The Senator added that he was pleased to have the opportunity to pay tribute to Mr. Maybee's worthiness as a public man.

"All those who know Mr. Maybee at Ottawa have a high regard for him; there is no danger of him breaking any promises he makes," said Mr. Sutherland who has sat in Parliament with Northumberland's present representativ for the past four years.

Among Those Present

No man on the grounds attracted more attention, not even the Senator and the member of parliament, than did Fred J. Slade, the Liberal party's nominee for the Dominion House. Some of the audience seemed to regard Mr. Sade's presence as in the nature of an affront, to look upon him as an unbidden guest, who had stolen in with the chosen, entered the sheepfold from the rear entrance. In spit of audible criticism Mr. Slade held on the even tenor of his way, circling around on the outskirts of the crowd, meeting with such of his friends as were in sight and adjusting an occasional rail in his own political fence. Some of the speakers were inclined to be harsh in their reference to Mr. Slade's political record, his private and business life is above reproach, but to all of these strictures Mr. Slade was deaf being entirely absorbed with his private affairs.

W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. for East Hastings in his address wondered how the Liberal candidate had the nerve to listen to what was said about him and the party whose choice he is but Mr. Slade left for home when all was over with his urbanity unruffled.

Senator Robertson hung festoons of crepe on the business situation in Canada to-day. Canadian trade has he said, shrunk to the extent of $563,000,000 within the past four years. The farmers are getting the worst of the deal from the Government as the market for early fruits and vegetables has been taken away from them by the American growers whose products are allowed into Canada either free or at reduced rates. The cost of living has gone up. The woollen trade is in a serious condition because this class of goods can be manufactured in Bradford, England, where wages are not over half what they are in this country, at less cost.

Sixty-three countries in the world, in order to recuperate themselves after the war, have increased their tariffs; Canada alone has reduced hers. In Germany, the average wages paid woollen mill workers is $5; in England $9, and in Canada $19.70 a week. Free trade in woollens is not to be thought of until the workingmen of all the producing countries receive the same pay.

The Railway Problem.

Canada has the longest public-owned transportation system in the world. That system can never be placed on a paying basis until there is more trade and the fiscal policy must be adjusted to create that trade.

Senator Robertson said that the people of Canada will not much longer be fooled. All the signs point to a general election before the year is out and he predicted that the Conservative party will be returned to power.

Near Tragedy on Lake.

There was a near tragic diversion during the address of Donald Sutherland, M.P., of South Oxford. Two sailboats out on the lake and near each other capsized, and all but a handful of the audience deserted the speaker and rushed to the shore to watch the occupants clinging to their upturned craft and a motor boat put out to their rescue. Mr. Sutherland was so interested in his subject that he did not appear to notice that anything untoward had happened, but held on to his corporal's guard of hearers as earnestly as ever.

A reduced tariff, Mr. Sutherland declared, had brought hardship in its wake and if the present government is continued in power it is to be made still lower. Seven hundred thousand of the most desirable young men in Canada have gone to the United States during the past four years because there is no work for them here. Under the present administration the debt of Canada has increased at the rate of one hundred million dollars a year. Canadan raw material goes to the United States duty free and the finished product is shipped back to Canada and sold.

Two or thre times in his address Mr. Sutherland waxed eloquent as he referred to ex-Premier Meighen who, he asserted, is the peer of any public man that Canada has ever produced.

A Bid For Press Support.

The speaker asserted that the reduction of duty on news print was a bid for the support of the press so that the government might escape criticism for their rank injustice to the farmers. The government, he added, legislates in favor of the "interests." The Australian treaty which was rushed through the House in the closing days of the last session, was cited as an instance of this. The only Canadians to benefit by this are the automobile and other manufacturers. The farmer gets the worst of that treaty, Australian cheese comes to this country free; a duty of six cents a pound is collected on Canadian cheese shipped to Australia. The duty on eggs sent from here to Australia is 18 cents a dozen; Australian eggs are admitted to Canada free. The duty on wheat from Australia is half a cent a pound, the Canadians are charged five cents for any wheat they may send to Australia.

Boats Used As Illustration.

W. C. Mikel, Mayor of Belleville, found in the accident on the lake, a basic for a simile. "Two boats," he said, "have been capsized; before long another boat will be upset."

Major Belford's Bomb.

Major Belford threw something in the nature of a bomb into the audience when he declared that on the previous day he had been informed that the Campbellford Woollen Mills were to be closed down for lack of orders.

Cheered Mr. Maybee.

The cheer that greeted Mr. Maybee when he was introduced by the chairman was the best evidence of his popularity with the audience. He spoke briefly, his opening remarks consisting of an interesting sketch of the historic ground on which the gathering was held.

Mr. Maybee, who seems to improve as a public speaker on his every appearance, said that the two great problems before the country to-day are transportation and the tariff. What is required is economy in administration. Salaries of those in high places have been increased and the cost of government has gone up. Mr. Maybee believes that Canada might, with profit, take two leaves from the book of the United States, one having to do with the teaching of patriotism and the other with protecting the home market.

A Word to the Ladies

Mrs. W. C. Mikel of Belleville, who has had considerable experience as a political worker in her home city, spoke briefly to the ladies advising them to organize and work for the return of a party whose policy would prevent the breaking of the home circle by young men going to the United States in search of work they cannot find at home.

Short addresses were also made by F. W. Bowen, M.P. of Durham, and W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. of East Hastings.

A Veteran Voter.

Probably the oldest man in the audience was Thomas Drope, who resides near Roseneath, and who as a compliment to his long years of party fealty, was accommodated with a seat near the improvised platform. Mr. Drope has voted the Conservative ticket for 55 years without a skip, and every vote was cast in the same polling booth.

TONG WARFARE HURTING TRADE

Chinese Merchants Take Steps to End Internecine Strife.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Commerce may intervene and prevent further bloodshed after the flare-up in the Chinese tong war, which brought death to ar estaurant cook.

Leading merchants of the local colony, members of both the Hip Sing and On Leong tongs, held a meeting to restore peace. Thev promised to return to tong headquarters with the plea that internecine strife was "bad for business."

Despite this assurance, extra police precautions were taken yesterday.

Deportation faces any Chinese who cannot show proper credentials, Federal agents say.

Gunmen Expected.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 27.—Police sent special squads into Chicago's Chinatown yesterday on receipt of reports that 15 gunmen of the Hip Sing tong were expected here from New York to assassinate leaders of the rival On Leong organization.

The Hip Sings accuse the On Leongs of reporting Chinese drug sales to the police. Thus far only one murder in the new flare-up has been recorded here. Lee Hoy, young On Leong factionist, was riddled with bullets as he stepped out the front door of his club.

Police yesterday were under orders to enter all Chinese laundries and restaurants on their daily rounds until the present outbreak ends.

On Leongs Ruled.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 27. — Explanation of renewed hostilities between Chinese tongs, which thus far have taken four lives in eastern and midwestern cities, is believed here to be an attempt by the On Leong tong to disrupt the Hip Sing tong convention in Cleveland next month.

Wong Bo, wealthy Chinese merchant and an organizer of the Hip Sing tong told the United Press that the outbreak in Boston which touched off the blaze of hatred, was directly due to efforts of the On Leongs to prevent delegates from attending the convention.

"For 14 years the On Leongs have ruled in Cleveland," Wong Bo said. "They have dictated where my countrymen's laundries, restaurants and stores could be established, and have collected money tribute."

The city's Chinatown is patrolled by scores of extra detectives to prevent pre-convention outbreaks. The strongholds of the warring orientals are closely watched.

Tom Poy, secretary of the Cleveland On Leong tong, said members of his faction were terrorized by automobile loads of strange Chinese patrolling Chinatown.

WEDDING BELLS.

HARE—BLACKLOCK.

GRAFTON, Aug. 27. — The marriage took place yesterday at 1.30, at St. George's Anglican Church, in this village, the rector, Rev. A. E. Bruce, officiating, of Miss Ada Blacklock, daughter of Mr. James Blacklock, clerk of Haldimand Township, to Mr. Frank W. Hare, son of the late George N. Hare, Provincial Highway West. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin face crepe, with veil and orange blossoms, and carried ophelia roses. She was attended by her friend, Miss Jeannie Clouston, wearing powder blue crepe, with pretty picture hat. Her flowers were pink roses. Mr. Fred Hare was groomsman for his brother.

The ushers were the bride's brothers, James M. Blacklock, Grafton, and Fraser Blacklock, Toronto.

The bride received many beautiful gifts. Among those who entertained in her honor previous to her marriage was Miss I. Clouston, who gave a shower on Friday afternoon.

STRENUOUS VOYAGE.

British Freighter Limps Into B. C. Port.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press). — A tale of a brave battle against storms and fires was related by the crew of the British freighter Hargue, which limped into the Esquimault drydock yesterday after completing a voyage of 15,196 miles. Everything moveable had been swept from her decks, the paint had been washed off in strips, while the ship repair gangs that swarmed over her side marvelled at the blistered funnel and blackened rigging. She left Hull, England, on July 11.

THE GIRLS HAVE THEIR INNINGS.

The attendance at the girls' baseball game at Riverside Park on Tuesday evening and the clever playing of the two teams supplied evidence that the day of the fair sex in sport has arrived.

Too long, according to the faminine viewpoint, have the boys enjoyed to themselves the fun and health-giving features of athletic contests.

Miss Canada from now on is going to have her share of these things, and who can blame her?

Softball, not a particularly strenuous pastime, yet affording plenty of exercise as well as entertainment, is an ideal game for women.

The equipment is not very expensive, and the game can be played on smaller grounds than are needed for ordinary baseball.

The growing interest in ladies' baseball is a matter upon which Peterboro can be congratulated, and the city authorities should see to it that the development of the game is encouraged by the provision of suitable grounds.

The game has been a source of fun and exercise for many Peterboro girls during the present summer, as well as affording entertainment for many citizens who have become enthusiastic fans.

MODERN TRANSPORTATION.

It was an interesting coincidence that on Thursday when the Canadian National Railway was making an experimental run over the Port Hope to Lakefield route, trying out an oil fuel electric engine, with a view to placing such an engine in commission in this district, that Peterboro should be visited by one of the big parlour motor buses operated by the Toronto Transportation Commission.

The latter represented the competition which the railways must meet, and taken in conjunction with the high cost of fuel and operating expenses generally, this competition is giving railway executives a problem of much moment to solve.

It seems certain that as the highways are improved the motor bus will more and more cut in upon the revenues of the steam railways on all short hauls, unless the railways can cut down operating expenses sufficiently to meet the competition.

The new electric engine tried out here on Tuesday represents an experiment leading toward much cheaper operating costs, and it is possible that before long this type will be in use on some of the lines entering Peterboro.

WELL WORTH WHILE.

Peterboro's Industrial Exhibition has made such vast strides in the past decade that there is justification for feeling that the Directors have been very modest in asking for an attendance mark of 30,000.

This city alone during a five days' Exhibition should provide a great part of that total, while the growth in motor traffic should result in thousands of visitors from outside points.

To those living outside Peterboro, the Examiner has no hesitancy in saying that they will be well repaid for a visit to this city during the Exhibition.

At no time in the history of the event has there been such a programme offered as has been prepared for the entertainment, education and edification of Exhibition visitors this year.

As a special attraction the appearance of Al. Sweet's famous singing band, an organization unique in the musical world, is an event of outstanding performance.

It is safe to say that if the Peterboro Industrial offered nothing more than Al. Sweet and his band Exhibition visitors would have ample return for their money.

The programme is, however, full of good things, and with more prize money than ever before offered, it can be taken for granted that the exhibits will reach a new standard of excellence.

TEACHING MANNERS.

At a recent meeting of the London Board of Education several of the members drew attention to the fact that when the funeral cortege of Sir Adam Beck was passing through the city's streets with hundreds of boys lining the sidewalks, very few of the little fellows were seen to lift their caps.

This was cited as an example of a general lack of training in good manners, and the opinion was expressed that some attention should be paid to this matter by the teachers of the city's schools.

Admittedly, there is much that could be done by the schools to improve the manners of their pupils, but, after all, it is to the parents that we should look for the necessary training.

If children are not taught to be mannerly at home it is too much to expect that the schools with their crowded curriculum can supply the missing polish.

The trouble is that the home life is disappearing, there are too many attractions outside to keep families together, and children, instead of acquiring their manners from their parents, are picking them up through the medium of the alleged comic sections of the Sunday papers and from the often dubious medium of the screen comedy.

Either of these sources puts much emphasis upon respect for one's elders or upon mannerly conduct.

THE GODERICH FLAG INCIDENT.

Patriotic citizens of Goderich were naturally stirred the other day when an American motorist flaunted the Three Stars and Stripes on the front of his car with the Union Jack trailing behind. This was an exhibition of very bad taste on the part of the motorist; but it will not cause any serious international complications. No respectable American would do such a thing. As the poet Cowper is recorded as having said: "A gentleman will not insult me, and I can't."

Flag incidents must be judged on their merits. There may be occasions when a glaring affront to our national emblem should be dealt with firmly and in an effective way; but, speaking broadly, it is not worth while to take serious notice of the acts of irresponsible persons. There may be here and there a shallow-brained American who fancies he is showing superior patriotism when he pays obeisance to the flag of his own country and treats the British flag with contumely; but we can usually afford to let such demonstrations go unchallenged.

It is not the mere "piece of bunting" which counts, but the principles and history for which it stands. In that sense the most demonstratively loyal Canadian may easily show disrespect for his country's flag. The Union Jack, in a peculiar way, stands for law and order. It is our pride that wherever it waves there is justice to all, without fear, favor or affection. Loyalty to such a symbol is therefore a spiritual thing, and carries with it obedience to authority. For that very reason, and because our people look on the British flag in that way, we do not make the visible emblem a fetish.

We are, among ourselves at least, rather disposed to criticize the worshipful attitude of the American people toward their flag. They carry it in large numbers in every parade, and men take off their hats when it goes by. They unfurl it over every schoolhouse, and the privilege of hoisting it each day is regarded as a reward for meritorious work. We smile at that sort of thing as being superficial and smacking of materialism. But are we right? We undoubtedly make too little of our flag. We do not take the trouble to impress on school children the significance and glorious history of the Union Jack; and in such passivity we probably miss a great opportunity for the inculcation of the spiritual aspects of loyalty—especially on the aliens who come to us.

The Americans are emotional about their flag. They call it "Old Glory,' and embalm its virtues in song and prose. We are disposed to be suppressive; and that is because we look upon our national emblem as a very sacred thing. It is perhaps true that the very men who become most demonstrative in the presence of the Stars and Stripes will be the first to lead a lynching party, which would be the natural result of the accentuation of its physical reality. In other words, the highest tribute that can be given to a flag is to give expression in our lives to what it signifies.—Ottawa Journal.

AN EXPERIMENT ON FIRST OFFENDERS.

England is conducting an experiment in criminology that will bear watching. It has long been acknowledged that the crime problem is greatly complicated by the recidivist, or repeater. It is the repeater who is responsible for the congestion of court dockets, who costs the state millions of dollars annually in bringing about his arrest and conviction and who, generally, avoids the commission of those major felonies which would permit his segregation for life or for a long term of years.

Sociologists and criminologists are virtually agreed that recidivism is due, to a large extent, to the intermingling of first offenders and hardened criminals in penal institutions. The jail and the penitentiary become, in reality, a school for crime. The first offender, instead of becoming penitent and resolved to reform on his release, is confirmed in his criminal career by the speech and actions of those whom, consciously or unconsciously, he shortly sets up as heroes and models. Furthermore, it is well known that the plans for many a "job" are hatched within the prison itself, against the time when the conspirators will regain their freedom.

England now will seek to put to the test the by no means universally accepted theory that the function of a reformatory is to reform.

Wormwood Scrubs is the name of a famous English prison. Three months ago it was purged of all those who had previously been tried and convicted of crime and only first offenders allowed to remain. The old "silent" system was abandoned and the men allowed to talk as much as they liked and without supervision. Food rationing was discarded and permission given to eat as much as was desired. Cells were renovated, bars removed and all but a few guards discharged. After the day's work, the prisoners were permitted, if they liked, to attend educational classes.

The motive, of course, is to try whether the first offender may not be won back, ere it is too late, to accept the standards, values and conventions of society. It is as yet too early to determine the result of the experiment. It is certain, however, that it will be roundly condemned by a majority who will look upon it as "pampering" the criminal and who hold that punishment is the basis for confinement. These are the advocates of the eye-for-an-eye theory of treatment for criminals. To make the punishment fit the crime is, they believe, the whole object of society and any new-fangled notions about reform result only in the loss of time, money and effort.

Well, the eye-for-an-eye school of thought has had it all its own way for a good many centuries past, yet the world's crime bill mounts and crime increases to a degree never before known. The suspicion should begin to dawn that our time-honored system leaves much to be desired. Any attempt to remedy its manifest defects should be welcomed.

It will be interesting to follow, by means of a well-regulated probation system, the subsequent careers of those at present confined in Wormwood Scrubs. And if the facts should demonstrate that reformatories can reform the first offender, some radical changes in the present penal system of the world should follow.—Detroit News.

C.M.B.A. RETAINS OWN IDENTITY

OFFICERS ELECTED

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Following a most successful two day session, the twentieth annual convention of the Catholic Mutual Benevolent Association came to a close early last evening after the election of officers for the ensuing term of three years had been held. These for the most part resulted in the return of the previous officers, the list being as follows:

Grand Prsident, F. J. Curran, K.C., Montreal; Grand Vice-Presidents, W. E. Farrell, of Fredericton, N.B.; J. P. Landry, of Truro, N.S.; Grand Secretary, J. E. H. Howison, Montreal; Grand Treasurer, W. J. McKee, Windsor, Ont.; Grand Trustees, H. E. R. Stock, Toronto, O. A. Pariseault, Montreal, and M. J. Sunderland of Smiths Falls.

Speeches delivered at the afternoon session by the many members previous to their departure for their respective homes were entirely along constructive lines and showed that despite earlier suggestions to amalgamate the society with another society, everyone was in harmony and desirous of seeing the association forge ahead.

The budget for the coming three years' expenses was read and showed an expenditure of approximately $100,000 would be required for that period.

NAME REGIMENTS FOR FAMOUS CLANS

Other Irish Units Will Be Called After Great Patriots.

DUBLIN, Aug. 27.—(Associated Press).—The Free State Army has 27 battalions of infantry, and it is now proposed that they shall be named after the most famous of the Irish clans, O'Byrnes, MacMahons, O'Neills and others.

There are enough clan names to go round, and it is urged that the new titles would encourage patriotic ideals among the soldiers. It is also proposed that some units should bear the names of great Irishmen of the past from Sarsfield to Collins.

A THOUGHT.

CLEMENCY.

Oh, tell me not that men are bad!
They're only grown-up boys
Who think that life is just a game
Of fascinating toys!
And if they step aside at times
From what we think is true
It isn't ours to discipline
Nor tell them what to do!

It's ours to minister their hurts,
Their bruises and their fright;
To take for ganted that they play
By rules, unselfish—right!
Or if they stump their moral toes,
We shouldn't moan and preach,
For that creates a stubbornness
That God nor man can reach!

Now when I was a child they said
That all my tomboy ways
Would lead me on to nothing good
And most unhappy days;
But much as I can tell, they've meant
A precious lot to me,
Because they taught, to manage men
You've just to let them be.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press).—Free liquidation combined with the absence of any news reports that would have a sustaining influence caused all grains to slump at the Board of Trade session here today. September led the decline in both wheat and corn, and while it was noticeable that a fair class of buying and short covering entered the market on the breaks, commission houses flooded the market on all rallies.

Price values wtre easily affected. Closing quotations found wheat 7-8 to 2 3-4c net lower, September $1.56 1-4 to $1.56 1-2 and December $1.55 3-8 to $1.55 5-8; corn, 3 1-8 to 4 3-8c lower, September 93 7-8 to 94 18c; oats 1-4 to 3-4 cent decline, and provisions 15 to 40 cents lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—The demand for Manitoba spring wheat on the Montreal market continued steady today from both foreign and American sources. The volume of business was small on account of the light offerings.

There was a slight improvement in the demand for cash grain and a little business was transacted, including sales of No. 2 Canadian Western oats at 17 1-8 cents per bushel over the October option, c.i.f., Montreal.

In sympathy with the further weakness in the Winnipeg option market for oats today spot prices for cash oats in Montreal were reduced another 1-2 cent per bushel.

Little business was done in the flour market, but prices were well maintained.

The millfeed market was quiet and firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was inactive, but prices were steady.

There was no improvement in the egg situation, prices being steady and the volume of business limited.

The demand for all grades of butter was limited and the volume of business was small. Prices were unchanged. The cheese market was without any new feature to note, prices being steady at the recent reductions noted.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.85 1-8.

Sterling cables $4.85 5-8.

DAWNING OF PROSPERITY SEEN IN ATLANTIC COAST PROVINCES BY BOARDS OF TRADE CONVENTION

Outlook in Prince Edward Island is the Brightest in Years.

BANKERS' OPINION.

Mail Order Houses Encroaching on Business of Local Retailers.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—An attack upon the system that permits mail order houses to monopolize the cash business while local retailers have to carry the credit, and the expressed belief that prosperity was dawning in the Maritime Provinces, were the features of the discussion yesterday afternoon at the fourth annual meeting of Associated Boards of Trade, held at Summerside.

J. O. Hyndman, Charlottetown, president of the organization, referring to business prospects said the bankers who were in a position to judge had described the outlook in Prince Edward Island as the brightest for many years. Interest was displayed in the meeting to be held in Charlottetown between premiers of the three provinces together with members of their cabinets and members of the Federal House, for the purpose of seeking a readjustment of the economic relations between the Maritimes and the other provinces of the Dominion.

Mail order business was sapping the commercial enterprise of the Maritimes, said the president, and while he desired no restraint upon trade he believed local business houses had been discriminated against by having to pay dominion and local taxes whereas outside firms were allowed to escape provincial taxes. If the millions now spent in mail order houses were spent in the home shops Maritime merchants would be able to reduce prices and overhead costs and employment would be had for hundreds who are now forced to emigrate, he declared.

CROWDED CAR OVER CULVERT

Driver of Large Car Didn't Stop to See What Damage Had Been Done.

PEOPLE BRUISED.

A Ford car containing five passengers from Campbellford and Picton, was crowded over the side of a culvert on the Norwood road yesterday by a large car. The occupants of the Ford were bruised and shaken up and the car is a wreck. The driver of the big car, according to an eye witness, was going at a high speed, and didn't stop to see what damage had been done.

The culvert is very narrow and the ditch is about five feet deep at this point.

A teaspoonful to a gallon of water for dish-washing and general cleaning.

MACKINAC TRAGEDY.

Summons Issued For Steamer's Officers.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Aug. 27—Summons has been issued for the officers of the excursion steamer Mackinac, who, on advice of counsel, yesterday refused to testify before federal officials investigating the disaster that cost 50 lives, according to an announcement yesterday.

It was said the steamboat officers would be forced to attend to-day's session of the inquiry, and that if the summons failed to bring results, "more drastic" measures might be taken to insure the officers' presence.

ANNIVERSARY ON RAWDON CIRCUIT

Burnbrae People Attend Mt. Pleasant Church Services.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 26.—Several Burnbrae people attended anniversary services at Mount Pleasant United Church, Rawdon circuit on Sunday last. Rev. McIntosh, of St. John's, Campbellford, delivered fine sermons both morning and evening and was assisted by a well-trained choir with Mrs. (Rev.) Joblin as soloist.

At the lawn social on Mount Pleasant church grounds Monday evening, this community was again well represented. An entertainment in the church was the feature of the event. Miss Lloyd, elocutionist, of Belleville, gave several numbers and was heartily encored. The Godden orchestra, assisted by Messrs. Sarginson and Ayrhart, of Campbellford, rendered the musical side of the entertainment and were also well received.

The Burnbrae baseball boys branched out into a new field when they met the Mount Pleasant boys in a game of softball at the social on Monday evening. In spite of the fact that the team was picked hurriedly and contained several substitutes, they put up a good game for the first attempt of the season and defeated the more experienced Rawdoners by a score of 12 to 6 in seven innings. The Burnbrae team was composed of the following: E. Eagleson, C. Hoard, L. Shillinlaw, T. Little, D. Craighead, F. Little, Bert Hobbs, Sam Hobbs, R. Hay.

The afternoon service of the Burnbrae Unionist group on Sunday last was conducted by the Rev. Joblin, of Rawdon circuit.

The Rev. J. J. Black, Mrs. Black and family, of Orillia, are visiting friends in Burnbrae and Rylstone this week.

Raised Flag To Half-Mast: Died Shortly After Error: Old Superstition Recalled

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Sailors adhering to the old superstitions o fthe sea are impressed by the drowning here recently of Bernard Sugg, a nineteen-year-old Irishman, who a few hours before his death raised the ship's flag to half-mast.

"Who is dead on board?" the mate of the Black Diamond steamer Blackbeath asked when Sugg inadvertently raised the flag only half way. The young apprentice laughed and ran the flag to the peak of the staff.

Later he went swimming, became tangled in grass and was drowned. An Arab member of the crew who dived for him also became entangled and was saved with difficulty by other sailors who threw a line to him.

START PAVING ON NEW STRETCH

Work Between Bowmanville and Port Hope Will Complete Road.

75 MILES PAVED

COBOURG, Aug. 27.— Paving operations have begun on the Provincial Highway between Bowmanville and a point five miles west of Port Hope, and the work is being pushed forward as speedily as possible. It is expected that this work will be completed this fall. When it is done the road from Toronto to Kingston will be paved to a point a few miles east of Cobourg, about seventy-five miles of paved road in all.

Marine Officials Here.

Two officials from the Department of Marine and Fisheries were in town making an inspection for the purpose of finding out the cause of disturbance in the wireless. It is expected that they will return to this district and conduct a rigid examination as to those who have taken out licenses and those who have not for wireless apparatus.

Decoration Day.

Cobourg Lodge, No. 136, Independent Order of Oddfellows will decorate the graves of their deceased brethern in St. Peter's and the Cobourg Union cemeteries on Sunday August 30.

NEED SOCIETY FOR ECONOMY

Women Should Seek Thrift in Entertainment by Young Men.

SPEND TOO MUCH

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—"Women's societies multiply. Is there not need for a Society of Young Women pledged to the encouragement of thrift in recreation and amusement?" So says a contemporary in an editorial on the constant search for amusement. "A generation ago the young man who was squiring a lady was expected to take her to a dance or a theatre two or three times during the winter and if resident in the city, to keep a canoe on the Humber for summer outings or hire a horse and trap for an occasional run. The movie, the auto, the cabaret, and the innumerable sporting clubs for young people of both sexes have changed all that. There are many thousands of young men in Toronto who spend practically all they earn, above the cost of food, clothing and shelter in a senseless nightly round of costly pleasures.

"So long as the young women of the present generation insist on the ceaseless round of costly pleasures that appears to be inseparable from the love-making of the day, so long will young men in thousands who might become useful citizens of the Dominion and of the United States be dragged down into the mire of embezzlement and banditry that they may earn the reputation of free spenders and good sports."

TEACHERS VISIT 'HUB OF THE NORTH'

Ontario Party Warmly Welcomed at Cochrane.

COCHRANE, Ont., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press)—The touring Ontario teachers spent three hours yesterday at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Kapuskasing and learned a great deal regarding agriculture in the North.

From there they went to Cochrane where they were most enthusiastically received. Forty-five motor cars conveyed them around the town and into the surrounding agricultural district.

They were greatly impressed with the "hub of the north" and were suprised to see what excellent farming land surrounds this optimistic northern town. The found that Cochrane has all the advantages and conveniences of any town in Southern Ontario.

The Board of Trade under Arthur Stevens and an energetic committee, entertained the teachers at a reception dance in Lakeview Hall in the evening.

PETERBORO LADIES AT BIG CONVENTION

Mrs. Stevens and Miss Martin Represented Local Forest Companions.

Two Peterboro ladies, Mrs. W. Stevens and Miss Eliza Martin, attended the 20th Biennial Convention of the Companions of the Forest, held at St. Thomas on the 17th and 18th of this month. Mrs. Stevens was delegate from the Queen Alexandra Circle of Companions, Peterboro, while Miss Martin represented the Juveniles of the city.

Nearly 100 delegates attended the convention, which attracted a large amount of public notice, the delegates being welcomed by the Mayor and other prominent citizens of St. Thomas.

A large amount of important business was dealt with, including election and installation of officers. At the close of the convention a drill team from the London Circle gave a display.

One of the features of the convention was a trip to Port Stanley, followed by a banquet at the cafeteria there.

The next convention will be held at Toronto in 1927.

PLUNGER MAKES TWO MILLION IN MARKET TRADES

WALL STREET IDOL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Jesse L. Livermore, spectacular stock plunger, has resumed operations and has made big profits, according to a Wall Street rumor Tuesday.

Early in the day the report was circulated that Livermore was back in the market after an absence of over a year. Before the close of the market, ticker and brokerage gossip had Livermore long of 50,000 shares of United States Steel and equal amounts of motor stocks at prices which would indicate profit of at least $2,000,000.

All the stocks mentioned in the report benefitted to the extent of a fraction of a point to over 5 points.

Several members of the Stock Exchange endeavored to get in touch with Mr. Livermore at his country lodge at Lake Placid. Their efforts proved unsuccessful as he did not return from the golf course until a late hour in the evening.

Wall Street has used the name of "Livermore" on numerous occasions in the year which has passed since he quit the stock market and had all stock tickers ripped out of his office in the Hecksher Building.

Two Stocks Rise.

White Motors and Chrysler were the two motor stocks most mentioned in connection with the Livermore rumors. White rose over five points, while Chrysler advanced $20 a share as a result of demand which persisted throughout the day.

A year ago, when Livermore was known without doubt to be bearish, White Motors sold $40 a share cheaper than it did Tuesday, and Maxwell stock, for which Chrysler was issued in exchange, sold some $88 less.

White Motors is controlled by Cleveland interests, and the available supply here is placed at about 50,000 shares, while that of Chrysler, controlled by the J. S. Bache and Nicholas Brady interests, is placed by Exchange members at about the same figure.

The spectacular advance of the motor shares in recent months, followed by recent price cuts in well-known models of automobiles, influenced considerable short selling of the stocks.

Those short of the stock were forced to cover in the hysterical trading following the Livermore rumors.

Idol of Wall Street.

Five years ago Livermore was the idol of Wall Street. He led the bull market which started prior to the Harding election. He managed pools for several institutions and individuals. In 1921 he turned bearish and in public statement explained why. That started his decline in favor of higher Wall Street circles.

After a summer at Palm Beach last year, wiring to a friend here, he expressed bearish views on the Stock Market. The "Coolidge bull market" was just getting under way and for the space of a few hours was interrupted by the circulation of Livermore's views.

The stocks of which he was reported short were pushed higher and higher. When Mr. Coolidge was elected Livermore covered at a tremendous loss, his friends declare.

Clever Scheme.

About the time he pocketed his loss, it was discovered that news of his operations had been leaking out for some little time as the result of a clever scheme of wire-tapping.

His recent cleanup on the bear side of the grain market it is learned was duplicated in a smaller way in the advance of the cotton market. Therefore, it is believed that Livermore is richer today than he has ever been in his energetic career.

When he quit the Stock Market, Livermore described it as "grown too big for any one man or one group." At that time the industrial average prices was $40 below the figure it has reacheu yesterday.

Livermore stopped at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club for the last two months. On Thursday of last week, he went to his lodge at Lake Placid, where he is at present.

It was from the Westchester Biltmore that he was reported to have conducted his operation in the grain market. Brokers and traders who were with him there daily declare they "did not once see him take any particular interest in the Stock Market."

HUMAN NATURE BALK SCIENCE

But Material and Intellectual Possessions of World Are Enhanced.

CONVENTION OPENS.

LONDON, Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Professor Horace Lamb, noted scholar and writer on mathematical physics, president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, at the opening of the annual convention of the British Association yesterday at Southampton, declared that the dislike to science was now political rather than ecclesiastical, as the habit of sober, accurate analysis promoted by science was not always favorable to social or economic theories resting mainly on an emotional basis.

Referring to the disappointment and distillusion sometimes expressed that science had not produced a new era of prosperity and international reconciliation, President Lamb pointed out that science was unable to improve human nature but he claimed that science tended to increase the intellectual and material and even the aesthetic possessions of the world.

Dealing particularly with geophysics, President Lamb regretted that the observational side had been neglected in England. He paid a tribute to India for efficient geodetic gravitational work done there. He alluded to the institution of a readership in geodesy, the science of surveying, the Cambridge University, whereby he hoped a gravity survey of the British Isles would be initiated, while with the co-operation of the navy he hoped a gravity chart of the world—hitherto almost a blank with regard to the ocean—might gradually be filled in.

DISCUSSION OF WAGES OPPOSED BY OPERATORS

Conditions For Resumption of Negotiations Probably Be Rejected By Miners.

SOME RESPITE.

Owners Willing to Meet Miners They Declared to Citizens' Committee.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press) —Anthracite operators at the close of yesterday's conference with the citizens' "no strike" committee here announced negotiations with the miners, provided the committee arranged a meeting and provided the operators were not expected to abandon their opposition to the check-off and wage increases.

On Tuesday John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, told the citizens' "no strike" committee that the miners would resume negotiations for a new wage scale if the anthracite operators withdrew their statements on the record of the interrupted parleys that they would reject every demand that tended to disturb the factor of reduction costs.

On being told of the attitude of the mine workers, which was backed up by a unanimous vote of the full scale committee, W. W. Inglis, chairman of the anthracite operators sub-committee, said over the telephone from Scranton:

"Our attitude toward the demands of the mine workers is unchanged. We did not break off the negotiations. We still insist that we cannot agree to anything in the new contract that will increase our production cost because that would mean increasing the price of coal to the public."

The reply of Mr Inglis was interpreted here as precluding any hope of the resumption of the wage negotiations broken off at Atlantic City on August 4. The mine workers will draw up and issue their strike order not later than Thursday, and 158,000 mine workers will lay down their tools at midnight, August 31, when the agreement expires.

Gives Miners' View in Detail.

In a vigorous three-hour address which his friends said was the greatest effort of his career, Mr. Lewis discussed in detail the position of his organization on every point at issue. He charged that the anthracite operators desired a strike because they could reap rich harvests from high prices, and quoted figures purporting to show the large profits made in recent years by the operators and their sales companies. He referred to wage figures from the work sheets of investigators for the United States Coal Commission, never before made public, to support his assertion that the anthracite workers were poorly paid. He threw into the record a mass of statistics on the cost of living to show that anthracite workers paid more for everything they bought than other workers.

Mr. Lewis charged that the operators offer of arbitration was advanced to vitiate the possibility of a successful wage parley and declared that he was willing to enter a bona fide wage negotiation if the anthracite operators receded from their determination, announced when the parleys opened on July 9,, that they would not make any concession that added a penny to the cost of production. Although the operators admitted that the checkoff of union dues and assessments would not mean added expense, he asserted, the employers refused it because it was "un-American" but held themselves to be 100 per cent. Americans when they checked off 29 items from the miners' dues.

Decries Talk of Substitutes.

Mr. Lewis assailed the campaign for the use of substitutes for anthracite coal and asserted that much of it was started to deceive the anthracite consuming public. He declared that in the last nine years since the operators started the cry that substitutes would replace anthracite their profits had been higher than for any other period of their existence.

"The cry that substitutes are supplanting anthracite shows the poverty of their case," he said. "If they believed that many people were turning away to the use of oil you couldn't pry such a statement out of them with a crowbar."

Shipped to Canada.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A record breaking exportation of coal during July was reported yesterday by the coal division of the Department of Commerce. Practically all of the shipments were to Canada.

Exports of bituminous totalled 1,648,395 tons, the highest since September, 1923. Of this 1,340,052 went to Canada. Anthracite exports totalled 462,676, the highest since June, 1921. Of this 442,906 tons went to Canada.

THREE ATTEMPTS TO FIRE PAVILION

MARMORA, Aug. 26—Malicious hands on Monday night endeavored to set fire to the Marble Cliff Pavilion owned by Mr. A. T. Neal. Three fires were lit at the same time right close to different parts of the building and were extinguished by the staff sleeping there. Mr. Clayton Neal, son of the proprietor, put out one of these fires unaided.

About 2 a.m., Mr. Wynne Myers of the Toronto Orchestra playing at the Pavilion and Mr. Angus the cook smelt the smoke and besides discovering their presence, noticed a man loitering in the woods to the rear. Giving chase, it was found that he had two other companions. The pursuit being unsuccessful they journeyed to town arousing Mr. Neal at the Royal Hotel at 3 a.m. Mr. Ralph Neal, elder of the proprietor's two sons, immediately made for the lake in his car but no further clue of the miscreants' whereabuots could be found. Had they succeeded in their nefarious design, it would have meant a total loss to Mr. Neal inasmuch as there was no insurance on the new building.

After being called to Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, last Thursday owing to the illness of his mother, Mr. A McKenzie returned home on Monday.

Mr. B. Callery of Deloro underwent a serious operation in Belleville Hospital on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Knox of Toronto are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Knox senior.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hayes and family are spending a few days in Belleville.

Mrs. W. Regan concluded a short holiday in Belleville on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris visited Madoc on Tuesday.

Mr. Alex Boyd has purchased a car.

Mrs. H. Ford Berry is home from holidays.

Mr. C. H. Buskard is recovering from his recent illness.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

CROP PRODUCTION IS SCIENCE; TENDERFOOT FARMER WILL FAIL SAYS GOVERNOR OF U. S. BANK

Romantic Days of Land Settlement in West Now Gone.

NEEDS SKILLED MEN

Only Small Percentage of Agricultural College Graduates Till Soil.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug 27 (United Press).—The day of romance when the tenderfoot could venture westward to carve a new family fortune from unsettled lands is gone.

Brush knives and grub hoes are a thing of the past. The settler who made the great west is now no more.

Agricultural conditions to-day forbid the shoe clerk and underpaid school teacher from the cities trying to eke out an existence from a plot of underbrush claimed from government lands. Failure of the poor inexperienced settler have proven that farming is now a profession and crop production a science.

Inexperienced Farming.

Curtis L. Mosher governor of the ninth district Federal Reserve bank, told the United Press the greatest crime ever committed against agriculture was the settlement on practically worthless government lands by barbers, musicians, wrestlers, sailors, paper hangers and others who did not know the first principles of agriculture.

"In an area of Montana where farm failures were greatest, it was found that 51 per cent of those who went on the land were without previous farming experience and 30 per cent had no capital." he said. "Among them were men from 63 occupations other than farming.

"From that same area last year came a shipment of wheat to Minneapolis which contained the highest percentage of protein on record. This wheat brought a premium of 62 cents a bushel on the Minneapolis market. It was grown by an experienced farmer. He got $2.20 a bushel net for his wheat.

"There is just as much lolly in sending an inexperienced man to the farm as there is in putting an inexperienced man on a die-cutting machine. Either will fail.

Still Land to be Cleared.

"Of course there is still a great deal of land to be cleared in the northwest. There must always be that development. But conditions have changed.

"I know of no section of the United States to-day where good agricultural land is available to the experienced and competent farmer on a better basis than in Minnesota, the Dakotas and the agricultural section of Montana."

The great trouble to-day is that there are not enough experienced farmers, Mosher said. Agricultural schools and colleges are turning out highly trained agrarians, but only a small percentage of these educated farmers ever till the soil.

Most of them become county agents, experts of some kind, or agricultural advisers. Mosher himself is one, and his most valued assistant is another.

PROFESSOR PRAISES ONTARIO'S METHODS

Says Soils Better Than Those of Eastern United States.

Prof. and Mrs. Stirling Waterman of Guelph are visiting their parents in South Monaghan for a brief holiday. Prof. Waterman is the son of Mrs. Waterman and the late Wm. Waterman of this township and attended Peterboro' Collegiate and Peterboro' Normal School, after serving with distinction with the Princess Pats, during which time he was decorated by the Prince of Wales. He graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College with the degree of B.S.A. in 1921 and was appointed to the permanent staff the same year.

During the last year, Prof. Waterman was granted leave of absence from his duties at the O.A.C. to study American methods of soil investigation in the Eastern States, Mrs. Waterman accompanying him. On completing his work in June the degree of Master of Science was conferred on him by Cornell University and he was elected to active membership in Sigma Si, America's premier honor scientific society.

Prof. Waterman is associated with the Department of Chemistry, O.A.C., and is in charge of all soil investigation and experimental work with fertilizers in the Province. He also delivers a series of lectures during the four-year course in agriculture. Prof. Waterman is a recognized authority on the subject of soil fertility.

During a short visit to the city Prof. Waterman stated that the soils of Ontario were in a much better condition than those of Eastern United States, due in his opinion to better farming methods used in this Province. Particularly noticeable are the large amounts of commercial fertilizers used by United States farmers which are not required here.

Prof. and Mrs. Waterman are at present visiting Mrs. Waterman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Nurse.

THRESHING COMPLETED

BETHANY, Aug. 27.—The harvest is well on the way in this community the cutting is practically finished on many farms. The threshing machine whistle is heard on every side, the yield being generally good. Richard Vance threshed two acres of oats with 132 bushels from the mill; he also had 200 bushels of fall wheat from seven acres. Challice Brothers threshed 30 acres of fall wheat and had between 1,400 and 1,500 bushels. The roots are all good and looking well, especially the corn.

Tests On Plum Trees Show Heavy Pruning Needless

Very little difference was noted in the behavior of heavily-pruned plum trees and trees receiving much less pruning in tests conducted over a number of years, with several standard varieties of plums on the grounds of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva. In the opinion of the station horticulturists, most varieties of plums require but little pruning following the proper shaping of the trees after they are planted. Since little pruning gives just as good, if not better trees, it is regarded as a waste of time and effort to pay too much attention to the pruning of plum trees. The chief recommendation is to thin out thick growths where necessary and to remove broken or injured branches.

SHOW AYRSHIRES AT OTTAWA FAIR

FIFTEEN HERD

Jersey Cattle Also Exhibited —By Garnet Kerr, Petherick's Corners.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 27.—William Hume, junior partner of the firm of Alex Hume & Co. left on Friday morning with the Humeshaugh show herd of Ayrshires for Ottawa, to exhibit at the Central Canada Exhibition there. The herd this year consists of fifteen head, two of these being entered by Fred Howe, Rawdon, while the others are from the Hume farms. That the lineup this year is one of the best that has ever left the Hume stables for a showring, is the unanimous verdict of several breeders who have visited the farm recently. They are a very uniform lot, showing good Ayrshire type and the majority are direct descendants of Holehouse Military Cross, the good bull which Mr. Hume bought some few years ago after it had been imported from Scotland.

Perfect Kate.

The real leader of this year's string is Humeshaugh Perfect Kate, the heifer that won first place in a class of thirty-two, as a senior yearling at the last Royal Show in Toronto. She is in the pink of condition and shows all those fine qualities which are pleasing to the eye of a lover of dairy cattle. Her owners modestly admit that she has her faults, but they are surely small ones, as she has always stood high at shows. Kate is a worthy successor to Humeshaugh Perfect Lady, the grand old show cow who headed the Hume herd in years gone by, but was unfortunately last in the T.B. Test. Kate had not freshened at the time of departure, but will probably be fresh when the herd goes on to Toronto at the end of the month. Local breeders and friends of Messrs. Hume are expecting to see this heifer go after high honours at this year's shows. She has one outstanding feature, that being her exceptional size. She is larger at two years of age than most mature Ayrshires. While none of the other animals have show records like this behind them, there are some individuals that should be well up when the ribbons are handed out.

Mr. Fred Rutherford has been exhibiting Ayrshires at Brockville and also intends going to Ottawa and Toronto. It is expected that he will combine with the entries of Messrs. Hume and Howe to form a county herd at Toronto. This is a new feature started last year and calls for six head from three or more exhibitors in a county. This is a good thing as it brings out the best in each class for a final test.

Mr. Garnet Kerr, of Petherick's Corners is exhibiting Jersey cattle at Brockville and Ottawa. Every interested dairyman in the community wishes these gentlemen the best of good fortune in their attempt to bring honours to their herds and the district they represent.

Mr. Alex. Hume recently returned from Vancouver, B.C., where he was judging Ayrshires at the annual exhibition. He reports a most enjoyable trip and states that B.C. dairy breeders are planning to exhibit at the Royal this fall. Mr. Hume also says that, at no point on his trip did he see better average crops than this district has.

WOOLER LOOKS UP

Good Averages in Every Kind of Grain

WOOLER, Aug. 27.—The threshing machines are making up for the wet weather, as the farmer has his grain in, and anxious to thresh, even the Alsike is just being threshed. Barley yields an average of 42 bushels to the acre. Oats have been grown extensively in this district. Buckwheat is looking well.

Mr. Ransom McMasters, has a field of ensilage corn, which excels any field in this locality.

THOMASBURG REPORTS

THOMASBURG, Aug. 27.—Mr. Wm. Moynes sowed 3½ acres of rye and 4 acres of oats and when he threshed he had 76 bushels of rye and 143 bushels of oats.

Mr. W. Harrison has 1½ acres of splendid corn and one-eighth of an acre of potatoes. He planted three kinds, Hustlers, Cobblers and Buck Eyes; the Cobblers were struck with the blight.

Twenty Irish Hunters for Canada

Twenty Irish hunters, were shipped recently from Glasgow on the Canadian Pacific Liner "Metagama." The horses are the pick of the best stables, and were supplied by Mr. Thomas Lawton, of Cork, to Mr H. S. Wilson, of Oakville, Ontario, the well-known Canadian importer, who journeyed with the animals from Glasgow to Canada. These horses will be used for hunting in Canada.

WHEAT OUTLOOK MOST FAVORABLE IN OUR HISTORY

Will Pour 200,000,000 More Than Last Year Into Trade Channels.

MARKETS REVIVING

Supply Statistics Show Canada as Being in Enviable Position.

Canadian wheat has virtually emerged from the period of uncertainty so far as total value is concerned. Daily and hourly fluctuations in the Winnipeg and Chicago pits cause little anxiety to the Canadian farmer, and business. The wheat outlook and the world wheat situation daily becomes more favorable. It is now evident that the Canadian crop will be the main source of export supply until the crops from the Southern Hemisphere come on the market next February and March.

It is true that climatic conditions can still have a material effect on the yield, but the sensitiveness of the wheat market is taking care of this. Since the crop of Western Canada is the tipping factor in the export balance for at least the next five months, an indicated decline of even 50,000,000 bushels in the world export surplus is followed by a price rise usually more than sufficient to take care of the drop. The Dominion Government has estimated the total wheat yield at 375,000,000 bushels. An indicated drop of 20,000,000 bushels would mean a loss of $30,000,000 taking a current average price. Assuming such a drop to be sufficient to induce a 10 cent rise, which is not unlikely, the value added to the total crop would be $35,000,000. The same would tend to be true in the reverse direction, assuming that the government estimate is below the mark.

The combination of circumstances governing the world wheat situation could not easily be more favorable to Canada. Estimates of the yields of countries which last year produced 70 per cent. of the world's total, Russia excluded, show an indicated total production of 2,174,000,000 bushels as against a five year average of 2,184,000,000 bushels, or a drop of more than 1,000,000,000 bushels. The United States' crop alone will be 195,000,000 below last year's and the Indian crop 40,000,000 below. Any surplus for export from either of these countries is improbable. The situation in the Balkan states and Russia has not yet been reported, but early forecasts do not point to any large export surplus. In this way, Canada comes to the fore as the world's leading source of supply.

Another highly favorable factor is the increase in the purchasing power of the countries to which Canada sells her wheat. The largest market is the United Kingdom where we sold 142,000,000 bushels last fiscal year. At that time, and during previous years, the discount on the pound sterling in relation to the Canadian dollar tended to drive British buyers to the Balkans and elsewhere, where their currency was at or above par. This had reached considerable proportions, and decidedly limited the market for the Canadian product. The recovery of sterling has removed the handicap, and has again thrown open the largest market for our wheat. Belgium and Italy are the next largest markets, and in the case of both of these countries, recent reports indicate improving conditions. It is probable that these three countries will take well up to 200,000,000 bushels of this year's Canadian wheat crop.

The actual statistical position of wheat at the moment is the most favorable factor of all. The Canadian visible supply of wheat this week is 12,147,000 bushels against 20,521,000 at this time last year. The visible supply in the United States is 30,684,000 bushels as against 58,106,000 bushels for the corresponding week last year. For both countries, this is a decline of 46 per cent. in the visible supply at the moment. The present price of No. 1 Northern cash wheat in Winnipeg is around $1.67, while the average price of the same grade, for the month of August last year, was $1.43½. The total value of the wheat crop last year, as estimated by the Dominion Government was $320,362,000. This was based on an average price of $1.22. An average only 10 cents higher would mean an increase of $165,000,000 in the country's revenue.

The profound importance to business of these factors needs no further emphasis. Only a miracle could prevent the country from cashing in, in a large way, on the situation outlined.

Farmer Adopts Novel Way Of Frightening Off Horse

APSLEY, Aug. 27.—Walter Tucker lost a valuable three year old colt last week under rather unusual circumstances, it having apparently died from the effect of gunshot wounds. Enquiry elicited the fact that a neighbor found the horse in an oat field and took the most expeditious way of scaring him off, namely, by shooting him. The owner has put in a claim for the value of the animal.

Apropos of this incident horses and cattle are allowed to roam at will in this township and considerable damage is done to crops, settlers often losing a season's labor in one night by a raid of the neighbors' cattle.

Harvesting has commenced. Russell Hales' fine crop of oats is being cut by W. Earnshaw who, himself, has one of the finest stands of grain here, his oats being 6 feet 6 inches high.

SEE HIGH YIELDS SPRING GRAINS

Other Crops Give Indications of an Excellent Harvest.

GROWTH OF ROOTS

BURNBRAE, Aug. 27.—Oat cutting is practically finished and has been a strenuous job as most of the crop ripened fast, due to the hot weather of the past two weeks, and late sown grain was ripe almost as soon as early. Mr. Percy Oddie, who operates a 225-acre farm on the 6th concession near Rawdon boundary, states that he has been on the binder continuously for just over a week and is no doubt glad to be finished. This siege of cutting means that very little grain has been drawn to the barns so that the next week promises to be one of real work for the average farmer if the weather continues fine.

Threshing mills are pulling out and soon some definite idea will be obtained as to yields. So far the guessers have placed the yields of spring grains high.

Corn Grows Rapidly.

The warm weather of August, following the July rains, has given the corn crop a great boost. Corn that was sown the first week in June (the average for silage purposes here) has passed the tasselling stage and is now starting to ear. Several fields are to be seen with eight to ten feet stands and the end is not yet. The owners of these good fields naturally hope that the district is not visited by any severe storms.

Roots, potatoes and vegetables continue to make rapid gains. The first half of August will long be remembered as a period of exceptional growth.

Second Alfalfa Crop.

More second crop alfalfa has been cut for hay here this year than ever before. Generally, farmers in this district find it profitable to pasture all their second growth clover unless it may be a special field for seed. However, there is no lack of pasture this year with a few fields to cut besides. The second cutting gives hay of exceptionally fine quality which is especially valuable as a feed for growing young stock and milking cows. The Swiss farme, so we are told, has a special word for second growth alfalfa meaning "better than hay."

Good Milk Flow.

The milk flow holds up well on good pasture, although some herds have fallen off slightly, due to flies. The extremely hot weather has brought with it hordes of flies and dairymen would be well advised to keep a generous supply of spray on hand.

Cheese prices have been slightly easier this past week. July set a high mark for recent years when, with an average price per pound of about 21¾ cents, the factories paid patrons for butterfat at from 52 cents to 54 cents per pound.

The hot weather has been very hard on horses and farmers are, of necessity, refraining from any extra work. A good deal of plowing was started early in the month for wheat and after harvest cultivation purposes, but little has been done lately. The land was in good shape for plowing but is rapidly drying out so that a good rain would be welcomed by the lucky farmer who is almost through harvest.

40 BUSHELS PER ACRE

WESTWOOD, Aug. 27.—Thompson Bros. threshed their wheat this week and the average yield was forty bushels to the acre.

BACTERIAL ROT ATTACKS APPLE PEAR AND QUINCE

Pear and Quince Trees Look as if They Had Been Scorched by Fire.

LEAVES SHRIVEL

Disease Known to Kill Young Trees in One Season.

"Fire Blight," a most destructive bacterial disease of apple, pear and quince trees, is prevalent in many parts of Ontario, particularly in apple trees.

Appearance of Effected Trees.

Trees affected with this disease frequently present the appearance of having been scorched by fire, hence the common name, Fire Blight. The leaves will become a reddish brown and die and mummify. In some trees a few twigs only may be affected. In other cases practically every twig will be killed off.

Trees that are affected in this way in the early part of the season are either hold-over cases of the blight from the previous season or have been freshly inoculated through the blossom with the bacteria that cause the disease, by bees or other blossom visiting insects that have previously become contaminated by visiting trees that are hold-over cases from the previous season.

How the Disease Develops.

When a contaminated bee or other insect visits a blossom for nectar or pollen, it leaves behind it some of the bacteria that cause the disease, and these multiply in the nectaries and pass on down the blossom pedicel into the bark of the fruit spur, where they produce a canker and kill the spur with other blossoms on it, then continue their progress within the bark of the twig causing canker and death as they go. The leaves on the twig then shrivel up, turn brown, and die, giving the characteristic fire-blighted appearance to the tree.

Destroy Blighted Twigs.

If the blighted twigs are allowed to stay on the tree throughout the season the disease will continue to work on down the twigs, sometimes rapidly and sometimes slowly, until eventually it reaches the bark of the larger limbs, or the trunk of the tree, where it becomes apparent as a canker. In cases where the disease does not reach the bark of the thicker branches or trunk before fall there is a tendency for the trouble to die out during the winter. But where it gets established as blight canker in the bark of the branches and trunk the probability is that it will live over the winter in a dormant condition and begin to extend itself the following spring when the sap flow commences. This in time brings about the death of the larger limbs and trunk as the blight cankers spreads in the bark. We have known young trees to be killed out in one year with this disease, although older trees will sometimes live on for years with the canker slowly developing until finally the tree either dies or has to be removed for not giving a paying crop.

Insects Carry the Disease.

During mid-season other insects as aphids, hoppers and borers are common carriers of the disease from infected twigs to healthy twigs, either on the same or neighboring trees. In this way young suckers and water-sprouts get infected, and, as in the case of the blossom-infected twig, the disease will pass on down the bark of the sucker or watersprout until it reaches the trunk or large limb where a canker is produced leading to death of the affected part.

Where the disease is active during the growing season there is frequently a gummy brown exudate oozing out from the cankers. This exudate contains the causal bacteria in immense numbers. During rain storms this exudate may be splashed to other parts of the tree, thus leading to fresh infections.

How to Control the Trouble.

To control and stamp out this disease it is essential to cut out all affected portions of the tree. In doing this, care should be taken to cut well below the visibly affected portion four to six inches, if possible, as the bacteria are usually well advanced beyond the visibly cankered area in the bark. The sawd knife or shears used should be swabbed, after each cut with a good disinfectant-e.g., corrosive sublimate 1-1000, formalin, or five per cent. carbolic acid. If the canker is in the trunk or larger limbs the affected part should be removed by cutting well around the canker, two or three inches at least beyond the visible extent of the canker The wound should then be swabbed with the disinfectant and then painted over.

The best time to cut out the disease is the first time it is seen as each infection, so long as it is allowed to stay, is a centre for continued spreading of the trouble. All material cut away should be carefully gathered and burned. — Prof. D. Jones, O.A.C., Guelph.

MIXED FARMING BECOMES VOGUE IN CANADA WEST

Few Areas Left Where Farmers Still Practice Soil Mining.

BENEFICIAL EFFECTS

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 27 — Straight grain farming or wheat mining as it is called in Western Canada is gradually but surely becoming a thing of the past on the three prairie provinces. No longer is it possible to find the traditional mound of tin cans in the back yard of each farm home for the time when such a state of affairs signified that the farmer was dependent upon the returns from his wheat crop for his daily food is nearly gone.

Almost every farmer in Western Canada today has at least a few pigs, cows or poultry and some sort of a vegetable garden from which he secures food not only for himself and family, but also sufficient returns to look after his current expenses on a cash basis. Manitoba and Alberta undoubtedly lead in this development but even Saskatchewan, the great wheat mining province of the west, has an ever-increasing number of farmers who are followers of the mixed farming plan to the extent that they are living upon the products of their farms.

There are, of course, some exceptional areas and some farmers who still cling to the belief that straight grain farming is the only profitable method of farming in Saskatchewan, and so far as they have in their minds as an alternative a system of extensive mixed farming there is some justification for their attitude, because of the fact that carrying charges and distances from a suitable market greatly reduce their chances of marketing any other product than wheat with profit to themselves.

From observations made there appears however, to be no excuse for any wheat farmer not having sufficient live stock and a large enough vegetable garden to enable him to exist—even in the face of repeated crop failures. The fact that this is recognized by most of the western farmers has produced a change which is exceedingly beneficial to Western Canada.

This change is shown mainly through the fact that a larger percentage of the small country stores are finding it possible to cut down their extension of credit and secure cash for their products. Further investigation also reveals that almost every branch of trad has felt the good effect of doing a larger cash business, while it appears that the number of applications for the usual tiding over till the crop is cut" loans have been materially reduced.

All of these facts combine to confirm an impression which even an eight weeks' tour, with all its limitations of adequately surveying the three prairie provinces, creates. It is the impression that granted the absence of exotic boom conditions, Western Canada is entering upon an era of economic stability which will in any event prove a sound basis for the future prosperity of agriculture and which may well be the fore-runner of that prosperity.

ATTRACTIONS AT BELLEVILLE FAIR

Preparations Rapidly Approaching Completion — Large Buildings.

Increased accommodation for horses and cattle will be provided this year at the new Fair Grounds in Belleville, which are nearing completion. The grounds, thirty-three acres in extent, are situated within easy walking distance from the main street.

On the grounds are three large exhibition buildings. The Poultry building is 32 feet by 70 feet, is built of frame and will have a gable roof finished with asbestos. The Manufacturs' building and the Merchants' building are each 60 feet by 100 feet, have gable roofs and have dormer windows on each side. The roofs of these buildings are supported on the inside with wood girdles which are finished in a latticed effect.

The grandstand has a seating capacity of 1200. Close to the grandstand is a brick toilet for ladies and gentlemen, with running water and all other conveniences. The track is one-half mile round and is very level. A great deal of space has been sold in the Manufactures building for the Fair, which is to be held on September 1st to the 4th.

Arrangements have been made to exhibit vegetables and other farm produce in a large tent 50 feet by 100 feet.

Don't Spend Good Money In Unnecessary Minerals

Mineral supplements are of value when there is a deficiency of such minerals in the feed. The usual deficient elements are calcium, iodin and phosphorous. It is wasteful to feed a mineral mixture containing elements that are abundant in the feeds used. Try and find out what the shortage is, and then pay out your good cash for it alone. Many mineral mixtures offered contain a variety of unnecessary and in some instances expensive ingredients.

RECORD CROPS OF WHEAT AND RYE

Seventy-five Bushels of Alsike Per Ten Acre Field is Record.

COBOURG, Aug. 27.—In the Coldsprings and Plainville districts Hamilton Twp., crops are reported to be record ones. A citizen who has been through the country states that fall wheat will go from thirty to thirty-five bushels to the acre. Rye is also a heavy crop, and the hay crop, new cut and in the mows, is excellent. It is doubtful if any part of Ontario has been visited with better weather conditions to produce a good crop than Northumberland County.

Mr. Archie Bowman, who resides in the Plainville-Bewdly Road, has a field of Alsike clover that was much admired by motorists passing through as it was a mass of fragrant bloom. Mr. Bowman is one of the few farmers who has threshed his Alsike. He cut and harvested this ten acre field, and it took Messrs. Bray and McIntosh just eleven hours to thresh it, turning out seed, almost clean enough to be marketed; and Mr. Bowman had seventy-five bushels. This is a good record.

WHEAT IS ALL CUT THRESHING STARTS

Peas Poor This Year — Barley and Oats Looking Good.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 27.—Although the weather has been backward of late, the farmers of this district are succeeding in getting along fairly well with their harvesting. The bulk of the wheat in South Monaghan township is safely under cover, while practically all of the alsike has either been threshed in the field or has been drawn into the barns. There has been very little threshing done throughout this district as yet, as the farmers are too busily occupied in hastening on their harvest. During this week the larger portion of the oat crop and pea crop will be cut.

The Lord Brothers threshed seventeen acres of alsike last week which yielded over four bushels per acre, and their yield would have been much larger had they not have had to turn their seed a number of times, as much of the seed was left on the ground owing to the frequent rains making it necessary to turn the seed several times previous to threshing. N. Brackenridge threshed thirty-five acres which yielded over six bushels per acre, and other farmers who have not yet threshed their alsike expecs a larger yield than either stated.

Wm. Belch's fall wheat threshed out thirty-five bushels per acre off a ten acre field.

The pea crop on the whole is poor this year, there are some crops exceptions, though, and, if the weather continues fine, pea threshing will be in full swing during next week.

Barley and oats are both good crops, and are now being cut and stooked.

There are numerous travelling threshing outfits on the roads this season. Among those who are already operating outfits in this district are Jas. Falls, N. Brackenridge, Jas. Bullock, Thos. Smith and others.

RAIN HURTS PEAS.

Potatoes Covered With Flies Reason For Smallness and Scarcity.

DUNSFORD, Aug. 27.—Harvesting is progressing quite rapidly in this community, with no rain of any account lately; the wheat is nearly all in and several farmers have threshed.

The abundant rain was almost too much for the pea crop especially the late ones, so much moisture has caused them to mill-dew and in some places the yield won't be more than half what it would have been had the weather been more suitable.

Corn is doing extra well, this hot dry weather is ideal for it.

Several farmers are complaining of the potatoes being a poor crop this year. The stalks and leaves are littered with little green flies, and they believe these are the cause of so few and small potatoes in a hill.

WET WEATHER HARMFUL.

Only 16 Bushels Yield From 5 Acres of Clover Seed.

THOMASBURG, Aug. 27.—Mr. J. Bateman had 45 bushels of grass seed. He anticipated a yield of 80 bushels but, owing to rain and bad weather, the rest was spoiled.

Mr. Wm. Sherry sowed 3 bushels of barley and drew in 3 loads of sheaves.

Mr. Wm. Vance sowed 5 acres of clover seed. He only had 16 bushels as the remainder was spoiled by rain and damp weather.

SPLENDID CROP OF FALL WHEAT WAS HARVESTED

Omemee Farmer Threshed Grain Which Returned 47 Bushels Per Acre.

POTATOES BLIGHTED

OMEMEE, Aug. 27.—The dry weather for the past two weeks has been very favorable for harvesting and the hot sun and parching winds have quickly ripened the standing grain. On early farms where the land is high, cutting has been completed and the binders stored away for another year. On the whole, the fall wheat crop is turning out quite satisfactory. Mr. John Bent, who was one of the prize winners in the field crop competition in oats, had also a field of fall wheat worth seeing. The field contained seven acres, of clean grain and when threshed yielded 47 bushels to the acre, which was two bushels over the several estimates made. These figures are correct as the grain was immediately hauled to the elevator in Omemee where it was disposed of at $1.25 per bushel.

Another field is reported, which was planted on a stubble field without being summer fallowed. The yield was about 30 bushels to the acre, and the owner considered it splendid, the variety being No. 1. O.A.C.

Mr. Roy Howden expects a good yield from a field of oats just cut, it having taken three pounds of twine to the acre to tie it.

The Pea Crop.

The pea crop is not expected to exceed the average crop. The pods are small and not well filled in many cases. Mr. Ira Rehill threshed a field containing about 38 acres this week. The grain was threshed in the field and hauled by truck to the elevator where 600 bushels were deposited. The price was not certain but is expected to run at $1.25 per bushel.

Potatoes.

Early potatoes in this section have received a blight and the stalks are rapidly dying. While the crop is reported as plentiful in numbers, the potatoes are small in many gardens.

Hill onions and the Dutch set variety are reported as a splendid crop.

Cucumbers.

Many complaints are heard about the false bloom on the cucumbers, while some have picked baskets off a very small patch.

Messrs. Foster and Simmons, of Bowmanville, who shipped a carload of cattle from that place, bought a number in this vicinity to complete the load. Mr. James Bushnell sold 13 head of fat cattle, which he had on pasture, at 5 cents per pound, the average weight being about 800 pounds. Fifteen head were purchased from Mr. Jack McConnell, the weight being between nine and ten hundred pounds.

GOOD CROP REPORTS

Farmers Speak Enthusiastically of This Season's Returns.

MARMORA, Aug. 27. — Farmers everywhere speak in glowing terms of this season's crops. Busy with his hay crop, having used up all barn accommodation, with four stacks in field and a final fifth being built up, Mr. James Jones, of North Marmora, has not been able yet to turn his attention to his 22 acres of oats, which are looking in first class shape.

Mr. Irwin McCoy, in handling two farms this year, has 60 acres of oats cut and is awaiting the thresher's call within the next week to decide the season's luck. Mr. William Davidson's outfit expected to pull into that neighborhood some time next week.

Mr. Patrick Doyle is able to report a prosperous year. From approximately 30 acres, he has drawn in about 150 loads of hay. In common with all the farmers along the Malone Road, he has nearly all his grain cut, forty acres having been sown. South of Marmora village, Mr. Lindsay Neal has his barns full up to the plate. From twenty-five acres one hundred loads were harvested, necessitating the erection of nine stacks out in his fields. He is looking for good returns from thirty-three acres sown to oats.

WELCOME SHOWER

Light Rainfall Passed Over Bonar Law—Two Miles Wide.

BONAR LAW, Aug. 27.—A beautiful shower passed over this district on Friday afternoon when the rain came down in torrents. It only lasted about one hour. It seemed to travel in a streak about two miles wide, going to the south. On either the oats those bright, where was continued drawing in their grain.

The Crops.

Mr. John W. Condon threshed 400 bushels of wheat from 12 acres, over 33 bushels per acre, which is a splendid yield. His rye yielded 30 bushels per acre, and both grains are a fine sample. His peas also were an excellent yield.

From 10 acres Mr. Patrick O'Brien threshed 300 bushels of wheat and from five acres he had a yield of 200 bushels of barley.

In studying the subject, "What makes the rooster crow?" it was found that any perfectly normal hen will, in the prolonged absencee of the male, crow most vigorously, though her voice may not be so full of challenge. Now the question arises: Is the prolonged absence of man, what a woman whistle?

LATE AUGUST DAYS.

Hurry up and do your camping
Hurry up and have your fun,
For the August days are passing
And they're shortening the sun

Hurry up, boy, do your swimming,
Hurry up, girls, play all day,
For the school is soon beginning;
See! Some birds are on their way!

—W. H. R.

As I sit here, in my little log cabin, on the edge of a mountain lake, I can hear the loons laughing madly, with the echoes rebounding from the mountain sides across the water.

I sometimes think those birds do that to let me see that they enjoy the very thrill of it all. Maybe they know that I would love to be a loon for a while, on just such a morning, and that if I were, I would do just as they are doing. I would dive, splash, laugh and laugh and laugh, just to hear the much more musical sound of the echoes. When the loon makes the sound it is a gabbling sort of laugh. When it comes back as an echo, it is the same only different, to be Irish, for it has a strange musical tone.

As I write this, it is still the middle of summer, but yesterday, the cedar waxwings were eating blueberries, when not too busy trying to annoy Mickey, the crowd, at our back door.

It was comical to see. There was Mickey on a dead spruce twig, not more than ten feet high. The waxwings were bothering him all day, then, at eventide, one venturesome old waxwing came right over and perched on the twig, while I was there scratching Mickey's head. I shook the tree, but the waxwing hated the crow so much that he hung on, snapping his beak at the both of us. Blueberry jam and bears tomorrow.

YOUR GARDEN

HINTS ON STAGING FLOWERS FOR EXHIBITION

The arranging of exhibition flowers artistically and to advantage for judging, is an art requiring skill and long practice. There are a number of points though, which the beginner should adhere to carefully and the nicety of skill in artistic arrangement will come later.

In the first place the competitor should start early, so that he will not have to rush, but will have time to put on the final finishing touches which will produce a winning exhibit, and the lack of which may mean failure. Staging should always be finished by the time called for, so that the judges may start promptly on time.

Make entries early so that the secretary, superintendent, chairman of committees, or whomever may have charge of the work may have matters well in hand. Late entries, arriving after space has been allotted for various classes are a nuisance. They most likely will cause an inconvenient crowding in some section. The late entries will suffer through getting this crowded position.

Receptacles should be provided by the society through which the show is held, but should they be lacking, the competitor should provide simple and plain ones for his flowers. Milk bottles of various sizes have proven very satisfactory but have the drawback of being easily broken in handling. Galvanized tin vases with comparatively broad bases and not too much flare can be made at a reasonable figure and painted green or gray. They have the additional advantage of nesting readily for storage and if too light for heavy flowers may be weighted down with a small stone, sand or gravel. If bottles of the ginger ale variety must be used (they have rather too narrow necks to hold flowers satisfactorily) do not leave labels on as they detract very much from the entry.

It seems hardly necessary to emphasize the necessity of placing only the exact number of specimens in the receptacle that are called for in the schedule but it is surprising how often this is over looked. Read the directions carefully and then act accordingly.

The wise exhibitor will have had a very definite idea at planting time or in the spring as to what classes he will enter and will grow varieties of the special flowers called for. He will also grow more than he actually needs so that he may make a choice. Exhibition material should then be given the extra attention that it merits.

In arranging a display of flowers for effect be careful to avoid using blooms in close proximity to one another that do not harmonize. Some of the magenta and red shades are particularly difficult in this respect. Also it is wise to refrain from crowding, not only the specimens in the individual receptacle but also the entire exhibit. Aim rather at an appearance of airiness and avoid a stiff and heavy effect. A much better display will result if the flowers and foliage are arranged gracefully so as to at least partially hide the receptacles. Just the right amount of covering will have to be left to the judgment of the exhibitor and it is preferable that the foliage and flowers in the receptacle to be used for the covering rather than other cut foliage banked up in front or between.

Flowers should be cut the night before, after the sun is off or early on the morning of the show, and kept in a cool place, well immersed in cold water.

Showing Pot Plants.—This class of exhibit should be well clothed with foliage right down to the pot, whether foliage or flowering plants. Each individual plant shown as a specimen or in a group should be placed far enough apart to be seen well. Foliage plants should be well sponged both sides of the leaves before exhibiting and any plants requiring stakes should be attended to. Stakes should be inconspicuous and the plant should be tied to hide the stake and the tying as much as possible. To stake adequately, neatly and yet to avoid a stiff appearance requires patience, care and practice. It is wise to water all plants well just before taking to the show or immediately after staging as they will soon show signs of wilting in the heat of the average hall.

Sight-Seeing in Toronto

When you have been at the Canadian National Exhibition for several days—and the General Public has jostled your elbows and leaned on your shoulders and shut out the view of your favorite exhibit, and stepped on your clean white shoes—

When, in fact, you are thoroughly tired of sight-seers while still fresh for sight-seeing—then pay a visit to the Ryrie-Birks store.

The Ryrie-Birks store is spacious, unhurried and uncrowded, and here you will find all sorts of lovely things—antique and modern silver, jewellery that exemplifies the best in craftsmanship and art, charming European novelties, and—to keep the Exhibition note—a $100,000.00 replica in precious stones of the Great Gates to Exhibition Park.

Visitors to the Exhibition will be cordially welcomed — whether as shoppers or sight-seers —to the Ryrie-Birks store.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, AUGUST 28

The astral activities for this day hold presage of rather peculiar or unusual occurrences or experiences. With Uranus and Neptune, deemed to vibrate at a much higher rate than do those orbs of our accepted planetary chain, the singular, eccentric or unorthodox may be looked for. This applies to routine problems of the business world, but, besides, holds particular reference to affairs of the heart and home, since Venus is under an afflicting ray from Neptune. Postpone important change and travel, but take new projects under advisement.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of singular experiences in business as well as in personal affairs. There may be opportunity for change or travel, but these should be carefully considered, as should new projects. A child born on this day may be expected to have qualities or faculties out of the commonplace and customary, but its success in life depends upon the hour of its birth.

CAVAN PERSONALS.

CAVAN, Aug. 27.—Rev. B. Greatrix occupied the pulpits on the Cavan circuit last Sunday.

Next Sunday, the pastor, Rev. J. O. Totten will again be in charge of the services, after his three weeks' vacation.

Miss Helen Syer spent the week end visiting her friend, Miss Jamieson, Lindsay.

Some of the young people of Cavan Centre motored to Peterboro on Monday to take the train to Lindsay and enjoy the round trip on the steamer Stoney Lake, through the Kawartha Lakes.

Mr. Fred Sisson and daughter, of Montreal, are visiting his mother Mrs. G. Sisson.

Mrs. Whitfield, Oshawa, is visiting friends in Cavan.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BETTY'S TRIP WITH GOCOMEBACK INTO QUITO

"Oh, dear," Betty sighed when her Mama called her in from her play to sweep the stairs. "I just wish I lived ——"

"Wait a second, wait a second," laughed a merry voice, and Betty turned around to see Gocomeback, the wee travel elfin, smiling at her from the porch. "Don't make any rash wishes," he laughed. "What's wrong this lovely day?"

"Why, if you lived with a friend of mine you might have cause to fuss," and before Betty could even ask where his friend lived she was whisked through the air and dropped down beside Gocomeback in a strange land.

"Where in the world are we?" she whispered as she glanced at the narrow streets and the funny two-story houses, so close together that you could almost touch both sides of the streets when passing. "Where in the world are we, anyway, Gocomeback?"

"In Quito, a little, odd, old city in the Andes," replied the elfin. "I wanted you to see their queer little houses."

"I do," laughed Betty, "and they have no windows in the downstairs at all. Only one doorway. I rather like the balconies on the second floors. Funny they have no windows downstairs. May we go in one?"

"Just why we came," grinned Gocomeback, and he led Betty into the dark doorway, up a long, dirty stairway. "You see, the family always live on the second floor here. Downstairs they keep for their servants, stables for their horses and cattle and——"

"Where in the World Are We?"

"You mean the owners live on the second floor all together!" Betty exclaimed. "And their cows and horses live downstairs. Oh, my goodness! Isn't that funny?"

"It sure is funny," replied the elfin. "And another funny thing about the place—there isn't a chimney or a stove in all Quito." They walked into a large room, whose windows faced on a large court at the back of the house. On a shelf, like Betty had seen in the blacksmith's shop near her Grandma's house, was a charcoal fire. "There must be a different fire for everything cooked," said Gocomeback. "How would you like to keep this kitchen?"

"My goodness, no," exclaimed Betty. "It's hard enough to keep our kitchen stove going. If I had to build separate fires for everything we cooked, I would be out of luck. And those stairs! My, if I had to keep them clean I'd——"

"Just to think I complained about sweeping our steps," she laughingly told her Mother. "My, I'm glad I live in good old North America," and gathering up the broom Betty went about the sweeping humming merrily.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

By Temple Manning

HOW THE BARBER POLE ORIGINATED

"Skip, skip to the barber shop,
To buy a stick of candy.
One for you, and one for me,
And one for brother Andy."

This bit of doggerel, although it is not founded on fact, may help to explain the origin of the barbers' striped pole outside of every barber shop. The barber shop was a notable institution in ancient Athens, where poets and statesmen came to have their hair cut or their beards curled and scented with costly essences. Shaving, itself, was through the interference of kings and councils, and the barbers were given the privilege of using the lancet and drawing teeth. The regular surgeons, however, were prohibited from "barbery or shaving."

The barbers' pole, therefore, reminded the public that the proprietor of the shop before which it was placed could "breathe a vein" as well as he could mow a beard.

The two spiral ribbons painted around the pole represent the two long fillets or bandages—one twisted around the arm before bleeding and the other little known until the time of the Macedonian conquest.

In the early middle ages barbers flourished mightily. They not only added the tonsorial touch to the persons of their patrons, but extracted teeth and acted as general surgeons. Hence the barber shop became a sort of fashionable lounge for members of the leisure class. News of the day was exchanged, magazines and books were read aloud and music was furnished gratis.

It was this encroachment of the barber upon the provinces of surgery and dentistry which led to a long strife between the members of the latter professions. This was finally settled used to bind it afterward. Originally, when not in use, the pole was hung out at the door as a sign, with a bandage wound around it, so that both might be together when needed. Later on, for convenience, another pole was painted in imitation of the original pole, and placed outside permanently.

The barbers' pole of olden times, however, was a much more elaborate affair than it is to-day. What is now merely a gilt knob at the top, was then the figure of a man's head. Around his neck was placed a copper basin, slit at the side, so that the lather on his face would not soil the clothes of the patron.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

MOUTHS OF CHILDREN NEED GREAT CARE.

Why is it that persons who are educated and apparently sensible about everything else, will permit their children to neglect the teeth?

There is such a contrast between the pearliness and beauty of perfectly kept teeth, and the discoloration and unsightliness of neglected teeth, that it would seem the most natural thing in the world to give the necessary care. But it isn't done.

I wish one particular mother might see this article. She has a daughter who is one of the finest specimens of young girlhood I ever saw. There is just one observable defect. The child's teeth have a line of "tartar" at the roots of her well shaped and apparently strong teeth. These particles of stain reveal neglect.

One of the first duties of a parent is to insist on regular daily use of the tooth brush. Regular visits to the dentist are just as important as regular examinations for health.

The physical requirements demanded by the public school authorities have gone far to overcome the prevalence of dental defects which used to prevail. I hope the private schools are just as exacting in such matter.

Without good health, an education is of small consequence. It is recognized today that a very considerable percentage of illness met in hospitals can be traced to bad teeth. The first step towards decay and abscess is neglect of the tooth brush.

I heard about the graduating class from a public grammar school. Of the seventy girls in it only one had perfect teeth. The remaining sixty-nine had an average of sixteen dental defects, cavities or lost teeth. This is a dreadful record.

Every parent should bear in mind that cleanliness of the teeth is not a fad, a sign of foppishness, or a useless expenditure of time and money. On the contrary, it is one of the most important of all the health measures we recommend.

Have you ever thought how we abuse our mouths? To begin with, the food we take is not always as clean and fresh as it should be. We take a lot of uncovered food and pastry. The water and milk we drink is not always free from germs. We put into our mouth, pins, pencils, coins, paper money, tooth picks, sticks, stem of plant, and, worse than all, our own dirty fingers. Every day unclean things come into contact with our teeth.

If Nature had not made the teeth so strong and well covered not one of us would escape serious dental trouble. But no one of us can avoid seeing the dentist on occasions. The wise thing is to go regularly.

I am talking to you about the teeth today, because the beginning of the school year is a good time to check up on the physical defects. No one of them is more vital to the present and future welfare of your child than the dental condition. No wiser thing can be done than to fill the cavities, thoroughly clean all the teeth and then begin on a daily drill in the use of the tooth brush.

STREET NAMES

BENSON STREET.

John R. Benson was born in England in 1802. The date of his arrival in Peterboro is not known. It is known, however, that in Peterboro he found a wife, being married in 1832 to a Miss Lee of the town. He opened a store in Water street. To this interest he added that of milling in which he engaged with his father-in-law, Lee. He then entered into an independent venture and established Benson's mill. Later he built a dam just above Inverlea Park and erected what became known as Martyn's mill from the name of the leasee. Benson was a man of fervid patriotism and went out to the North West as a volunteer on the outbreak of the North West Rebellion. He spent several years in Winnipeg before returning to Peterboro where he died in 1875 at the age of 73. He had been one of Peterboro's oldest citizens and had been connected with the town almost from its founding. All business was suspended on the afternoon of his funeral as a token of respect to his memory.

CAVAN TAX RATE IS STRUCK BY COUNCIL

Ratepayers Will Be Assessed 23 9-10 Mills This Year.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 27.—Cavan Council held its regular meeting on Aug. 22 at 1.30 p.m., with the members all present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and on motion approved.

By-laws numbers 652 and 653 were introduced and passed, striking the school and other rates for the current year.

County rates, 10 5-10 mills; general school 5 mills; township, 8 mills; Long Swamp, 4-10 mills.

On motion of Deputy-Reeve Fallis and Councillor Hunter the following orders were passed and paid:

London & Lancashire Insurance Co., $23.75; Telephone Co. account, $2.24; P. Stinson, $2.24; T. Bradburn $15.15; H. A. Fallis, $15; J. George, $15; Sawyer-Massey Co., $1,960; Council pay, $20; commission work, Reeve, $6, Deputy-Reeve, $6, Councillor Hunter, $2; Hooton, $4; J. N. McGill, $37.50.

Councillors Hooton and Fallis moved that the Council adjourn to meet September 21 at 1.30 p.m. Carried.

A wayward son says that it is a case of loves' labor lost when he fails to work the old man.

The "Old Boys'" Race

Nearly fifty years have passed since he won his first race on the same ground. To-day he can not only leave his contemporaries panting just as hopelessly in the rear, but can even beat men young enough to be his sons.

And he's fully as dangerous a rival at work as well—a business friend worth cultivating. His secret is simple, for all the wonders that it works. He has preserved through the long years the vigour of youth, which will not be denied, and the joyous, care-free outlook of boyhood's days.

His was the will to be healthy, and he found the way when, years ago, he began to tip a tiny pinch of Kruschen into his first cup of coffee or tea every morning.

He hasn't missed a morning since. The little tasteless daily dose — each pinch a perfect blend of the six salts essential to bodily well-being — keeps him always in perfect trim. Kruschen frees his system from all the clogging impurities that are the result of too much indoor work and the cause of a host of "minor" ailments. It keeps the liver and kidneys keyed up to concert pitch. Clear, vigorous blood courses through his veins. Every fibre of his being tingles with glorious vitality.

You have the will to be healthy. You can find the way. Get a bottle of Kruschen — and start a new life to-morrow.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 160 doses—nearly enough for six months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use for adults is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.

WOMAN IN FIELD WAS ASSAULTED

Is In Hospital, While Assailant is Held By Police.

CHILD ATTACKED.

HAMILTON, Aug. 27.— (Canadian Press.)—Following an assault which occurred in a field, Mrs. E. O. Almas, West Flamboro, is in St. Joseph's Hospital in a critical condition. Her two year old daughter is in the hospital suffering lesser injuries. Joseph Martell, a sailor from Montreal, is held by the police.

Mrs. Almas, accompanied by her daughter, was picking beans yesterday morning when she saw an apparently well dressed man approaching. As he reached her he struck her on the head with a stone and then grappled with her. When he found that he could not overcome Mrs. Alam, who fought gamely, scratching the man's face with her nails, her attacker produced a razor and cut the child on the head, severing a piece of her ear. The cries of Mrs. Almas frightened her assailant and he disappeared down the railway tracks. A man captured by farmers and police was identified by Mrs. Almas as her assailant.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO QUICKLY WITH OLD TIME REMEDY

First Day's Treatment in Many Cases Relieves All Pain.

New remedies spring up every day, but most of them do not last long and it is the old-time remedies that have stood the test of long trial which are the best in the end.

For rheumatic pains there is nothing that makes them disappear more quickly than the old-time scientific combination called Rheuma. Thousands have given grateful testimony to the almost instant relief which Rheuma has given them from the torturing pains, in many cases after the very first treatment.

Rheuma is known everywhere for its wonderful effects and if you suffer from rheumatism in any form, you owe it to yourself to try it. Rheuma is sold by McDermid and Jury and other good druggists with a guarantee of absolute satisfaction or your money refunded.

Only an old-time remedy that has been successful over a period of years could make such a liberal guarantee. Don't suffer any longer, get a bottle of Rheuma today.

RAIN INUNDATED MANY CITIES AND DID GREAT HARM

Eighty Thousand Residents of Tokio Are Homeless After Flood.

MANY CASUALTIES.

Landslides and Washouts Wrecked Trains in Eastern Japan.

TOKIO, Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Nearly two-thirds of Tokio was inundated this morning as the result of thirty-six hours of rain, which has not yet stopped.

Thirty thousand homes are flooded and 80,000 residents of Tokio and Yokohama are homeless. The casualties are nearly a thousand. The homes of most foreigners, being on high ground, are not endangered, except in the colony of Akasaka, where the waters are rising. An overflowing storm sewer sent the rushing river three feet deep past the Imperial Hotel, where a hastily erected dam at the door failed to prevent the water from forming pools and flooding the basement and kitchen.

Water burst indoors at the Nikkatau Film Theatre, causing a panic in which a score of women were trampled.

A bluff near Hongo gave way, burying several persons, and six occupants were dug out when a landslide entombed an automobile near Odawara, which city is flooded. A street car plunged twenty feet into the moat of the Imperial Palace, when an embankment gave way. A train is reported overturned on the Chuwo line with many dead.

Mountaineers in Danger.

By Miles W. Vaughan
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

TOKIO, Aug. 27. — A landslide roaring down the sides of volcanic Mount Fujiyama, in the path of the rain's torrents has claimed eleven lives and endangered 1,000 mountain climbers, according to information received here to-day.

The storms which yesterday swept Eastern Japan have ceased, leaving behind considerable damage from inundation of thousands of homes.

However, the storm was confined to Eastern Japan.

Ohaka and Kobe did not suffer from it.

Troops on Scene.

LONDON, Aug. 27. — (United Press).—The Central News Tokio correspondent wires that troops have been hastened to the relief of the flood stricken districts, where thousands are homeless. All foreigners were reported safe.

GILMOUR CHURCH EXCURSION HELD

Two hundred and twenty members, scholars and friends of the Gilmour Memorial church made the trip to Greenhurst on the "Stoney Lake" yesterday in connection with the annual Sunday school excursion. The steamer called at Braden's Point, the Indian Village and Bobcaygeon. At the Indian Village, the excursion was joined by the redoubtable Dan Whetung, the veteran ex-Chief, who, in true Indian fashion, leaped aboard 'ere the vessel had stopped. Dan was armed with a checker board and a set of men, with which he sallied forth to seek the scalps of unwary checkerists and the subsequent series of battles on the board between the Indian Chief and the Gilmour minister was a thing to be remembered.

Having lunched on board the trippers on arriving at Greenhurst disembarked, and games and races were held. Excellent weather was enjoyed throughout the entire day and everybody appeared to benefit by a good day's outing. On the return journey the boat stopped for an hour and a half at Bobcaygeon, giving all an opportunity of viewing the lovely village or of renewing acquaintances with the inhabitants.

WHEN THE FLIES ATTACK THE FLY FISHERMAN AND THE WONDERFUL TROUT LAKE DISAPPEARS

Richardson always carries a camera

A swirl of Algoma water that promises trout.

Off for a hidden stream in the Agawa country.

By E. PAUL READING.

"Have you plenty of fly-dope? You'll need it."

Northland hospitality leaves nothing to chance.

Solemn as was the warning, it did not damp my spirits, for the lure of the forest was upon me and I had heard too many stories of the trout-fishing ahead to be deterred by the worst threats of black fly or mosquito. I had stopped off betweed trains at Sault Ste. Marie, a total stranger, in the hope of finding brook-trout and scenery. I had dropped into the Sault Star office for advice, and, presto! I was in the hands of John C. Richardson, guide, counselor, and friend to all errant fishermen who come his way.

"Fish?" he had said. "Just wait till I get this edition to press."

I was taking my departure for a trip up the Algoma Central Railway after one of the most exciting evenings I have ever spent as an angler. We had talked flies, baits, tackle, streams, provisions and, above all, fish. Richardson had exhibited the mounted skin of a five-pound speckled beauty he had pulled in with a "bucktail" of his own tying last autumn and whetted my zest with the story. Further, he had planned my course for me, supplemented my tackle from his own outfit, furnished me with a rusty tin of fat, glistening dew worms "just in case," and promised me the pleasure of his good company over the week-end.

They say in the woods that it is the tenderfoot who neglects his own comfort, and perhaps I forgot myself. Certainly I forgot the fly-dope for the first hour after I had dropped off the train at mileage 122. But I had other things to think of.

Where I had alighted, a creek came swirling down from the hills to join the Agawa river. There were patches of foam on its iron-stained waters, and upstream I could hear the roar of a fall. I headed for that fall with a freshly-soaked leader on my line and an assortment of flies stuck in my hatband.

The stream came gushing through a deep-worn cleft in the granite and tumbled in a smother of froth into a dark shaded pool to steady itself for its race to the confidence with the Agawa. Near the further bank was an eddy that seemed the inevitable spot for trout, and I cast towards it. It took ten minutes to get my first rise, but he came with a rush and as he turned downstream I had him, a twelve-inch trout with the vim of a dynamo and the richest coloring I have seen in one of his kind. It was a "grey hackle" that had tempted him and I stuck to the more quietly colored flies for the rest of the afternoon.

When the fight was over I remembered the fly-dope. Rolling up my trousers I discovered a neat ring of ruby-red spots encircling each calf where the black flies had seized their opportunity. I had not felt them bite—I had had other things to think of.

My advent was a shock to the rabbits.

In the old lumber-camp which I took as my headquarters the teamsters had left behind a couple of sacks of oats and some bran—rich trove for the little folk of the wild. They had evidently had it to themselves all spring, for five of them scampered off as I entered the rough log cache, ripples of fat showing through their brown summer coats and astonishment glowing in their eyes.

When I had lighted my evening fire and was lounging before it, one of them returned, presumably to make an inspection of the intruder and report upon him. He sniffed at my fishing rod and then, seeing that he was observed, slipped off like a little brown ghost. When I returned from a stroll up the tack I found him inside the cabin and shut the door.

Presently I had him in a corner where he blinked timorously into the glaring eye of my electric torch. As I seized him by the saddle he screamed as only a rabbit can—I have heard that wail before when the weasel was busy at his hunting. I held him firmly for a moment and stroked his soft fur in an effort to reassure him, but without avail. Then I released him and he went scurrying back to his fellows.

Next evening he was in the cabin again; but this time I did not molest him. After all, I was the intruder.

When Richardson arrived he had word of a lake, "not far off," where the fishing was phenomenally good. We devoted the whole of Sunday to a trip in search of it; twenty miles over stiff country with a scramble of half a mile up the course of a little stream that fell in cascades all the way. The beauty of those waterfalls alone was reward for our toil.

At noon we heard soft splashing from a pool around the bend, and, creeping ahead, came on a huge bull moose, deep in the water with rivulets running down his slee, sides as he pulled up water-lily roots from the mud. The luxury of his surcease from the flies left him oblivious to his surroundings until Richardson's camera clicked. Then he waded heavily out and made off up the wooded bank. I, too, had taken a hasty snapshot, but realized too late that it was a picture of Richardson's broad back I had got; for my companion's swift "stalking" had carried him ahead of me.

That lake may exist. I have still unbounded faith in what Richardson told me; but we never found it. Doubtless scores of trout owe their lives to some wrong turning we took in the trail. I care nothing for that, though, for there was a plethora of fishing wherever I went that week.

And next year—for my plans are already made—they will be all the bigger, and better worth catching.

MEMBER VIOLATES RULE CENTURIES OLD

British M.P. Passed Over Line on Floor Meant to Prevent Violence.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(Associated Press).—When Sir Harry Hope rose in the House of Commons to speak from one of the front benches he was greeted with loud cries of "Order." He sat down, puzzled, but rose again only to be greeted with more shouts of "Order."

A member pointed out that he had violated a 300-year-old rule by putting his foot beyond a red line at the edge of the carpet in front of him. These lines, on either side of the chamber, were placed there in Stuart days, when the Roundheads in Parliament were bitterly attacking the Cavalier supporters of Charles I. Members in those days were armed and it was feared that debates might end in violence, so the red line was placed beyond which they were not supposed to pass during debate.

THE HUMAN BAND WAGON

FOUR PIERROTS

These three gentlemen and a lady have not only contrived a most novel comedy routine, but have succeeded in perfecting a unique grotesque act such as is rarely seen anywhere.

One of the laughable situations is where the lady holds all three men while they play musical instruments. Another feature, not to be overlooked, is where the lady holds an elaborate nickel plated apparatus on her shoulders while the three men go through a complete routine of aerial tricks.

This is certainly an attraction that will not only make you laugh, but will create a great deal of favorable comment and you should not miss it.

COMPETITION FOR DOMINION BONDS

High Price is Expected, With Many Firms Making Bids.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The award of a large Canadian Government bond issue is expected to be made next week. Several New York banking groups have representatives in the Dominion in competition for the loan, and Wall Street expects that keen rivalry for the issue will result in unusually high bids being submitted.

NORSE DIVIDED ABOUT ISLANDS

Ownership of Spitzbergen is Considered a Mixed Blessing.

SHOULD HAVE MORE

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 27.—(Associated Press). — The new Svalbard (Spitzbergen) law by which the archipelago is incorporated in the Kingdom of Norway has been placed on the statute book after having been passed in the two chambers by narrow majorities.

Norwegians are divided regarding the benefits to them by the acquisition of these islands, which were assigned to Norway by the Spitzbergen Treaty concluded in Paris between the great powers on February 9, 1920.

On one hand, popular feelings of national prestige have impelled acceptance of responsibility for the sole remnant of what, according to perfervid nationalists, ought to be a Norse Empire embracing also Iceland and Greenland. Norsemen, they claim, ought to possess the command of the Arctic Ocean and they find it hard to forgive Denmark for appropriating Iceland and Greenland.

The possibility of Spitzbergen becoming at some future time an important station for trans-Arctic air traffic is also not lost sight of.

On the other hand, the islands, which are inaccessible during the long winter season, have been hither to satisfactorily administered by private interests, and they will now require an administrative body headed by a provincial governor, with a host of civil service officials.

The first Svalbard estimates, for 1925-26, recently published, cover an initial expenditure for the new administration, estimated at 240,000 crowns. An income tax will be levied estimated to produce 160,000 crowns and an export duty on coal is calculated to yield 80,000 crowns.

Coal companies' officials opine that advantages and disadvantages under the new regime will about balance each other. They will be relieved of many administrative burdens and the task of keeping law and order, but they will have to submit to government supervision as regards production and export; moreover, all private wireless stations on the islands will come henceforth under government control.

STATE WINS SUIT FOR STRADIVARIUS

Thuringia Retains Old Violin, Although Musicians Heirs Sued.

WEIMAR, Aug. 27.—(Associated Press.)—A famous Stradivarius violin, mute for years in a safe deposit vault, recently passed definitely into the possession of the Thuringian government, which had been bequeathed the instrument but was later sued for its recovery by heirs of the donor. The litigtaion continued many years.

Fabulous offers made for the Stradivarius led the heirs to start suit on the strength of a clause in the will of the donor, Concertmaster Koempel of the Weimar Court Theatre, that they should have an option on the purchase of the violin whenever it was offered for sale. The heirs rejected one compromise made by a lower court and appealed to the supreme court, which refused their claim.

Herr Koempel, who was the favorite pupil of Ludwig Spher, had first given his beloved instrument to the Thuringian Asylum for the Blind, a government institution, but now it has ben intrusted to the care of Professor Reitz, present concertmaster of the German National Theatre of Weimar.

WEDDING BELLS.

WHITE—FOXTON.

Port Arthur News-Caronicle. — A pretty wedding was solemnized when Miss Phyllis Anne Foxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Foxton, 139 Dease street, Fort William, became the bride of Joseph K. White, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White of Peterboro. Rev. J. C. Popey officiated at the service which was performed beneath a beautiful arch of autumn foliage, bridal roses, and ferns. Mr. Vailey played Lohengrin's wedding march and accompanied Miss Amanda Sabourin when she sang very prettily, "Because," while the register was being signed. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a French gown of delicate maize georgette tastefully embroidered in pastel shades with touches of cerise. Her picture hat was ceri taffeta faced with black velvet and trimmed with cerise coque, and she wore a scarf matching her dress. Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses and orchids. The bride was attended by Miss Hilda Hall of Port Arthur, who wore a georgette and lace dress of russet color with hat corresponding. She carried an arm bouquet of Richmond roses. Little Miss Violet Foxton, sister of the bride, made a dainty flower girl, in a frock of peach taffeta and Dolly Madison hat matching her dress. She carried a basket of sweet peas. Bruce Southon attended the groom as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held when the guests were received by Mrs. Foxton, who chose for the occasion a biege and russet crepe satin dress. She wore a corsage bouquet of roses and hat of brocaded velvet and taffeta. She was assisted by Mrs. H. W. Foxton, sister in law of the bride, who wore a cut velvet frock of lanvine green with picture hat of taffeta. Assisting in the tea room, which was prettily decorated with white satin streamers caught with bud vases of roses, were —Pouring tea, Mrs. W. J. Wagner, Mrs. W.Whitehurst; serving wedding cake, Mrs. H. C. Wilson; cutting ices Mrs. R. Mullen of Sioux Lookout; serving, Mrs. W. Philips, Mrs. V. L. Philips, Misses Laurinda Lafolley Madge and Katherine McIntosh, Eva Stanley and Elsie Haney.

Mr. and Mrs. White received many lovely presents, among others a two toned walnut console table received from the staff of Rutledge and Jackson where the groom was a member of the staff, and a silver casserole from the employees of Chaple's, where the bride was employed before her marriage. The left on the Keewatin for Toronto and Peterboro for their honeymoon trip.

SCOLLARD—McBRADY.

Beautifully decorated with gladioli and ferns St. Gregory's Church was the scene of a pretty wedding this morning at eight o'clock when Ella, daughter of Mrs. James McBrady of 241 Kendal Avenue, was united in marriage to John Francis Scollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scollard of Ennismore. Rev. Father McBrady of St. Michael's College, Toronto, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Father Kelly, of St. Gregory's Church.

The bride entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Monica McNeil, and was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James McBrady. The bride looked charming, attired in white georgette with pearl trimmings and white tulle veil daintily caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. Miss Mary McBrady, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and was becomingly gowned in French poudre blue georgette, with rhinestone trimmings and silver hat with bird of Paradise, and carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses. Mr. P. J. Scollard, brother of the groom, was the best man. At the offertory "Ave Maria" was rendered and during the signing of the register, "Until," by Miss Josephine McBrady, sister of the bride.

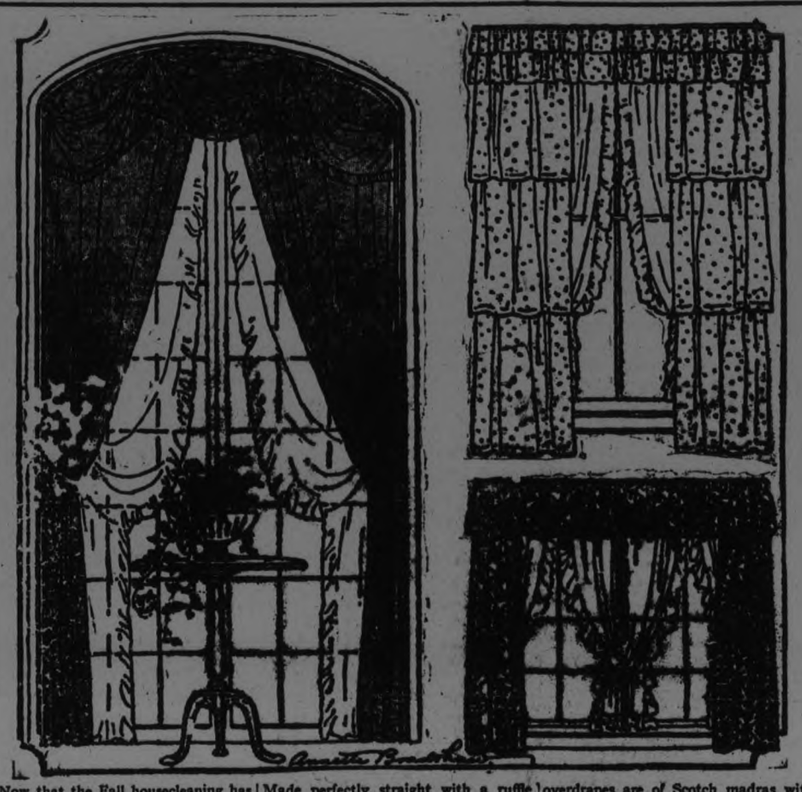
Immediately following the ceremony a reception and wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. McBrady receiving in black georgette and Mrs Scollard in black georgette with lace trimmings. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful silver mesh bag, to the bridesmaid a green gold pearl rosary, to the soloist a fountain pen, to the pianist a sterling silver bar pin, and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff-links.

Later the happy couple left for Hamilton, London and Detroit. The bride travelling in cuckoo georgette dress with panne velvet hat to match,. Isabella fox fur and blonde kid shoes. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Scollard will reside in Ennismore. Out-of-town guests were: Father McBrady of Toronto, Father Collins of Lindsay, Father McAuley of Ennismore, Mr. L. V. McBrady, K.C., Toronto; Mrs. M. J. O'Neil, Toronto; Mrs. J. H. Long, Whitby; Mr. Joseph and Robert Garland, Cherrywood; Dr. and Mrs. P. J. Maloney and daughter, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Scollard and family, Peterboro, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scollard and family of Ennismore, and Mr. Joseph Jordan of Elgin.—Oshawa Telegram

PROPOSES LABOR COURTS

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27 (Associated Press)—President Alvear has sent to congress a bill proposing the institution of labor courts in the city of, Buenos Aires. The proposed courts would deal with all disputes relative to salaries and pensions, while decisions from conciliation and arbitration tribunals could be carried by appeal to these courts.

WINDOW DRAPINGS — By Annette Bradshaw



Now that the Fall housecleaning has started and all the window curtains have been taken down, somehow the thought of putting back the same old curtains, after the house has been freshly cleaned and painted, seems to go against the grain.

Where one is fortunate enough to have full length windows in the living room, the formal arrangement at the left of the illustration is one which can be followed in any number of combinations.

In this instance, the glass curtains were of heavy square mesh net in ecru. Made perfectly straight with a ruffle of the net, and gracefully looped back, they are almost sufficient dressing of themselves.

The overdrapes seem to make a window more cheerful. These drapes are of mulberry silk rep. This material drapes wonderfully well, and doesn't need a lining. The gracefully draped valance is edged with rattail fringe of the same color, about three inches wide.

To the upper right is a most adorable suggestion for the bedroom.

The glass curtains in thin sinstace are of plain white marquisette. The overdrapes are of Scotch madras with a colored dot. The triple effect is obtained by a two-inch tuck, which gives the effect of three tiny curtains. The new double ruffle valance is another charming touch.

For the hall or dining room where one has casement windows, nothing could be more charming than the white net glass curtains in the lower right with their overdrape of brilliant chintz, with a black border. This makes the window the most prominent feature of the room. The black wool tassels at intervals on the valance are unusual.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A DRESS WITH SILVER BUCKLE

Madame has a very talented friend who is also interested in designing. Miss Simpson, the friend, however, is not in the designing business, but simply does it for her own pleasure

"I really should not compliment you so on the creations you wear, or you'll be tempted to go into the business as my rival."

"Don't worry about that, dear," Miss Simpson would return. "I have no executive ability, which it certainly takes to run a successful shop."

"But think of your friends who simply clamor to have you design frocks for them," Madame said to her recently.

"Can't help it." Miss Simpson returned. "I do like to do things for friends occasionally, but usually I don't have much time to do anything but design my own frocks."

"Now I think that frock you are wearing is perfectly lovely," Madame assured her.

"I like it myself," Miss Simpson returned.

"That pomegranate shade was appearing in Paris when I was there," Madame told Miss Simpson.

"I'm glad you approve," Miss Simpson assured Madame. "I've always liked dresses that fitted fairly smooth and tight, and this one is cut to fit as smooth at the back as I know how to make it."

"May I examine it minutely?" I asked. "I am crazy to see just how it is done, but I don't want you to think I am rude."

"Surely you may," the owner of the dress told me. "It flatters me to have someone who sees as many pretty dresses as you want to see mine better."

Then Miss Simpson continued to explain:

"I cut the back all in one piece, with tabs that extend around to the front. They are held by this flat silver buckle that I think is awfully pretty. I had it first, and that's how the dress happened to evolve as it did."

"Any frock trimmed with lots of buttons always catches my eye," I confided.

The buttons she had used down the front of her frock and on the long tight sleeves were tiny silver ones that were stunning against the reddish background of the frock.

I am planning to make a rose wool crepe on the same pattern, so I am keeping this sketch in my diary.

Buyers

(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(United Press.)— The buyers are in town seeking fall and winter finery for the lady in Oskosh and the girl in Memphis. They are a peculiar lot, these buyers. Always hunting for the unusual, the gown that the other fellow from the other town won't find, they settle at last on the same silhouettes and the same materials. The costumer who has designed 'something different' from the rest is out of luck.

This year the buyers have decided strongly in favor of velvet as a medium for dressy afternoon and evening wear. Not only is velvet chosen for frocks, ensembles, coats and evening wraps but for trimmings as well. Black, brown, amethyst, bois de rose and mauve are favorite velvet shades for daytimes frocks and ensembles. Evening gowns run to jade, gold, amber and yellow green shades.

Dressy ensembles have fur-trimmed coats of velvet matched in color by frocks of chiffon, crepe or satin. Evening capes of velvet are stressed in shades such as royal blue, bois de rose and wellow green. The cape in most instances is a shade or so darker than the gown over which it is worn.

Black velvet gowns will be popular for dinner wear as well as for afternoon wear this coming season. Skirts generally have circular fullness concentrated at the sides. Most models still cling to flat backs with the fulness at the sides or front although, there is a tendency to place the flare at the rear in some models.

Buyers are a little shy about frocks with rear fulness in spite of the fact that Paris is sponsoring such silhouettes. But regardless of where the flare is placed, full-skirted velvet frocks will be rulers among smart women this coming season.

Let's Talk It Over

PROTEST CONCERNING SUBJECTS TAUGHT

Old Julius Caesar never intended his commentaries to become a text book to trouble school boys. But then things were different in Julius's day. Education was a luxury for the rich only. Labor was cheap. It wasn't worth while to educate "the common people." There would have been no point in it. A slave was a slave. And the son of a slave was a slave. Why bother with him?

Gradually the growth of democracy opened up learning to the poor—first the public schools—then the universities. If you give a man the vote you must give him an education; without it the vote is a dangerous thing to possess. So, little by little, times changed. Aristocracy weakened. Democracy strengthened. Today we not only offer education to our children—we enforce it.

A citizen, educated in Europe, protests that we carry our ideals of education too far. He resents the State's dictation that his son shall remain in school until he is eighteen. He wishes his son to follow in his footsteps, to learn his business, and to learn it before he is eighteen. It is a most interesting letter and his point of view is worthy of consideration.

May I call your attention to what may be a new angle of the compulsory education law?

I believe that a compulsory education law of some kind is necessary for the protection of the children but is it right to keep every child in school until he is past eighteen? Of what value can botany and English literature be to the boy who must earn his living at one of the crafts? Of what value is the smattering of knowledge my son is receiving in high school, compared to the practical training he might be receiving now in my business? He will go into business with me. I am an importer.

The high school offers no courses that would be of value to him as an importer and as my successor in the business that was my father's before me. The young mind stores impressions and retains them. What I learned instinctively as a young boy, my son will have to learn slowly at the cost of mistakes and dollars. In my business I can give my son the education he needs. He will learn much.

Yet this country, of which I am a citizen, will not permit me to teach my son as I will. It puts him in a school with girls and teaches him a little about things that are of no value to him. This school system is a matter of theory and suffers from its youth. In my day in Europe I went to school and learned. We spent no time in idleness, but in a few years digested a great mass of learning.

In my comparatively short term of schooling I learned more of history, literature and language than my son has learned in twelve years. I say, do not teach so many useless subjects, but let us base our educational training upon the tried systems of Europe. Let us teach the necessary things well and then let us train our sons for their work. I cannot go before the board and plead poverty to release my son from school. And yet, in his plastic years he must learn what will not benefit him. Is it fair? CITIZEN.

Before you answer him, Pals, let me bring out this point. Although that letter is a criticism of our education and our educators, it really voices the opinion of some our more progressive educators of the day. We have no leisured, cultured class. We must fit our sons to earn their living. A system of education which gives little more than classical learning is insufficient for our needs. The old system of apprenticing the boy to the trade is vanishing. In its place we have no adequate training in the crafts.

The old system of apprenticeship had its disadvantages. But sentiment in the labor unions and in society is against it. But where can our boys receive their training for work in the industrial world? Shouldn't our school system consider this great need and follow the lead of the more progressive technical and vocational schools?

What do you think, Pal? Do you think that "Citizen" should be allowed to take his son out of school and train him personally for his life's work? Or do you believe that for every case where there is a boy that is fitted to follow in his father's footsteps there are a hundred who are not? That there are many boys who find this compulsory education the only chance for freedom from tyrannical home dictation? Are we giving our children a lot of useless knowledge, or are we giving them useful knowledge which will give them control of their destinies?

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

ADVICE TO GIRLS

— By Annie Laurie —

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens. I would like to have both boys and girls for friends, but don't know how to make them.

What would you advise me to do? BASHFUL.

BASHFUL: Friendship, my dear, must be founded on mutual interests and tastes and on a community of ideas. And you cannot expect every acquaintance you meet to become a life-long friend. But if you want to make worthwhile friendships you should join a club or lecture class where members are bound together by ties of common tastes and ideals. Be cordial and gracious to those whom you meet, talk of the things which interest you, and you will not fail to make many friends.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl eighteen years old, and in love with a young man twenty. About a month ago I accepted a ring from an "old bachelor."

I know now that I did wrong in taking it, so please advise me what to do. PEGGY.

PEGGY: It is always wise to refuse gifts which are expensive and personal, Peggy. Now that you have decided to return the gift which you accepted, I suggest that you write this man a short note explaining the situation. If you do this tactfully he will not be offended.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

A friend of whom I am very fond asked me if he could call on such and such an evening. Without really meaning to do so, I am afraid I led him to understand that I did not wish him to call. That was a big mistake as I enjoy his company very much.

I do not wish to lose the young man's friendship and yet I do not want him to think me anxious or bold. What shall I do?

WORRIED SAL.

WORRIED SAL: If this young man is really interested in you it will not be difficult for you to "rectify" your error, Sal. Merely invite him to call on you. This will prove that you enjoy his company and declined his invitation for some good reason.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

APPLE YIELD IS LESS

Annapolis Valley Crop Estimated to be Two Million Barrels.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—It is estimated that this years' apple crop in the Annapolis Valley will reach two million barrels; somewhat less than the average annual yield, due to unfavorable weather.

USEFUL TABLE THINGS.

Individual coffee pots with wee percolators make tray breakfasts easy of accomplishment. They hold a large cupful and a half of coffee, or two small cupfuls. Little aluminum cups and saucers come to match the pots, and those who use them say they keep the liquid better than the china cups do.

The woman who has not met the tea kettle that becomes a double boiler, steamer and kettle in turn has missed making acquaintance with a great kitchen convenience. The kettle is of the heavy cast aluminum and is a bit more expensive than the ordinary kettle, but it does not cost as much as the three articles would cost separately.

There is quite a collection of protectors to put under the hot dish on a polished table. There are very attractive tiles, plain and in insets. There are several new styles in the straw mats, a number of patterns in the bead mats, some in entirely new colorings, and the very pretty cork mats, painted and unpainted. The linen with asbestos slip-ins are also good, but not quite new.

Roll baskets that are nice for the porch table come in several new weaves, round and oblong. Then there are the metal baskets, some with glass and some with tile bottoms and with handles, that are new and pretty. Some of the straw baskets are dyed to match the china and are painted with flower motifs. The straw trays are then painted to match the baskets so that the colorings are harmonious. This adds much to the outdoor table in appearance.

Whale meat is regarded in South African native settlements as a great delicacy, and in British Columbia it is canned in large quantities for export.

"Yes - Rinso washes cottons so beautifully"

"See how spotlessly clean it made this dress! No rubbing or boiling either—just soaking in Rinso. Washday holds no more terrors for me!"

Soaking clothes in Rinso takes the place of the hard rubbing that used to wear you out. The Rinso suds are so rich in cleansing power that they loosen even ground-in dirt. Play clothes, collar bands and cuff edges now come clean with a sprinkle of dry Rinso and only a light rubbing between your fingers—after their Rinso bath.

Be sure to use enough Rinso to get lasting suds after the clothes have been put in. Then, thorough soaking in Rinso floats the dirt out.

PONIES AND PETES BATTLE TO SENSATIONAL TEN INNINGS TIE IN CENTRAL ONTARIO PLAY-OFF

Johnstonites, With Heckman on the Mound, Gives Kingston Crowd a Bad Scare.

LEAD UNTIL NINTH.

Then Batstone's Long Triple Drives Home a Run to Save the Day for the Ponies.

(By F. D. C.)

A terrific triple by Harry Batstone in the ninth inning of yesterday's Central Ontario play-off game at Kingston averted defeat for the Ponies, driving the tieing run in and the fixture was called on account of darkness at the end of the tenth with the score standing four runs each.

The Petes had taken a one-run lead in the seventh and looked good to hold it, until Batstone cut loose his long hit which tied the game and would have won it had not Manager Joe Daley taken a chance and waved him into the plate only to have a relay beat the Pony third baseman to the counting station.

The Petes made a fighting effort to win the verdict and tie up the series, and the game was every bit as exciting as Saturday's fixture at Peterboro. Both crews did some great fielding, there was enough hitting to enthuse those who like to see the boys sock the Spalding; plenty of people on the bases, and a close hard contest all the way, with Batstone's long hit coming to save the game for Kingston when the visitors looked to have it won.

Heck Was There.

Al. Heckman was the Peterboro gunner, and the veteran of the Petes' staff, showing his old time speed, gave the Pony batters plenty to think over. He kept their hits well scattered, retired eight of the Kingston crew via the strike out route, including Batstone three times in succession and blanking the enemy from the third innings, looked to have the verdict salted away until a fumble followed by Batstone's triple snatched victory from him. It was a fine performance by Heckman in the face of a razzing crowd.

Kingston sent Cairns right back at the Petes, and the southpaw was not hit nearly as effective as on Saturday, allowing ten hits including a triple and four doubles, walking four and hitting one. Sensational support, especially by Somerville saved him several times.

The all-round playing of Somerville was a feature. In the field the Kingston second sacker handled seven chances in great style, cutting the Petes out of several hits, while he hammered out four hits in five trips to the plate. For the Petes, Jimmy Hall had the feature play when he tore over on the run and snared Cherrys hard drive to left which started like a home run. It was a sensational grab and the young left fielder got the biggest hand of the day. Holyman played fine ball at short, with only one skip in ten chances. Rose, Heckman, Wolfe and Ash did the Petes hitting. Rose having a triple and two singles. Wolfe two doubles, and Ash a double and a single.

The game will be replayed at Kingston on Saturday afternoon, and the Petes are determined to come through with a win and tie up the series.

Scored in the First

The Petes got one in the first. Rose walked and Ash singled through short. Swanston after trying to sacrifice slashed a grounder at Halbert who stepped on second to retire Ash and then doubled Swanston at first. Heckman hit to right for two bases, scoring Rose. Harrison walked but Hall hit to Somerville who agged Harrison on the line.

Heckman fanned Teepel, got Halbert on an easy fly to Holyman and then stuck out Batstone.

In the second Wolfe rolled to Halbert, Helson lifted one to the same player and Holyman was called out on strikes.

The Ponies evened up in their half, Somerville doubled to left. Holyman knocked down Cherry's hard roller and tossed him out at first, a fast play. Purvis singled to centre to score Somerville. Scott popped to Helson. Purvis stole second. Arneil fanned.

Rose opened the third with a single to center and Ash was safe on Cairns' fumble. Swanston bunted in front of the plate and Rose was thrown out at third. Cherry made a fine catch of Heckman's terrific drive to centre. Harrison walked, filling the bases. Hall flied to Teepel.

The Ponies took the lead by scoring two markers. Cairns singled to right and was sacrificed to second by Teepel. Halbert was hit. Batstone struck out. The runners moved up on a passed ball and both scored on Somerville's single to centre. Cherry was thrown out by Holyman.

Even Up Again

The invaders sewed it up again in the fourth. Wolfe doubled to left and Helson drew a pass. Holyman planted a fly to Cairns. Somerville put Rose out at a hit and the Petes got out of a run when he made a gloved hand pick up of a hard smash toward right. Ash doubled past Batstone, scoring Wolfe and Helson and taking third on Scott's high fly to right. Swanston flied to Batstone.

In the Ponies end of the frame Purvis scratched a hit down the third base line and Scott was hit. Arneil bunted to Heckman who threw Purvis out at third. Cairns grounded to Heckman who threw to third too late to get Scott. Teepel flied to Hall back of short, a nice running catch. Scott remained at third. Halbert lifted a high one to Rose.

Heckman led off the fifth with a single past third. Harrison fanned. Heckman went to second on a wild pitch. Hall rolled to Somerville. Wolfe was hit and stole second. Helson was thrown out by Somerville.

For the Ponies Batstone struck out for the third time in succession Somerville crashed through short for his third hit. Hall made a sensational catch of Cherry's terrific drive to left. Purvis struck out.

Somerville cut Holyman out of a hit in the sixth by a fine running catch of his fly back of second. Rose singled through Halbert. Ash flied to Halbert, a pretty catch back of third. Swanston flied to Scott.

Scott popped to Holyman. Arniel struck out and Helson tossed out Cairns.

Petes Take Lead

The Petes took the lead in the seventh. Heckman singled past third, his third hit. Harrison fanned. Teepel dropped Hall's fly to right but forced Heckman at second. Wolfe drove a long double to left field scoring Hall. Helson flied to Teepel.

In the Ponies' half Teepel rolled to Holyman. Halbert singled past third. Batstone walked. Somerville flied to Hall. Cherry lined to Holyman.

Holyman was thrown out by Cairns in the eighth. Rose polled a long triple to left field. Ash hit to Batstone and Rose was cut down at the plate. Swanston forced Ash, Halbert to Somerville.

For Kingston, Purvis flied to Wolfe. Quinn batted for Scott and singled through short. Arniel struck out. Cairns forced Quinn at second, Holyman making the play unassisted.

Heckman, first up in the ninth, fanned. Harrison rolled to Cairns and Hall struck out.

Batstone's Long Hit.

The home team's half was filled with excitement. Gallagher batted for Teepel and got a life when Holyman fumbled his roller. Halbert flied to Wolfe, Gallagher went to second on a passed ball, and Young was sent in to run for him. Batstone smashed a vicious drive to centre, scoring Young. It was a safe triple, but Manager Joe Daley waved him home and he was cut down at the plate on a nice relay, Wolfe to Holyman to Swanston. It was a good break for the Petes, for Somerville followed with a single to left and Cherry singled off Helson's shins. Purvis lifted one to Holyman to wind up the frame.

Kingston had a chance. Quinn singled past short, but when Arniel bunted, Heckman threw Quinn out at second. Daley batted for Cairns and drew a walk, but Young forced Arniel at third on a grounder to Helson and Halbert flied to Wolfe.

The game was then called.

CHARGE FEE AT GOLF TOURNEYS

British Association Seeks to Keep Gallery Within Bounds.

TOO MANY FANS

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(Associated Press).—The British are about to adopt the American custom of charging admission to watch golf championships. They do not like to have to do it, for it means the passing of another of their traditions. Everyone interested in the game realizes that something must be done to restrict the size of the swarming crowds on the championship courses, crowds which in recent years have increased from a few hundred to upwards of 30,000, of whom a great many in their eagerness to see everything possible forget all about etiquette.

Before the war, when golf was to a great extent limited to the more leisurely and comfortably fixed classes, the championships drew only a few hundred or at most a few thousand spectators. The galleries were easy to handle, especially in England where the classes and the masses are easily disciplined and keeping order is a national trait. But since the war, with American delegations coming over annually to try for both the open and amateur titles, the championships have the flavor of an international fight and people who hardly know the difference between a mashie and a bunker have joined the swelling, scurrying crowds that race along fairways and rough to watch the stars of the game at their labors.

Annually the situation has grown worse. When Hagen made his gallant but losing round on the last afternoon of the Troon championship two years ago, perhaps 12,000 tramped and raced after and in front of him. The next year at Hoylake the gallery that gazed upon the last nine holes of his successful fight to regain the cup was estimated at 18,000. This year, at Prestwick—which both boasts and bemoans the fact that it draws the world's largest golf crowds—there must have been between 20,000 and 30,000 scurrying and scampering about when MacDonald Smith, trying to do a 78 to win the championship, collapsed completely. That night he blamed the crowd for his failure, saying they wouldn't give him room to make a shot.

Under the emotion of his disappointment, Smith did a little plain talking that caused little pleasure, but later on, when both he and those who read his remarks got away from the heat of the battle, the fact began to soak in that something ought to be done to regulate the size of golf galleries on this side of the ocean, as was long ago done in America.

NORMAL LOBSTER PACK

This Year's Total is Expected to be About 140,000 Cases.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press).—The aggregate lobster pack for the Maritime provinces this year is expected to be about 140,000 cases, a normal pack, and larger than last year. Shipments will be made to Great Britain, France, Sweden, the United States, and domestic markets.

BASEBALL TEAM DIDN'T SHOW UP

LADIES BEATEN

BETHANY, Aug. 27.—The Bethany Tigers, junior baseball team, was all ready for a game with a Peterboro junior team on Tuesday afternoon, but the Peterboro team failed to show up. Mr. P. C. Brown, manager of the young Tigers, 'phoned Peterboro and was given to understand that the team had left that city for Bethany, so the Tigers still kept hoping for the game to come off until it got dark, and they come to the conclusion that the Peterboro boys had become lost on the way. Some of the young Tigers said if they had taken a good look they would have seen the mountain peaks around Bethany and would easily have found their way. However, it is expected that the next attempt for a game between these two teams may be more successful. Quite a number of spectators had arrived to witness the game. They likewise were disappointed and are living in hopes of better results in the future.

The Blackstock ladies' softball team motored through the village Tuesday afternoon on their way to meet the Millbrook team. It was reported that the Millbrook ladies were the winners.

DELORO TIE UP COBOURG SERIES

DELORO, Aug. 27. —Before a large crowd of spectators, Deloro defeated Cobourg 10-1 yesterday, making a third game necessary, which will probably be played in Belleville or Peterboro, at the end of this week. Ada pitched for Deloro and the two Campbells for Cobourg.

In the first inning Leal made a sensational catch of G. Campbell's drive to deep centre field, rolling over, but still holding the ball. The first inning Ada got a double and scored on a two-bagger by Schultz. Johnson hit to centre field, but was caught going to second. Boudreau got to third on a misplay by Cobourg, and Schultz scored. Quinn brought in Boudreau. Regan struck out. Brown, with a nice two-bagger, scored Quinn. The side was then retired.

In the first, third and fourth Deloro made double plays, retiring the side. Through good hitting and Cobourg's errors, Deloro climbed up until the score was 10-1 at the end of the sixth.

The only other approach to a score came in the ninth when Maher reached third on a good drive to left.

The umpires were Gerow at the plate and Nurse on the bases. The game lasted two hours. Score by innings:
Cobourg .. .. .. 010 000 000— 1

BAR SUNDAY CRICKET

Parliament of Samoa Passes Law—Violators Protest Fine.

APIA, Samoa, Aug. 27.—(Associated Press).—The House of Falpule (Samoan Parliament) has passed a law prohibiting the playing of cricket on Sunday. The measure was adopted at the request of the New Zealand Administrator, General Sir George S. Richardson.

Recently the Rev. G. S. Shinkfield of the Methodist mission made a complaint against children of the Roman Catholic persuasion, alleging that they were playing cricket on Sunday. The Secretary of Native Affairs, who is clothed with judicial functions and is an ex-member of the London Missionary Society, fined the Catholic Catechist and the school children $30. Bishop Durand of the Catholic mission protested, and the matter is to be carried before the high court of Western Samoa to determine whether the fine was justified.

The incident is causing much excitement.

While the tendency in the address is to have the hands low rather than high, the player must be on watch that he doesn't fall into the error of dropping the hands too far down. The sketch pictures how this can be overdone Reaching too far down with the address causes the arms to straighten out too much while at the same time it pulls the body over into too much stoop. Power is lost when there is too much stoop, however much you may feel, when stooped away over, that you are going to hit harder. The hard hits originate through freedom of bodily action and the stoop, as shown in the sketch, does not encourage freedom.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Manager Johnston's fighting Petes refuse to allow themselves to be counted out of the Central Ontario League race. The Kingston players and fans were all prepared yesterday to bury the Petes for the season and were so sure of turning the trick that they used Cairns, their chief pitching asset. But the Peterboro crew declined to be eliminated and held the Ponies to a 4-4 tie, compelling Cairns to pitch ten long innings for nothing, and Joe Daley's men have now to face another invasion from a team full of fight and confidence.

The game will be re-played on Saturday afternoon. The Petes wanted to remain over in Kingston and decide the issue today, but the Ponies, playing for a rest for Cairns, held out for Monday. Finally Saturday was agreed upon, and the sensational series—by long odds the best in the history of the Central Ontario League, will be continued at the week-end.

Manager Joe Daley is doing the worrying now. He has his choice of shooting Cairns back again for this third game in a week or of gambling on Gallagher or Young. If he uses Cairns and loses, he will be in a sad plight for the play-off game, while by sending Gallagher in on Saturday, he will have his ace rested up for the final dash in the event of a fourth game being necessary. The odds are that he will keep Cairns in the barn and take a chance on one of the others.

The Ponies can thank Somerville, their veteran second baseman, that they are still in the race. His fielding saved Cairns several times here on Saturday, while he started the batting rally that gave the Ponies their two runs. Yesterday he was even more effective; his one-handed stop of Rose's smash in the fourth, cutting off a couple of runs, while his double started the first Kingston tally. And his single, in the third, drove in two runs. Somerville had two more hits afterward. He has been the outstanding Kingston star of the series.

The troubles of a manager are numerous. Joe Daley, the Kingston pilot, was being roundly panned last night during the post mortem for not holding Batstone at third in the ninth. The critics say that with only one out, a run needed to win, and hitters like Somerville and Cherry coming up, he should have played safe. To make it worse for Daley, both Somerville and Cherry followed with hits and "Somer's" of course would have won the game had Batstone not been sent home to sure death at the plate. At that, it took a good throw from Wolfe to Holyman and an equally accurate toss to the plate by the Pete's shortstop to nip the flying Batstone

Hall's catch of Cherry's screaming liner in the fifth was a wonderful piece of fielding. The big outfielder "leaned on" one of Heck's fast ones and drove the ball on a line toward deep left field. Hall had to run over toward the foul line and take the ball on the run with his arms stretched out to their limit, but he held on the flying pellet.

Al. Heckmans work surprised the Kingston crew. Remembering the final game last year, they greeted the announcement of the batteries with whoops of joy—but they found the Pete's veteran a different proposition last night. Showing a world of speed that had Swanston's hand badly swollen before the game was over, "Heck" pitched with effect and courage and the flock of Kingston runs the Ponies were counting on quite failed to materialize.

The most exciting moment of the series was that immediately following Batstone's drive in the ninth. The third baseman hit the ball on a line to right centre, the ball being driven too hard to give Wolfe a chance to get in front of it. Young, ofcourse, scored from second with the tieing run, and as the ball rolled far away with Wolfe in desperate pursuit, the clout looked like a sure home run. The Kingston crowd were roaring maniacs as Batstone flew around the bases, while to the Petes it appeared as it Wolfe was never going to get hold of the ball. At third Manager Joe Daley was wildly waving Batstone home. Then Wolfe straightened up, shot the pill to Holyman who had run out for the relay, and the shortstop, keeping his head in the excitement, made a careful throw to Swanston, who put the ball on Batstone and threw him away from the plate, while Umpire Colling waved the runner out. It was a play that fans who saw it will be talking about for years.

Joe Daley used his whole squad during the game, while the Petes started and finished with the same nine men. All three of Daley's pinch hitters reached first base.

Batstone struck out the first three times up, the third strike in each case being called.

Quite a bunch of Peterboro fans motored to Kingston for the game and, assisted by a Belleville delegation, gave the Petes plenty of encouragement.—F.D.C.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Leaping from a motor car driven by her husband on Adelaide Street North to-day, Mrs. John Elliott, of Ilderton, died within a few minutes from injuries received in alighting on her head. The couple were coming to London market and the car was travelling at about fifteen miles an hour. The couple had been married only about a year. An inquest will not be held.

C.W.L. MEETING AT HASTINGS

MANY CLERGY THERE.

The fifth annual convention of the Catholic Women's League, Peterborough Diocese, was held in Hastings Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 26, with Mrs. J. J. Walsh, of Hastings in the chair. A splendid number was in attendance, Rev. Father Costello representing His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who was unavoidably absent, with Rev. Father Bretherton, who for over 20 years has been parish priest in Hastings, Father Ferguson, of Warkworth and other clergymen, occupied the stage, with Mrs. D. C. McCann, of London, National President of the C. W. L., Mr. J. J. Walsh, Diocese President, and Mrs. Howard, President Hastings Subdivision.

The stage was beautifully decorated with flags and a profusion of flowers and the well-arranged programme was in keeping with the occasion. Father Bretherton in a few words welcomed the ladies.

Father Costello, delivering His Lordship's message that the League is needed now more than ever, urged the ladies to carry on and assured them of the hearty co-operation of the clergy. "The spirit of missionary work," as Father Ferguson explained it, awoke a desire in many a heart present to become a "Sister of Service."

Greetings from the Hastings Chapter, I.O.D.E., were gracefully extended and as graciously responded to. These were much appreciated.

Mrs. J. J. Walsh, Diocesan President, in a few words, welcomed the guests, and thanked her coworkers for the encouragement and support she had received during her terms of office. Mrs. Walsh also addressed the meeting further on in the programme.

Mrs. D. C. McCann, national president, in a clear and forceful address, outlined the work of the League, urging the ladies to continue their good work. She thought that organization had been the most important work so far, and stressed the necessity of conducting all meetings in a business-like manner, as lack of business methods caused trouble. Social service work and child welfare, said the speaker, should be re-construction work, and should begin at home. It opened a wide field of labor for the C.W.L., which stands for service. "It is what we do, not what we get," said Mrs. McCann, "that counts, and to win out, all pettishness must be cast aside and all work in unison."

Mrs. McCann was presented with a beautiful pair of silver candlesticks by the ladies of the Hastings sub-division, and Mrs. J. J. Welsh received a bouquet of flowers, both of which were gratefully acknowledged.

Mrs. C. J. Snider, president of Peterboro sub-division, and Mrs. J. E. Hartnett, diocese secretary, were both unavoidably absent.

The reports of the various subdivisions were most encouraging.

Those elected for the incoming year are:

Dioc. Pres.: Mrs. J. Lalonde, Cobourg.

2nd Vice-Pres.: Mrs. J. McFadden, Peterborough.

3rd Vice-Pres.: Mrs. John McGuire, Doweyville.

Cor.-Sec.: Miss Francis Quinlan, Cobourg.

Rec.-Sec.: Mrs. Wm. Young, Ennismore.

Dioc. Treas.: Miss Doherty, Hastings.

After the business session a sumptuous banquet was served in the league rooms. Every detail was perfect. As a fitting close to the convention the ladies of the Hastings sub-division presented His Lordship through Father Costello a goodly sized cheque as a token of their deep regard and wishing him God-speed and a safe return from his journey to Rome, which takes place in the near future.

Heavy Sales Forced Everett Down On Quiet Market

TORONTO, Aug. 27—Trading on the standard mining exchange was quiet this morning, transactions totalling 138,560 shares. Everett, under heavy sales, declined a quarter to 7¾ and Cons. W. D. Lake also declined a quarter to 13½. Dome Mines was weak at 14.17, eight cents below yesterday's figure. Hattie preferred was a half point lower at 5 1-4 while McIntyre advanced five cents to 1925. Premier and Vipond each advanced one point to 226 and 120 respectively. Castle Trethewey was one point up at 103 w hile Crown Reserve made an advance of 2½ points to 18½. Mining Corporation advanced three points to 268 and Keeley one point to 180.

Many Drops Despite Most Active Trading During Week

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press)—Led by Brazilian, the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning was most active of the week, but not a few recessions took place, despite Brazilian's attainment of new high peak price at 68⅝. Brazilian opened at yesterday's close of 67 and was steadily marked up to 68 5-8 by noon. Two others showed good gains, British Columbia Fishing 1 3-4 at 47 1-2 and Dominion Canners 1 3-4 at 121. Canada Bread common eased 1 1-2 at 57 1-2 and Canada Steamships preferred lost 1 1-2 of its gain of yesterday at 48 1-2. Consolidated Smelters eased off a quarter point at 119 1-4.

Aggressive Selling After Renewal Rate Is Posted

NEW YORK, August 27. — Canadian Press. — The posting of a 4½ per cent. renewal rate for call money was followed by aggressive selling of high priced industrials in the Wall street market, several of which again sagged below yesterday's final quotatoss. Mack trucks dropped six points from its high figure. Chrysler, General Electric and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe common fell back 5 to 5½ points. Sears, Roebuck 4 and American can 3 with the rest yielding in sympathy. ' General Railway Signal bounded up asother 10 points to 359½, a reco ' high, and then slipped back to 345. This stock sold as low as 144 a few months ago. S. S. Kresge, the highest priced issue on the board, jumped over 10 points to a record to; at 560 1-4. The appearance of supporting orders just before midday stimulated short covering bringing about a partial recovery. Mack Trucks and Chrysler rallied three lows.

Wheat Thrown On Market Was Absorbed Without Fall

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Local operators threw a considerable amount of September wheat on the market shortly after the opening of the Board of Trade to-day, and this grain sagged more than one cent below the first figures. These offerings, however, were soon absorbed and the market rebounded. After starting unchanged to one cent higher than Wednesday's close, with September 156¼ to 156 3-4, and December 156 to 156¼, the early delivery dropped to 155¾, but before the first hour had passed it rallied to 157½, and then settled to about the opening figures. There was a complete absence of news that would influence the market. Heavy offerings in September corn were noted right after the start, and these also were credited to local interests.

As in wheat, the market absorbed this corn and rallied well in the absence of any report that had an influencing tendency. Corn opened 1-8 cent down to 3-4 cent up, with September 94 to 94¼, dropped early to 93 1-8 for September, but this delivery rebounded to 94⅜ and then steadied at about the opening figures.

Oats showed some strength in sympathy with other grains, and opened 1-8 to 7-8 up, with September at 37 3-4 to 37 7-8.

Provisions were lower.

SCOTCH NIGHT AT ROYAL.

Last week it was Irish; this week it's Scotch novelty night to-night at the Royal. Special slides have been prepared for community singing, and most of the old favorites will be heard. The local talent will all present something Scotch: songs, dances, jokes, music. To-night promises to be one of the best of the series of Royal novelty nights.

HOXIE LEADS UNIVERSAL RANCH RIDERS IN HIS NEWEST WESTERN.

Supported by the Universal Ranch Riders, a score of neck-or-nothing daredevils, in a great rodeo and steeple chase followed by a bandit chase over Sierra trails and a breathless rescue on the brink of a roaring precipice, Jack Hoxie stages one of the most exciting series of adventures in his career in "Daring Chances," his new Universal feature showing these days at the Royal Theatre.

The play starts with an accident—leads up to a rodeo and a race—then switches from a sporting event to a grim chase in reality as the gala day is punctuated with a holdup and a kidnapping, and other thrilling elements which make it an interesting drama.

The picture is staged in a spectacular manner; a great rodeo—crowds in the grandstand—then the giant peaks of the Sierras and the narrow trails where the Ranch Riders, Hoxie on his beautiful horse Scout, at their head, race at breakneck speed over paths where the slip of a hoof means certain death.

Hoxie saves a man's life by a sensational leap over his fallen body in the sensational race that starts the exciting sequence leading up to the climax, where he saves a little girl, borne in the arms of a madman on horseback, at the very brink of a yawning chasm.

Alta Allen plays the leading feminine role, and Claude Payton, the suave villain of "The Riddle Rider." Doreen Turner, who played with Mary Philbin in "Rose of Paris," Jack Pratt, Catherine Wallace and other standard players are seen with Hoxie in the new picture. Clifford Smith, who directed William Hart in "Wild Bill Hickok," and others of the Hart successes, directed the new Hoxie feature.

AT THE CAPITOL

"NIGHT LIFE OF NEW YORK" "FILMED ON THE SPOT"

The Paramount picture, "Night Life of New York" which is scheduled for showing at the Capitol Theatre today centres around Ronald Bentley (Rod Le Rocque), a wild young fellow from a town in the middle west. Ronald's father was jilted by a girl named Sally in New York many years previous and also failed to make good in New York in a business way.

Disgusted with New York, he went west and made a fortune. He is off New York for life, however, and has always forbidden his son ever to go there. Young Bentley, therefore, is crazy for a taste of the "big town," but for the present at least, he has to be content with Clay City.

"If I can't go to New York, at least I can try to make this burg feel a little bit like it," Ronald tells his father. 'Anyway, Dad," he continues, "it's not New York you're sore at—it's that dumb dame that turned you down and married some other guy."

Bentley dismisses his son with disgust and goes over to his desk and gets a picture of a beautiful girl of the early nineties which is autographed "Yours always—Sally." He also gets a time stained letter which tells him Sally Wiggins is breaking off their engagement to marry William Workman.

As he puts his treasures away Bentley receives a telegram from Workman announcing he will be in Clay City that afternoon. Bentley made Workman his New York manager when after he, Workman, failed in business.

In the hours before Workman's arrival Ronald tunes up his speedster, and accompanied by Carrie Reed, the stage beauty, develops a speed contest between a motorcycle policeman and himself. He would have won the race but for a passing freight train which caused him to come to a sudden halt. He and the actress are taken to jail and Bentley is notified.

While on the way to the police station Bentley and Workman, who accompanies his boss, decide that Ronald should be given an experience in New York that would cure him and bring him back home sadder but wiser.

Bentley gets his son out of jail by paying a large fine. While writing the check Bentley pens another for Carrie Reed who has accepted Workman's proposition to frame Ronald as a possible cure for his wildness.

"Night Life of New York' was filmed "on the spot and, as a result, is the first picturization of New York life as New Yorkers really live it.

AT THE REGENT

COMEDY DIRECTOR IS CREATOR OF LAUGHS.

Director of "Battling Orioles" Is Famous Movie "Gag" Man.

Ted Wilde, who with Fred Guiol, directed "The Battling Orioles," Hal Roach's feature Pathecomedy which is playing at the Regent Theatre, had a hand in making many of Harold Lloyd's best pictures. He came to the Roach studios several years ago as a 'gag' man, or a story advisor, who works with the director in devising clever bits of business, laughable situations and humorous complications that embellish the comedy plot. Wilde was one of the co-authors of "Girl Shy," Lloyd's recent success.

In "The Battling Orioles," which is a novelty-comedy that has to do with the rejuvenation of a team of old ball players who after fifty years of luxurious tranquility come from retirement and redeem their one time glory as fighting fools, Wilde has a wealth of comedy material with which to embellish the story. One of the most amusing scenes in the picture is reputed to be the result of a lengthy search through countless old family albums.

The picture opens with an episode of fifty years ago showing "The Battling Orioles" in one of their sandlot games. Whiskers were, in that early period of American history, an essential to sartorial perfection, hence the research via the tintype and the old family group for the proper thing in lady killers, sideburns, moustachios and other assorted varieties of the hirsute appendage.

The big fight scene which climaxes the picture and is said to be one of the funniest scenes ever screened was also rich in comedy possibilities. Ingenious ideas had to be devised whereby the old warriors could overcome their antagonists and the result is said to be both thrilling and laughable. A romantic theme runs through the story which concerns a youth and his sweetheart who find themselves in a mixup that looks pretty depressing until the old Orioles come to their rescue.

Glenn Tryon and Blanche Mehaffey, two new Hal Roach funmakers, are featured in the leading roles. Tryon is well-known as a comedian on the stage but this is his first picture. Miss Mehaffey was a Follies Beauty before joining the Roach forces.

REFUSES HIS OPINION.

The members of the committee were accompanied by Rev. Ben Spence and J. Bailey of the Dominion Temperance Alliance.

"You would then favor our constitutional requirements that provides for a two-thirds' vote in favor in the Congress?" asked Congressman Hudson.

"I think there should be a substantial majority," replied the Premier.

"I would like to see you cut loose and express your own opinion about the situation at the border," suggested Mr. Spence.

"If I did," replied the Premier, "it would be subject to your own interpretation as usual."

Adverse Trial of 4.4

In outlining the history of the new beer, Premier Ferguson said: "Unfortunately at the time the matter was coming up in the legislature, there was a prohibition convention in Toronto. The whole question became a matter for agitation. Inflammatory speeches were made and the public mind inflamed. The people on the other side of the question also made it a matter of agitation.

"It was under such conditions that the new beverage had to be tried out. The man who had to sell it said it is no good, it isn't strong enough, and Mr. Spence's friends said it was ruinous, and there you are.

"Which of the stones hurt the most?" asked Ben. Spence.

"I don't know about that, but I know which had the least influence," the Premier replied, and the whole delegation laughed.

It All Depends.

Dr. Wheeler pointed out that in the United States convictions for drunkenness had been made on 2 per cent. alcoholic strength by weight.

"Well," said the Premier, "It is hard to say. I suppose some people would get sick on coffee."

'Has it produced revenue for the Province?" asked Mr. Hudson.

'Not as much as we anticipated," replied the Premier.

Premier Ferguson was asked by Dr. Wheeler about the permits for home brew and the Premier told him that it was a Federal Government matter. He outlined the powers of the province and that the province could not stop the manufacture of, but could prevent the sale of, liquors in the Province.

"We have been told in several places that the home brew permits have increased three hundred per cent. since the amendments to the O.T.A. were passed," said Mr. Wheeler.

"I cannot say anything about that," replied the Premier.

"Suppose your enforcement officers found persons intoxicated leaving a certain place, what would happen?" asked Mr. Hudson.

"The vendor would be responsible. The onus is on the person who sells the beverage. If it is only one per cent. alcoholic content and the person taking it is intoxicated, the onus is on the vendor.

Premier Smiles.

Premier Ferguson asked the deputation whether they had any information as a result of their investigation to show that any person could get intoxicated on 4.4 alcoholic strength.

Both Dr. Wheeler and G. W. Hudson stated that they had heard of cases, but stated that it was unlikely it could be proved. Premier Ferguson smiled broadly at the delegation when this answer was given.

"What we have been told in some places," said Mr. Hudson, "is not that the 4.4 is intoxicating, but that it induces appetite for stronger drink in the home."

After a forty minute conference, during which there were some very interesting although always very courteous exchanges, Premier Ferguson stated, 'I think they are gathering information for the purpose of strengthening their agitation against any intereference with the eighteenth amendment in the United States."

LINDSAY GOLFERS PLAY HERE TO-DAY

FACTS ABOUT OPTOMETRY

The Problem Of Eye Health

Is a very important one. It applies to all classes of people of all ages and both sexes. It is known that most eyes are far from normal, so that this subject should have a direct appeal to thousands who never give it a thought. By rights EVERYONE should have his eyes examined, so that if a defect is present it can be given necessary attention. Always at your service.

TRIAL NEXT MONTH.

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—At the conclusion of the argument to-day to continue an injunction restraining the Continuing Presbyterian Church from interfering with the services and property of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh Township, Mr. Justice Hodgins gave judgment permitting the session to add the trustees and others as parties plaintiff on the terms that they pay all the costs of the defendants to date in any event of the action and that they permit representatives of the Continuing Presbyterian Church to occupy the pulpit of the church every alternate Sunday, commencing September 6, until the determination of the action which is to go to trial at Kingston on September 17.

PROMOTE INTEREST IN CASTING VOTES

Few Brazilians Visit Polls, Charges Newly Formed Association.

RIO DE JANIERO, Aug. 27 (Associated Press)—The Commercial Association of Rio de Janeiro, an organization similar to Chambers of Commerce in the United States, is expanding a drive to increase voting in Brazil. An example of the lack of interest in voting, the association cites, is the federal district in which Rio de Janeiro is situated. It contains about 350,000 men 21 years and older, yet the number properly registered for voting does not exceed 100,000.

The number of recognized votes cast at the last presidential election in the federal district for both candidates was 13,197.

REMAND COUPLE TILL NEXT WEEK

Mrs. Janisse Swoons As She Is Led From Windsor Court Room.

CARRIED OUT.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Remanded until next week on a charge of murdering Clayton McMullin, a young battery service station proprietor, Mrs. Ruth A. Janisse, 25 years old, of Lasalle, swooned and then fell as she was being taken from the court-room this morning.

A look back at her husband who was in the dock, a sob and a sigh and the alleged murderess collapsed on the floor of the corridor leading from the court-room to the women's detention cell block.

Miss Edythe Shuttleworth, acting matron, and Sergt. Willis Brumpton had to carry the sobbing woman down the stairway leading to the women's quarters.

A moment after Mrs. Janisse was carried from the court-room, her husband, Arthur Janisse, who also is accused of murder, was again arraigned. The court ordered a remand until next Wednesday, when the Crown may be ready to proceed with the preliminary examination.

FRENCH TROOPS ARE DRIVEN BACK

Evacuate Several Towns When Pressed By Rebel Druses.

CITIES TAKEN.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—The Jerusalem correspondent of Reuters reports that the French troops have been forced to evacuate several towns and to withdraw their lines before the revolting Druse tribesmen in Syria.

The French are said to have evacuated Khirbet-el-Ghazli, with losses, and the latter town was occupied by the enemy.

French local gendarmerie are reported to have left Ghotta, two mile south of Damascus, and retired to Damascus.

BOY SCOUT HELPS AT A CITY BLAZE

Spontaneous combustion originating in a pile of rags used in polishing stoves and kept in an outhouse, ignited a $500 blaze at 574 Aylmer Street yesterday. The fire spread to a shed on 576 Aylmer street and a shower of sparks set in flames a roof on 570 Aylmer street. The Fire Department succeeded in quenching the flames before any of the dwelling houses were affected.

Chief Gimblett has a word of hearty commendation for a Boy Scout who was on a visit from one of the camps to the city. This lad whose name unfortunately is not known did honor to himself and the Scouts organization by his ready assistance in the work of putting out the fire.

PORTUGAL WILL DEFEND HONOR

Fears League Report on Slavery May Cost Her Colonies.

GREAT RESENTMENT.

GENEVA, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Revelations made by the League of Nations Slavery Commission, together with the reports of Prof. Edward A. Ross, of the University of Wisconsin concerning the conditions in Portuguese East Africa, have aroused intense resentment in Portugal, and Lisbon is despatching to the League Assembly a formidable delegation charged with vindicating the national honor. It is understood that Portugal, which has the fourth largest colonial empire in the world, fears an attempt is being made to discredit her colonial administration for the purpose of placing her African colonies under the League mandate, eventually bestowing them upon Germany in compliance with her demands for colonies if she is to enter the League.

TWO CLASSES MUST NOT INCREASE KIND

Idiots and Socially Affected Should Not Propagate Species, Say Lawyers.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The report of the committee on the administration of criminal justice, read by Judge Coatsworth at to-day's session of the Canadian Bar Association convention, puts forward the conclusion that "there are two classes which must never be permitted to propagate their species. These are those who are incurably affected by communicable social disease and, second, idiots and imbeciles."

Discussing the report, J. Edmund Jones, of Toronto, objected to picking out the young motor car thief for corporal punishment, as was recommended, leaving other offenders unpunished.

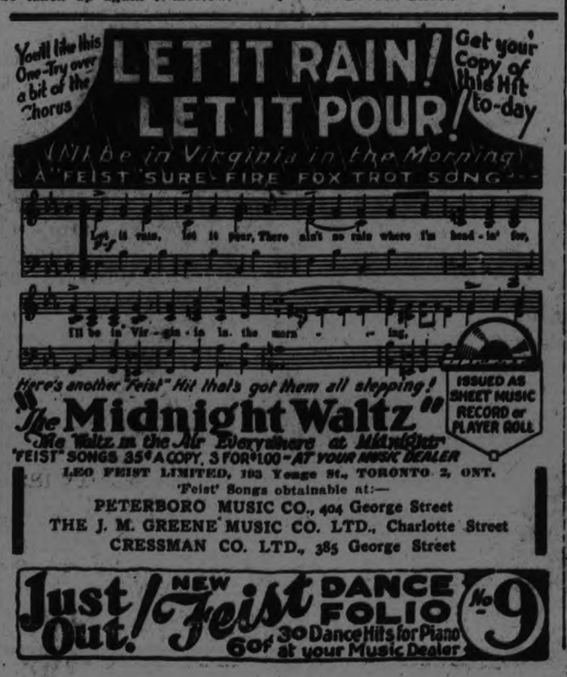
TO TEST SANITY OF SPIRITUALIST

Medium Arrested on Fraud Charge Was Remanded.

EXAMINED TO-DAY.

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—A remand in custody for an examination as to his sanity was made by Magistrate Brown to-day when A. M. Heldreth, of Hamilton, appeared in Police Court to-day, charged with fraud in connection with a spiritualistic seance which he conducted. Adjournment until Monday next was first proposed, despite the protest of his counsel that no charge of insanity had been made. Heldreth was arrested while conducting a seance in this city on Wednesday last.

Magistrate Brown finally agreed that if the examination could be made to-day Heldreth's case might be taken up again to-morrow.



LOCAL REQUEST BROUGHT TRIAL ELECTRIC CARS

G. N. Gordon Advocated Use of Such Appliances on Lakefield Line.

EXPECTS CHANGE.

Federal Member Anticipates Move in View of Improvement Made.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., told The Examiner to-day that the experiment with gasoline-electric cars was one that he had advocated for some years on the Lakefield and Port Hope runs

According to the Federal member, Sir Henry Thornton had an investigation made twice as to the possibility of a profitable change by using gasoline-electric cars instead of steam, but it was found that freight was carried to such an extent that steam power was necessary.

Mr. Gordon said that he thought, with the greater power developed in the present improved engine, the Canadian National Railway would improve the local railway branches in this district.

IN POLICE COURT.

A 21-year-old lad pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning on a charge of indecent assault and was given suspended sentence on payment of costs.

His Worship, in announcing his decision, laid emphasis on the fact that the approving grin of sensual-minded youths was a poor recompense for a blasted reputation and soiled morals. The man who went wrong sexually seldom succeeded financially, socially or otherwise. In spite of what was said to the contrary, the man who lived pure and was hard working and ambitious was still fairly certain to succeed in Canada. He urged the young man to live cleanly and devote his energies to bettering his position in life. His Worship pointed out to the young man that he owed the chance he was getting to his parents' respectability, to his own previous good record, as well as to the fact that his offence was not so serious as similar cases often were. Any further example of unbecoming conduct, either morally or otherwise, would result in his being brought into court again and receiving punishment for the offence which had got him into his present unenviable position.

DEBT FUNDING MEETS FAVOR

First Reaction in Paris Favorable—Relief as There is "No Surrender."

NO STATEMENT YET.

PARIS, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press) —The first official reaction to the tentative debt funding agreement reached by Finance Minister Caillaux with the British Chancellor of the Exchequor is favorable, although no official communication on the subject will be forthcoming until after M. Caillaux's return from London this evening. A general note of relief that there has been no "French Surrender" is expressed in both official and newspaper circles.

SHORT SESSION OF CABINET COUNCIL

Final Sanction Given Royal-Union Bank Merger—Premier Absent.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27. — (Canadian Press).—The Cabinet Council adjourned to-day after a brief meeting when routine business was disposed of. It is understood that the final Government's sanction to the completion of the merger between the Union Bank of Canada and the Royal Bank was given.

The application of the Seaman-Backus interests for a pulp concession in Northern Manitoba was not, it was stated, discussed.

Premier King did not attend.

W.M.S. MAGAZINE.

New Issue Entitled "Glad Tidings" Off Presbyterian Press.

"Glad Tidings" is the name of a little magazine of which the first issue has just appeared. It is published by the "Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, W. D." of Toronto, and the type and general make-up are excellent throughout.

Regarding the size, the editor Miss Mamie C. G. Fraser remarks: "The feeling was that it were wiser to sow a seed and watch it grow, than to plant a sapling and see it wither." Among the illustrations is an attractive picture of the new Presbyterian W.M.S. School Home at New Liskeard, Ont.

The magazine is drawn to the attention of The Examiner by Mrs. E. E. Cox, 183 Lock street, who is Press Secretary of the W.M.S. of Peterborough Presbyterial.

GERMANY MUST SHARE COLONIES

Security Pact Cannot Be Realized Otherwise—Give Up Cologne.

COMMUNIQUE ISSUED.

BERLIN, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—The German Government, in an official communique issued after the receipt of the French note on the security question, points to its repeated assertions that the realization of the security past is impossible as long as the question of Germany sharing in colonial mandates is unsettled.

It also remarks that the security negotiations thus far have taken place under the banner of conciliation and that further occupation by the Allies of the Cologne zone, "which is unlawfully occupied," is not in harmony with that spirit. Germany has done everything to fulfill the Allies' disarmament conditions, the communique declares, and never in history has the disarmament of a nation been carried out so thoroughly.

BROKEN THREAD OF THEIR LIVES KNOTTED AGAIN AFTER DIVORCE AND LONG YEARS OF SEPARATION

Benjamin Fowler and His Young Bride "Just Couldn't Agree" When First Wed.

ARE UNITED AGAIN

Husband Obtained Divorce in United States and Lived There Until Recently.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

ORLAND, Aug. 28.—When Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Fowler were married in Brighton by Rev. Andrew A. Smith, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist church in that village, in the year 1869, the groom was 23 and the bride three years his junior. They were separated 12 years later, divorced about 10 years afterwards, and after a separation that lasted until June of this year, they were remarried on August 17th at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George Mutton, who resides near the Shiloh church, in Cramahe township, by Rev. W. H. Clarke, the new pastor of the Hilton cricuit. At the first wedding the two attendants were youthful friends of the bride and groom, while the witnesses of the second ceremony were George E. Mutton, their son-in-law, and Roy Nelson Packard, the husband of their grand-daughter. Standing under a tree in the yard of the Mutton home, the aged couple, the husband, 79 and the bride 76 years old, clasped hands, and in the presence of their friends, vowed that they would be faithful to each other until separated by death. The bride and groom are spending their honeymoon at the home of their daughter, which home will continue to shelter them for the remainder of their existence. It was largely through the offices of their son-in-law, Mr. Mutton, that they were reunited.

"Betsy and I Are Out."

After the first marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Fowler, they took up their residence on a rented farm in Murray township, near the home of the groom, whose parents lived in the Township of Brighton. They had the usual ups and downs of a young couple with limited resources just starting their married life. The cause of their separation seems to have been really nothing serious, simply another case of "Betty and I are out." "She had no man, he had no other woman," both were set in their opinions, and after 12 years of living together they apparently were unable to agree on any important point with one exception, and that was that they had never been intended for each other. Anyway, the husband left home and found a haven in the United States, leaving the wife to care for their daughter, now Mrs. Mutton, who at the time of his departure was only two years old.

A Question of Religion.

When a reporter of The Examiner called at the Mutton home to meet the bride and groom, he found Mrs. Fowler more disposed to talk of the separation and subsequent re-union than was the groom. From her childhood Mrs. Fowler had been intensely religious. Her husband was free from flagrant

Heat Wave Of Nearly 100 Degrees Moving From West

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28. — Canadian Press. — Reports received here yesterday indicate that a heat wave of some pretensions has swept over Saskatchewan during the past 24 hours. A temperature of 99 degrees is reported from Moose Jaw. The mercury registered 95 at Regina, 93 at Assiniboia, and 91 at Elbow. Cloudy conditions are also existent and thunderstorms are in prospect, according to the official weather predictions.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan have mostly fair and warm weather, with showers to-day. While in Alberta fair and cooler conditions are to prevail.

MILEAGE DECREASED FOR COUNTY ROADS

A total of 87.5 miles has been taken off the Peterborough County road system and handed back to local township administration. This will mean that the principal arteries will receive the benefit of a larger appropriation per mile whereas the money was previously scattered a large area. The county still has 164.5 miles and County treasurer Elliott believes it is still too much.

Fifty per cent of the annual appropriation will now come from the government while the county will provide the remainder.

SID WHATLEY MADE RETURNING OFFICER

Will Turn Over Compensation to G.W.V.A. Funds, Says Report.

Captain Sidney Whatley, secretary of the G.W.V.A., has been appointed by Order-in-Council, returning officer for West Peterboro.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Peterboro's Federal member, said that such a report was true, and that he had made the recommendation because of Captain Whatley's official position and also because he could be counted on to perform his duties impartially. It is understood that Captain Whatley intends to turn over his compensation as returning officer to the G.W.V.A. treasury, as he is an official of that organization and does not feel like accepting remuneration for services which might take him away from his official duties for even a brief period.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate easterly and southeasterly winds; fine to-day and Saturday, with a little higher temperature.

CANAL CLAIMS RUNAWAY HORSE WHEN OWNER LEAPS TO SAFETY

Campbellford Man Collecting Ashes, Has Narrow Escape From Death.

ANIMAL COST $90.

Twenty-five Men Needed to Recover Wagon and Carcase.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28. — William Parcels drove his horse attached to a one-horse wagon down the alley south of the Greek restaurant on Front Street yesterday afternoon when the animal bolted and plunged into the Canal, which is about 10 feet deep at that point. The horse was drowned, but Mr. Parcels saved himself by jumping from the wagon before it followed the horse into the water. The weight of the vehicle held the horse down below the surface, and it was impossible to save it.

Mr. Parcels, whose mission was to collect the ashes and garbage in the rear of the restaurant, says a dog carrying in its mouth a piece of liver wrapped in a newspaper, came out of the restaurant, and that this frightened the horse which made a bolt and went over the wall. A gang of about 25 volunteers secured ropes and dragged the wagon and the cascass of the horse onto the bank. Mr. Parcels only seven weeks ago paid $90 for the animal, the horse which he formerly owned having fallen and broken its leg.

Before the dead animal could be removed Mr. Parcels had to receive from Mayor Meyers an order for its burial in the town dump and another order had to be obtained from Chief of Police Brown.

Reporters Await Caillaux Frighten King of Belgium

PARIS, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press). — When King Albert of Belgium, accompanied by Queen Elizabeth, arrived from Brussels at the North Station here last evening, en route to Marseilles and India, he was aghast to find a gathering of more than 100 newspapermen at the station. They were there to greet Joseph Caillaux, Finance Minister, returning from England, whose train from Calais pulled into the station a few minutes after that of the Belgian rulers, but King Albert was unaware of this. The King's well-known timidity suffered and blushes showed his confusion.

CHILDREN DIED IN BURNING HOME

Asphyxiation Caused Death of Two—Others Are in Serious Condition.

EARLY TO-DAY.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Two children, Harry, aged 7, and Julia, aged 5, were asphyxiated when the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Kolylick, 1010 Burrows avenue, was completely destroyed by fire, which started shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. The mother is in a serious condition from shock and suffocation and is resting at the residence of a neighbor, and a niece, Phyllis Stadnyk, aged 14, is in the General Hospital, suffering from cuts and wounds, received apparently when she tried to escape from the burning house through a window.

Hardy Norsemen Follow Viking's Path In Yawl

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press). — In an effort to prove that the Viking path across the North Atlantic could be followed successfully in a small boat, three Norwegians arrived at quarantine yesterday in a 46-foot yawl, eighty days out of Bergen. The trip was made, the hardy navigators told marine officials, to prove that the course of the old Vikings in their cruises to America could be duplicated under modern conditions in a ship approximately the same size as that used by Leif Erickson. One expedition led by William Nutting, American marine writer and author, which set out from Europe in 1924 on a similar venture has never been heard from.

Banqueters in New Zealand Hear Speech By Canadian Press Head.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Canada was loudly cheered last night at a banquet given by Premier J. G. Coates in honor of the visiting press delegates, following a speech by J. H. Woods of Calgary.

The President of the Canadian Press, Mr. Woods, made an eloquent appeal for tolerance and sympathy among the Dominions. The delegates are on the way to the Imperial Press Conference in Australia.

Cabinet Members Will Embark On Speaking Tours

Increasing Importance Placed Upon Premier's Speech Billed For September 5—Low, Graham and Murphy to Hold Several Meetings Early in September.

MORE ANNOUNCEMENTS EXPECTED.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press).—The early days of September ill find several members of the Federal Cabinet on speaking tours roughout the country. Increasing importance is placed upon Premier ing's speech to his constituents in North York, on September 5, as it learned that meetings are to be announced throughout Ontario during e next few weeks.

On September 1, Hon. Thomas A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce, will address a meeting at Mitchell; on September 3, he will speak at Milton, and on September 4 at Cayuga. Other meetings will be held in Western Ontario during the following week, where the minister will speak.

Premier King will, it is understood, addres several meetings after September 5 and before returning to the Capital. His itinerary will be announced within the next few days. Rt. Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, and Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster General, who will accompany the Prime Minister in North York, will also speak several times in the course of the next few weeks.

Local Member Honored.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, has been signally honored by the Prime Minister in connection with these meetings. Mr. Gordon has been invited by the Premier to attend with him and speak at three of the open-air gatherings. This is an unusual and outstanding honor for one not a member of the Premier's Cabinet.

No announcement has yet been made of a political gathering in West Peterboro, but it is understood an announcement may shortly be expected.

HIGHER FINES FOR RIDING ON WALKS

Magistrate Langley Has Had Thirty Convictions This Year.

Another increase is pending in the cost of living.

According to Magistrate O. A. Langley in the Police Court this morning the luxury of cycling on the sidewalk will cost more from now on.

Six youths were fined $5 and costs for cycling on the footwalk of the C.P.R. bridge. His Worship stated he had imposed thirty fines for similar offences this year already and intended to fix higher fines in the future.

STRIKERS RETURN.

Textile Workers Agree to Arbitrate Wages With Employers.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 28. — Canadian Press. — Three thousand textile mill hands who struck two weeks ago to protest a ten per cent. wage cut, to-day agreed to return to work and arbitrate the wage conditions.

FRENCH DIFFER ON COMPOSITION OF DEBT MISSION

Caillaux and Briand Cannot Agree and Cabinet Postpones Decision.

CAILLAUX TO GO.

Will Take One Financier With Him to Washington Next Month.

PARIS, August 28. — Canadian Press. — Finance Minister Caillaux and Foreign Minister Briand have failed to agree concerning the composition of the French Debt Mission to Washington, and the Council of Ministers to-day again postponed the final decision on the matter.

M. Caillaux and Briand will hold a private conference to decide the percentage of political personages and financiers to be included in the mission and will report to the next Cabinet meeting.

M. Caillaux is practically certain to go to Washington with one expert on September 16, the remainder of the mission following a few days later. It is expected that the Finance Minister will remain in the United States capital only a few days, the delegates taking up the work where he leaves it.

"Terrible Vengeance" Threatens Americans

By John O'Brien—United Press Staff Correspondent.

FEZ, Morocco, Aug. 28. — Threats of "terrible vengeance" upon them, in the event of their capture, have been sent to the American Escadrille members, now flying over the enemy lines in the battle of France to subdue Abd-El-Krim and the Riffian warriors.

One letter, post-marked at Ajdir, near the Mediterranean coast, declared the birdmen would surely be brought down by the Riffian sharp-shooters, whereupon the terrible vengeance would be visited on them.

MINERS ORDERED TO 'DOWN PICKS' SEPTEMBER 1ST

158,000 TO WALK OUT

Operators and Miners Disagree as to Number of Maintenance Men Needed.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press).—A suspension in the hard coal fields September 1 was called last night by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The suspension was called because the miners were unable to secure from the operators a ten per cent. wage increase, adoption of the check-off, equalization of wages for day workers, and various other demands which they made conditional to renewal of the wage contract expiring August 31.

The order involves a walkout of 158,000 men, of whom about 10,000 will probably be left in the mines for maintenance work, such as the prevention of flooding and cave-ins.

The operators and the miners were deadlocked at a meeting yesterday on the terms to govern maintenance work. The miners insisted that the full number of men be used as in times of normal production and that these men be retained during the emergency period without either reduction or replacement by monthly men.

The operators, on the other hand, had wanted the right to skeletonize these forces where practicable.

That meeting adjourned without decision at 5.20 p.m., to resume at 9 o'clock today.

The snarl had never come up before for discussion by the two sides, but was brought up by the miners this year because of abuses they alleged had occurred in suspensions in the past.

Slight Ray of Hope.

A concession on the part of John L. Lewis, matching that made Wednesday night in Wilkes-Barre by a spokesman for the mine operators, left a loophole yesterday for further negotiations which may mean delay of the threatened anthracite strike.

The miners are willing to reopen negotiations, Lewis told John Uhl, chairman of the citizens' no-strike committee, if the operators will withdraw their ultimatum of rejecting anything that disturbs the factor of production costs.

After a talk with Uhl, who made a motor trip from Wilkes-Barre, hearing a statement by Mayor W. W. Inglis, spokesman of the operators' sub-committee that demands of the miners would be "considered fully" in a new point wage scale conference, Lewis issued the following statement.

"There has been read to me the statement of the operators' and citizens' committee, together with the operators' subsequent interpretation.

Can Be Negotiations.

'I have pointed out to Messrs.

Slips To Death From Log Boom In Little Lake

Bert Allen Fell Through Boom of Small Timbers, in Near Presence of Five Comrades Unable to Help—Peterborough Lumber Company Employee.

BODY RECOVERED AT 3.35.

Bert Allen slipped from a log boom at the Peterborough Lumber Co. mill this afternoon to his death in Little Lake. His body was recovered at 3.35.

The tragedy occurred at 2.40, when Allen was engaged in sorting logs. He was on a boom of small timbers and on slipping through was drowned in the presence of five other workers who were unable to reach him in time to save his life.

Allen was a youth of about twenty-five years of age and had come down with the drive from Buckhorn being a resident of that locality. It appears that at the time of the accident he was alone on the boom sorting logs for the mill. As the logs were small he was not supported very well and after he fell off he was unable to get a firm grasp on a log.

The timber by which he tried to save himself rolled in such a manner that he could not hold it and growing rapidly tired he sank below the surface.

The Coroner, Dr. T. W. H. Young, on being informed of the drowning, said that, in view of all the circumstances an inquest would probably be held.

RESUME RELATIONS.

Negotiations Between Mexico and Britain Are Under Way.

LONDON, Aug. 28. — (Canadian Press). — Negotiations are under way for the resumption of relations between Great Britain and Mexico, it is learned from an authoritative source. It is expected that a British Charge D'Affaires will be appointed at Mexico City in the near future.

TWO MEN SHOT IN RUM BATTLE

Aviator-Bootlegger and Another Found Riddled With Bullets.

RENEWED WAR.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Two men, one believed to have been Irving Schlieg, known as an aviator-bootlegger, were found shot to death near Ashburn aviation field to-day in what the police interpreted as a renewal of a war among bootleggers.

Both victims had been riddled with bullets. Each had been shot through the back of the head and bore other wounds.

LABOR PROTESTS SPECIAL POLICE

AUSTRALIAN PORTS.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 28 —(Canadian Press).—There was an uproar in the House of Representatives to-day when Premier S. M. Bruce asked leave to introduce a bill to appoint special police in connection with the strike of British seamen at Australian ports.

Hunter Charlton, Labor leader, vigorously protested against it. He declared that such a bill should not be sprung on the House as this had been. The debate is still proceeding.

ILEANA ENGAGED.

Italian Duke Mentioned as Fiance of Rumanian Princess.

LONDON, Aug. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Despatches from Rome report the engagement of Princess Ileana, youngest daughter of the King and Queen of Roumania, to the Duke of Apulsa, eldest son of the Duke of Aosta. There is no official confirmation. Princess Ileana is 16.

TWO KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

500 FEET IN AIR.

CHICAGO, August 28. Canadian Press. — Two aviators in one plane were killed in a collision of two United States army airplanes 700 feet above Maywood air mail field late yesterday. The pilot of the second plane escaped uninjured, though his his ship was partly wrecked.

In attempting a landing Smith made an upward turn to avoid a mail plane piloted by William Page which was taking off. His plane overturned when its tail cut sharply against the side of the Curtiss ship, and then hurtled to the ground.

WEATHER

The thermometer was, at 35 degrees this morning. Some white frost was to be seen, and reports of damage to tender vines may be expected. On Tuesday afternoon the thermometer was at 92 degrees. This Friday morning shows a drop 57 degrees. I was told that there was frost at Stoney Lake points one morning last week. This is early possible, as frost and thunderstorms are very erratic in their course. The highest the temperature reached yesterday was 69 degrees.— W.P.

TELL STORIES OF BRUTALITY AT SEA

Windjammers' Crews Lay Charges in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27. — Tales of brutality at sea such as Joseph Conrad might have told, were recited by the crew of thirteen battered old windjammers returned from the Alaskan fishing season.

An investigation of the state labor commission, together with an inquiry launched by local department of justice officials, will get under way at once.

Daniel Flores, of the Star of Holland, said he had earned $250 on the cruise, but that liquor and drugs had been charged against his wages until his employers had offered him 25 cents for his summer's work.

Albert Aouna, of the Star of England, led a delegation of fifty seamen to the state labor commission to charge that during the stay in the north the men were beaten, forced into intoxication, and "gouged" by exorbitant prices on commissary wares.

Commissary prices, the men said, included the following: Peach pie, $1; cup cakes, 10 cents; jam, 75 cents. The cooks were told to spoil the food by oversalting it, so the men would be forced to buy from the commissary, they told the commissioner.

Boys under 18, signed for the cruise illegally, were encouraged to buy drugs and liquor so that their money would revert back to the employment agents, officials were told.

AGED MINISTER LEAVES CHURCH AS MISSIONARY

Dr. Pringle, 74, Goes From Halifax Church to British Columbia.

WON'T RETIRE

Will Stay in Active Ministry as Long as He Can Stand.

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—"I intend to stay in the active ministry of the Christian church as long as I can stand on my feet," declared Rev. John Pringle, D.D., former Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and overseas army chaplain, in announcing recently his resignation to his congregation here in St. Andrew's Church, and stating his decision to take the Post of Mission Superintendent for Northern British Columbia, with headquarters at Kamloops.

Dr. Pringle is in his seventy fourth year and came here seventeen years ago from the Yukon. There was hardly a dry eye in the church as the veteran minister expressed his regret at leaving the city where he had labored so long. He said that his ministry here had been a happy one but the western opportunity having presented itself he thought his duty demanded that he embrace it. He had often been asked why at his age he did not retire, but his nature was one which could not stand idleness.

Dr. Pringle was born at Charlottetown, P.E.I., June 7, 1852. He was educated at Prince of Wales College in that city, Queens University (B.A., B.D.), Kingston and received the degree of Doctor of Laws from Dalhousie, Halifax. After teaching in Quebec High School (1875-78) and at the same time taking a theological course at Morin College there, he entered the Presbyterian ministry at Georgetown, Ont., 1878, and later held pastorates at Kildonan, Man. (1882); Port Arthur, Ont. (1886); St. Paul and Rochester, Minn. (1803-98). He went to the Yukon in 1898 and remained there until 1908 when he came to Sydney.

In 1914 Dr. Pringle went overseas as Chaplain of the 17th Nova Scotia battalion. He was promoted to Major in 1916, Lieutenant-Colonel in 1918, and was mentioned in despatches November 20, 1916, by Sir John French, later Earl Ypres. Following the war Dr. Pringle was elected Moderator of the Presbyterian Church.

CANADIAN TRADE TREATY AMENDED

Australia Considers New Tariff Schedule With Canada.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 28 —(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's).—Hon. H. E. Pratten, Minister of Trade and Customs, moved a resolution in the House of Representatives Thursday, to endorse the amended version of the reciprocal commercial treaty between Canada and Australia.

The amended version of the treaty relates to the recent Australian regulation which, with exceptions, provides that before imports entering Australia are entitled to the British preferential tariff they must be 75 per cent. of British material and labor. The old regulation, which applied generally throughout the Empire, including Canada, was that manufactured goods entitled to the preferential tariff in Australia must be 25 per cent. of British material and labor.

Mr. Pratten, in moving the resolution, referred to the growth of friendly sentiments in Canada towards Australia.

It is proposed that if the new tariff schedule is adopted by the Australian Parliament it shall be brought into operation at an early date.

The debate on the Canadian-Australian trade treaty has not advanced far at the hour of adjournment.

GIVES HIS LIFE FOR A CAT

Frank Woods, humane Society inspector at Toronto, gave his life for a cat this week when he was electrocuted in trying to get the stray animal down from a Hydro pole on which it was stranded.

NAME RESERVE FOR OLD LEADER

BAPTIZED IN 1610

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 27—(Canadian Press).—Memberton Grand Chief of the Mic-Macs, who was baptized with his followers at old Port Royal, N.S., in 1610, will likely have his name commemorated in that of the modern Indian reserve which is being built near this city to replace the dilapidated one on King's Road. The Indians name their own villages and it is the suggestion of Chief Bon Christmas that the great figure in the history and mythology of the Maritime Mic-Macs be commemorated. Other revered Sachems will be remembered in street names.

The new settlement is being built on Alexandra street, near Scotchtown, and when completed will consist of some twenty five wooden houses on concrete foundations. They will be piped for running water although the city facilities do not reach this point as yet. Each house will have a lot measuring one hundred by one hundred and fifty feet and sixty seven acres remaining will be divided up for farming purposes.

Work is being rushed this fall and will be completed in the spring.

PROSPECT GOOD FOR FALL TOURIST TRADE

Frank G. Stinson Says Hunting Parties Will Provide Fresh Impetus.

"The tourist trade is still booming," said Frank G. Stinson, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, when interviewed this morning as to the indications for the autumn visitors.

Many are leaving now, he says, because children will be going back to school, but numbers will soon be on their way to take advantage of the fall game season. The Chamber has issued inducements to the prospective tourist telling of the glories of a Canadian autumn, and it is expected that a generous response will be made by those who prefer taking their vacations undisturbed by excessive quantities of heat and insect pests.

TROUT CAN SWIM TO HUDSON BAY

Nipigon Explorer Suggested Diversion of Waters to Sir Adam Beck.

INCREASE SUPPLY

PORT ARTHUR, August 27. — Canadian Press. — Ed. Marks, an explorer of the district, claims to have been the first man to suggest to the late Sir Adam Beck that some of the waters north of the Ontario watershed might be diverted from their course towards James Bay, and turned south to supplement the Nipigon power supply, which project is now being considered by the Ontario Hydro. Marks makes the statement that a trout could swim from Lake Superior to Hudson's Bay.

The route would be up the Nipigon River to Nipigon Lake and through the lake to Ombabika River, through the latter to Summit Lake and thence into the streams which flow north to Hudson's Bay. Summit Lake is on the height of land and its waters divide to flow in the two directions, some into the Ombabika which feeds the Nipigon and from the other end into the Little Current which later joins the Albany.

But any trout that made the trip from Lake Superior to James Bay could not return the same way, according to Marks. The fish could get up the Nipigon but there are falls and rapids in the northern rivers which would prevent them returning.

BROKEN THREAD

vices but he was careless with regard to spiritual matters. She tried in vain to draw him into the influence of the church in which she found so much solace. Even a "protracted meeting," as a prolonged revival service was called in those days, failed to bring him into the light, although Mrs. Fowler says he was much affected by the singing of the familiar hymn, "The Dying Thief Rejoiced to See."

After Long Years.

Eighteen years ago Mr. Fowler heard that same hymn sung by a lady evangelist at a revival meeting in Michigan, and he surrendered, marching up to the penitents' bench.

But everything in his life had changed and repentance came too late for him to make amends for his worldly mistakes. He was married again and had a son about 12 years old. His second wife died in October of last year, his son was grown up and the thoughts of the aged wanderer began to turn to the home of his youth. As Goldsmith puts it, he had "dragged at each remove a lengthening chain," but the limit of this tether had been reached. So he returned to his early environments.

Never Visited Former Wife.

During the 56 years of his residence in the United States Mr. Fowler had made several visits to his parents and other relatives in this district, but on none of these did he meet his former wife. The latter had returned to her mother's home, taking her daughter with her, and remained their until Mr. Mutton became her son-in-law, since which time she has resided under his roof. The daughter would call on her father at the homes of his relatives when he came on brief visits to Canada. When he returned last spring he was persuaded to remain. Mr. Mutton brought him to his home, the couple met after a separation of over half a century, resolved to forget the past, and their remarriage followed.

Mr. Fowler's Story.

Mr. Fowler talks freely of his life on the American side of the line. According to his own account he was something of a rover, as he had at different times resided in 26 of the 48 States of the Republic. He had no regular trade, but work was plentiful and he had no difficulty in earning a living.

Finally he settled in Michigan, which at that time was in its heyday as the great lumber producing state, and where he secured work in the woods owned by F. N. Wright and Company. He was in the employ of this firm for 21 years, so that his reputation as a faithful and efficient worker requires no further testimonial. He went through every grade of the service in the woods and rose to the position of engineer in the company's saw mill. When Mr. Wright's timber holdings were exhausted and he turned his attention to agriculture, as so many Michigan lumbermen finding themselves in the same position did, Mr. Fowler was made foreman of his farms. That was at Greenville, in Montcalm county. His son is now engaged as a highway builder in Michigan.

Mr. Fowler's second wife was a resident of Stanton, Mich., and there he met and married her. It was no very difficult matter to obtain a divorce in a county court in Michigan over 30 years ago. All that was necessary was for Mr. Fowler to establish a residence by residing two years in that State and to prove to the satisfaction of the Judge that his wife in Canada refused to live with him. "Divorce granted on the ground of desertion," is how the court record reads.

Mr. Fowler has photos of himself taken at various periods during his American career, and of his second wife and their son. These pictures show that either as a court widower or a benedict he was enjoying a generous measure of prosperity.

The aged bride and groom are active considering thir years and both enjoy good health. Mrs. Fowler as a girl was noted in the district for her beauty and still retains traces of her good looks. She is of slight figure and retiring disposition, but no one, even on a short acquaintance, could doubt for a moment that she has a will of her own and that once her mind was made up it would be impossible to change it.

Mr. Fowler is bright and intelligent. During his absence it is evident he did not subsist on the husks of life. Unlike the Prodigal, he was not invested with ring and robe on his return, but he found forgiveness and a bride, and if a fatted calf were slain to emphasize his welcome it was served at his marriage feast.

$625,000 OFFER FOR MINE STOCK

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Porcupine Mining Company, of Ontario, has made an offer of $625,000 for 350,000 shares of the stock of the Dunwell mines, in the Portland Canal district, north of Prince Rupert, it was announced here Thursday.

Under the terms of the proposed deal control of the operation of the mine would pass from the Victoria group and be lodged with eastern operators. The terms provide that all the moneys paid be used for development and equipment of the property and working capital.

Dunwell shareholders, at their annual meeting Wednesday, decided to increase the capital stock from 350,000 to 700,000 shares.

Directors of the company are considering the Porcupine offer, which approximates about $1.87 a share for the stock. Under the eastern control the stock would be placed on the exchanges of Toronto and Montreal and probably New York.

WELCOME SIGNS.

The announcement that the Canadian General Electric Company has secured a large contract for electrical equipment, which will be manufactured at the local plant, is the source of much satisfaction.

It will provide work for many months for some of the company's employees, and is viewed as an indication that before long the local plant will be working at fullest capacity and employing a much larger staff.

Anything that benefits the largest employer of labour in Peterboro naturally benefits the community in general, and the receipt of contracts of this nature is therefore regarded as a very auspicious sign.

With the farmers of the district harvesting the best crops for many years and the General Electric Company working on large orders, there should be during the autumn an appreciable increase in the volume of business done by local merchants.

In fact, signs are not lacking that the corner has been at last turned and that more prosperous days are not far ahead.

WHERE THE FAILURE LIES.

While Premier Ferguson's charge that the Ontario temperance organization go in too much for politics and not enough for temperance may be resented, his further statement that the education of public opinion for prohibition has been neglected will be accepted as true by those who have studied the conditions.

As the Examiner has more than once pointed out since prohibition was put on the statute books, the temperance forces have been content to let the police do the work.

There has been a relaxation in the campaign to educate people against the folly of intemperance, and instead of endeavouring to teach people not to drink too much, the temperance forces have been sitting back in the vain hope that the law would keep everyone from drinking at all.

It has not done that, of course, and the danger of the situation is that the old-time warnings have been dropped and the new generation is being given no instruction against intemperance at the very time when the bottle-toting habit is putting temptation in their way.

Mr. Ferguson may not be right about too much politics in the temperance organization, but he is not far wrong in pointing out the failure to keep up an educational campaign.

GIRLS IN SPORT.

The reputation gained by Peterboro as a throwback to Puritan days as the result of its official attitude toward Sunday bathing, will undoubtedly be enhanced if opposition to girls indulging in athletics is taken seriously.

The place of woman in the world of sport is so firmly established that it is of little avail to endeavour to check this development now.

As for complaints about the costumes worn by the girls who play baseball, it is almost refreshing to find that bloomers are considered immodest.

The bloomers, at least, supply covering to a point below the knees, which is more than can truthfully be said about some of the street costumes to be seen every day.

In fact, the girl ball players' garb looks like a winter outfit compared to the sleeveless blouses, transparent knee-length skirts and rolled-top stockings that are in evidence everywhere, or to the knickers worn by most girls at the summer resorts this season.

Let the girls have their baseball; they will not be any the worse wives and mothers because of the fun and exercise they are obtaining from this harmless pastime.

'The old order changeth, giving place to new," and there is no more chance of bringing back the conditions that governed our grandmothers than there is of driving the motor car off the road or persuading the farmers to use oxen for their ploughing.

The modern girl who can drive a car, handle a canoe, swim, play a lively game of tennis or a good game of golf, or baseball for that matter, is a new type perhaps, but there is nothing much wrong with her.

SPYING OUT THE LAND.

It is important to notice two announcements which have been made at the same time, says the Kingston Standard. The first that ten journalists representing the leading British newspapers arrived here last week in order to see for themselves what the opportunities for settlers are in Canada. The brief announcement given out concerning them which we have seen does not state whether their visit is due to any invitations from this side or to their own initiative. But this does not matter very much as the point is not so much their visit as what may take place after it. It can be taken for granted that they will have every facility given them for gathering the information they require and that this will appear in due time in their papers with the conclusions which they base upon it.

We would, however, venture to suggest to them that this requires following up. We are convinced they will report Canada offers good opportunities for settlers: they will say so perhaps with modifications: but this will not be sufficient to do lasting good. Interest will be aroused, but this must be kept up. There is grave complaint, made especially by Premier Ferguson, that the press in the Motherland contains very little about Canada. Therefore, this visit should alter this. These journalists should see to it that after their articles have appeared others should follow written by chosen men on this side. In this way Canada would receive the attention she deserves and requires, which would also be of service to the Motherland.

The other announcement is that 80 American agricultural editors are to visit Western Canada, to see about conditions there. This is by invitation of the Government, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways. But why limit their inquiries to the West? Why not let them spy out the lands and opportunities in the East? It is not quite fair otherwise either to them or to Canada, as conditions here differ to those in the West, and might very well appeal to agriculturists as well or better than those in the West. But, however this may be, we are glad to see all these men coming and Canada offers them a cordial welcome.

RAMSAY MacDONALD'S DREAD

Study of the industrial situation in Britain reveals many anxious complications. One is the apparent oscillation of the Government between a policy which has been characterized by Premier Baldwin's critics as one of weak-kneed surrender to the "Reds," and the somewhat bellicose attitude exhibited in the threat that "if the time should come when the community has to protect itself with the full strength of the Government behind it, the community will do so, and the response of the community will astonish the forces of anarchy throughout the world." Equally mysterious is the sympathetic support offered by trade unionists to a movement that is essentially and, indeed, frankly revolutionary in its aims.

But the most perplexing feature of the imbroglio created by the tentative settlement of the dispute in the mining industry is the attitude of he Labor party led by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. When the crisis was at its height and an industrial deadlock seemed inevitable, it would have puzzled a Philadelphia lawyer to ascertain with any degree of clearness what the views of Mr. MacDonald and his following were. One day he was reported as attacking the Government for its dilatoriness; another, he was criticizing it for pursuing a wrong course; and the next he was uttering words of warning to the miners' leaders not to press their claims too far. When the terms of settlement were announced, he made confusion worse confounded by bitterly denouncing the subsidy arrangement even though it was acceptable to all the parties to the dispute and to the forces of labor which he claimed to represent.

And now, in order to make his position clearer, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has written an article which leaves us wondering more than ever at the strange irony of events that have brought about the present fantastic situation. What has been acclaimed by many of his political associates as a great Labor victory appears to him as a disaster that has brought the peril of revolution appreciably nearer. Posing as a champion of democratic and constitutional methods, he declares that the task of labor leaders opposed to violent measures has been rendered more difficult by Premier Baldwin's "surrender to threats," and that dangerous encouragement has been given to the extremists pledged to "direct action."

"Fairy tales about the idyllic conditions of Russia (he writes) and the rouged and powdered reports of untrained and credulous investigators fall like seed upon ground well prepared by distress, falling standards, unemployment and the reactionary policy of a Tory Government, but when to that is added the nourishing rain of what appears to be a surrender to threats, the damage must be assessed as being high."

In this picturesque description of what he conceives to be the effect of the settlement by subsidy of the dispute in the mining industry, there may be some truth. It is undeniable that the "forces of anarchy" have found encouragement in the Government's action, and that considerable apprehension exists in the minds of many people as to the possible consequences. That, no doubt, is the reason which inspired the Prime Minister's warning that, if necessary, the community will be protected by the full force of the Government.

But if, as Mr. Ramsay MacDonald proclaims, the peril of revolution has been brought nearer. he himself must take a share of the responsibility. For years he has preached the gospel of Socialism and tolerated, if he has not encouraged, the dangerous activities of the extremists within his party. To borrow his own picturesque idiom, he, and those associated with him, have not been guiltless of disseminating "fairy tales about the idyllic conditions" of a communal state of society, of sowing seed which has fallen upon "ground well prepared by distress, falling standards, unemployment" and Utopian promises, and of adding "the nourishing rain" of Socialistic propaganda and revolutionary threats.

Now, it would seem, the chickens are coming home to roost in the Socialist barnyard, and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is naturally a little apprehensive as to the damage that will result. But, probably, what he fears most is not revolution, but the disruption of his own party through the machinations of the extremists who aim to smash it. And his resentment against Mr. Baldwin is founded on the dread that the Prime Minister has, perhaps unwittingly, hastened the process of dissolution by conciliating Codlin, alias Cook, and ignoring Short represented by Mr. MacDonald.—Ottawa Journal.

A THOUGHT.

THIS IS A BIG START.

These thoughts are here to help the men and women who feel that they have been, through avoidable or unavoidable circumstances, cheated out of a finished education—humans that consider themselves handicapped by the lack of higher education.

But before prescribing thoughts that I hope will encourage the discouraged, permit me to go on record as saying that no country can permanently maintain freedom or retain justice that lacks in popular education—that no nation can rank high and remain in importance long, without what we are pleased to call, "higher education."

And by this "higher education" I do not necessarily mean the study of Latin or Greek. What is meant is, education that cultivates the moral as well as the intellectual faculties. True education comprehends the formation of the mind, the regulation of the heart, and the establishment of the principles.

The carved marble will some day crumble, the hammered brass will eventually be effaced, temples will return to dust, but the work of improving mortal minds is a Service that will shed its light like the everlasting and impartial sun to the very end of time.

Two-thirds of these thoughts anyone can acquire outside of the schoolroom or college. "The regulation of the heart and the establishment of the principles," which is a part of true education, starts with childhood, but from this schooling we never graduate. The situation that seems to stall so many people is the feeling that they are not fully equipped by education. Education only ends with death.

I. Many of our most prominent men have been self-educated. They have had no time to take pains with books or arts which treat of things remote from their line of Service. Such study would be busy idleness. They have selected some special course that fitted their natural aptitude and ability, and by dint of hard study and much preparation, fitted themselves to act in a responsible position or to accept lucrative pay.

Fortunately for those who feel that they have been slighted, or that they have slighted themselves in the matter of education, permit me to point to the several successful institutions where special training is available, after business hours.

There is no universal applicability in men, but each has his special talent. Then the first and important step is to find where you fit and what fits you. Master this special study and the world will stop at your gas-station.

II. This is an age of specialists, and all of us have time and the opportunity to become specialists. The older ones have this advantage: They better know their aptitude or ability, and this is a big start in the direction of right education.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 27. — There was a fairly good enquiry from English importers on the Montreal market today for Manitoba Spring wheat for prompt and nearby shipment, but on account of the continued light offerings little business of importance was done. There has been some demand for new crop wheat and sales of odd loads of No. 1 Northern were made to London for September shipment, and odd lots of old crop No. 2 Northern en route from Fort William were sold to New York houses at 32 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. Montreal, and some No. 2 Canadian Western oats were worked at 17 cents per bushel over.

Business in ocean grain freights has been quiet owing to the fact that the demand has only been for odd loads for prompt and nearby shipment. The tone of the market rules steady, with asking rates in some instances 3d. per quarter higher than a week ago. Liverpool, September, heavy grain, 2s. 6d. per quarter; London 2s. 3d. to 2s. 6d.; Glasgow and Manchester, 2s. 9d; Avonmouth, 2s. 9d. to 3. 6d; Cardiff, 2s 3d; Leith and Newcastle, 2s 6d; Hull 3s 6d; Dublin and Belfast, 2s 9d; Antwerp and Hamburg, wheat 12c per 100 lbs, barley 14c, and oats 15c; and Rotterdam early September, wheat 11c, barley 12c, and oats 13c.

A little more business was transacted in cash grain on the domestic market, there being a steady demand for American malting barley for export account and sales were made at 78 1-2 cents per bushel, c.i.f., while Ontario No. 3 malting barley in car lots sold for local account at 85 cents per bushel, ex-track. Offerings of Ontario oats were more liberal and sales of quite a few loads were made at 50 to 53 cents per bushel ex-track, as to quality. The market for car lots of Canadian Western oats was steady.

A feature of the flour trade was the improved demand from the United Kingdom for new crop spring wheat flour and as the prices bid were considered satisfactory by some millers a fair amount of business was accomplished for October shipment.

Prices for all grades of winter wheat flour were well maintained under a steady demand.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continued good and the tendency was firm, but prices showed no change. The trade in rolled oats was quiet but steady.

The egg market was without any special feature to note, trade volume was small and prices unchanged. The butter market was a little more active and prics were well maintained. The feature of the cheese trade was the improved demand from English importers. Prices were steady.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.85.

Sterling cables $4.85 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press).—Wheat was hammered persistently until the final hour of trading today, but near the close an exceptionally good class of buying developed and final quotations showed substantial gains over previous closing levels. The late buying was attributed to moderately heavy sales of cash goods at favorable prices and the general expectation of a natural recovery after an extended period of depression. Closing quotations found wheat 3-8 to 1 3-4 cents net higher than the previous close, with May making the greatest gains. September closed at $1.56 7-8 to $1.57, and December at $1.56 5-8 to $1.56 3-4. Corn closed unchanged to 1-2 cent up, September at 94 1-8 to 94 1-4c; oats, 1-8 to 5-8 cents advance and provisions at 15 cents loss to 25 cents up.

A group of prominent local operators were credited with continued and sustained liquidation of long lines of wheat, apparently concentrating on the September delivery which sold at a discount under December on two occasions during the day. Cash interests were the best buyers of the early delivery, changing their hedges from September to December and May.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—There was a fair clean-up of stale cattle on the cattle market today, there being 500 leftovers from yesterday. Exporters and packers picked out the best of the supply at steady prices, leaving the common stuff unsold. A few fair to good steers sold from $6 to $7 a hundred with good cows $ to $5. Export fshipments for the week totalled 2,500 cattle.

Calves were steady at $12 for top.

Hogs were steady at $14.25 off car for thick smooths and $15.63 for selects, $2.71 premium per head for select bacon.

Good ewe and wether lambs were $13 to $13.25 with a few extra choice bringing $13.50 a hundred and some heavies at $12 to $12.75.

TAKE IT OUT SO THAT IT WON'T COME BACK

Don't merely cut the top off with a razor or burn it off with caustic lotions, plasters, etc. It doesn't do any good. It may do great harm by causing infection or even blood poisoning.

The business end of a corn is the root. That is what hurts when pressed on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out.

A good handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water will soften corns and callouses, like water softens soap. Just soak them in this for a while, then take hold of the corn with your fingers, and out it will come root and all. The refined Reudel Bath Saltrates costs very little, and any druggist will have it. A half-pound is sufficient to rid the whole family of all foot troubles.

Obtainable at most drug stores for 50 cents, or direct from the distributors—Macnamara Limited, New Birks Bldg. Montreal

OBITUARY.

MRS. NICHOLAS DOIDGE.

GORE'S LANDING, Aug. 28. — The funeral of Margaret Johnston, wife of Nicholas Doidge, took place from the family home here this afternoon to Plainville Cemetery.

Besides her husband, she leaves two daughters, Mrs. Robert Linton, Roseneath, and Miss Jessie, at home; her mother, Mrs. Johnston, and a sister, Miss Jessie Johnston, residing in Toronto.

THOMAS ROBSON.

HARWOOD, Aug. 28.—Thomas Robson, one of the best known residents of the Rice Lake district, and a man who was held in high esteem was buried today, the funeral taking place from his late residence a mile south of the village of Harwood, to the Bethesda cemetery. He had been in failing health for some time but the end came very suddenly. A great grief came to Mr. and Mrs. Robson and family during the war, when their son, Henry, made the supreme sacrifice for his country. Besides his wife, Mr. Robson is survived by a son George, on the homestead, and by four daughters.

MRS. PERCY MORGAN.

GRAFTON, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Morgan, wife of Mr. Percy Morgan, Grafton, entered into rest at the Cobourg General Hospital after long suffering. Seven weeks before her death she was painfully burned, when her clothing caught fire from an oil stove as she was engaged in her household duties in her home in this village. She was taken to Cobourg hospital in a very serious condition, and it was not then thought that she would possibly survive the accident. Skilful medical treatment and the most expert nursing, blood transfusion, skin grafting, etc., were all resorted to, and were successful in prolonging her stay here for some weeks, but she eventually succumbed to the shock and to the distressing conditions under which she struggled for recovery.

Mrs. Morgan, before her marriage Vera Knight, was a daughter of Mrs. Knight, who now resides in Grafton, and of the late William Knight, Wicklow. Since her marriage to Mr. Percy Morgan she has resided in this locality and in the village.

Besides her husband and mother, Mrs. Morgan is survived by two brothers, Harry and George, of Wicklow, and by one sister, Mrs. Percy Roberts, Grafton.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from her late home at Grafton. The services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Trumpour, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. J. M. Lovelace, Roseneath. There were many beautiful flowers, love's best token, and a hundred cars were in the cortege as it moved from the residence. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. C. E. Roberts, James Thomas, Fred. Lowless, Thos. Johnston, Frank Uster and Harry Fenton.

MISS SARAH M. FIELD.

COBOURG, Aug. 28.—One of the links that bind this town to its historic past was severed on Thursday, Aug. 20, by the death of Miss Sarah M. Field in her 88th year. Miss Field was a daughter of the late John Field, founder of the firm of Field & Bro., and of Martha Woodbury, his wife. She was born in Cobourg in 1838, and was one of its oldest native born residents. She was the last of her family, four brothers and three sisters having predeceased her. They were: John Collard Field, ex-M.P.P.; Coreilli C. Field, ex-M.P.P.; William Field, Esq.; Francis Woolbury Field, for many years Registrar for the United Counties; Mrs. John Hamilton, Cobourg; Mrs. Kerr, wife of the late Hon. William Kerr, Senator, and Mrs. C. Arthur Jacques, Montreal.

Miss Field lived until about ten years ago at the old Field homestead on King street west with her brother, the late F. W. Field. For the past few years she has resided at Sunnyside, the home of her nephew, W. F. Kerr, Crown Attorney. She was a wonderful old lady and retained her faculties in a marked degree. Miss Field had been in failing health for some time and gradually the sands of life ran lower until she passed to be with the great company of kindred and loved ones who have gone on before.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon, the cortege leaving Sunnyside at 2 p.m., for the United Church of Canada, King street, where service was held, conducted by Rev. Adam Hamilton, M.A., assisted by Rev. Temple Stannage Boyle, D.D.

Mr. Hamilton in his address paid a warm tribute of appreciation and regard to the late Miss Field.

At the conclusion of the service the ministers and the surpliced choir followed the cortege as it passed down the aisle of the church. The pall-bearers were: Judge E. C. S. Huycke, Peterboro; W. F. Kerr, Frederick Field, Dr. Geo. H. Field, I. T. Field and David Burn, Cobourg, all nephews of the deceased.

ROBERT CAMPBELL DEVITT

Robert Campbell Devitt died yesterday afternoon after a considerable illness. He had been undergoing medical treatment in this city for the past three weeks.

He had lived in Ontario all his life, having been born in Verulam in 1877. For the past few years he had been a farmer in Dunsford.

The relatives surviving are his wife and nine children, two sisters in California; and two brothers, Spencer in Saskatoon and Harry in Duluth.

The funeral will be on Saturday, 2 p.m., in charge of Rev. Haughton of Bobcaygeon Church and will proceed from the family residence at Dunsford to Bobcaygeon Cemetery.

Give Your Car a New Lease of Life

IN a year thousands of car owners have changed from high-pressure tires to Goodyear Balloons.

Every day motorists are making this change.

Goodyear's celebrated new Cord Fabric, SUPERTWIST, is largely responsible for this tremendous reception which Goodyear Balloons have received.

The extreme flexibility of SUPERTWIST and its ability to outstretch other Cord Fabric enable it to increase tire mileage, to reduce road-trouble and to provide riding-comfort previously unknown.

The proven excellence of Goodyear Balloons after more than a year on the road, coupled with the fact that their cost is but slightly higher than that of high-pressure tires, has added still further to the figures which show that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

The Goodyear Selected Dealer has Balloon Tires for your car—with or without change of rims and wheels. They are the only Balloons made with SUPERTWIST.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL TO SELL SEWER DEBENTURES BY TENDER LOOK FOR PRICE HIGHER THAN PAR

Could Get No More Than Par By Selling to Citizens.

STOP SEWER WORK.

Hold Up Work Started and Refuse to Begin on Another Street.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28.—The Town Council at a special meeting held last night decided to advertise for tenders for the sale of sewer debenture bonds to the value of $55,600, the rate of interest to be 5½ per cent. There was some talk of disposing of these debentures locally, but it was decided that a better price could be realized by selling them to outside parties. If sold at home the debentures would not go above par, and it is hoped that the financial houses will bid at least 102 for the issue, as the Campbellford securities are always in demand.

Sewer Work Stopped.

The Bylaw providing for the assessment to cover the cost of the proposed sewer on Market street and Oliver road was read a third time and passed; when it was proposed to open tenders for the building of that sewer Councillor Kingston called a halt by proposing that all sewer work be stopped for this year. The new issue of debentures will bring the total bonded indebtedness of the town up to $375,000, and none of the debentures will be retired until 1927.

The Second street sewer has been completed as far as Ranney street and work on it has been stopped although some residents have asked that it be extended to Centre street, one block farther. The residents on Market street and Oliver road are practically unanimous in their request for a sewer, which it has been decided, is to be built by contract, instead of by day labor.

It seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the Councillors that it would hardly be fair to stop work on one sewer and begin it on another, and it was finally agreed to do nothing further until the situation is discussed again at the September meeting, which will be held on the seventh of that month, the regular session date falling on Labor day. The suspension of sewer construction will throw a large number of men out of employment, but a number of these will be able to find work on the new power house, the erection of which was started on Tuesday

To Revise Milk Bylaw.

Police Chief Brown was present to confer with the Council with regard to the enforcing of the milk bylaw. A resident who keeps one cow and who disposes of it to his neighbors regards it as a hardship to be required to pay a license fee of $5 a year.

Deputy Reeve Palliser and Councillor Stone were appointed a committee to co-operate with Town Solicitor Lynch in the revision of this bylaw and it is likely that the annual license fee for all milk vendors, whether residents of town or country, will be reduced to $1 a year, the object of imposing a fee being not to secure revenue but to bring the deal-

SCORE OF HOUSES DESTROYED IN BLAZE

A half million dollar fire swept a crowded city block in Montreal this week, rendering over 200 people homeless, in the most spectacular fire that Montrealers have witnessed for many years. Top picture shows what is left of the Millette apartment house on Emery street and of fourteen houses that adjoined it. Bottom right, this statue was stored in the Rochon Express company premises where the big fire broke out. Today it stands head and shoulders above the charred wreckage serenely looking towards the Church of St. James and St. Dennis streets. Bottom right, Mrs. Beaucaire, ninety-nine years of age, was taken on a doorstep near the scene. In the excitement she was forgotten till found by policemen at one o'clock in the morning and was then taken to a house and put to bed. Next day she said she felt tired with the excitement, but was otherwise all right.

SETTLEMENT OF SAILORS' STRIKE EXPECTED SOON

Australian Seamen Opposing Reduction in Wages—Government Ministers Active.

SHARP COMMENT

Amendment to Immigration Act Denounced as Most Iniquitous Measure.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)—There was no development of the shipping trouble here Thursday, and in Ministerial circles and political circles generally confidence was expressed that the strike of seamen of overseas vessels in Australian waters because of a reduction in wages would soon end. The Ministers of the Government are exerting themselves with a view to a settlement of the strike, which is unofficial so far as the British Sailors' and Firemen's Union is concerned.

J. T. Lang, Labor Premier of New South Wales, stated last night that he regarded the Federal Act whereby persons not of Australian birth may be deported for causing labor troubles (the new amendment to the Immigration Act) as the most iniquitous measure ever passed by Parliament. He said he would firmly refuse to permit the State instrumentalities to be abused for the purpose of deporting political or industrial leaders. He added that the Commonwealth Government would have to carry out such a policy with its own resources.

Tom Walsh, president of the Australian Seamen's Union, called upon Premier Lang yesterday. It is understood that the discussion between them was with regard to the possibilities of an early settlement of the seamen's dispute.

The seamen's executive, commenting on cables from J. Havelock Wilson, secretary of the British Sailors' and Firemen's Union, deprecating the unofficial strike, declares that the overseas seamen's dispute is as much the concern of Australian seamen as it is of British seamen, because a reduction of wages of the former would be reflected upon the Australian seamen's wages.

Railway Trouble.

BRISBANE, Australia, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)—The latest indications in connection with the railway strike as a result of a reduction of five per cent. in the wages of the railway men are that the strike is spreading throughout Queensland. It has been threatened that unless the men's demand for the restoration of the wages paid prior to the five per cent. cut is met before August 31, a general strike will take place.

The Premier of Queensland, W. Gillies, has invited all the unions connected with the Australian Labor party to a conference with the Queensland Cabinet to discuss the railway situation.

Consider Deportation.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 28—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's).—The Commonwealth Government yesterday appointed a board of commissioners to consider questions of deportation in connection with persons not of Australian birth who cause labor troubles. The board of commissioners will hear the evidence of persons whom it is thought should be deported and the board will have the final decision in such matters.

The appointment of the board is under the recent amendment to the Immigration Act of Australia.

Summonses were issued Thursday against four persons said to have been connected with the strike of overseas seamen in Australian waters, the strike being the cause of considerable British shipping being held up in Australian ports.

FRENCH TROOPS HAVE SUCCESS

113 IN SHADE.

FEZ, French Morocco, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press).—The operations of the French troops in the Brames territory have been crowned with complete success, the objective aimed at, Djebel Amessef Ridge, has been occupied, and the French are making progress beyond that point. The Riffians offered a desperate resistance, but soon realized that the French were too strong for them and, in accordance with their usual tactics, slipped away, driving their flocks and herds before them.

The task of the French troops was a difficult one because of the nature of the ground and the sudden rise in temperature, which has registered over 113 degrees in the shade. In this terrible heat, the soldiers, starting from Maila, which has an altitude of 2,000 feet, had to scale slopes rising at some points more than 5,000 feet.

RAIN NEEDED BY FIRE FIGHTERS

Serious Condition Will Develop Near Sault, Unless Shower Comes.

MANY FOREST FIRES.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 28. — Canadian Press. — Unless assistance in the form of rain comes to the aid of the fire fighters soon serious conditions will undoubtedly develop in the district.

The only fire close to the Sault is the one at Gros Cap, which has been burning since Sunday, but is being closely watched, and has not made much headway.

Some ten fires are reported from the Blind River section, and about 100 men are employed in fighting them. Some of the fires are serious ones. The only thing that will completely quench them after the dry weather of the past three weeks is a good shower.

FORD CHANGES DESIGN OF CAR

Longer, Lower Models, With Closed Types in Colors—Motor Unchanged.

PRICES THE SAME

DETROIT, Aug. 28. — The most pronounced changes in Ford cars since the Ford Motor Co. began the production of Model T, the standard Ford chassis, was announced by the company yesterday. There is no change in prices.

Both open and closed cars have an all steel body on a lowered chassis, with changed body styles in nearly all models. Color has replaced the black finish on closed cars; fenders are lower and larger, and brakes have been redesigned.

Longer lines, with a higher radiator and re-designed cowl are especially noticeable in the open models. The coupe and tudor sedan are finished in deep channel green and the Fordor sedan in Windsor maroon. Closed models have nickeled radiators. The runabout, touring car coupe and tudor, the gasoline tank is under the cowl. Lowered seats and steering wheel have been provided.

The motor remains unchanged. The transmission, brake drum and bands have been enlarged, as have the rear wheel brakes.

DENTIST HANGS HIMSELF WHILE WAITING TRIAL

Dr. Thos. W. Young Had Confessed Murdering Wife—Then Denied It.

SENSATIONAL CASE

Twisted Radio Wire Around His Neck After Guard Passed Cell.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 28.—Dr. Thomas W. Young, confessed "scientific murdered," committeed suicide by strangling himself with a wire in his cell in the county jail here Thursday.

Dr. Young killed himself shortly after 6 a.m.

Jail attendants, hearing a commotion in the cell, arrived just as the last spark of life flickered from the body of the eccentric wife-slayer.

He was accused of slaying his wealthy society wife with dental gas and burying her body in a cistern in the basement of his cabin in Beverly Glen. The slayer throughout the night questioned jail guards about "the time of night."

At six o'clock yesterday morning one of the guards gave the "court call" to the dentist. Five minutes later the prisoner had twisted a radio wire around his neck, fastened it to a bar in the cell and strangled himself to death. Jail physicians pronounced him dead at 6.30 o'clock.

Dr. Young's suicide brings a premature end to one of California's most sensational murders.

Entombed Body.

The dentist was arrested early in June after a four months' search for his wealthy and beautiful wife, who disappeared mysteriously after a roadhouse drinking party. For days the dentist maintained his wife had left him to seek a divorce, insisting she would ultimately return. After a long and severe questioning, he broke down and confessed, admitting he had asphyxiated the woman with somnoform, deadly dental gas, entombed the body in a concrete cistern in the basement of his cabin in Beverly Glen.

The dentist during the trial maintained an apparent composure throughout. He registered complete confidence in the outcome of his fate. In the few words he uttered during the proceedings and to cell mates, he was unusually philosophical.

Pronounced Dead.

"Fate has been against me thus far. Who knows; it's probably my turn next," he said Wednesday after a day in court.

"I believe I have a good chance of being acquitted, at least I do not expect that the jury will order me hanged."

Dr. Young, weeks before he went on trial, was examined by a battery of state alienists and pronounced sane.

His attorneys, however, had gathered a mass of evidence tending to prove he was subnormal mentally.

Boy Against Him.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 28.—Dr. Thomas W. Young decided Wednesday night to commit suicide because his step-son, "Pat" Grogan, Jr., was demanding his neck for the murder of the lad's mother.

This was revealed in conversations with the dentist's jail mates shortly after the suicide yesterday morning.

"Doc played his last game of cards with us last night," said Harry Foster, a prisoner. "He talked repeatedly about the trial and for the first time appeared very worried.

"'I can't understand the way the kid has turned against me. I'm going to kill myself,' that's what he told us last night.

"I asked him how he would do it. He told me that if necessary he would sprinkle water on the floor and put his finger in an open light socket."

EARTHQUAKES PREVENT WORLD DELUGE DECLARES TORONTO SAVANT IN LONDON

Constant Erosion Would Reduce the Land to Sea Level, Says Professor W. A. Parks at Scientists' Convention.

LONDON, August 28. — Canadian Press Cable. — A startling view of the future of mankind was expressed by Professor W. A. Parks of the University of Toronto, addressing the geological section of the British Association for the advancement of Science Thursday. Prof. Parks said that earthquakes were really a blessing in disguise for if the earth's crust were rigid enough to resist earthquakes, a universal deluge, geologically speaking, would be within sight as the power of erosion is great enough to reduce the land to the sea level but for the opposing rejuvenating forces.

Prof. Parks was confident that there was no limit to the upward tendency of life. He said that the future variation in climate would probably greatly affect human activities, and it was not impossible within a measurable number of years, that the present sites of civilization would be buried under glaciers, and that a new civilization would occupy the polar regions under a genial climate.

Industrial Unrest.

Sir Archibald Denny, president of the engineering section of the association, deplored the disappearance in industry of the traditional spirit of clannishness, emulation and co-operation by managers and artizans.

The disappearance of such spirit attributed to the professional agitators and politicians, who were working the same destruction as professionalism had done in football. He declared that unless the public awakened to the cumulative handicaps under which engineering and other industries were suffering, there was no hope of the ship building industry recovering its old supremacy. There must be standardization of details in ships and machinery, he stated.

ALBERTA COAL SEASONAL RATE

Proposal by Premier Greenfield for Enquiry by Railway Board.

SENT TO KING

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Premier H. G. Greenfield has wired to Premier Mackenzie King, asking that an Order-in-Council be passed supplementing the Order of June 5, which instructed the Board of Railway Commissioners to inquire into the freight rates structure throughout Canada, the new Order to provide for special inquiry into the movements of train-lot shipments of coal from mining centres in Alberta to points in Ontario.

It is suggested in the Premier's message that this inquiry shall be with a view to establishing a seasonal rate on coal, to apply to and during the months of April, May, June and July, and that the Ontario points to be thus served shall be railway divisional points. No provision for an inquiry into rates on train-lots of coal was made in the original Order-in-Council.

INSULIN SUPPLY IS SUFFICIENT

Prof. J. J. R. MacLeod Addresses Scientists at London Assembly.

ASSISTED BANTING

LONDON, Aug. 28. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Professor J. J. R. MacLeod, of the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Toronto, and Dr. C. H. Best, Toronto, who were associated with Dr. Banting in the discovery of insulin for the treatment of diabetes, addressed the physiological section of the British Association for the advancement of Science Thursday. Prof. MacLeod said that insulin was procurable in great quantities from the islet tissue of fishes and was also easy to obtain in large quantity from the pancreas of the skate dog fish.

Asked if the utilization of such fish might lead to a great commercial development in the production of insulin, Prof. MacLeod replied in the negative. He said that the gutting of fish was mostly carried on at sea, and such conditions were unfavorable for the production of insulin. There could be an enormous yield of insulin from this source but there was no longer any shortage as insulin could be obtained in quite sufficient quantities from the pancreas of the ox.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR EDITH CAVELL

Impressive Ceremonies at Mount Cavell on Tenth

JASPER, Alta., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press.)— A very impressive service took place in Jasper National Park on a recent Sunday, commemorating the death of Edith Cavell (the tenth anniversary). Within a mile of the Ghost Glacier at the foot of the mountain all the visitors assembled. The chaplain in his foreword explained that the service was not to revive ill-feeling, which he considered would be at variance with Miss Cavell's own desires, but "It is in humble thanksgiving to God for her exhibition of unfailing courage and her faithfulness to the basis principle of her profession—to save life at whatever personal cost—that it is proposed to hold this memorial service each year at the foot of the austere and majestic peak to which an additional dignity has been lent by naming it after her."

U. S. TO CONSIDER DEBT AGREEMENT

French Promises to London Must Be Taken Into Account.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press).—The feature of the Anglo-French debt settlement which involves the question of French ability to pay is regarded here as having an important bearing on the forthcoming Franco-American debt discussion. Acting Secretary Winston of the treasury said yesterday that obviously the amount France has agreed to pay the London government will have to be considered by the United States debt commission when it analyzes the capacity of the French nation to liquidate its obligations here.

Mr. Winston added, however, that the relationship of this government to those nations which owe it money is strictly that of creditor, while the relationship between the Allied debtors and creditors is complicated in his opinion by questions confined strictly to European affairs.

FRENCH SATISFIED.

Caillaux Tells His Cabinet of Success in Debt Negotiations.

PARIS, Aug. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Caillaux, Finance Minister, set forth at great length the result of his conference at London to his colleagues at a Cabinet meeting last night. He had reached a tentative settlement with the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, on France's debt to Great Britain, an outcome which has been received with general satisfaction in French quarters.

ORGAN RECITAL IS NOT APPRECIATED

Few Non-Musical People Know Possibilities of Instrument.

The possibilities of the organ are not appreciated by many non-musical people.. They hear it in church in the accompaniment to the hymns and anthems. They may have some local pride in their parish church organ. They may be pleased with the music they hear from Sunday to Sunday and so commend the work of the organist.

As to the artistic possibilities of the organ or the rich store of music which has been written for the noblets of all instruments, they are profoundly ignorant. But how shall the non-musical public be taught to appreciate and admire the music for the organ unless it is played for them? Yet they seem to treat the work of the organist, when he plays strictly organ music or music not connected with the singing of the choir, as quite unworthy of their attention. There is some justification for the organist when he says, as we have recently heard one, "There is no use playing a Mendelssohn sonata or other decent music. The people will not listen to it. I give them what they want, light, easy stuff, popular melodies." The people do want more than that. They are willing to listen to more than that. This remark, we believe, is not wholly justified by the actual conditions.

TEACHERS LEARN WEALTH OF NORTH

Ontario Party Entertained at Abitibi Paper Plant.

IROQUOIS FALLS, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press)—Yesterday Ontario's representative teachers spent the afternoon in seeing how paper is made by the Abitibi Power and Paper Company. The modern public school in this town was the second point of interest and here they were received by Principal F. C. Mansell. The board of trade and the school board provided a fine band concert in the civic centre in the evening after which there was a dance in the town hall. The teachers were told by local speakers how badly good roads are needed here, how disastrous forest fires are and were asked to tell their pupils the unvarnished truth about the vast resources of the north.

The lives of 500 tubercular patients, most of them ex-soldiers and children, were endangered this week when fire destroyed the staff building of the Hamilton Sanatorioum and threatened to wipe out the whole institution. The ruins are pictured above.

PERSONALS FROM CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28.—Dr. and Mrs. H. O. Richardson and Masters Ronald and Billy motored to Toronto where they will visit at the home of Mrs. Richardson's sister, Mrs. M. G. McCarthy. Miss Enid Richardson, who has been visiting her aunt, will return with them.

Miss Fern Weatherill returned home on Saturday after a visit at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, at Northport.

Mr. Alfred Merrills has purchased the fine residence of Mr. A. E. Caddy on Grand Road and while he does not purpose occupying it at the present time, will at some future date taken possession.

Mr. Howard and Miss Helen Wood, who have been on a trip to visit their sister, Mrs. O. Sparling, at Wayne, Alta., and who have also been on a motor trip to Portland, Spokane, and other Western points, leave on Sunday for the East. Miss Wood expects to remain over for a visit with friends in Winnipeg, while Howard will be home next week.

Miss Hilda Cowell, R.N., who has been spending the past six weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell, leaves on Saturday to assume her duties on the staff of the Prospect Heights Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Mr. Lorne O. Pearce, manager of the Bell Telephone Company here, has been promoted to the office of district manager, with headquaretrs at Peterboro, and will assume his duties about September 15th. Mr. and Mrs. Pearce have made a host of friends since coming to Campbellford, over a year ago, and while their friends reget their removal are pleased to learn of his well merited promotion.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thring and little daughter Mabel, left on Wednesday for Otterville where they will reside.

George L. and Mrs. Thring have gone to Tillsonburg where Mr. Thring, who originally came from that town, has secured a position in a shoe factory.

INDIAN IMPRISONED

Five-Year Sentence for Manslaughter.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Attired in their newly-purchased clothes of the latest mode, a party of Laird River Indians who were brought to civilization from their remote native Hinterland in Northern British Columbia either to face trial or to testify at the witchcraft murder hearing concluded here last Saturday, have sailed for the north.

"Big Alex" found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to five years' imprisonment, is the only member of the party not bound for home.

J. NELSON STONE IS RETURNING OFFICER

Liberal Executive Names County President for Election Office

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28.—J. Nelson Stone has been recommended for the position of returning officer for Northumberland County and thus is regarded as equivalent to his appointment. The recommendation was unanimously agreed upon by the Liberal executive committee as Mr. Slade, the nominee of the party, did not care to assume the responsibility. The appointment to this office is now good during the life of the Government that makes it, instead of for one election only.

Mr. Stone is the president of the Northumberland Liberal Association, having been elected to that position at the annual meeting held in Warkworth a few months ago. At a recent meeting of the executive it was decided that if it is found that Mr. Stone's duties as president and returning officer clash, Clarence Massie of Morganston shall act as president until the next annual meeting.

Mr. Massie is vice-president of the party for Cramahe Township and is an energetic worker on behalf of Liberal principles.

NEED 5,000 MEN

British Columbia Expects Harvesters Next Week.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—"It's all news to us," said Government employment officials when interviewed Thursday in regard to a news despatch from the Pacific Coast which stated that all further importations of harvesters from British Columbia had been cancelled.

Local officials stated orders for 500 additional men had been placed at the Coast and had not been filled. As far as they knew the men would be forthcoming in the course of a few days.

Approximately 5,000 men are expected to arrive from the east in the next week. So far, according to local agents, there has been no shortage of labor but the additional 5,000 men will be needed when threshing becomes general throughout the province.

SCHWAB ON MUSIC

Steel Magnate Says Love of Music Means Much to Him.

Charles M. Schwab, President of the Bethlehem Steel Works, says: "There is a prevalent opinion that music is for women and effeminate men, that men lose a part of their masculinity if they confess to a love of music. I love music and I think I have held on pretty well to the masculine side of my nature. Music has mean much to me in my life of affairs. It has refreshed me when I was dog-tired, taken me out of myself and away from the problems of business. A book can do that, too. So can painting. But not so surely as does music.

"There is a 'reach' to music that the other arts have not; it seems to 'get' you in an exhausted mood and quiets and refreshes, where a book or a picture is not so sure. Much depends on a man's nature; on his temperament. But, knowing men as I do, I cannot help but feel that the average business man would be benefited more than he dreams of if he exposed himself to music."

EASTER LILY IN BLOOM

Campbellford Gardener is Proud of Flower Out of Season.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28.—Talking about wonders in the floral kingdom, there is in full bloom in the garden of St. Mary's Presbytery an Easter lily, which William Fitzpatrick, the gardener, regards as his great achievement.

In most people the hearing of the left ear is more acute than that of the right. This is the reason that most of us almost unconsciously use the left ear when telephoning.

EXPULSION FROM SILESIA SOWING SEED OF BATTLE

Germans Were Put Out of Silesia by Poles Recently.

NOT CARED FOR

Poor Condition of Refugees Gives Germany Opportunity for Propaganda.

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

The first propaganda movement to secure world sympathy for Germany in Europe's next war has been taken by the Berlin authorities at the expense of German citizens compelled to leave Poland because of their refusal to Polish nationality These Germans passed under Polish sovereignity by the war provoking act of the Versailles treaty which assigned to Poland certain areas of German territory.

Under the terms of the treaty, Germans liivng in the areas thus arbitrarily wrested from Germany, who did not become Poles within three years must leave the country. The three years' period has now ended and the Germans have flocked across the border into their homeland, where no arrangements for their reception have been made by the Berlin government.

In consequence of this neglect, the German refugees are in a bad plight. They are largely herded in concentration camps; and many of them must remain in this state until next year. The reason for the distress caused the refugees is not due to Poland's expulsion order. For three years Germany has known that the order must become automatically effective, and there has been plenty of time, therefore, for the German authorities to care for the patriots who refused to renounce their nationality.

Could Have Been Cared For

German organizing efficiency is fully competent to care for the refugees had the German authorities desired to do so. Instead, the propagandists in Berlin have allowed the returning citizens of the Fatherland to suffer by their expulsion in the sight of the world. Thus the attention of the world has been concentrated on the fact that Poland possesses German territory forcibly taken from Germany by the allies, leaving a permanent sore spot behind.

The act of propaganda by the Germans is a symptom of the grave situation which is developing in eastern Europe. The argument that Germany deliberately is sacrificing her own subjects in order to gain world sympathy as an artificial move is doubtless true; but German moral propaganda has always been clumsy. This is not the major factor in the situation. Rather, the fact that Germany has begun any kind of moral propaganda at all is the significant sign. At very least, Germany has succeeded in calling attention to the loss of German territory and to the hardships which the loss inflicts on German citizens. Germany has shown that on her eastern frontier there is an Alsace-Lorraine question; and it was the forcible wresting of Alsace-Lorraine from France by the Germans after the Franco-Prussian war which kept alive world sympathy for France. Germany wants the world to know that similar causes produce similar results.

Beside the Germans who have crossed back to their homeland from Poland, there are about one million Germans, largely in Silesia, who have accepted the automatic Polish citizenship conferred on them and who are remaining in Poland. They have expatriated themselves on the advice of the Berlin government for economic reasons; for if there were to be an exodus of a million Germans from Poland back into Germany, they could not be absorbed under present economic conditions. The ones who have now reclaimed their German citizenship are mostly from Poznania and Pomerania and not from Silesia.

Next War in the Making

These million Germans, become artificial Poles, have accepted an alien nationality and an alien culture only as the lesser of two evils. They are like the French citizens in Alsace-Lorraine who passed under German citizenship in 1870 only to engage in perpetual passive resistance and to bring up their children in the faith of France, while awaiting the time of their deliverance.

So, in Poland, there are enough expatriated Germans to perpetuate the faith of Germany while in Germany are the citizens who have returned home from their despoiled lands, to become perpetual martyrs in the eyes of the Fatherland. Here is the making of the next war, inevitable as the course of evolution. How it will be fought and whether the world again will be involved cannot be predicted. But, nothing can stop the war except an agreement between Germany and Poland which will restore the German lands. For these lands are in as unholy subjection as were the Poles themselves under the subjection of Russia until the world war gave Poland its freedom.

RENAME STREET HONOR HEROES

NOW VALOR STREET

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 28.—The bravery of three Winnipeg warriors, who fought with the Canadian forces during the World War, will be impressed upon posterity with a permanent and unique memorial.

It was recently discovered that three of Winnipegs' sons who earned the Victoria Cross had lived on the same street within a block of each other during peace times. Residents of the street, determined upon honoring their memory, petitioned the civic authorities for permission to change the name of the street to "Valor Road." The request was granted and on the initiative of the Women's Canadian club a memorial lamp has been unveiled at the intersection of the newly named street and Portage avenue.

Only one of the three returned at the cessation of hostilities, that being Lieut-Col. Robert Shankland. The other two, F. W. Hall and Leo Clark, paid the supreme sacrifice.

JAP PRINCE VISITS NAME MOUNTAIN

Chichibu, Second Son of Emperor, Climbs Mount Chichibu.

TOKYO, Aug. 28.—Mt. Chicibu, where the mountain azaleas are always at their best, was visited by Prince Chichibu and his suite recently. The second son of the emperor and empress takes the title from the Chichibu district, lying west of Tokio, within which Mt. Chichibu stands.

Early in the morning the prince arrived at the small village lying at the foot of the mountain from which the climb is usually commenced. He was given an enthusiastic if respectful welcome by all the villagers, who lined the main street of their village through which the prince passed.

Part way up the mountain is the Chichibu shrine where the prince lunched. After lunch he started the real stiff work and reached Peak Myoho, as it is called, as the sun was about to set. The clear weather afforded an extended view in all direction.

The night was spent at the Mitsumine shrine near the top of the mountain, where the prince was entertained with sacred dances performed by country girls in the dancing hall of the shrine.

IMPORTS FROM UNITED STATES ARE INCREASING

Drop, Which Continued for Month After Month, Has Stopped.

EXPORTS INCREASE

Sales to U.S.A. Rise After Being at Standstill for Months.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press).—Canadian purchases in the United States, which for a time suffered an eclipse, seem to be recovering. Month after month, imports from the U.S. dropped when compared with the same month of the previous year. July of last year, for instance, was down five millions; August, 16 millions, and September eight millions.

These decreases continued until May of this year, when Canadian purchases in the U. S. showed an increase. Imports from the United States in May were $49,728,026, or an increase of more than three and a half million dollars over May of last year. In June imports were nearly seven millions more than in June of last year totalling $49,303,844.

With the increase in Canadian purchases in the States has come an increase in U. S. purchases in Canada. During the last 12 months exports from Canada to the United States were practically stationary. But in May and June there was an improvement. In May Canadian exports to the United States were $39,363,691, three millions more than in May of last year; in June exports to the States were $37,781,268, six millions more than in June of 1924.

For the whole twelve months ending in June imports from the United States were $517680,180; against $570,868,112 in the twelve months ended June, 1924; exports to the United States in the two twelve-month periods were: 1923-24, $423,-885,067; 1924-25, $429,275,635.

Taking the 12 months as a whole the most important diminutions in Canadian purchases south of the international boundary have been under the head of iron and its products. These, in the twelve months ended June, were $118,600,000, as against $142,000000 in the corresponding year previous.

Volume of non-metallic materials purchased by Canada in the United States were $109000,000 as against $128,000,000 in the year before. American purchases in Canada showed the biggest increase under the head of non-ferreous materials. These were $59,000,000 in the year ended June against $44,000,000 in the corresponding twelve months previous.

There was less American anthracite sold in Canada in the year ending June than in the previous year. The amount was $34,435,000, a decrease of three millions from the year previous. At the same time imports of British anthracite increased, amounting to $3,517,000 compared with $1,905,000 the previous year.

GREAT AUTHORS MAKE LARGE SUMS

Death of Rider Haggard Recalls Estates of Other Writers.

LONDON, Aug. 28.— The fortune of some $300,000 left by the late Sir Rider Haggard recalls other instances of profitable authorship. Rostand, the French writer, in his biography states that he received more than $1,000,000 from one book alone—"Cyrano de Bergerac"—which sum included, however, royalties from the stage presentations of the play. Daudet made more than $200,000 out of "Sapho.' $80,000 for a single novel, "Hel-$80,000 fo ra single novel, "Helbeck of Bannesdale." Lord Beaconsfield received more than $50,000 each for "Endymion" and "Lothair."

CHILD KIDNAPPINGS TERRORIZE BRAZIL

Numerous Strange Disappearances Have Mothers in State of Panic.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 28.—(United Press).—Rio de Janiero and Sao Paulo are seriously agitated by the recent numerous mysterious disappearances of children between the ages of 8 and 16.

These cases are made even more mysterious since no case has as yet come to light where kidnappers have asked ransoms for their victims, and have covered up all traces of their activities.

Wild stories of the use the kidnappers are putting their victims to have created terror in nearly every family and Rio and Sao Paulo mothers, for fear of losing their children, do not allow their little-ones out of their sight for a moment.

SHOW CANNED FRUIT AT C. N. EXHIBITION

Alberta Will Demonstrate Possibilities of Fruit Growing in Province.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 27—(Canadian Press.)—Alberta's fruit-growing and preserving possibilities are to be shown on a large scale at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. A certain jar of canned strawberries which Mrs. William Stewart, of Peace River, will display, is that bearing the following tag: "Carstairs, Alta. Put up by Mrs. —— aged 75 years, and grown by Mr. ——, aged 80 years." Of wild fruits there will be found strawberries, black currants, gooseberries, high and low bush cranberries, sand cherries, Saskatoons and hoe berries prepared in different forms. Cultivated fruits include strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and rhubarb. A dainty which does not seem to come under any particular classification is preserved ginger made from vegetable marrow.

PALACE WAS PRISON TO PRESIDENT EBERT

Did Not Always Feel Exalted in His High Position.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.— The late Friedrich Ebert did not always feel exalted in his position as president of the German Republic. An incident illustrating how the president felt at times is related in the diaries and memoirs of the late Minna Cauer, woman leader.

While visiting the President, Mr. Ebert complained that he never was able, in his position, to follow his own inclination, that he never could get away from himself.

"Circumspection, calmness and moderation in all things are the obligations my position entails," he said.

"How do you feel, Mr. President, when you look back into the past from your splendid executive mansion and this beautiful park?" Minna Cauer asked.

"As in a prison," the first German president replied, in a voice charged with emotion.

High Price is Obtained For Lock Of Poet's Hair

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—(United Press).—If hair throughout the world were as expensive as a small lock recently sold in Vienna it would be necessary for many bald-headed men to go without toupees.

The sale in question was effected at one of the periodic auctions held by Austria's national pawnshop, Dorotheum. The hair was a lock from the head of the poet, Frank Grillparzer.

After a bit of spirited bidding by a number of poor but devoted admirers of the poet his hair was knocked down for a little over six dollars.

SCHOOLS TRY TO SET UP MUSIC STANDARD

Relationship Between Home and School is Nowhere Else So Marked.

The school has recognized that education is not a thing apart from life, but a part of it, and that the more closely education is related to the community, the more effective it will be. On the other hand, the home has gone to the school and asked that the teachers assume the responsibility for many activities and types of training that formerly were given in the home. This movement has been particularly true where th highly developed city life has taken away from the home the tilling of the field and the duties around the house which were formerly a part of the education of the child living in the small town or the rural district. As a result of these two types of approach, the school is constantly talked about at home, and the home is subject to constant review in the school.

In no field has interrelating of the two educational agencies been so marked as in the cultural subjects, especially music. The school is attempting, by the standard it sets up, to influence the type of music that shall be used in the home and in the community at large. The wise music supervisor says that unless the songs of the classroom are carried to the father and mother there is something wrong with the music instruction. On the other hand, the great increase in instrumental instruction in the schools and the granting by the schools of credit for private outside lessons in piano, voice and other musical studies indicate that the home has already gone far toward abandoning the supervision of musical education which up until a few years ago was entirely the responsibility of the parents. It, therefore, is unnecessary to advocate the close relationship between school and community music. It is already an exisiting condition. The only question now is, "what can be done to make it better?"

FIREMAN SCALDED BY ENGINE BREAK

Norwood Man's Face Burned When Sprinkler Was Blown Off.

HAVELOCK, Aug. 28.—Donald Wright, who is employed as fireman on the C.P.R. yard engine at Peterboro, was severely scalded on the face and head on Thursday morning, when the hot water sprinkler of the engine blew off.

He was brought home on the noon train and on account to his eyes being badly swollen it will not be known for a few days how his eyesight is affected.

23,000 RESTAURANTS

Hunger Should Not Worry the People of Tokio.

TOKYO, Aug. 28.—The statistics of cafes and restaurants for Tokyo and its environs indicate that hunger should not be among the things suffered by the residents, provided they have the price.

There are 5,733 so called "foreign restaurants," which means places where supposedly foreign food is served in an alleged foreign style. There are 1,208 restaurants serving Chinese style food, and 16,414 Japanese style restaurants.

The total for all the public eating places in the city, exclusive of hotels, clubs and semi-private places, is 23,352. In only 1 ward, Kojimachi, do the foreign restaurants exceed the Japanese in number, the figures being: foreign style, 206; Japanese style, 173.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22.

A particularly lively and eventful day may be forecast on the judgment of the very interesting planetary configurations. Mutual as well as lunar directions indicate stirring and interesting developments in business as well as in social, domestic and affectional relations. Especially, it may be said, in the latter, where romantic or sensational episodes may eventuate. The unexpected may be anticipated. Those in the employment of others are under excellent sway for promotion or preferment if qualified.

Those [illegible] domestic and affectional matters there may be developments out of the ordinary or conventional. Promotion or preferment are forecast for those eligible. A child born on this day should have excellent faculties and talents and should rise in life through these and its splendid resources and initiative.

STREET NAMES

PARNELL STREET.

Charles Stewart Parnell was born on his father's estate at Avondale, County Wicklow, Ireland, of a family of the same name whose members included Parnell the poet and Sir John Parnell, Chancellor of the Exchequer in Grattan's Parliament. He was educated at Magdalen College, Cambridge; became member of Parliament for Meath in 1875; organized the "active" Home Rule party and developed its obstruction tactics; and in 1879 formally adopted the policy of the newly-formed Land League, and was an active member and was chosen president of the organization. In 1880 he was returned for the city of Cork and was made leader of the Irish party. In the session of 1881 he opposed the Crimes Act and the Land Act; was arrested (October 13) under the terms of the former, along with other members of his party and was lodged in Kilmainham jail, from which he was not released until the following May.

As leader of his party he ruled his followers with a rod of iron, maintaining [illegible] in social circles and was on terms with very few of his associates, but his power and influence were enormous and he became known as the "uncrowned king of Ireland". In 1883 he was made the recipient of a large money testimonial gathered chiefly in America.

At the general election of 1885 he was re-elected for Cork and in the same year took an important part in the inauguration of the National League. Under his leadership the Irish party supported the home rule proposals of Mr. Gladstone. Agrarian outrages were then common in the Irish areas and in 1887 a series of articles entitled Parnellism and Crime appeared in the Times written as was diclosed in recent years by Sir Robert Anderson of the Irish Government service, in which Parmission of three judges was appointed by the Government in 1888 with the result that, after much evidence had been heard on both sides a report was laid before Parliament in February, 1890, Parnell being acquitted of all the graver accusations.

But Parnell was destined to be himself the instrument of his own downfall. His name came before the public in a new connection—that of co-respondent in a suit for divorce—which was brought by one of his colleagues, Captain O'Shea, against his wife, Kitty O'Shea. The divorce was granted and Parnell further outraged Irish opinion by marrying the divorcee. From that moment his prestige was lost and towards the close of his life he had to petition the London police for

NATURE LORE

By WALLACE HAVELOCK ROBB

It takes a crack of thunder and lightning right at my door to awaken me from slumbers here in these woods, as a general rule, and sometimes my family wants to know why I did not wake up and enjoy the thrill of being scared when even the sharp cracks do not arouse me, but last night I was roused by a lesser noise.

It may so happen that our ears become immune to usual sounds and awaken us promptly when strange things happen.

About three or possibly nearer to two in the morning, we were awakened by the greatest rumbling row under the house that I have heard for some time. It was very dark.

Some sort of animals were having a terrific battle under the veranda. The searchlight revealed a rolling bundle of brown fur and a few wiggles told us that it was a case of two wild mink, having it out, so to speak.

The mink is a bloodthirsty savage. He is fearless and dangerous, so we watched at a distance, for a while, as the life and death struggle went on. Then, as it seemed to be taking longer than we had expected, we obtained a lantern. Still the low rumbling on the soft forest floor went on, and the ball of brown fur tumbled and rolled, with peculiar hissing growls. If they were two young ones, playing, then mercy preserve us from a frolic with a mink, for no bulldog could be worse in a fight.

We thought these might be our friendly daytime minks in a death strugge, so one camper got a paddle and whacked the pair of them with the flat side of it, every time they stopped rolling to get breath, and, since that was not in the rules of forest fighting, they threw up the sponge and made off, leaving hair and blood for proof of their brotherly love. I saw one with a red squirrel in his mouth yesterday, running behind some rocks. Oh, they are cute and loving, aren't they. Yes, they are, at times, but they do not submit to authority. They are wild, savage and free, and friendship for us is just a side line.

Three-Minute Journeys

WHERE THE CORONATION STONE IS REVERED

Among the historic objects that grace Westminster Abbey, none is more hallowed by tradition than the coronation stone. It is nothing more than a rough block of stone inside an oaken chair known as the Coronation Chair. For in this chair every sovereign of Jacob's Legendary Pillow.

England, from Edward I to the present ruler, has been crowned.

It is not quite certain just what was the early history of the Coronation Stone. It did come from but one thing it is certain, and that is the fact that it was brought from Scone, in Scotland, by Edward I, and deposited in Westminster Abbey. He it was, too, who built the chair which still holds it.

It seems very likely that the stone was brought home as a Token of victory for it is known that as far back as the tenth century, all Scottish sovereigns were inaugurated at Scone by being placed in a chair of stone. And it is probable that the Coronation Stone is no less than a piece of that very chair.

There are many tales, however, of the origin of the stone. It is said to be the pillow upon which Jacob slept at Bethel and which his descendants carried into Egypt. Then it is supposed to have been brought to Scotland by a Greek, named Gathelus, who married Scota, a daughter of Pharoah, and fled with her and the remnant of the Egyptians, who escaped drowning in the Red Sea, to Brigantium, now Compostella. His royal seat was the Stone of Destiny, which always promised sovereignty to the Scots, descendants of Scota.

From Spain the stone was carried into Ireland by Simon Breck, descendant of Gathelus, and in the chair he was crowned King of Ireland. Finally it was taken to Scotland by Fergus, an Irish King who conquered Scotland, and it remained there until Edward took it to England.

Only once since that time has the stone been removed from Westminster Abbey. Cromwell, who was installed in office as Lord Protector of England in Westminster Hall, had it removed there that he might take office in the historic chair. There is, perhaps, no single thing in all the coronation ceremony more important than this old stone, the history of which stretches back so many centuries. And no matter whether the stories of its origin are true or not, the fact remains that it has been witness to a sufficient number of historic events in the past few centuries, since it was brought to England, to make it worthy of its place of honor in Westminster Abbey.

YOUR GARDEN

BUILDING THE ROCK GARDEN

This form of gardening is much in favor, and will add a great deal of interest to even the small place. The placing of such a feature, however, is very important, as the name itself suggests nature and naturalness in placing, the stiff and regular "rock piles" one too often sees, can hardly qualify as true rock gardens. Positions such as against the house foundation, along straight formal walks, on the lawn or any area somewhat formal and very much in evidence are hardly suitable. In the far corners, partially hidden by preference from the main portion of the garden and with a little shade, may splendid situations be found. In certain localities, of course, where the natural ruggedness of the site is preserved along with a certain amount of the native vegetation, rock gardens can be readily developed, even on the front areas, and will be quite in keeping; possibly more so than a formal development. My former remarks, therefore, referred more to grounds not naturally suited to this form of gardening.

A slope is preferable for a site, but the lack of one can be overcome by judicious contouring and building up of the surface and rocks. If the garden is to be made on flat land, a little valley running very irregularly may be dug out. The soil thus removed may be used to build up the sides to make the depression seem larger than it is, but care should be taken to avoid having a wet hole through lack of drainage. The rockwork should run nearly north and south to provide various exposures for the different plants and anything that is at all artificial or unnatural as cut stone, birches, large climbers, statuary, etc., should be carefully avoided.

Remove the top soil and place the rocks arranging them on a plan of stratification so that they will all run in the same general direction. The largest should be laid at the base and care taken to avoid arranging the rocks in correct tiers or anyway at all artificial. They should rather imitate nature as closely as possible and be so arranged as to appear inherent in the earth.

Good, porous soil in abundance must be used, well mixed with leaf mould to a depth of two or three feet. In many so-called rockeries, there is not sufficient depth to the soil pockets and moisture in them, to establish a good assortment of plants.

When constructing a rock garden on a dry hill, a sub irrigation system should be provided by installing a two-inch agricultural tile along the top of the lope, about twelve inches below the surface. The bottom of the trench should be inclined toward the rockery and filled with crushed stone or clean cinders, placed around the tile. By connecting the tile with a rubber hose, the use of valves may be done away with.

The soil areas should be arranged with the object in mind of planting in clumps or colonies. This phase of the work will be taken up in a future article.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID MEXTS A QUEER LITTLE FELLOW

David stood perfectly still and watched the queer little creature. He was a funny looking little fellow. His body was covered with large, leaf-like, pointed scales that lapped over each other like the shingles on a roof. These scales ran from the tip end of his tail to the very end of his nose. He was slender and reminded David somewhat of a lizard, only he was much larger. His head was rather short and his legs were short, with strong, curved claws. His eyes were quite large and very bright, and when he discovered David looking at him he didn't know whether to run or stand still.

"Don't be frightened, little fellow, I won't harm you," said David softly. "I was just wondering who you were, I don't believe I have ever seen anysing" just like you before. I'm David Dorn.

"And I'm Pangy Pangolin," chuckled the queer little fellow. "At least, that's the name I like the best. Some folks call me Scaly Lizard, but I don't like that at all."

"I can see why they would call you Scaly Lizard, all right," laughed David. "For you're shaped like a lizard and you sure have a lot of scales. But say, 'angy, haven't you any ears?"

"Sure I have," said the funny little fellow, "but they are so well hidden under my scales that you can't see them. I should say I have ears! If I didn't have, I'd be out of luck. When I hear an enemy coming I just do this," and Pangy Pangolin rolled himself up into a ball. Every one of the scales on his back stood up just like Porky Porcupine's quills do when he rolls up. David laughed, the little fellow looked so very funny.

"Don't Be Frightened."

"It's right here to tell you it's not funny for the fellow who runs against me," continued Pangy Pangolin, unrolling himself, "for every scale there would give him a terrible dig if he hit them. You see, that's the only way I have of defending myself."

"But haven't you any teeth?" asked David.

"No, I haven't," laughed Pangy Pangolin. "You see, when I eat I don't need them, for I feed like the ant-bear does. I just run my long, slim tongue down an anthill and get a good meal anytime. Well, David Dorn, I'm glad I met you, and if ever you happen to be passing through the woods yonder, stop and see us. We live in a hollow tree over there," and before David could say another word the queer little fellow turned around and trotted out of sight.

"Pshaw," laughed David. "He didn't tell me which hollow tree. I'll find him again some day," and whistling merrily he trotted on down the path to the woods.

Smoky London some day will be minus its smoke and fogs. The London County Council is definitely committed to the idea of transforming the city by general utilization of electricity and the Ministry of Health ventures to state that "the eelctrical London minus is smoke and fogs may be much nearer of realization than the majority of hard-headed 'men in the street' would be willing to concede."

Master Russell Williamson has returned home after spending a week at Keneden Park.

Rev. P. B. Thornton left suddenly on Friday for his home in Winnipeg, owing to conditions which had arisen in his church since his holiday commenced. Much disappointment was expressed as his many old friends in Omemee were looking forward to hearing Mr. Thornton speak in the United Church on Sunday morning, and also to give an illustrated lecture on Monday evening, both of which had to be cancelled.

Dr. G. N. and Mrs. Earle and family, also Mrs. Potts, motored to Pleasant Point on Sunday and spent the day with Dr. and Mrs. Irvine.

Omemee is about to lose another citizen in the person of Mr. W. McAughey, who with his wife and two daughters, leave this week for Hunts ville, where he has secured a position.

WEDDING BELLS.

RUNDLE—OSBORNE.

MARMORA, Aug. 28.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's Church, Marmora, on Wednesday, Aug. 26, before a crowded congregation, when Alma Gertrude, only daughter of Mrs. Sarah Osborne, became the bride of Leslie Robert, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Rundle of Crofton Park, London, S. E., England. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. Philip Caiger-Watson. The church was nicely decorated for the occasion. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Herman Osborne of Belleville. She was daintily attired in a gown of white crepe de chine, with regulation veil and orange blossoms. She also carried a bouquet of sweet peas and fern.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Dora Osborne, who was attractively gowned in orchid crepe de chine, with picture hat to match. The duties of best man were discharged by Mr. William Rylott. The service was choral, both having been for a period members of St. Paul's choir. Mrs. W. Litt presided at the organ. The hymn, "O Perfect Love," was sung, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March and the "Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, were also played.

Following the ceremony, immediate relatives and friends adjourned to the residence of the bride's mother, where the wedding breakfast was served. The wedding cake was supplied by Mr. Arthur Hart, chef at the Hub Dining-Rooms, Deloro.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome fur choker; to the bridesmaid, a string of pearls, and to the best man, a gold tie-pin.

Later in the day the happy couple motored to Whitby, where the first portion of the honeymoon is being spent. Congratulations were showered upon them by their many friends.

Out-of-town relatives attending were Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Juby and children, Clarence, Roy, Myrtle and Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Eggleton and daughters, Ruth and Florence, all of Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dickens, of Norwood; Mrs. John Rogers, of Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. David Taylor and daughter, Vera, of Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Osborne, of Cordova, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Osborne and two children, of Belleville.

IN THE KITCHEN

—By Jeanette Norton—

FOR THE FALL PICNIC LUNCHEON.

The box luncheon is most convenient and easily carried, and all carriers may be destroyed after the meal is over. A large thermos bottle may be filled with hot or cold tea, coffee or cocoa, or any other drink liked, and will hold enough for six people.

Remember that bread at least a day old and butter worked to a paste with the addition of a little heavy cream make the best sandwiches. If the entire crust is cut from the loaf before it is sliced it saves time and work. For convenience in every way, loaf cake will be most satisfactory. Pound, fruit, sponge, marble, or white cakes make a good choice.

Chicken and Ham Filling.

Mince very fine cold boiled ham enough to make one cupful, and cold boiled chicken to make two cupfuls. Mix the meats and add half a finely minced red pepper, a teaspoonful of minced white celery leaves, pepper, salt, the juice of an onion, a minced sharp gherkin pickle and enough heavy mayonnaise to make a spreading paste. This mixture is nice on white or whole wheat bread. Wherever a mayonnaise filling is used, butter the bread very lightly or not at all.

Pineapple and Cheese Filling.

Take two packages of fresh cream cheese the usual size and work to a paste with three-quarters of a cupful of grated preserved or canned pineapple. Drain the fruit and use that amount solid. Add a half saltspoonful of salt. Add two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped walnuts and spread on white bread.

Cucumber and Onion Filling.

Peel, quarter and seed a fresh cucumber, then mince it fine. Peel, trim and mince fine a bunch of scallions or half a Spanish onion. Wash, trim and mince enough fresh watercress to make a tablespoonful. Mix the ingredients and cover with heavy French dressing and let stand for ten minutes. Drain then bind with a little mayonnaise and spread between whole wheat bread slices.

Chestnut and Cheese Filling.

Take a small bottle of chestnuts (preserved marrons), drain and then chop them fine. Work a package of fresh cream cheese to a paste, adding a half saltspoonful of salt, the chestnuts and a little bit of heavy cream to make a soft enough paste to spread nicely. Do not use butter with this filling. It is good on whole wheat, brown or rye bread

ENGINEER'S SACRIFICE

Died in Cab in Effort to Avert Wreck.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 28.—A. G. Miller, engineer of the Buffalo flyer on the Pennsylvania railway, gave his life yesterday to save the 500 passengers "riding" with him.

Seeing his train lunging towards an open switch near Bradburn, he made no effort to save himself, but stood at the brakes, slowing down the train so that but few were injured, but he was fatally hurt and died in a hospital at Tarentum, Pa., Thursday afternoon.

THE FLARED SILHOUETTE

By Annette Bradshaw

The Gradual Flare Is Used in These Coats. The One on the Right Being for Day Wear and the Other for Evening.

BY ANNETTE BRADSHAW

There is much talk of the varied uses of the flare for Fall. We are told that it will be featured as an inset at the backs of the new frocks, that sometimes it will appear at each side, and that the front flared version, with which we have all become familiar, will continue in favor.

For coats, the back flare is not so effective as it is in frocks. Inset fulness at the front, however, will be seen in cloth models and fur ones alike. A number of the smart new fur coats feature the flare placed low at the front. This treatment is made possible by the fineness of the softer pelts.

There is no more distinctive way of introducing the flare than that adopted in the two models above. The graceful lines of these coats for day and evening are typical of the French, who are responsible for their design.

At the left, we have a lovely advance Fall model of light blue velvet, very soft lustrous velvet, with a deep band of turtle-dove feathers about the hem.

The day coat at the right is made of soft woolen material in royal blue, the shade being featured in Paris. The model fits close at the shoulders, and from here it flares gracefully to the hem, like the evening wrap pictured next to it. The trimming in this case is stenciled flat fur which makes a narrow shawl collar that extends to the hem.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

"BOUND TO LOSE, BUT CAN'T SEE IT."

There she was at the table in the dining car, the queer little person with the bobbed hair and the short skirts and the odd way of laughing.

What in the world was it that was so strange about her?

Her dress was pretty and modish, her hat was really very smart, and she wore the cutest little shoes and the prettiest stockings you ever saw.

All in tan and brown she was—very smart for traveling.

Her clever little wrist-bag was brown and tan and there was a great topaz at the handle. She wore a string of amber beads and a bracelet with a topaz in it—oh, she had given a good deal of thought to that costume, and she had a good dressmaker and a good milliner—there's no doubt of that.

But somehow——

Her hair was such an odd color—sort of greenish in some lights and pinkish in others, and her neck wasn't slim, it was scrawny, and her face had a queer set look. Could she be ill, or what?

Just as I was wondering about her an elderly woman came and sat at the same table.

White-haired, rosy-cheeked, blue-eyed and all in silvery gray. A silver-gray poplin she wore, very simple and plain, and a hat with some silver lace and plain, little, low-heeled shoes and soft gray stockings. She was smartly dressed, too, but somehow you knew the minute you looked at her that she was somebody's grandmother—and you envied the grandchildren.

His wise, kindly eyes were very shrewd and full of understanding.

"Kind of pitiful," he said, "isn't it?"

"Betting on the wrong horse, isn't she She's bound to lose, poor thing, and she thinks she's playing the favorite."

But he was looking not at the silver-gray grandmother, with her sweet placid face, and her kindly eyes full of deep memories, but at the odd little person with the dyed bob and the short skirts and the sleeveless frock——

"Bound to lose—and she can't see it. I hope she hasn't put too much money into the business—or too much hope. It's kind of sad to see 'em play the losing game—don't you think?"

And at once the mystery was plain. There was something "queer" about her, she was a little wizened up old lady pretending to be young and hoping somebody would believe her pretense.

Poor thing, I wonder how soon it will be before she wakes up some morning and realizes she's been wasting her time.

Now if she just dressed to her real age and let her poor, tortured hair stay its own color and grow its own nice grandmotherly way—she wouldn't have been looking.

She had gorgeous eyes and a pair of sort of pathetic, beautiful eyes.

Let's not laugh at the poor souls that try so hard to hang on to the dreams of youth. Let's be sorry for them and treat them very kindly.

Here's to Youth and the joy and romance and beauty and pain and glamour of Youth.

Here's to Age and the peace and dignity and wisdom of it.

It can't be done.

STEPS TO SUPPLE BEAUTY

By Lucrezia Bori

The woman who can handle herself with ease and ability is the woman who can appear at her charming best under any circumstances.

We all admire the woman who moves gracefully, and who always seems to have every smallest movement under perfect control. Truly some of us may admire such a person, without knowing what it really is about her that we find so pleasant. But I know from experience that it is a pleasure to have about us people who move easily and gracefully and with perfect unself-consciousness.

possession, we all know the girl at dance who shows utter lack of Every move she makes seems fraug with self-consciousnes. The very w she manages her feet while danci shows that she is wondering who looking at her. And if the mu happens to stop and she has to wa across the dance floor, she walks stiffl and awkwardly, with lack of grace an charm.

Really, the mental picture is such an unpleasant one that I shall not dwell on the subject.

I want to be really helpful and teach my readers how to get away from such predictments. The secret is to be so sure of yourself and the way you walk and handle your bodily movements that you can forget them entirely. This is the only way to be unselfconscious.

Now, to train your muscles into perfect poise and obedience, you mu strengthen them and impart to them t secret of balance.

This exercise may be difficult at first, for it requires an excellent sense of balance. For this reason, it will help you to decide whether your sense of balance is good or not and to improve it if it needs improving.

Now raise your left leg out straight fore you, at the same time bending ur right knee slightly.

Your right arm is left straight down your side but your left arm is raised ove your head.

If you cannot master this exercise t first, do not grow discouraged. As I said, it requires a well developed sense of balance but it is also excellent for developing this quality.

Balance enables you to sit and stand and walk more beautifully. In fact it dds beauty to every single move that ou make.

WOMEN KEEP DOWN MILITIA STRENGTH

One Reason Why Territorial Army is Not Up to Strength.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Territorial Army is not being kept up to establishment strength because of "women, trade unions and motor-bicycles," said Lord Raglan in the House of Lords recently. He declared that young men were not joining the Territorials in sufficient numbers and the causes mentioned had been "enemies" of the Territorials Army since the war.

Women, he said, did not want their husbands and sweethearts to join, and while the young men of prewar days found the Territorial Army one way of getting off into the country, to-day he uses a motor-bicycle.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

—By Annie Laurie—

Dear Annie Laurie: We are two girls, nineteen and twenty. We are of the backward type and wherever we go we must go alone. We have tried to overcome this, but have failed. If you do not indulge in "petting parties" it seems you are not wanted. Please advise us what to do.

—Lonely and Alone.

Lonely and Alone: I do admit that worthwhile friends are not very easy to find, my dears. But if you choose your friends on the basis of common interests and tastes and community of spirit, you will not have to go places alone. I suggest that you join a gymnasium class or a church club, where the members are bound together by ties of common interests. If you are gracious and cordial you will have no difficulty making worthwhile friendships.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letter to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Let's Talk It Over

SHOULD HE ACCEPT MONEY FROM HIS WIFE?

A real man hates to be dependent a woman. Even when a husband and wife are both working the man likes to feel that it is he who is providing the home—the necessities of life and the luxuries which we could all do without. And so, it's pretty hard on him if he's the right sort, when he loses and has to live on the proceeds of hers. The Pal who writes the following is up against that very situation, and he's taking it very hard. It seems that he can't find work, and she wants to leave and go away somewhere—and stay until he can get back on his feet. But his wife, being a real wife, and a good scout, wants him to accept the bad luck philosophically and draw on their mutual funds until the good luck comes back.

After all, why shouldn't he? If it is a fifty-fifty proposition, then they ought to share in the bad luck as well as the good. If she were out of a job he'd support her. Then why shouldn't she help him over the rough spot? They are partners in marriage, and if the partnership is worth anything it will stand the test. Of course if he were a professional loafer, it would be a different story, but the best workers in the world have been out of a job and up against it. Could a man find a truer friend or a more willing helper in his trouble than the wife who wants to help?

I have been married nine years and was fortunate enough to get one of those angels who are few and far between, one who would rather die than break any vow she made at the altar, one who always helped and one who always will. In fact, she is many times too good for the average man of today, or husband either, but she did make something out of nothing (me) although I was always a good worker and stayed steadily with one firm for nine years.

Moving from one State to another to work, I found things not going so well. In a short time I was out of work. My wife is working now and that is how the joke comes in. I have always said I intended going away until I found work, then sending for her, but she insists on me staying here, saying that things will be better. I do not like the idea of living off her wages. I tell her she is so fixed as to not go hungry and to let me go and see what I can find elsewhere.

Please tell me what you think I should do. It is not my nature to let a woman support me. She means it in the best of faith and God knows I appreciate it, but I can't stand it.

A PAL.

I don't see any reason why you shouldn't accept your wife's help when you are out of work, Pal. Just be glad that she's that kind of a wife, then make up your mind to make it up to her when the luck changes. As for going elsewhere in search of work, that all depends upon supply and demand. If you really feel that there is more opportunity in your particular line of work elsewhere, and that your chances are poor, it would seem foolish to remain. However, that's business and aside from the first point. Better consider the pro pects, and talk it over carefully before you decide to strike out alone. It's better to stay together if you can.

Fur Trimming

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(United Press).—Vivid colored fur matching the exact shade of the costume is the latest fashion word from Paris. Mole and rabbit are being dyed in shades such as rose de boise, green, violet, navy and gold to harmonize with the costume colors. Gold-tinted beaver is also being used as a trimming.

Usually velvet is the material combined with colored fur. Many velvet ensembles and evening wraps are being shown trimmed in harmonizing furs. Mole is perhaps the prettiest of the dyed furs since it is a short, soft fur and less conspicuous than longer-haired furs.

It remains to be seen whether American women will follow their Parisian sisters in the wearing of brilliant-hued pelts. Even now, one sees the Parisian wearing coats of boise de rose, the latest shade, collared and appliqued about the hem-border in mole of that shade.

Panther fur is being stressed as a trimming for sports costumes. Leopard became too generally worn last year and for that reason is looked upon with disdain by the smart Parisian. Reddish brown fur on black is a popular combination in Paris for the early Fall costume. Reddish fox, golden fitch and all yellowish or reddish furs on black are popular.

DOLLAR DAY BALLOT BOX HELD 11,821 ESTIMATING BLANKS

$50 Winner Makes a Bull's Eye---People Expected Figure To Be Higher—Absent Stores Made the Difference in the Total.

MRS. BUCHANAN IS FIRST.

Peterboro people took full advantage of the August Dollar Day bargains and the merchants had a busy day handling the shopping crowds. There's no fooling about a Dollar Day shopper, they are out on business and usually know, from a careful study of the advertisements and windows just what they want and where to go to get it. The counting and sorting of the tickets revealed the fact that a majority of the estimators had not taken into account the fact that six of the largest shoe stores were not participating, and marked their blanks as high as when all the stores were handing out the tickets. Evidently the drop to 11821, the official figure, was not expected, as most of the blanks were filled in with numbers ranging from 13,000 to 18,000.

As it was the total showed only a proportionate decrease to the lessened number of George street central stores that were listed.

However, the successful estimators managed, as usual, to hit very close to the mark, Mrs. Buchanan making a real bull's eye, with the exact figure. Only one tie occurred and that for the last $5.00, which was divided between the two winners.

Correct number—11821.

1—Mrs. Buchanan, 493 Water St. 11821 ..... $50.00
2—Audrey Jeffries, 543 Bolivar St. 11818 ..... $20.00
3—Verna Strong, 537 Harvey St. 11818 ..... $20.00
4—Mrs. J. K. Sheehy, 366 Simcoe St., 11825 ..... $15.00
5—Mrs. N. D. Foote, 541 King St. 11813 ..... $10.00
6—Mrs. H. Kellett, 633 Aylmer St. 11812 ..... $5.00
7—Mrs. H. Whitton, 184 George St. 11809 ..... $5.00
8—Dorothy Finn, 677 Aylmer St. 11808 ..... $5.00
9—Mrs. Parnall, 789 Water St. 11805 ..... $5.00
10—Agnes Dryland, 521 Bolivar St. 11839 ..... $5.00
11—Ida McBride, 751 Water St. 11830 ..... $5.00
12—Mrs. F. Mather, 476 Monaghan Road, 10801 (tie)..... $2.50
13—C. Sheppard, 184 George St. 10801 (tie) $2.50

Prize money will be paid out at the Examiner office any time after 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning.

COMBINED SCHOOL IS NEED OF CITY

Says Dr. J. J. Craig, Who Gives Practical Demonstration of Lack.

Expressing himself as in favor of having a combined collegiate and technical school built in Peterboro, Dr. J. J. Craig, Chairman of the Property Committee, answered the question "Why?" by taking an Examiner representative over the old South Central School, where tuition is given in commercial subjects, and over the Collegiate, pointing out the striking contrast between the equipment and accommodation of the two buildings.

"The commercial students who have to go away from the collegiate to get instruction, labor under severe social and physical disadvantages," he said, "and feel that they are really not part of the collegiate at all. They do not share in the life of the collegiate student body and there is no opportunity for the development of a feeling of esprit de corps. The building is a fire trap, and the rooms are isolated from each other. We have spent $800 in painting the interior and putting it into shape, but it is still far from what it should be. We have five old furnaces down here that are being fixed up for use. If we had taken them apart they could not have been set up again."

Dr. Craig's statement was confirmed by a contractor who has a gang of men at work at the furnaces, which have been repaired and are expected to last for about 3 years.

Dr. Craig stated that several parents had told him their children had refused to take up the commercial course simply on account of the fact that they would have had to go to a school isolated from the collegiate, and lacking in all amenities of school life. He pointed out the cramped position of the old South Central School and asked what attraction there was for a boy or girl to go there.

The journey was then made to the collegiate, where the doctor drew attention to the trim, well kept grounds, and attractive environment. The collegiate was all right, he said, so far as academic intruction was concerned but this is an industrial age, the old system of apprenticeship seemed to have passed, and the demands of the age must be met by giving technical instruction as well. The collegiate will be barely able to take in the city children who are ready to enter at the reopening, without taking into consideration the children of people living just outside the boundary who, if they do not get sufficient opportunity for educating their children, will go elsewhere and the city will lose so much business."

In conclusion Dr. Craig mentioned the fact that the Board had gone on record as favoring the building of the increased educational facilities that was deemed necessary.

ENJOYABLE CONCERT.

Norwood People Favored With Musical Numbers of Great Beauty.

NORWOOD, Aug. 28. — Music lovers of Norwood were given a rare treat on Wednesday evening, when Mrs. M. MacDonald of Columbus, Ohio, rendered several numbers at a musicale held in the United Church.

Mrs. McDonald possesses a wonderful contralto voice and her numbers were very much enjoyed by all present. Other numbers on the programme were an organ solo by Mrs. (Dr.) Norval; a solo by J. S. Weir, and a male quartette by A. Finlay, Gordon Wright, H. Bertrand, and Wm.Stares. At the close of the evening, Rev. T. M. Wesley, tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. MacDonald for the great pleasure she had given those in attendance.

Henri Bourassa, Ambassador of Canadian nationalism and widely known publicist, led a party of about 300 citizens from the Province of Quebec through Ontario last week. ATHLETICS TAKE PLACE OF WORK GRANDMOTHERS HAD TO PERFORM

Says Dr. T. W. H. Young of Girls' Sports of Present Day.

DRESS IS ALRIGHT.

W. H. Bradburn Lauds Sportsmanship Shown By Softball Girls.

"The athletics in which the modern girls indulge merely take the place of the hard work which their grandmothers used to do," said T. W. H. Young, Medical Officer of Health when intereviewed by The Examiner regarding the advisability of women taking up strenuous pastimes.

There may be exceptional cases, as exemplified in the foolish endeavors to swim the English Channel, but unless the sport was too arduous there could be no possible injury attending sport as a popular pastime. The task of swimming the Channel which has been undertaken by a number of women this year has proven that thty have not sufficient stamina and that the tax on nerve forces is too great to withstand the constant battling against all the combined forces of Nature. When great issues are at stake, women have a tremendous reserve power, but for matters of lesser moment these exertions represent a waste of force.

The less strenuous exercises such as soft ball, golfing, running, and many others can be engaged in with safety and decided benefit by women for exercise is necessary to keep the body functioning properly. In many countries to this day women are performing the major portion of the manual labor, such as unloading cargoes and carrying great burdens for long distances over land.

A few generations ago the mothers and grandmothers of the present day girl were forced to do heavier tasks because the exigencies of the times demanded the sacrifice of effort. Then a continuous round of work occupied the attention of the woman from daylight until long past dark. A catalogue of her tasks would include great bakings, washings and ironings, chores about the barn and even farm work itself, while spare time work was unending in the form of quiltings, mending and knitting.

There was no time in those days for a routine period for sport and as a consequence the occasion for such pastimes was not provided.

The times supply their own complement, and the modern day with its countless labor saving devices has to a great extent lifted the burden of toil from civilized woman. What then more natural than that she should turn her attention toward fields which had been hitherto unvisited?

Possibly experiments in the sporting world which resulted successfully have strengthened the resolve to continue and produce athletes which will hang up new records as years pass.

Costumes Suitable.

Regarding the costume habitually worn by feminine athletes, Dr. Young believes them to be eminently suitable. Much more so, he hastened to add, than the costumes worn by the sex on the street which have a tendency to articulate the much discussed sex appeal.

It is not the clothing but the connection which makes the difference. A dancer on the stage properly attired in ballet costume excites no comment but where she to perform the same evolutions in ordinary street attire the performance would be immediately classified as risque and daring to a degree. Athletic costumes properly planned, do not accentuate the sex distinction, but add rather to the classic type of the feminine depicted by statues and other famous works of art.

"Decidedly," concluded Dr. Young "the move towards athleticism is an advance as the body will of necessity become more unified and synchronzed, which will result in a new race of stalwarts excelling the children of past ages.

"Let them go to it."

W. H. Bradburn said: "Let them go to it. They are taking a hand in everything else, Why limit them in their sports? If women are capable of staging pastimes as interesting as that which the C.G.E. and Danforth girls soft ball teams provided, then let them continue for their exhibition was one of good clean sport with plenty of thrills, novelty, good play and real sportsmanship was shown at all times.

There was no heckling of umpires which characterizes the games of the male athletics and the girls took the decisions as final. When authorities are put in charge of a game their dictates should be obeyed as law—else why have them at all?

Girls taking up athletics will aid their bodies in normal physical growth and unless they indulge to excess absolutely no harm should result.

Women are showing considerable adaptability for sport and prove to be fleet runners and strong contenders in all fields of sport. They are taking up new lines of endeavor in the business world so that the preparation which sport gives is of certain benefit as a training agent.

Women have always been practically what they wanted to anyway, and now that they have entered the political field there appears to be no limit to their capability.

TREATY WITH LANDS OF LATIN AMERICA

Trade Agreement May Be Made With People South of Mexico.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—An intimation that Canada may open negotiations with a view to entering into trade treaties with the Central American and South American Republics, as well as Cuba, was made here yesterday by Hance J. Logan, M.P., who visited the West Indies last fall as the Dominion's representative, resulting in the signing of a new trade agreement between Canada and the islands about two months ago.

Mr. Logan estimates that under this new agreement, trade with Canada will increase $25,000,000 at least, annually. "The Canada-West Indies agreement," he declared, "will open the door for greater trade with the south, and I have no doubt will be followed soon by negotiations for better trade arrangements with the Central American and South American republics, in addition to Cuba."

CADETS FIGHTING WITH GENDARMES

Whampoa Island is Scene of Scrap Between Reds and Police.

LONDON, Aug. 28. — (United Press).—The Exchange Telegraph Hong-Kong correspondent to-day cabled Canton messages saying fighting had broken out in Whampoa, near Canton. Cadets of the Military Academy, described as "Reds," were pictured firing indiscriminately while gendarmerie detachments were reported participating on the side of the anti-Bolshevik forces.

Whampoa lies on an island between Canton and the sea. It is the port of discharge for larger craft with cargoes for Canton. At one time, it was claimed by opponents of the Canton regime that Russian money was distributed freely in the district and that arms had been supplied with Russian funds.

ADAM BECK WAS BENEFACTOR OF WOMEN IN HOME

Secretary of Home and School Association Pays Tribute to Memory.

LIGHTENED WORK.

Made Electricity the Maid Servant of Women—Had Mania For Tidiness.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Among the many tributes paid to the life of Sir Adam Beck is this from Mrs. W. H. Becker, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Councils: "He has been a real benefactor to womankind in the home in making it possible for women to make electricity their maidservant through various electrical devices," she said. "Wherever the women in the rural parts of the country are on the Hydro line they feel that they can carry on their households efficiently, notwithstanding the scarcity of domestic help.'

This story is told of Sir Adam, of a day when he wielded an effective broom: He had a passion for tidiness. A guest at "Headley" Lady Brigid King-Dennison, found it necessary to make a hasty return to England and Sir Adam assumed the duty of seeing her safely away, via the London and Port Stanley Railway, to catch her train at St. Thomas for New York. But he seemed distrait after having made arrangements for her comfort. He went to the motorman's vestibule and returned, broom in hand. He gathered up the litter of waster paper and discarded timetables and swept up the dirt from under the feet of the whole assembly. As he finished ,the conductor, a poor diplomatist, whose duty it was to keep the car in shape, took a seat beside the perspiring chairman of the L. & P.S.R. commision to tell him how much he liked his work. "You do, eh?" Sir Adam is quoted as having answered, "Why dont' you try some?"

WHEAT POOL GOT GOOD PRICE FOR WESTERN GRAIN

Final Payment Expected to Bring Total Up to $1.65.

MANY BENEFITS.

Payments at Intervals Keep Farmers Supplied With Ready Cash.

By G. F. Bannerman for Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 28.—Estimates as to the amount of the final payment to be made by the Wheat Pool on account of the 1924 crop are varied but tend to centre around an additional ten cents per bushel on No. 1. All estimates are of course purely speculative since the officials of the Pool show a great aptitude for keeping the business of the Pool to themselves. If, however an additional ten cents should happen to be a correct estimate it will bring the price obtained by the Pool up to $1.65, and will represent the estimated economic value of 1924 wheat as apart from fluctuating exchange and market values.

While undoubtedly here and there it is possible to find member of the Wheat Pool who, remembering that 1924 wheat was quoted at over two dollars on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, will not be satisfied with the price secured by the Pool, it is also true that the majority of pool members whom it has been possible to meet is that the duty of the Pool is not to gamble for the highest price quoted on the Exchange but to market the wheat in such a manner as to ensure stable conditions and to return a reasonable profit over the cost of production insofar as world conditions will allow.

It is the concensus of opinion throughout the three prairie provinces that whatever other benefits the Wheat Pool may have for its members its greatest benefit has been the system of interim payments. By this system the farmer has had his returns from his wheat crop spread out over the crop year and in the case of the payment recently made nods in the majority of cases that he has cash on hand with which to purchase his twine and other requisites for this year's harvest.

The fact that the farmer thus has the cash for his necessary purchases means that he is not to put to the expense of borrowing from the banks in order to harvest his crop and the full advantage of this last payment will be felt when he finds out that, instead of having to pay out seven or eight per cent for borrowed money he has that additional purchasing power from his 1925 crop with which to reduce his outstanding debt.

MODERN GYPSY TOURS COUNTRY IN COSTLY CARS

Car May be Shabby, But Its Engine is Well Cared For.

PEOPLE UNCHANGED

Still Wear Gaudy Clothing and Jewelry—Children Plentiful.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 28.—(United Press).—No more does the Gypsy, like the Arab, pack up his tent and steal away, for the Gypsy of today is as modern as the flapper and the Sheik.

For when the Gypsy now-a-days prepares to move he ropes up his luggage, drops the slatted doors on his poultry and other livestock, bundles up his bed clothing, rolls up his tents, rounds up the numerous rollicking children and then—chugs away in a high-powered automobile.

And he does not travel in the lowly flivver. He uses a high priced car or often three or four, depending on the number in the tribe. Mudbespattered perhaps scaly and bedraggled as to paint, the car may be, but the motor is shining and purring a tune that bespeaks the well-kept engine. Equipped with spot lights, windshied wipers, and all of the newest in appliances, the caravan rolls along through cities and villages, until a likely spot for the camp is found.

But the Gypsy, although his mode of travel is changed, has not himself changed. The men still wear non descript clothing, the trousers held up by a strap, gayly colored shirts with perhaps a bright colored handkerchief knottted about the throat. The women retain their gaudy and picturesque attire, with beads and carrings adding a bizarre touch to the oddity of their costumes.

The children, too, are unchanged. Usually dirty as to face, their numbers seemingly never decreased but always increasing they fill every nook and cranny of the heavily loaded monster cars which their parents drive majestically along.

Central Illinois this year, it seems, has had more than her share of these nomadic visitors. Several days each week see a caravan chugging through the streets, stopping for the women to tell fortunes and give home-stayers a peep into the "past present and future." The men, meantime, seek, prhaps not overeagery, odd jobs. Springfield, tired of their visits, has placed a ban on all fortune tellers in an effort to induce them to steer clear of the town. Other cities probably will follow suit.

EXPLAIN WORK OF CITY TRUST

S. R. Armstrong Tells Kiwanians About History and Powers of Commission.

A UNIQUE BODY.

The Peterboro City Trust was the subject chosen by City Clerk S. R. Armstrong for his address to the members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon to-day.

The Peterboro City Trust, said Mr. Armstrong, is a unique institution, no other city in Ontario possessing such a body. In the trust is vested the control of the land owned by the city and the interest and sinking funds for the various debenture issues of the city. The commission was formed in 1861 by a special Act of the Legislature. The town had a large floating debt, and wanted to raise money to pay for lands purchased from the Government. Five commissioners were appointed for life. They were: Charles Bradfield, Samuel Dickson, William Hall, Edmund Chamberlen and James Stevenson. The last of these to hold office was James Stevenson, who died in 1910. In 1908 a new Act was passed, making the term of office five years, and the present commissioners are Vincent Eastwood, Richard Hall, E. A. Peck, G. A. Gillespie and J. J. Hartley.

The City Trust has power to lease the land or buildings owned by the City for not more than five years. With the consent of the Council, a longer term may be arranged. The commission can sell this land with the consent of the Council. It also receives the interest and sinking fund payments on a mortgage the City holds on the Peterboro-Millbrook railway. When this line was planned the Council of that time, said Mr. Armstrong, issued debentures for $150,000 to take stock in the line, although at the time the assessment of the town was only $60,000.

At the present time the debt of the City is $4,069,000, said Mr. Armstrong. Of this amount, $1,504,000 was raised for the light and water systems. The City's revenue-producing land is worth $220,000, and the sinking funds on hand amount to $1,243,000, while non-producing property, such as schools, the City Hall and the Fire Hall, is worth $507,000.

These figures would seem to show that the City is in a good financial position, that the Trust has looked after its responsibilities carefully, and that the city has not been over-indulgent in incurring debts.

Kiwanian Mayor Turner thanked Mr. Armstrong on behalf of the club.

CARDINAL VISITS DESERT MISSION

Archbishop Dougherty Was Received With Great Honor By Arabs.

TOURED HOLY LAND.

ROME Aug. 28.—(Special by the United Press). — According to reports received at the Vatican, an account of which is given in part in the Osservatore Romano, Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, has just completed a tour of all missions in the Holy Land and in the desert lands of Transjordania.

He was received with distinction by Bedouin chiefs and honored at the antique city of Philadelphia, the desert capital of Transjordania.

In his tour Cardinal Dougherty, accompanied by Monsignor Whitaker and a small entourage of friends and guides in an automobile party, discovered the Town of Salt, which is believed to have been Ramoth Gallad, one of three towns mentioned by Moses as a refuge for the tribes of Israel. After seeing the River Jordan, Cardinal Dougherty moved on into the Bedouin desert to the old town of Philadelphia, named by the Romans, which is now called Amman in the Land of Moab.

Arab chiefs and Bedouins, many of whom have been converted to Christianity, gave the party an enthusiastic reception upon learning that the visiting Prince of the Church was Archbishop of "New Philadelphia."

The party penetrated still further into the desert, where it was received by the Chief of the Tribe of Srur. According to reports, the visitors were received with dignity and oriental hospitality. Sitting on beautiful rugs, they sipped coffee and ate supper offered by the ferocious Bedouin chieftains.

They returned to Philadelphia with Arab horsemen as guards, and visited the Mission of Madaba, one of the outposts of Christianity.

The cardinal celebrated mass in a little one-room chapel which he styled the "Cathedral of Old Philadelphia."

The cardinal was received by Emir Abdaltas, the son of King Hussein, and concluded the tour with a trip to the Dead Sea.

Cardinal Dougherty is on his way to Rome, and probably will make a report to Pope Pius on an extension of missions in the Holy Land.

USE BIG SPARS FOR FISH BOATS

Nova Scotia Yards Handle Many Ninety-Foot Masts.

SOME LARGER ONES

SHELBURNE, N.S., Aug. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The days when the Nova Scotia coasts were sliding scores of wooden ships into their harbors, from whence they secured the seven seas, may be largely a memory, but the demands of the provincial fishing fleets perpetuate them to no small extent.. Comment by a newspaper on an eighty-two foot mast being supplied for a sailing vessel, drew attention of local residents to the fact that it is a common sight here to see ninety foot spars with tons of rigging and blocks attached, being raised into position in newly-built fishermen; the whole mass being handled with as much ease, apparently, as a garden bean pole. This year a one hundred foot spar was put into the "Haligonian", prospective challenger for North Atlantic fishing schooner honors against the champion Bluenose and other Nova Scotia craft and Gloucestermon.

Masts of one hundred and three and one hundred and six feet are being supplied for American yachts.

LONDON, Aug. 28 — (Canadian Press).—According to official figures just made public, 10,600 females, wives or housekeepers left the British Isles for British North America last year and 6,600 went to Australia. Over 10,000 males migrated last year to British North America to engage in agricultural work.

FOREIGNER IN PEKIN SAFER THAN HOME

Residents Declare It To Be Safest Large City in World.

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PEKING, Aug. 28. — (United Press).—Do foreign dwellers in disturbed Peking go armed and anxious in these troublous times?

They do—not—

On the contrary, they declare that Peking remains probably the safest large city in the world. And they are emphatic in the view that to carry arms would be to take the one step which might lead to trouble.

It is true that certain Peking residents suffer from "war nerves" occasionally. Watching the kaleidoscope of Chinese politics is never conducive to calm repose, and the recent student demonstrations have been upsetting despite their peaceful nature. But on the whole it may be fairly said that the average Peking resident pursues his way in far more tranquility than does the average resident of, say, Chicago, New York or Paris.

Continued contact with the Chinese gives a sense of familiarity which effectually blots out the motion of the "diabolical" Chinese known to fiction and movie. Foreign women travel in open rickshaws through the streets alone at all hours of the day or night without fear of molestation. Assaults upon foreigners in Peking are so rare to be almost unknown.

Practically all residents of the capital know at least a little Mandarin, enabling them to converse with servants, rickshaw men and merchants. This has doubtless done much to make for a feeling of confidnce on the part of the foreigner, and at the same time to make him more moderate in his dealings with the Chinese than is the case in treaty ports where few foreigners can speak the language.

Bear Drive Sent Street Stocks Seeking For Cover

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press)—A sudden bear drive against American Can and General Railway Signal which drove those stocks down 7 1-2 and 10 respectively, from their early highs led to a heavy profit-taking in other high priced specialties which turned the general course of prices in Wall Street downward around the end of the first hour. General Electric, Mack Trucks, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth and U. S. Realty fell back two to four points from their early highs with more moderate recessions taking place in other parts of the list, bullish operations were not altogether abandoned, however.

Midland Steel Products preferred soared 7 3-8 points to 145 1-2, and Otis Steel preferred six points in response to merger rumors while commercial solvents issued Gabriel Snubber and Brown Shoe were marked up 2 to 6 points.

Call money was renewed at 4 1-2 per cent.

Fractional Changes Mark Operations On Mine Stocks

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press)—Trading on the standard mining exchange was steady this morning with transactions numbering 148,065 shares. Everett under heavy sales advanced fractionally to 7 7-8 and Crown Reserve was one point up to 20 12. Can. Lorraine was strong advancing six points to 51 while Cons. W. D. Lake declined fractionally to 13 1-8 under heavy sales. Dome Mines was 55 cents higher at 1485 and Premier four points lower at 325. Teck Hughes and Beaver were each one point lower at 170 and 32 1-2 respectively. Keeley and Mining Corporation also declined one point each to 179 and 267 respectively.

Selling Orders Stop Rise As September Passes 157

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press)—Foreign interests sold wheat at the opening of the Board of Trade today, but buying was of a good class and there was an abundance of short covering. This rallied the market until it went beyond 157 for September and selling orders at this figure stopped the advance. The sentiment was somewhat bullish during early trading, although there was an absence of influential news. Wheat opened 3-8 to 1 1-2c lower, with September 156 to 156 1-4, and December at 155 3-4 to 156, but the rally sent September to 157 1-8 and December to 157. Selling orders at 157, however, caused a slump of 1-2c and the market steadied at this figure.

Short covering and general commission house buying caused an upturn in corn right after opening, but when local traders turned to the selling side on the bulge a reaction set in. Corn opened 1-8 down to 3-8 up, with September at 94 1-8 to 94 1-2c reached 95 3-8 on the rally and then sagged to about initial figures an hour after opening.

Oats showed some strength early. After starting unchanged to 5-8c up with September at 38 3-8 to 38 1-2, values slowly advanced a half cent and steadier there. Provisions were slow and slightly higher.

Dominion Can Continues Dizzy Climb; 'Change Busy

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press).—The Dominion Canners' sudden climb of 4 3-4 points to 131 this morning, following its seven point jump yesterday, was one of the features of this morning's Toronto Stock Exchange.

The session was fully as active as any of the recent exceptional ones, with Brazilian and Smelters leading in the volume of transactions. Brazilian registered over 1,500 shares and slumped from its new high of 69 1-4 to 68 1-4, but recovered to its former point at the close. Smelters opened strong, then receded a half point at 120. Davies A advanced 2 3-8 at 31 5-8. Winnipeg advanced 1 1-4 at 51 1-2, and City Dairy a point at 89, while Bell Telephone strengthened 3-4 to 140. Weak issues were prominent, however, B. C. Fishing dropping 3-4, Canada Bread Common, and F. N. Burt a half point each, while Canada Steamships Preferred eased back 1 3-8 to 46 7-8.

Elimination of Unnecessary Costs Will Permit of Great Economy.

TO COMBAT CHAINS.

Enable Individual Grocer to Sell at Lower Prices.

A new amalgamation of 40 Ontario wholesale grocers, including T. Kinnear and Co., has been formed this week and organized on a system which, it is claimed, will permit groceries to be retailed at prices 8 per cent. cheaper than the chain stores can sell.

R. Ross, manager of T. Kinnear and Co., explained this morning that a working system had been planned by means of which expenses of distribution would be cut to a minimum. The new merger would have only one wholesale representative firm in each locality; much unnecessary freightage would be eliminated; there would be a reduction in the numbers of buyers and travellers and the resulting cheapening of prices would be passed on to the consumer by way of the retail store.

According to the organizer of the merger, Marland Woolnough, of Toronto, there is absolutely no hostility to the chain stores in this new venture on the part of the wholesalers. "We will be able to put the individual grocer on a basis where he will be able to compete with the other big firms," he said, "by making tremendous savings in our overhead expenses which, along with our increased buying power, will cut the cost to him."

The intention is to set up a central distributing house in Toronto with warehouses situated in strategic positions in relation to the districts to be covered. The entire province will be divided into zones which will extend in a radius of so many miles from each of the distributing centres and will not overlap. Where before there were 25 travelling salesmen working the same district, there will now be one who will cover an allotted territory. It is estimated that in this item alone there will be a saving of between $250,000 and $300,000 yearly.

E. F. Mason, interviewed on the merger to-day, said that there certainly was a possibility of effecting a saving in general overhead charges, and also a possibility that the consumer would ultimately benefit. He thought if the merger ever became very powerful (which he doubted) it might be able to dictate terms to the manufacturer. In that case it might follow, the tendency of combinations and think exclusively of profits regardless of the public interest. It was well to remember that none of these attempts at combination could hope to succeed if the public did not view the matter with good will. Past combinations had often held both manufacturers at their mercy and had forced retailers to combine to the detriment of the big trusts. Mr. Mason thinks the latest merger is a sequel to the forming of the Red and White chain stores.

QUAINT CHARACTERS IN BARKERSVILLE, B. C.

One Old Lady Has Never Seen a Train or a Street Car.

BARKERVILLE, B.C., Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—A visitor to this old gold rush town, now practically forgotten, describes a resident in these words: "A little further up the street from 'Paddy's place' is a neatly kept white and blue painted house which is the home of one of the most remarkable characters in all Cariboo. Here lives Mrs. Houser, a hale and hearty old lady of 84, who has not been out of the immediate district of Barkerville for 51 years. In 1867 she came out to Barkerville from Germany, returning there in 1868. She came back to Cariboo in 1874, and with her sister shares the distinction of never having seen a train or street car in her life.

"Across from Kelly's Hotel lives Mrs. Murphy, postmistress and telephone operator of Barkerville. One could spend half a day examining the collection of strange relics she has found in and about Barkerville. Here is a fine old pewter mug whose markings prove that it dated back to the days of Charles I., here a silver teapot and there silver spoons and other trinkets.

POLICE TRAP "SPIRIT" IN ENTANGLING ROBES

Wearing the patriarchal beard and long white robe shown in the above illustration, a "spirit" was taken into custody after a near-riot last week in a Toronto hall, where a spiritualistic seance was being held. Working in a weird and misty light, the spirit is said to have "materialized" on several occasions and communicated with those in the audience. Plainclothesmen grabbed the spirit as he was disappearing into the cabinet in the excitement. The robes of the spirit came off in the scramble. He went into a trance, to the consternation of the women of the crowd, but not to the officers, who took him to the nearest police station.

FIRES SPREAD PAST CONTROL THROUGH BUSH

Muskoka Towns and Settlements Are Threatened in Changing Wind.

SMOKING DESERT.

Canadian National Station at Medora Wiped Out in Blaze.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.— (Canadian Press.)— Forest fires in Muskoka are giving some concern. One in the vicinity of Bala, Ont., is now past control and should the wind swing to the north, Kimberley Point will almost immediately be in danger, according to a special despatch from Bala to Toronto to-day. Fifty men have been using the Moon river road as a fire break between the bush fire and cottages along the Mushkosh river.

The bush in the neighborhood of Roderick is a smoking desert, the despatch says, after the fire which started northeast of Bala had spread and crossed both railway systems. The Canadian National railway flag station at Medora was destroyed.

A fire break is established near Beaumaris, Muskoka. Should a north-west wind arise the Indian reservation near Isola and the town of Bala would also be threatened.

NIGHT LIFE SHOWN IN CAPITOL PLAY

Soul Gripping Story of New York's White Way Seen To-night.

A very varied and entertaining programme has been arranged for the second part of the week at the Capitol, including a big selection of comedy pictures and a heart throbbing feature that portrays in a realistic manner the thrill of New York's Night Life.

"Night Life of New York" is a Paramount picture featuring Rod Le Rocque and Dorothy Gish.

Ronald Bentley (Rod Le Rocque), a wild young fellow from a town in the middle west, is the hero of the piece. Ronald's father was jilted by a girl named Sally in New York many years previous and also failed to make good in New York in a business way.

Disgusted with New York he went west and made a fortune. He is off New York for life, however, and has forbidden his son ever to go there. Young Bentley therefore is crazy for a taste of the "big town" but for the present at least he has to be content with Clay City.

"If I can't go to New York, at least I can try to make this burg feel a little bit like it," Ronald tells his father, tunes up his speedster, and accompanied by Carrie Reed, the stage beauty, develops a speed contest between a motor cycle policeman and himself. He would have won the race but for a golf match on the roadway, which caused him to come to a sudden halt. He and the actress were taken to jail and Bentley is notified.

While on the way to the police station Bentley and Workman, who accompanies his boss, decide that Ronald should be given an experience in New York that would cure him and bring him back home sadder but wiser.

Bentley gets his son out of jail by paying a fine. While writing the check Bentley pens another for Carrie Reed who has accepted Workman's proposiiton to frame Ronald as a possible cure for his wildness.

Throughout the picture there are elements of success, always a little different twist being given from that expected.

Also Presented.

Aesop's Fables provide the background for some Dutch work that proves highly entertaining, keeping the audience in a constant state of laughter. A patent mouse trap is the theme of another good comedy that has its thrill at the end.

BOTH INTERNATIONAL LEADERS LOSE TO LOWLY TAIL-ENDERS

Providence Squeeze Victory From Toronto, While Orioles Lost to Stars.

ROCHESTER'S PAIR

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — Toronto lost a chance to gain on Baltimore today when the tail-end Providence team nosed them out by 7 to 6. Ineffective pitching by Claude Satterfield put the Leafs in arrears early in the game and smart rear inning rallies just failed to overcome the lead, Manager Shaughnessy using three pitchers in the final frame to turn back the locals with two runs. The score:

Providence .. ..10014100—7 12 1
Toronto .. ..10000112—6 15 0

Ellis, Swaney, Brown and Lynn; Satterfield, Glaser, Englishman, Thomas and Styles, Manion.

Syracuse 4; Baltimore 1

SYRACUSE, Aug. 27 — "Pea Ridge" Day allowed Baltimore only eight hits today and scattered them over six innings and the Stars took the opening game of the series from the six time champions by 4 to 1. Score:

Baltimore .. .. ..010000000—1 8 0
Syracuse.. .. .. ..00002200x—4 6 1

Ogden, Henderson and McKee; Day and Niebergall.

Buffalo 14; Jersey City 13

BUFFALO, Aug. 27—Jersey City came from behind to tie the score with Buffalo, only to lose out in the ninth by 14 to 13, with but one hand out. Will Kelly had a big day with the bat, slashing out a homer, a double and two singles, being walked purposely another time, also banged out a homer. Score:

CHURCH CUP WON BY PARK JUNIORS AT BRIDGENORTH

Field Day of Sports is Well Attended By Softball Fans.

CONCERT AT NIGHT:

Instrumental and Vocal Talent Delights Appreciative Audience.

Bridgenorth added a day to its sport calendar yesterday when the United Church instituted a soft ball competition for a cup which was won the first time by Chemong Park Juniors after eight teams had battled keenly for the honor.

The games took place in a field behind the Church and were largely attended by campers although a number of followers of each team were present to spur on their representatives.

In the evening a concert was given in the church which rounded out the programme by allowing for an equal division between the athletic and aesthetic tastes of the Bridgenorth population. Mr. and Mrs. Grudeff of Toronto, Roumanian artists, presented a varied and delightful repertoire of vocal and instrumental selections which were widely appreciated by the audience. The violin selections of popular classics were particularly well rendered, Mr. Grudeff exhibiting a mastery of his instrument.

Cup Presented

An important part of the programme was the presentation of the cup to the Park Juniors. The cup is to be played for every year and each winning team is to place a shield upon the base telling the name of the team and the date on which the trophy was awarded. It must be won three consecutive years before it is handed over to the team winning it. While not large the cup is still gracefully proportioned and will prove the object of many contests in its future.

The games played in the afternoon were of the elimination type and each one was poignant with interest. Sparkling plays kept spectators on their toes and the applause was of a particularly generous nature. The feeling of good natured rivalry was prominent teams accepting defeat or victory in an equally casual manner.

The elimination games were of 5 innings' duration with extra innings to break tied scores.

Games Start.

The first game resulted in a win for McElhiney's team over D. Jopling's squad of diminutives. While the teams were by no means evenly matched the little fellows put up a game fight and took the small end of the 11-7 score cheerfully.

Selwyn then connected with Bridgenorth, the latter team winning when a 6 run rally in the fifth turned the trick:

By innings:

Selwyn 30150
Bridgenorth 11206

F. Jopling's crew then took hot victory from Chemong Park seniors, when they bunched all their five runs in the fifth inning, while the Park boys were taking three in the second, and one in the fourth.

Fontaine Taxi was blanked by W. Jopling to the refrain of 10-0, and W. Jopling lost to F. Jopling 6-5, the contest going to ten innings before a decision could be reached.

McElhiney's men bested D. Jopling 16-7.

The final game saw the Park Juniors coming out as victors of the fray when they triumphed over Fred Jopling's outfit by a margin of three runs, and to them went the spoils.

Many availed themselves of the opportunity of buying joint game and concert tickets at a reduced price and both events were well worth the nominal fee charged.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

All Eastern Ontario fandom will turn its attention toward the doings at Kingston tomorrow when the Ponies and Petes clash for the third time in the series to decide the Central Ontario League championship. The two games already played, the Ponies winning here 2 to 1, with the second fixture a ten-inning 4-4 tie at Kingston, have been the most sensational in the history of the Central play-offs, and another hectic encounter is looked for in the Limestone City tomorrow. A Peterboro victory means that the series will be tied up, and that the championship would have to be decided by a fourth game on neutral grounds, while a win for the Ponies would settle the argument. The Petes are full of determination and will be in there fighting all the way.

* * * * * * * * * *

Peterboro's Rotary Bantams, after conquering Ottawa, will tackle the McCormicks of Toronto in a semi-final Bantam O.B.A.A. game at Riverside Park tomorrow at 3 o'clock, the second game to be played in Toronto next week. The youngsters are playing fine ball and tomorrow's fixture should attract a good crowd. Today's Bantams are the Central Ontario Leaguers of the future, and the "kids" should be encouraged. The Toronto winners are usually a snappy organization, and Jack Deannard's team will have to be on their toes all the time tomorrow.

* * * * * * * * * *

The umpiring in Wednesday's game was of the best, Colling's work behind the bat being of high standard, while Alex. Kay and Geo. Sullivan gave every satisfaction on the bases. The same trio will be in charge of tomorrow's game.

* * * * * * * * * *

The Petes will not be without support at Kingston tomorrow, for a goodly number of fans are preparing to travel east for the big game. They will get some encouragement from Belleville fans as well.

* * * * * * * * * *

Before Wednesday's game at Kingston Manager Joe Daley and other members of the Ponies hotly contended that Al. Heckman had never won a game in Kingston. If the Kingston pilot will cast his memory back to July 30th last year he will find that Heck not only beat the Ponies but shut them out 4 to 0, although Joe also maintains they have never been blanked on their own grounds. Kelly was the opposing pitcher on that occasion, and allowed the Petes seven hits, while Heckman only gave the Ponies four singles, scattered over the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth innings. He fanned eleven of the Ponies, getting Batstone three times.

HUDDERSFIELD AND BROMWICH CLASH IN FIRST SOCCER GAMES

Curtain Rises in English Soccer League on Saturday—Clubs Stronger.

SCOTTISH GAMES

LONDON, Aug. 28. — (Canadian Press Cable).—The curtain rises on soccer football throughout England Saturday, when the eighty-eight clubs that comprise the three divisions of the Football League will get under way for the 1925-1926 season. The game got going north of the Cheviot Hills two weeks ago, while last Saturday saw the opening tournaments in the north of Ireland, so that with the reports of football already occupying their due share of news, the fans in the southern half of the island are now "all-set" for the commencement of their own particular clubs.

What the outcome of the season now beginning will be, of course, no one can hazard a guess, but that it will be brimful of interest is certain. Many changes have been made in the personnel of the various teams; each division sees new-comers and has witnessed the passing of old stand-bys, and in general the entire football situation has been spruced up to the end that the followers of the game might get what they want—good play and lots of it.

Champions' Opener.

Huddersfield Town, the champions of the English League, begin the season at home, when they receive the sternest of their last year's opponents, West Bromwich Albion. Thus at the opening of the season the title-holders are faced with a heavy task. Both clubs have been in the market for players throughout the closed period, and the Town made an excellent bargain when they obtained Jackson, Aberdeen's outside right, who may don the jersey for his new club in the opener. The Albion secured some promising youngsters from the Birmingham League, but may not test them out in such an important initial game as that of Saturday.

The Cup-holders, Sheffield United, will assist in staging another battle in the "war of the roses" when they cross the county line into Lancashire to take on Everton. The Lancastrians had a poor season last year and may show some signs of beginning this one in more auspicious manner. The United's League football was equally indifferent, but they atoned for all their mediocrity by winning the Cup against Cardiff City.

Considerable interest will be centred on Leicester City in their first appearance in the Senior Division. They will have as their guests Liverpool, and if their game embodies anything of the vigor and goal-getting qualities that featured them in their Second Division games, they will give the Liverpudlians a run for their money.

Metropolitan Games.

The other promoted club, Manchester United, travel to Upton Park where they will be entertained by West Ham. The Hammers did nothing particularly bright last season, while the United put in some heroic games. An interesting contest can be looked for, and should furnish an excellent rival feature to the tilt at Highbury, where the Arsenal engage in a regular Metropolitan tussle with the only other London team in the First Division, the 'Spurs. This trinity of clubs, the Hammers, Arsenal and the 'Spurs, represent the Metropolis this season as they did last.

Other scheduled encounters in the First Division are:

Burnley at Villa Park (Aston Villa), Bury at Blackburn, Newcastle United at Bolton, Cardiff City at Manchester, Leeds United at Nottingham and Birmingham at Sunderland.

The Second Division schedule is:

Southampton at Blackpool, Bradford City at Chelsea, Port Vale at Clapton, Notts Forest at Darlington, Derby County at Hull, Barnsley at Oldham, Middlesborough at Portsmouth, Fulham at Sheffield (The Wednesday), Stockport County at Stoke, South Shields at Swansea, and Preston North-End at Wolverhampton.

Scottish League.

GLASGOW, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Some interesting contests are promised for the First Division of the Scottish Football League on Saturday, and it is not unlikely that as a result of them the aspect of the League will undergo another change. Perhaps the most intriguing of the scheduled games is that slated for Tynecastle Park, when Heart of Midlothian face the Airdrieonians. The Edinburgh club started off by drawing to Falkirk in their first game and losing to Hamilton Academicals in their second. But this is customary with the Hearts and their fans do not become particularly alarmed until their favorites begin dropping the points all over the League, as they did last year. That the Hearts are capable of vigorous resistance to really good teams has been evidenced time and again in the past, but it always seems to be their fate to succumb to the weaker brethren — taking them too easily, perhaps. On their own ground they should give Airdrie a tussle. The latter, it is recalled drew with St. Mirren a fortnight ago, but seemed to gather their stride at home last week when they trimmed Aberdeen by four to one.

Hamilton at Celtic.

Celtic have an opportunity of strengthening their hold on the League on Saturday when they play Hamilton at Celtic Park. The Irish began their season very significantly when they avalanched the Hibernians by five straight goals, and followed this up by taking the long end of a two-one game from Clydebank a week ago. They will not have everything their own way against the Academicals, though, for the latter are tremendously pleased with their trinity of goals against the Hearts last week, and are looking for some sort of a chance in the League contest.

Dundee United will play their first home game at Tannadice Park Saturday, after having had some disastrous experiences in their two previous games—both of which were played away from home. Their guests are Falkirk, and the 'Bairns' have somewhat spoiled the effect of their own curtain - raiser, when they drew with Hearts, by succumbing to St. Mirren.

Rangers are confronted with no insuperable difficulty when they entertain their neighbors from Greenock. It would be contrary to all Rangers precedents if they should yield anything to Morton on Saturday. Usually the Rangers' first defeat comes as a severe shock somewhere beyond mid-season, when their victors are as a rule some lop sided aggregation that are struggling hard to keep away from the second string. Morton have a trimming by Dundee and a drawn game with Partick chalked up against them, and it is highly unlikely that their prospects will undergo any improvement on Saturday.

Hibernians' Chance.

Hibernians, who staged a comeback after their humiliation of two weeks ago by piling eight vicious goals on the heads of unfortunate Kilmarnock, have another chance to square themselves with their Easter Road patrons, when they travel to Perth to take on St. Johnstone. The "Saints" are not to be despised, however. They defeated Dundee away from home last week, although their opener saw them crushed by the Rangers. In the unsteady condition that the Hibernians have shown, however, anything may happen, and no one would be surprised to see the Perth club hold the Hibs.

Other scheduled games are:

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

The correct address position, regardless of whether square, open or closed stance is used, leaves the body fairly well erect and arms slightly bowed—or curved—at the elbows. This elbow curve during the address is really one of the roads to great success in golf. It keeps the arms from becoming stiff and rigid during the address as nearly always happens when they are straightened clear out. When the arms are free and easy it follows that stiffness and rigidity will be kept out of the forearms and shoulders to that they will have maximum snap and spring at the right instant, which is when the ball is hit. The rather loose and free arms, in the address, leave the player with a natural feeling of ease. Observe this trait among good golfers—it is a common practice among them.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL TO SELL

er under the operation of the regulations.

Leasing Town Machinery

J. J. McNab of Trenton, the contractor who is building the new power house at the paper mill, will have the use of the rock drilling machine owned and used by the town in the construction of sewers, for a period not to exceed three months at a rental of $5 a day. The town employees who have been operating the machine will be retained and paid by Mr. Macnab. The apparatus for sharpening the drills will go with the other outfit, Mr. Macnab to pay $5 a month for its use.

To Improve Government Road

Superintendent Killaly of the Trent Canal some time ago asked the council for the use of the town's road roller and scarifier to be used in improving the government highway that runs from the corporate limits to the power house at Dam 10. The council asked $25 a day for the outfit but this figure was later reduced to $15. Nothing however, has since been heard from Mr. Killaly with regard to the matter.

As the road in question is freely used by local car owner, being as it is a pleasant driveway along the banks of the canal on one side and of the river on the other, it was decided on motion of Councillor Stone to allow the Government the use of the roller free of charge to improve the highway provided that the town's engineer is retained to operate it.

OverWeight Vehicles

Joseph Poulton, Trent Canal bridge overseer, wrote advising the Council that as the road roller weighs more than the maximum for vehicles crossing the Government's portion of the bridge the owners would be required to assume responsibility for all damages in the case of accident. An agreement to this effect will be signed by the town officials.

Signs Paid For.

George E. Morrison will be paid his bill of $35 for furnishing and painting the signs placed on the leading roads welcoming autoists to the town. Tourists arriving by car will continue to be assured that "Campbellford Welcomes You," and on their departure will be invited to "Come Again."

This bill has been held up ever since the erection of the signs owing to a technical object with regard to the use of an apostrophe, but at a recent meeting the eloquent argument advanced by Mr. Morrison had its effect and last night his account was settled.

To Do Own Road Work.

Henry Redden, former councillor and condidate for mayor, was given permission to grade the roadway and put in a sidewalk to a new house which he has erected on Nesbitt Street. The council will pay for the work if the cost does not exceed $50 and Mr. Redden promises to spend at least $100, paying the excess cost himself.

This was Mr. Redden's own proposition after he had failed in an effort to have the improvements made by the town, and he had with obvious sarcasm declared that he would hesitate to put in a hole a body of men as careful of the town's money as are the present councillors.

The members present were Mayor Meyers, Deputy Reeve Palliser, Councillors Cole, Wiggins, Abernethy, Stone, Moore and Kingston; Reeve Davidson, who was out of town, being the only absentee.

TENNIS TOURNEY WELL UNDER WAY

Some Good Matches Are Seen on Peterborough Courts.

The local tennis tournament at the Peterborough club courts is now well under way and is providing some good matches. The showing of some of the younger players is very encouraging. The results this week are as follows:

Ladies' Singles.

Mrs. W. M. Cruthers defeated Miss Marjorie Turner 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Men's Singles.

Mr. Fairles defeated O. A. Langley 6-1, 6-4.

Mixed Doubles.

Bowness and Miss Kirn defeated Cox and Miss Marjorie Turner 6-1, 6-1.

Match on Saturday.

On Saturday afternoon the local club will entertain Cobourg in the last match of the season. The locals are leading the league by three events but expect a hard fight with Cobourg to retain this lead. The games will start at three o'clock and all visitors will be welcome.

MOTOR CAR STALLS IN PATH OF TRAIN

Tourist From Pennsylvania May Die as Result of Injuries.

ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press). — The stalling of a motor car on the Canadian National Railway crossing within a short distance of town yesterday afternoon resulted in John Quents, a tourist from Pennsylvania, receiving probable fatal injuries. Quents is in hospital here, and his recovery is said to be doubtful. He sustained a fracture of the skull and several deep face lacerations, and was badly shaken up. His wife jumped from the car and narrowly escaped being hit by the oncoming passenger train en route to Toronto.

Quents and his wife have been summering in the Muskoka district, and were on their way home.

CROP AND BARNS TOTALLY BURNED

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28.—All the outbuildings on the farm of Thomas Stevens, about one mile east of here in East Seymour Township, were destroyed by fire about 4.30 this morning. All Mr. Stevens' crops were destroyed except one load of oats, but the implements and live-stock which were in the buildings were saved.

The cause of the fire, which started in the hay barn, is unknown. There were three buildings burned. Mr. Stevens had had a large crop of grain, which was all in the barn. A wagon load of oats which was standing in the barn, was run out and is the sole remnant of the large crop. Neighbors who gathered were instrumental in saving the implements and livestock.

The loss will amount to several thousand dollars, which was partly covered by insurance.

NORWOOD LACROSSE.

Team Left To-day to Play in Wallaceburg To-morrow.

NORWOOD, Aug. 28.—The Norwood-Havelock intermediate lacrosse team left this afternoon for Wallaceburg, where they will play an exhibition game in that town on Saturday.

Cricket Notes

Peterboro C.C. Vs. Lakefield XI.

The above return match will be played at the Exhibition Grounds tomorrow afternoon at 2.45 p.m. The last match between these teams on August 15th was very close. Peterboro winning by the small margin of 5 runs, so this game is looked forward to with great interest, as the Lakefield team will try their utmost to reverse this defeat.

Thorpe (Capt.), Coutts, Langley, Manning, Stuart, Dyer, Ryland, Fox, Dr. Hewitt, Elliot, Stratton, Massey-Cooke and Chenhall.

Practice tonight at 6 p.m.

TWO IMPORTANT SOCCER GAMES ON TOMORROW

Seniors at the Oval and the Juniors Down on King Edward.

The old rivals in local soccer meet tomorrow in the Phelan Charity Cup Tie—Canadian Woollens and Thistle—at Nicholls Oval. Kick off at 3 o'clock. Referee, Wm. Rickard.

Both these teams will include some new faces in their line-up because they have lost valuable players who have been stalwarts to their elevens. In the previous game, the Woollens have gained the verdict over the "Jags" but the latter went right back at them in Gordon Cup and won it. So this should be a game worth while watching.

Down on King Edward Park, the best junior game of the season will be played between the league leaders—C.P.C. versus Dummer in a league match. Both elevens need the brace of points to keep in the running for the championship, also deciding a positive standing. The township boys are going to make the leaders travel all the way and are after the championship. At any rate, spectators will get value for their money. Kick off at 3.30 prompt.

MINERS ORDERED TO "DOWN PICKS"

Uhl and Amerman the one sentence in my Hazleton address which is the heart of the mine workers' position as to further negotiations.

If they will withdraw their statement on record in the conference, that they will yield nothing and reject everything that disturbs the factor of mine costs, then there can be negotiations.

If the operators will meet this condition affirmatively, the mine workers will be glad immediately to negotiate. If their reply is in the negative then it is obvious that their negotiations would be utterly futile."

Operators' Statement.

Inglis made his statement after Lewis had raised the issue that peace in the hard coal fields depends upon a move by the operators to reconsider the wage contract. The view is held by some that through the Inglis announcement, the operators have virtually receded from the position that further wage negotiation are impossible if they involve increased coal production costs.

The statement, addressed to Uhl, follows:

'You wish further interpretation of our answer to questions presented by you yesterday. We hoped that you would understand our reply to mean this: in order to avoid a suspension on September 1, we are willing to renew negotiations with representatives of the United Mine Workers looking toward a new agreement, provided you arrange a conference; and provided further, it is distinctly understood that we have not agreed to abandon our opposition to the check-off and wage increases, both of which we are willing to consider fully, but both of which we now believe to be unsound and unwarranted."

Although the phrase "consider fully" gave but cold comfort to some of the negotiators, Chairman Uhl seized upon it as the first tangible rap of hope, and left immediately by motor car to confer with President Lewis.

BANKERS LOST IN MERCANTILE

Outhit Lockworks, But Made Too Many Errors—Armstrong Wild.

PLAY SATURDAY.

In a game that was marked with both good and bad baseball, the Bankers failed to come across with the necessary runs last evening and lost 10 to 8.

Although the Bankers outhit the Lockworks, 13 to 6, seven errors and nine complimentaries were sufficient to offset their heavy hitting.

An injury to J. Baird at the start of the game completely upset the Bankers' infield, as he had to retire to the outfield for the balance of the game. Notwithstanding the fact that that he played the game with a split thumb, he led both teams at bat with a triple, double and single in four times up. Ash of the Bankers also had two singles and a double.

Guiry started on the mound for the Lockworks, but was replaced by Moore in the second innings. Art Armstrong, for the Bankers, allowed only 6 hits, but was inclined to be wild, allowing 9 free tickets to the Lockworks. Darkness was a big factor in the Bankers' defeat, as the tieing runs were on 2nd and 3rd when Moore struck out two Money-changers, who were waving in the dark.

As a result of their victory last evening, the Lockworks have now won the first game of the play-off series, and the second game will be played Saturday at Riverside Park. These two teams are very evenly matched, as they tied the first game, 4 to 4, on Monday, and Saturday's game should draw a good crowd of fans.

BANTAM GAME WITH TORONTO

Rotary Boys Battle Queen City Champs at Riverside Tomorrow.

SNAPPY BASEBALL

Rotary Bantams have received instructions to play the McCormick bantam team of Toronto here to-morrow afternoon in the semi-final round of the series. This game will be the first of a home and home series, the second game taking place in Toronto some time next week.

Jack Deannard's boys have played good ball all year, both in their own league and in the O.B.A.A. games. Their 31-1 victory in Kingston over the pick of the Ottawa bantams shows their quality, and their game with the Toronto champions should be a battle from start to finish.

Heavy hitting, good pitching, snappy fielding, and quick thinking baseball brains—these things go to make up a champion team, whether in a professional league or in the corner lots, and all are possessed to a marked degree by the combination gathered by Mr. Deannard. Gentlemen on the field and off, they are worthy of the support of the fans of Peterborough, and there should be a full turnout at Riverside at game time tomorrow afternoon.

The score of the C.O.B.L. game in Kingston will be announced by innings.

The game will be started sharp at 2.30 to enable the Toronto team to leave on the 5.30 train.

HOCKEY TALK.

East City Boys Already Considering Entry of a Juvenile Team.

The Dufferin All-Stars, having hung up their gloves for the season, are now considering the entry of a hockey team in any series that may be formed. The management is desirous of hearing from anyone who wishes to enter a team in a juvenile or younger series.

FIRST MEETING OF UNITED LADIES' AID

Gathering Took Form of a Picnic on Beautiful Lawn.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 28.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church held its initial meeting, since the consummation of Union, on Tuesday afternoon, in the form of a picnic, on the lawn of Mrs. J. L. Byam's residence, Bank street.

Mrs. Byam has generously allowed the use of her grounds, which are large, well-kept and conveniently situated, for a number of similar gatherings this summer, and her kindness and hospitality have been much appreciated by those privileged to attend the social outings.

A work meeting, when considerable sewing was accomplished in connection with the bazaar to be held this fall, preceded the brief business session, which was held on the east lawn.

The President, Miss M. E. Needham, reported seventeen new members enrolled. The Secretary, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, being unavoidably absent on account of illness in her family, Mrs. J. McKnight filled the position pro tem.

The matter of lowering the choir lof in the United Church has been under consideration for some time, and after discussion it was definitely decided that the Aid undertake this work as its next immediate objective. The inconvenience of having the choir in its present elevated position has detracted decidedly from the helpfulness and enjoyment of the musical part of the services, and the desire for the proposed change was unanimous. The cost will probably be one thousand dollars, and an architect will be invited to visit the building and give practical advice as to the manner in which the change had best be made.

The church anniversary comes the third Sunday in October, and on motion it was decided to have the Aid serve the annual fowl supper the Tuesday following. Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Misses Needham and Duncan were appointed a committee to secure talent for the programme.

A most enjoyable social time was enjoyed during the tea hour, the fact that the meal was served out of doors apparently improving appetites, and adding to the pleasure of the occasion.

The races afterwards, in which some of the older ladies were persuaded to take part, brought a very happy gathering to a conclusion.

The busy season on the farms, and the fact that August is a holiday month, lessened the attendance, among those present being: Mrs. E. Mullen, Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. E. S. Burnham, Mrs. W. H. Byam, Mrs. (Rev.) R. J. Stillwell, Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mrs. I. E. Needham, Mrs H. Duncan, Mrs. W. Pendrie, Mrs. Elson, Mrs. F. W. Smith, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Misses Nellie Finnimore, Jessie Clarke, M. E. Needham, M. Duncan, E. Krieger, J. Brock, and others.

The next meeting will be held on the first Tuesday in October at the home of Mrs. Herb Ball, Fallis line.

CASTLETON PERSONALS

CASTLETON, Aug. 28.—Mr. C. Arkils and Miss Laurel Arkils are spending a few days with their sister, Mrs. Harry Harrison, Latta.

Mr. Claude Bush and friends, of Detroit, Mich., are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bush.

Mr. James Arkils, of Detroit, Mich., is spending a few days at the parental home.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

WOMEN PROTEST

To the Editor of The Examiner:—

Sir.—What do Mayor Turner, Mr. Roper and Co. mean by criticising us girls in sport and telling us what we must do to meet with their approval? What is this town or city coming to when people who ought to be minding their own business undertake to tell the rest of us what we must do to reach their standard, and them men, too. It's our own business and we women and girls think it is downright cheek for men to give us their opinions. Everybody is trying to boss everybody else in this weary burg.

VETERAN ASKS QUESTION

Brownton.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Mr. Editor.—Veteran would like to know through your evening paper if the rumor I heard the other day is true.

I heard a rumor the other day that a mass meeting of all unattached veterans was to be held Sunday afternoon, Sept. 20, in the Victoria Park for the purpose of electing a delegate to represent them in the great unity movement which is to be held at Ottawa. I understand a free and open discussion will be allowed all those present to express their reasons why they do not belong to the local G.W.V.A. It has also been rumored that a very prominent ex-member of the local G.W.V.A. and one who has done excellent in the interest of the local unit will be asked to address the meeting. Personally if such a meeting is to be held, I would like to be present at it. I understand that a gentleman named Lt.-Col. A. P. Miller is to represent the G.W.V.A., and the 21st Battalion at the meeting in Ottawa. I think the unattached soldiers should have someone to represent them at Ottawa, as 95 per cent. of the soldiers in Peterboro do not belong to any organization.

One who would like to know.

Yours truly,

Veteran of 87th Battalion.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

UNIVERSAL'S RANCH RIDERS WITH HOXIE IN "DARING CHANCES."

The Universal Ranch Riders, strangest organization in the world, appear full force in Jack Hoxie's newest and most sensational adventure on celluloid, 'Daring Chances,' his new Universal western at the Royal Theatre.

The riders are a band of real cowboys, recruited from the cattle range of the West, chosen from among winners of big rodeos at Pendleton, Livermore, Salinas and Phoenix, and formed into a staff of "riding actors," to whom no feat in horsemanship is too difficult of accomplishment.

They are the background for the daring of Hoxie, perhaps the most notable Western screen star to-day, and a man who rides himself in every thrill portrayed on the screen.

The new play starts with an accident, goes into a rodeo where the ranch riders appear in sensational feats of steer-roping, bulldogging and broncho-riding — then into a grim chase over perilous Sierra trails for bandits. The climax is the sensational rescue of a child, carried in the arms of a madman on horseback to the very brink of a chasm and certain death.

A poignant heart-interest story lies behind the thrills and stunts that mark every incident in the hard-riding, swift-moving play. Alta Allen, well-known screen heroine, Claude Payton, Doreen Turner, Catherine Wallace, Jack Pratt and other standard players, appear with Hoxie in the new picture, which was directed by Clifford Smith.

SCOTCH NIGHT A BIG SUCCESS AT ROYAL.

Last night crowds were turned away again at the Royal. The Clans came by the hundreds to sing the old songs again and listen to the piper and the Scotch jokes and see the Highland Fling. The big, good-natured crowd seemed to enjoy every minute. It seemed as if everybody knew the old Scotch favorites, and the community singing was the best yet. The amateurs were all good. Verna Huffman sang "When I was Twenty-One." Little Rea Harkins and Eddie Turner, two little visitors from Belleville, made a hit with their comic songs and clever steps. Ernest Seguin, baritone, in fine voice, sang "Mary of Argyle." Annie Logan, Scotch dancing, was forced to respond to three encores. Mr. Grant was a satisfactory piper. Mr. Harris was in great form and got many a hearty laugh besides singing two Scotch songs, "The Wedding of Sandy McNab" and "I'm frae Glasgow." 'Twas a bonny evening.

AT THE GRAND

MINSTELS NOW A NOVELTY.

It has been so long since we have had a real old-fashioned minstrel show that the announcement that the Famous Georgia Minstrels will be at the Grand Opera House Sept. 1 that their coming will take on the aspect of a novelty. Time was when the minstrels were good for two to three visits a season, but of late years they have seemed to be scarce, but from the reports of the leading theatrical papers minstrelsy has taken a new lease of life, and there is no less than a half dozen large minstrel shows touring the country, and all reports are that they are playing to packed houses everywhere.

The daily "Courier" of Ottumwa speaking of the Georgias says: "It is one thousand per cent. entertainment for a dollar," which tells the story in a nutshell.

AT THE CAPITOL

SENSATIONAL CROOK DRAMA COMING SOON.

Tod Brownings Great Mystery Film said to Excel all Former Offerings.

Tod Brownings "The Unholy Three," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production that has been hailed as the greatest crook film of many years, will be seen next week at the Capitol Theatre.

Browning has long been famous as a director of underworld stories and he is said to have excelled all past performances in the making of this thrilling melodrama.

"It's pure melodrama," says Browning, "but there is no villain with a mortgage and there is no widow whose home is about to be taken from her. Also there is no great storm scene and no erring daughter kicked out to the mercy of the raging elements by an enraged father.

New York Crook Film.

"The Unholy Three" is a film adaptation of C. A. Robbins' story of the same name and its locale is New York City and vicinity.

The cast includes such famous players as Lon Chaney, Mae Busch, Matt Moore, Victor McLaglen, Harry Earles and Mathew Betz.

The story opens in a cheap museum where following a riot, three of the freaks on exhibition become a trio of crooks and assume the title of "The Unholy Three." Rosie O'Grady, who has been picking pockets in the museum, joins the crooks who cover their tracks by operating a bird and animal store.

Innocent Lover Framed.

An innocent male clerk, played by Matt Moore, becomes infatuated with Rosie OGrady (Mae Busch) and the rivalry starts between "Prof. Echo" (Lon Chaney), and the clerk (Matt Moore.)

Following an atrocious murder the trio escape by framing evidence against Rosie's lover. He is saved by what is almost to be considered as a miracle and two of the crooks lose their lives. The story ends with the reunion of the lovers and the regeneration of the master crook.

The film is filled with heart interest and a large amount of comedy.

IT'S THE ROYAL SPEAKING

AMERICA'S MOVE IN FRENCH DEBT

British Terms to France Void Without Same Rate Accorded Belgium.

CAILLAUX PLEASED

LONDON, Aug. 28.—French Finance Minister Caillaux went back to Paris Thursday apparently jubilant at the terms of the tentative debt settlement he had achieved in his conference with British Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill.

The terms which, in effect, put up to the United States the question of giving France lenient treatment on her American debt, will be submitted to a special meeting of the French cabinet. That France will accept is deemed certain. Any dissatisfaction in France over the arrangement to pay for 62 years an annuity of about $62,000,000 will probably be allayed by the fact that Caillaux received indications in "the city"—London's Wall street—that he could obtain British credits to tide the Bank of France over its momentary financial troubles. Some French critics hold Britain has not been sufficiently liberal, though she came down from the original standpoint of annuities of $100,000,000. France, by accepting would have to raise her original offer only by little more than $12,000,000 a year.

The outstanding factor in the situation, however, is the attitude towards the coming debt fund negotiations with the United States.

Britain tied to her offer the very significant condition that France must get from her creditors as liberal treatment as England accorded France. In other words, if the United States insists on the same interest charges as in the Belgian settlement, England's offer is void.

Defeat For U. S.

The arrangement reached by the two negotiations was generally regarded here as a tactical defeat for the United States. America is now manoeuvred into a position where if she asks for higher terms from France, she will be met with the cry of "Shylock" throughout Europe. Further, she will be accused of refusing to be as liberal as England has been toward France, and will be held responsible for the failure of the British offer to France, since that is conditioned upon getting similarly easy terms from the United States.

The erms as arranged between Churchill and Caillaux envisage a moratorium until 1930; annuities of $6,500,000; and revision of the offer if France agrees to higher terms to the United States. France must make her payments from French revenues regardless of the yield of the Dawes reparations loan.

Some papers attack the government's lenieney which, however, was quite deliberate. The Financial Times takes the position that "France could fairly have been asked to pay more."

This paper estimates that the settlement means about one per cent. interest and one per cent. sinking fund, on France's debt of more than $8,000,000,000. On the other hand, France had a favorable trade balance, will receive around $135,000,000 a year from the Dawes plan, and has the advantage of having absorbed Alsace-Lorraine.

"France will need little sympathy for the trifle proportion of her obligations which Britain is asking," comments the paper.

Churchill Accused.

LONDON, Aug. 28.— "A Caillaux success" is the way the result of the visit of the French minister of finance is described in the London press of Thursday. There is considerable surprise in political circles at Churchill's sudden persuasion of the cabinet to agree to annuities of twelve and a half millions, and more is likely to be heard of the proposals. Winston Churchill is accused of hiding some material facts when he made his statements to the treasury, which Caillaux has revealed. For instance, Churchill did not say that the French will enjoy a partial moratorium until 1930 owing to the fact that France during that time will have to repay her five millions of commercial debt which is owing by the Bank of France to the Bank of England.

Mine Worker Received Injuries That May Prove Fatal.

PEMBROKE, Aug. 28—(Canadian Press).—Blown 40 feet in the air by the premature explosion of a blast which he had set, Felix St. Denis, of LaPasse, is in the Pembroke General Hospital, suffering from injuries which may prove fatal. The accident occurred at the Felidspar Mines on Morrison's Island in the Ottawa River, operated by LaMarche Brothers.

CURVE LAKE TEAM PLAY COGNAWAGAS

Second Game of Play-off at Exhibition Grounds To-morrow.

The treat of the season is in store for the baseball fans who patronize Exhibition Park to-morrow afternoon at 3.30 to see the Curve Lake Indians and Cognawagas clash in the second of home-and-home games for the Wright Cup.

Although the Cogs were victorious in the first game, the Indians are determined to tie the series, and will present a strong line-up. Both teams are boasting heavy-hitters after last Wednesday's game, when D. Jacobs did the "Babe Ruth stunt" for the Indians and D. Allen for the Cogs experienced the "batter's dream" when he drove a homer with the bases loaded. Other extra base hits added interest to the game.

To-morrow's game will be a nine-inninhg fixture, and a large crowd should turn out to boost Geo. Coppaway and his braves.

JAPANESE BIRTHS NEARLY 4 A MINUTE

Population Gain is Almost Two Every Three Minutes.

OSAKA, Aug. 28—Illustrations at the recent national statistics exhibition showed that the population of Japan is increasing at the rate of approximately three persons every two minutes. Calculating apparatus of the latest invention was exhibited as also were charts and drawings illustrating all kinds of statistics.

In the population section it was shown that births in Japan are at the rate of 3.88 a minute while deaths occur at the rate of 2.4 a minute, leaving a net gain of 1.48 a minute. The Japanese birth and death rates, figured in that way, were shown to be the highest among the nations of the world.

As to births, Germany came after Japan with slightly less than three a minute; Britain was next with a little more than two and France showed a rate of one and one-half a minute.

Other statistics which attracted attention showed that in 1913 Osaka consumed luxuries valued at 1,200,000 yen, while the value of luxuries consumed in 1923 had increased to 7,300,000 yen.

DOGS IN COMEDY STUNT.

JAP ATTEMPTS SWIM.

Zetsu Nishimar Left Dover To-day—Suit Extends to Ankles.

DOVER, Eng., August 28. — Canadian Press. — Zetsu Nishimura, a Japanese, entered the water at 2.30 this afternoon for an attempt to swim the channel. A smart breeze is kicking up the seaway.

The swimmer wore a costume enveloping him to the ankles, and this was covered with a thick coating of grease.

Zetsu Nishimura, said to be the champion long distance swimmer of Japan, has attracted attention in England since his arrival there in June, by the unusual diet he has followed in training for his attempt to swim the English channel. The Japanese swimmer confined himself to a menu of vegetables and eggs, instead of eating the usual heavy heat-producefoods favored by the majority of those who have braved the Channel.

Zetsu Nishimura, Japanese long distance swimmer, abandoned his attempt to-day after being in the water only two hours and 5 minutes.

English Family Plans Cruise Of Adventure

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(United Press).—A 35,000-mile adventure cruise lasting two and a half years has been undertaken by Captain Gardiner, his wife and son and two Englishmen.

The vessel, a 27-ton ketch, will touch at hundreds of small ports in distant British possessions where white men are seldom seen. The adventurers hope to cover the expenses of the trip by trading with the natives and sales of articles such as might be badly wanted by isolated white traders.

PRIZE WINNERS IN EXAMINER CONTEST

Estimating Contest Brings in a Number of New Names.

The estimating of the number of coppers in the quart sealer on Dollar Day again proved to be quite an attraction. Estimates received were slightly in excess of last year, and results are as follows:

The number of coppers was 901, and Miss Helen Heard, 891 Water Street, estimated exactly, and receives first prize of $10.00.

Mrs. Frank Fowler, R.R. No. 2 with 900, and Mrs. R. C. Heard, with 902, divide second and third prizes, and each receive $4.50.

James Walsh, R.R. No. 9, Peterboro, and Mrs. Strike, 298 Park Street, divide fourth and fifth prizes and each receive $2.50.

W. Burns, 487 Aylmer Street, with 904, wins sixth prize of $1.00, and another estimate of 898, tying his first, gives him an extra dollar.

ESCUTCHEON IS BACK IN QUEBEC

Shield Was Presented to City by P. C. Larkin, High Commissioner.

FROM HASTINGS

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The escutcheon of the Kings of France once more is in Quebec after being held for 166 years by the Town of Hastings, England, to whom it was presented by General Murray, first British governor of Canada, after he had secured it in capturing Quebec from the French in 1759. In presenting the Shield to the city on Aug. 15 last, Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, to whom the shield was delivered by the Town of Hastings, spoke as follows:

"I bear from the ancient town of Hastings to the citizens of Quebec a message of warm friendship and brotherhood and this escutcheon which, I hope, will prove a talisman to perpetuate it.

"As the great gathering at which I was entrusted with this emblem of the Kings of France I was charged to say that the town of Hastings gave you back the Shield with feelings of friendship and of real affection; that they give it back as an earnest of their intense desire to see unity and brotherhood throughout the Empire and that they send it as a symbol of the lasting friendship between England and France of which Quebec should be for all time the binding link.

"I could not fail to be deeply moved and impressed, when, in that old town (the premier Cinque port, and standing close to the spot where William the Norman in 1066 descended upon the coast of England with his Norman and Breton followers and completely defeated the English under Harold) that I should be entrusted with this interesting symbol which I now hand over to you feeling sure that it will be received with the same feelings of goodwill and esteem as those which prompted the honors.

"At the same time as the original was handed over to me, I had the pleasure of presenting to the Corporation of Hastings a copy of the Shield for their council chamber and I trust that these will serve as two strong links in a chain to bind in lasting friendship our great community of Nations."

BACK REQUESTS FOR LOWER RATE

Department of Agriculture is Supporting Fruit Growers and Flour Millers.

FREIGHT EXCESSIVE.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Ontario Department of Agriculture will support the application to be made by the Niagara Fruit Growers' Association to the Dominion Railway Board for a reduction in the railway rates on Ontario fruit. Reports to the Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, alleging excessive freight charges, resulted in the Minister's announcement that the Department would back the application. The Department is also co-operating with the Ontario Flour Millers' Association in an application to the Railway Board for reduced grain freight rates, it was learned to-day.

WEDDING BELLS

O'CONNOR—LAMEY.

HASTINGS, Aug. 28.— A very pretty wedding took place in Our Lady of Mount Carmel church on Tuesday morning, August 25th, when Ida, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lamey, Brickley, became the bride of Charles, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome O'Connor, of Rochester. At eight o'clock sharp the bridal party entered the church where the nuptial knot was tied, after which mass was said by Rev. C. S. Bretherton, parish priest.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white chiffon georgette and veil, her wreath being orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Lillian O'Connor, sister of the groom, who was gowned in pale pink georgette and pink and white velvet hat. Her bouquet was columbia roses. The groom was assisted by the bride's brother, Mr. Jas. Lamey.

After the signing of the register, the happy couple returned to the bride's parents, where a dainty wedding dinner awaited them. The tables and rooms were decorated with gladiolus, only the immediate relatives of the groom being present.

The bridal party are taking a three weeks' honeymoon out west, and on their return intend to reside in Rochester.

The bride's travelling costume was tan satin canton and Prince of Wales coat, with black hat to match.

BLUE SKY LAW DENOUNCED BY MINISTER

Religious Conviction Bounded by Legalism And Church Bigoted

Scathing Indictment of Ignorance of Ontario People By Dr. W. S. Rainsford, Deposed Toronto Rector—Says United Church Has Mistaken Ideals.

SINS OF SCRIBES AND PHARISEES.

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, August 29—"The Blue Sky law business is nothing less than an unconscious repetition of the sins of the scribes and pharisees of old," said Dr. W. S. Rainsford, former rector of St. George's, New York, and one time assistant at St. James' Cathedral, in an interview today. The famous divine was scathingly critical of Canadian churches and declared that they were fast becoming effete because of their bigotry and ignorance.

"You have had a union of three churches and I see the head of the United Church is reported to have said: 'Now that we are united we shall be able to strengthen the Sunday blue sky law.' That is not Christianity—it is the subjection of Christian principles to tradition and legalism. If that is the only kind of good the United Church can do then the sooner union is blasted the better. That is the sort of downright bigotry which is driving young people from the church today."

Dr. Rainsford delivered his indictment with evangelistic fervor. He is a man of great personality and charm, but sincerity is the keynote of his character. He is not an intolerant man, but he hates intolerance and hypocracy, and when he speaks of them he does not mince his words.

"The trouble in Ontario is that you are smothered in ignorance," he said. "There was something wrong with your educational system a generation ago and as a result people are afraid to think along intellectual lines. Clergymen dare not teach the truth; they must teach tradition and bigotry. In religious knowledge and progress the United States is far ahead of you."

"But at least our ignorance is not

Absent-Minded Scientist Leads Britons in the Rain

LONDON, Aug. 29.—A group of distinguished scientists, attending the meeting of the British Association at Southampton demonstrated at least one scientific fact yesterday—that scientists are still absent-minded.

A large party set out by surface car on a two-mile journey in a pouring rain from one subsidiary meeting to another. Halfway there one scientist got off and walked briskly down a side street, apparently wrapped in deep thought. The rest of the party followed him.

The unconscious leader walked on for half an hour, up steep hills and across wide parkways, with the rest straggling trustfully, if wetly behind. The leader awoke suddenly from his deep meditation on the earth's age, or some other equally profound subject, and asked a boy the way. We had walked a mile and a quarter in the wrong direction. The party arrived at their meeting an hour late and soaked to the skin.

THRESHING EXTENDS IN MANITOBA PRICE OF WHEAT IS 30C. HIGHER

Conditions Generally More Favorable Than in Harvest of 1924—Yields Heavier Than Anticipated — Rust Damage Slight.

CUTTING FINISHED IN PLACES.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press).—With farmers in Manitoba receiving thirty to thirty-five cents a bushel more for their wheat at present than was given to them a year ago, and with millers eagerly waiting for supplies of the new wheat for their mills, conditions this year in the province are much better than in 1924. Reports received here Friday would indicate that threshing returns are showing better yields than anticipated by the producers a month ago.

According to official advices from all parts of the province received here yesterday, rust has not done so much damage on farms ts expected. A farmer in Killarney states that rye is running twenty bushels to the acre, where a much lighter yield had been expected and that eighteen bushels is the yield per acre from wheat. The agent at Morris reports that threshing has given a much better return than expected.

Carman reports threshing well under way, with twenty-two bushels per acre being the average yield for wheat. Threshing has just begun at Souris. At Dauphin quite a number are cutting wheat, and the yield, according to reports, will be large. Some wheat fields at Glenboro are running thirty bushels to the acre. At Brandon cutting is about finished, and threshing will be general next week.

Coloured Gentlemen Killed By High Dive To Cement Bed

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press). — Two men were killed and a third was severely injured to-day when they were hurtled 85 feet into a cement bin by the collapse of scaffolding on the new elevators of the Saskatchewan Elevator Company, here.

The men, Louis Amadone and Randall Clark, negroes, fell head first into several feet of soft cement, and only the soles of their shoes protruded.

TREAT MEN WITH 'TRUTH SERUM' AND GET CORRECT ANSWERS TO ALL QUESTIONS ASKED IN TEST

Committee of Delegates To Identification Conference Was Well Satisfied.

THREE VOLUNTEERS.

One Man Admitted Arrest as Spy During War and Told Personal Affairs.

WINDSOR, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—Three men under the influence of "truth serum"—known in medical terms as scopalamin—early this morning at a special meeting of a committee of delegates attending the convention of the International Association for Identification, being held at the Prince Edward Hotel here, one of the subjects answered a list of questions put to him by Dr. R. Ernest House, a Texas criminologist, who developed the serum. He told his name, age, facts about his life and admitted among other things having been arrested in Detroit as a German spy during the Great War. The test members of the committee concluded, proved the serum is successful.

The man who responded to the questions is Victor Malucha, 31 years old, Detroit. Others who underwent the test are John Strong, 27 years old, Detroit, and Leroy M. Moffitt, 26 years old, Tilbury, Ont. The trio volunteered.

The serum was injected at 10.30 o'clock last night, and the three of them fell asleep almost instantly. They were allowed to sleep until 1.30 o'cock this morning when Dr. House questioned all three, obtaining correct answers to all questions.

The members of the committee who witnessed the test were Dr. J. G. Duncan, director of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Identification; Captain J. A. Golden, director of the Bureau of Identification of the New York City Police Department; Sergeant Earl O. Stephens, of the Detroit Police; Frederick Sandberg, of the Washington, D.C., Police.

Weekly Payroll of Police Department Whisked Away

MAIDEN, Mass., Aug. 29.—The Thief of Bagdad was a philanthropist compared with a certain member of the light-fingered gentry here. Somebody has stolen the police department's weekly payroll, and it appeared to-day as though the arm of the law would have to wait some time for remuneration unless the robber was apprehended.

The payroll, totalling $550, was taken from the city treasurer's office.

AMERICAN LEGATION DIPLOMATS ATTEMPT RELEASE MISSIONARY WHEN ARMED FORCE HAS FAILED

Dr. Harvey Howard Still Held By His Bandit Captors.

MAY PAY RANSOM.

No Price Placed on Captive, Who Is Treating Bandits' Ills.

PEKING, Aug. 29 (United Press).—The dispatch of armed forces having failed to rescue Dr. Harvey Howard, American, from his Chinese bandit captors, the American legation today decided to try diplomacy.

To this end, the legation dispatched its military attache, Capt. Constant, to negotiate with the authorities at Karin, Manchuria, in an attempt to secure the release.

Karin advices this week, says the captor of Howard, of the Rockefeller Foundations Peking Hospital, had eluded the troops who had drawn a ring around their ramp and were a day ahead of the pursuers.

The above dispatch may signify that an offer of ransom is to be made, as this is generally regarded as one of the most effective means of obtaining captives from Chinese bandits However, until recently, the bandits had placed no price upon Howard and were using him to treat their ills.

Mine Mule Will Indicate Length Of Strike Situation

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—The mine mule in the next forty-eight hours is expected to forecast whether the anthracite suspension which goes into effect on Monday at midnight, is to be long or short. If the mules are brought to the surface for the shut-down it will signify the belief that the mines will be closed for a considerable time, according to advices received today from the hard coal region. If the mules remain 'below," the sentiment will accordingly be seen to favor a brief duration.

DEATH PENALTY FOR CAR KILLERS

Washington Judge Rules Indictment For Murder is Correct.

RAN DOWN WOMAN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 39 (Canadian Press).—The death penalty could be meted out to death car drivers, under a new ruling yesterday by Chief Justice McCoy of the District Supreme Court. He held in the case of two negro defendants, Clifton Young and Estelle Robinson, that they were properly indicted for second degree murder for running down and killing Sister Cephas of the Providence Hospital. The district attorney hailed the ruling as opening the way for first degree murder prosecutions and sentence to the electric chair.

SUICIDE LEAVES NOTE WITH BODY

"I Have Gone—Blame No One"—Wrote John Black.

NO REASON GIVEN.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.— Canadian Pres. — The body of John Black, aged 45, was found in the workroom of a local studio here this morning. On the work bench was found a note scribbled on a sheet of wrapping paper, which said: "I have gone — blame no one—Mutt and Chief — Good-bye."

On the table beside the note was a glass with some liquid in it.

Mr. Black was an official photographer for the Board of Education. No reason could be given for his act.

When Lewis Whistles, Workmen Drop Their Tools, Motor Brakes Screech and Felines Seek Prey

NEW JERSEY, N.J., Aug. 29 (United Press).—When Lewis Warner, who is 14 and whistling champion of Jersey City, lets out a shrill and talented blast, workmen for blocks around drop their tools and reach for their coats.

Lewis won the championship over fifteen other boys at West End Park, giving imitations of a traffic policeman, a cuckoo clock, locusts, a sparrow, and a penutt stand.

All the other entrants had whistled their best before Lewis took the stand. His initial piercing blast was a success throughout the neighborhood. Then he imitated locusts so well that many in his audience of 7,000 squirmed nervously and women tugged uneasily at their skirts.

Lewis piped shrilly in imitation of a traffic cop and all the motorists in the neighborhood jammed on their brakes. His bird notes summoned the feline residents from afar.

ROLLING LOG CAUED DEATH OF BUCKHORN MAN

Unused to Working on Boom and Unable to Swim.

32 FEET DEEP.

Coroner Questions Eye-Witnesses and Decided Inquest Not Necessary.

Bert Allen, who was drowned in Little Lake yesterday afternoon, was unable to swim, and it was his usual practice to stay in the punt, working from there, and letting the other men do the work on the logs. Yesterday afternoon, with two other men, he went to pick out some cedar from a boom about two hundred yards off short. For some reason, he went on the logs and slipped off. It was said by other drivers, experienced men, that if he had remained quiet, holding to a log, that any log, no matter how small, would have kept him up.

Apparently he lost his head and started to struggle to climb up on a large log some eighteen inches in diameter. It rolled over and, becoming exhausted, he let go and sank before his companions were able to reach him.

The water at the point where he went down is about 32 feet deep, but chains were lowered and one man went down in an effort to bring up the body. He was unable to stay under long enough to find it. P. C. Matthews came on the scene and grappling irons were obtained, and after about fifteen minutes' work the body was recovered.

Allen had worked on the lumber drives four years, officials of the company said.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young viewed the remains when they were brought ashore, and questioned the men who were working with Allen. He decided that the death was entirely accidental and that no inquest need be held. The body was conveyed to Comstock's Undertaking Parlors.

The deceased young man's home was near Buckhorn.

SIR JAS. AIKINS AGAIN ELECTED BAR PRESIDENT

Chosen For 11th Consecutive Year By Canadian Bar Association at Winnipeg.

TENTH CONVENTION.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—The feature of the closing day of the tenth annual convention of the Canadian Bar Association Friday was the re-election for the eleventh consecutive year of His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Sir James Aikins to the presidency. Without a dissenting voice and amid general applauses Sir James was elected, his warnings against a prescriptive right, voiced in the presidential address, being brushed aside by the nominating committee. There was no change of importance in the officers or committees.

Each of the honorary vice-presidents is the Attorney-General of the Province which he represents. For New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island the respective Attorneys-General when named will hold the position for his province on the Association's list of officers.

The questions of legal education, of maintaining the ethical standards of the profession were keenly dealt with at all conferences during the progress of the convention, as were the subjects of low reform and administration of civil and criminal justice.

"A History of the Inns of London" was the subject of an address by Geoffrey Lawrence, K.C., yesterday afternoon. There are four inns in London connected with the legal profession, the Inner Temple, the Middle Temple, Gray's Inn and Lincoln's Inn. The inns, he said, were both a history of the legal profession and of British justice. The original society of the Inner Temple, Mr. Lawrence pointed out, was made up of the Knight Templars. The inns were vacated with the suppression of the Knights Templars. He stated that it was only about 150 years after the consecration of the Inner Temple in 1185 that the justices of the Court of Common Pleas were made knights for the first time.

Lincoln's Inn was founded early in the fourtheenth century, and

UNION OF ANGLICAN AND ROMAN CHURCHES IS AN IMPOSSIBILITY BECAUSE OF POPE'S AUTHORITY

Anglicans Could Not Give Unquestioning Obedience, Says Bishop Bidwell.

DEEPLY GRIEVED.

QUEBEC, Quebec, August 29. — Canadian Press. — Bishop Bidwell of Kingston, Ont., whose resignation from his diocese was recently accepted, returned yesterday from England, where he had been attending the convention of the Social Service Council of the Church of England. His resignation was attributed to the entry of Mrs. Bidwell into the Roman Catholic Church.

In an interview, Bishop Bidwell said: "Union between Anglicans and Roman Catholics is impossible, because members of a reformed church cannot accept the supreme authority of one man (the Pope) to enact laws and oblige his subjects to put them into practice without recriminations. Thus the question of union is changed to a question of submission and acceptance and Anglicans would find difficulty in following this line of conduct."

Bishop Bidwell expressed himself as deeply grieved at the criticism at that had been launched at him over the converion of his wife to the Roman Catholic church.

"Because of this unfortunate affair I am being reproached as having a fondness toward Catholics. I replied to this criticism through the papers in London last May, and copies of my article were forwarded to the Toronto papers, who published it only in July last. Why the delay?" he asked.

WRECK OF BUS BROUGHT HURTS

Motor Bus, Carrying 15 or 20 Passengers, Collided With Motor Car.

BUS OVERTURNED.

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (Canadian Press)—Crashing into a motor car on the Hamilton Highway last evening west of the Humber, a motor bus containing 15 to 20 persons overturned, crushing two women passengers, probably fatally, severely injuring two others and causing minor hurts to several other persons.

The injured are:

Mrs. Mabel Cordingley, 32, Mimico Beach, fracture of the pelvis and internal hemorrhages.

Mrs. Annie Yorworski, 29, New Toronto, fracture of the pelvis and other injuries.

Mrs. Mary Fields, 54, Toronto, two fractured ribs.

Mrs. Margaret Fraser, 68, Matron at Mercer Reformatory, scalp lacerated.

P. Tibbles, Long Branch, and his ten year old daughter; Mrs. J. McBride, Mimico, and W. J. Savage, Long Branch, sustained cuts and bruises but were able to go to their homes after being treated.

Baroness Orczy Seeks Data To Write Book on Wild Men

QUEBEC, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press). — Baroness Orczy, one of England's most celebrated writers, whose creation, "The Scarlet Pimpernel," and the later adventures of "Sir Percy Blakney," established her reputation nearly twenty years ago, will write a novel on "Old Quebec," and will also gather data for one of the "Wild West." This is her intention, expressed here last night, when she reached Quebec on the Montnairn.

BUSH FIRES NOW IN TIMBER LANDS

Threatens to Develop Into Serious Proportions Near Bala To-day.

EXTRA GANGS ON.

BALA, August 29. — Canadian Press. — A bush fire which has been burning between Roderick and Bala, has now got to the timber land and threatens to develop to serious proportions The fire was well under control Wednesday but shifting winds baffled the fire fighters

"The Canadian Pacific Railway has several extra gangs on duty in an effort to check the outbreak.

Bala is in no immediate danger as several farms and large sections of cleared land lie between the area of the fire and here.

SHIPS IDLE AT CAPETOWN PORT TIED BY STRIKE

Band's Ironic "Show Me the Way to Go Home" As Stewards Quit.

A QUIET AFFAIR.

Strike Leaders Suggest Old Wages For Trip Back to England.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 29. — Canadian Press Cable via Reuthers. — Friday was an abortive day in the efforts to settle the seamen's strike. Both the authorities and the shipping companies are in a dilemma as it appears that nothing can be done locally. The leaders of the seamen admit that they signed an agreement in England, but say that they did so only for the purpose of getting to Dominion ports where they considered that they would have the whip hand. Strike leaders say that the only way out is to pay the seamen the old rates until England is reached and to release the men sentenced at Durban, without a stain on their character.

Princess Alice, wife of the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of South Africa, is one of 200 passengers due to sail on the Arundel Castle which it was announced would sail to-day.

Meanwhile everything wore the normal sailing day atmosphere at the docks, but towards sailing time the firemen in shore clothes quietly melted into the crowds. Indeed it is one of the most peaceful strikes in the world. A crowd of stewards from the steamer Ballaret came along side the Arundel Castle yesterday and persuaded some of the younger stewards to leave the ship. As the last batch was descending the gangway the ship's band struck up "Show me the way to go home."

There is much comment on the fact that while the British steamers are delayed, foreign vessels are busy working at the neighboring wharfs loading maize and citrus.

It is understood that Premier Hertzog has cabled Havelock Wilson, the general presidest of the Seamen's Union, stating that the British seamen are taking their action of their own volition and are not being incited by anyone in South Africa.

Special Police.

MELBOURNE, Australia, August Aug. 28. Canadian Press Cable via Reuters. — In moving the second reading in the House of Representatives yesterday of a bill for the appointment of special police is for work in connection with the strike of British seamen in Australian ports Premier Bruce strongly condemned the attitude of the Hon. J. T. Lang, Labor Premier of New South Wales.

The Premier declared that the Labor members could stop the trouble among the overseas seamen if they had the courage to tell them that they were being dragged by the heels by the extremists.

Premier Lang announced on Thursday that they would refuse to allow any of the agencies of his state to be used against the striking seamen in the deportation proceedings being taken against some of the leaders.

NO AGGRESSION BY CHINESE IN CANADA

Chinese Consul Deplores Rumors in Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B.C., August 29.—Canadian Press. — Ho Tsang, local consul for China, in a letter to Mayor L. D. Taylor, deplores the fact that suggestions have been published that there is grave danger of the troubles in China becoming apparent here in clashes with the white residents.

"It is needless to say that not a single Chinese in Vancouver or in Canada ever contemplated making any clashes with the Canadians or promoted anti-British movement," states the consul.

FIRST FUNCTION OF OUTING CLUB GREAT SUCCESS

Free Picnic to Crowe River Bridge Drew Large Number of Citizens.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Sports and Races Provided For Everybody—Band Concert in Evening.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29.—The rercently organized Business Men's Outing Club held their first function Friday afternoon, the weekly half-holiday, the affair being a picnic for the entire community to Crowe River Bridge, a place a few miles from town which since passing into the possession of W. J. Dagleish about a year ago, is fast becoming an ideal summer resort. This season it has been the favorite picnic grounds for town and district. The grounds have been cleaned up, the scenery is rugged and beautiful, and the bathing, boating and fishing facilities are unexcelled.

Everything Was Free.

The committees in charge of the arrangements certainly deserve credit for the energy which they put into their work and for the success that crowned their labors. The whole town appeared to have taken a holiday. Not every family in Campbellford owns an auto, but those who do not were carried to the picnic grounds in the autos of their more fortunate neighbors, some car owners making two or more trips in order to get the people to the scene of the outing. Mayor Meyers had on one trip sixteen passengers in his big car, and all others were as thoroughly filled as the proverbial bread wagons. The true community spirit was in the air, all men and women were brothers and sisters, and property for the day was owned in common.

Blaker's Historic Cave.

Crowe River Bridge, for that name is now used to designate the entire vicinity as well as the highway structure that spans the stream, does not lack for historic lore. One of the main points of interest for old and young alike, is Blaker's Cave, located on a small tract of land owned by Dennis Callahan, of Hastings. This is a cavity that extends under a hill for a distance of 250 feet. It takes an adventurous spirit to explore it The entrance is so small that a man who desires to reach the inside must place himself in the position of the camel negotiating the eye of the needle and get down on his knees. It is on record that Walter Lowe, of Campbellford, at one time while working with a surveying party, armed himself with a searchlight and made his way from one end of the cave to the other, and his report was that the space became more expansive the further he advanced, but that the apertures leading from one chamber to another were just large enough to permit the passage of a man built on not too generous lines.

The "Silver" Partners.

The story goes that the cave was first discovered by a man named Blaker, whose name it bears, that Blaker had a partner named Prentiss, and that the two were reputed to have a mine of silver in the cave or vicinity, keeping the location a secret. They used to make mysterious after dark trips to the vicinity, and those who followed them were baffled when the two men shadowed suddenly disappeared from mortal vision. Before daylight they have been seen to steal away, each man carrying a sack popularly supposed to be filled with silver ore, which they disposed of in Toronto for $400.

If Blaker and Prentiss really had a secret they carried it with them to their graves. Blaker died in Toronto and Prentiss resumed his former occupation as a log driver on the River Trent. If at any period of his life he had been a miner and shook hands with prosperity, then like to many others of that all his acquired wealth had taken unto itself wings. He was drowned while working as a river driver in the vicinity of Meyersburg.

A Search For Minerals.

A hole dug in the vicinity of the cave and fenced as if to establish a miner's title, bears witness to the fact that some prospector for minerals has been at work here. The shaft is of the regulation miner's dimensions, and was sunk to the depth of about eight feet, where the solid rock was encountered. For lack of explosives or for some other reason the work was abandoned.

Programme of Sports

The programme of sports provided by the committee occupied the entire afternoon. The feature of this programme was a softball game between five married men and five single ladies on one side and as many bachelors and married ladies on the other. Regardless of their estate with regard to matrimony the ladies distinguished themselves in every branch of the game, at bat, in the field, or running bases. They helped to dispel the delusion that if a woman with a missile in her hand desires to deliver it near or at some particular object her only sane policy is to aim at another. Of course the ladies made a few errors but in this respect they are no worse than the male novices in the game, who overrun or fail to touch bases, drop easy flies, and when they throw to a baseman seem to harbor the idea that the indiivdual guarding that particular sack is at least 10 feet tall or is gifted with abnormal reach. This game, which was called at the end of the fourth innings, was thoroughly enjoyed not only by the players but by the spectators. The following took part:

Married Men and Single Ladies' team: eParce, 3b; Bonneycastle, p; Chaplin, 2b; Daniels, 1b; Menzies, c; Harriett Potts, lf; Verna Saunders, rss; Hazel Labrasle, lss; Flossie McComb, cf; Eva Runions, rf.

Single Men and Married Ladies' team: Poulton,p; Booth, c; Anderson, 1b; Bailey, 2b; McDonald, 3b; Mrs. A. L. Malcolm, cf; Mrs. Neil Morrison, lf; Mrs. W. J. Abernethy, rss; Mrs. Claude Duncalfe, lss; Mrs. Charles Ackerman, 2b.

The score was 10 to 3 in favor of the single ladies and their colleagues.

DEPRESSION CAUSES SUFFERING IN SLUMS

Many Poor Children in Tokio Go Without Lunch.

TOKYO, Aug. 29.—The condition of the school children in the slum quarters of Tokyo recently has been attracting the attention of the newspaper. Owing to the industrial depression, the poverty of the lower classes is becoming more and more pronounced. It is said that hundreds of children attending the Temahime, Mannen and Hayashi primary schools have been going without lunch daily because of lack of funds. The teachers, learning of the situation, have been soliciting funds to provide the youngsters with food.

OTTAWA, August 29. — Canadian Press. — Notice of intention to apply to Parliament for divorce is given in this week's issue of the Canada Gazette, by Harry Reginald Oddy, Toronto, from Annie Oddy, Toronto, and Annie Sophia Gordonsmith, Toronto, from Wilfred Gordonsmith, Toronto.

WOMEN'S LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION MET AT MILLBROOK

A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., Addressed Meeting, Saying Election Is Imminent.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Mrs. J. R. Eakins, of Millbrook, Was Elected President.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 29.—A meeting of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association for Cavah and Millbrook was held in the Town Hall on Friday afternoon, A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., being in the chair.

Owing to the short notice at which the meeting was called, the holiday season, and the very busy time on the farms, the attendance was considerably smaller than the importance of the occasion warranted. Mrs. Howard Fallis, of Peterboro, was the speaker for the gathering, and F. W. Bowen, M.P., was also present and addressed the members.

The business of organization was the first item to receive attention, the following being elected: President, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Millbrook; First Vice-President, Mrs. J. H. Paul, Cavan; Second Vice-President Mrs. J. L. McCamus, Cavan; Third Vice-President, Mrs. Ira Lowes, Mount Pleasant; Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Vance, Millbrook; Treasurer, Miss M. Whyte, Millbrook.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Fallis intimated that he believed an election imminent because the people are thoroughly dissatisfied with conditions in the country to-day. One great need is that the people generally have an intelligent grasp of the situation, politically, industrially, and commercially, as it exists in Canada at the present time, and to this end a knowledge of facts is necessary.

Mrs. Fallis was introduced by the chairman, who stated: "I know from the big men in the political arena what they think of Mrs. Fallis' ability as a speaker, and organizer, and we are fortunate in having the privilege of hearing her to-day."

Acknowledging the kindly manner in which the member for the local House had presented her to the meeting, Mrs. Fallis said: "I wish to tell you that the very first invitation I ever received to speak at a public gathering, at the beginning of my short political career, came from Millbrook, yet this is the first time I have ever spoken here. As women we are all new at politics, and we must live up to our new dignity, and our responsibilities. We have new duties to perform since the franchise was granted, let us, therefore, take an active and intelligent interest in the great national problems, and thus become a greater asset to our nation."

Mrs. Fallis has been appointed organizer of the Liberal-Conservative women's forces for Ontario, and she spoke strongly of the members of her sex who say, "I have no interest in politics," and think thus to dismiss their responsibility. This is equivalent to saying, "I do not care how, or by whom, the country is governed."

Woman's Interest.

The speaker who lived in Western Canada for 8 years, stated he, impression that the women there, as well as in the Old Land, are more interested in politics than their sisters in the East. "There never was a time when it was more important that every intelligent, alert woman voter should be actively interested in the political situation than at present."

The wide-spread, industrial depression, the speaker believes, is causing the best Liberals to swing over to the policy of the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, as they did at the time of Confederation, and in war-time, considering it the best means of solving the problems of the day.

"We often hear the statement that 90 per cent. of the women vote with their husbands; supposing we agree this is true, the remaining 10 per cent are sufficiently strong to swing an election. The business girls, the teachers, the splendid unmarried women—we need their vote and influence. Then again it has been known to happen that a wife is equally intelligent with her husband; more rarely still, she may occasionally possess more intelligence, and influence her husband to vote with her."

Only One Issue.

Mrs. Fallis stressed the fact that there is just one issue before the electors, and that is the record, and policy, of the King Government at Ottawa. Have its four years of rule been beneficial to Canada, or not? Women are more emotional than men, and more readily influenced by some popular election cry, and the Liberal leaders are trying to introduce Provincial problems and side issues in the mpending campaign "Don't let anyone sidetrack you on this matter."

"In Durham County you are fortunate in having as your representatives two members in the Provincial and Federal Houses, whose record, politically, and whose life among you, speakes for itself; you have no occasion for apology."

Referring to the Honorable Arthur Meighen, Mrs. Fallis declared he had incurred dislike in Quebec because he was the father of the movement to conscript men during the war, and this led to that province returning a solid block of sixty-five members against him. "To-day, the opposition leaders are fanning this feeling, walking through the sepulchre, raising the ghost of conscription, using a bloody key to enter office. Any man who will stir up racial and creed differences for party advantage should be forced off the public platform."

"They refer to mistakes in his war-time record. It is at least vastly superior to that of William Lyon MacKenzie King, who was sheltering himself in the arms of the American Eagle, wrapped safely in the folds of Old Glory, looking on, while Mr. Meighen and his associates bore the burden and heat of the day. I wonder they even mention the two leaders in the same breath."

Tariff Considerations.

The tariff was the next subject touched upon, the speaker reminding her hearers that women are apt to say this does not affect them. "Surely anything that affects our homes, living conditions, and our pocketbooks, touches intimately the women of our land."

"Why should American eggs come into Canada with a duty of three cents against them, while ours must pay eight cents duty to enter the States? Butter comes in at four cents, but ours is charged twelve. Why should the Americans be allowed to flood our markets with fruit and vegetables to the detriment of Canadian producers?"

"More than two thousand factories have been closed during the King regime, and the consequent reaction is felt by all classes, women and children being more particularly affected."

In conclusion, Mrs. Fallis urged her hearers to "get behind your candidate (I hope it will be Mr. Bowen), and work to have him returned by a big majority."

"Give loyal support to your leader, the Honorable Arthur Meighen. He is honest, brilliant, capable, the most able debater in Parliament at the present time, possesses all the attributes to make a successful head of a government, and is the brightest star in the political firmament today."

Mrs. Fallis was interrupted a number of times, during her address, by applause and this was renewed with vigor at the conclusion of her remarks.

"On Eve of Election."

The chairman then called upon Mr. Bowen, who spoke briefly, giving particular attention to the election which he felt assured the King government had intended should take place last June. The budget debate, causing a lengthtened session, had made alteration in their plans, "but I sincerely believe we are on the eve of an election now."

The results of the elections in Nova Scotia, "where we reaped a return of forty bushels to the acre," and in New Brunswick, were referred to, and the exodus of the "flower of our young manhood and womanhood to the States, because there is no employment for them in Canada," brought condemnation of the government's fiscal policy.

"Our people cannot compete, industrially, with those of other countries unless our preferential tariff is made high enough."

Some figures in connection with the Australian treaty were quoted showing that while our meat has to pay 5 cents duty, their's comes in here at one-half cent; our eggs pay 8 cents, their's come in free; honey pays 4 cents, their's 1 cent; cheese 6 cents, their's free; canned peaches 8 1-2 cents, their's 1-2 cent; $1.50 per hundred, their's free.

We are getting the worst of the bargain ever since this government came into power, and we will soon have nothin left to bargain with. Over sixty countries have strengthened their tariff since the war, while we have lowered our at least 2 1-2 per cent, and disarranged trade relations," he said.

The need of developing our own resources, and manufacturing the finished article in Canada was dwelt upon. "We must have a national payroll in Canada; nothing else will keep things going as they should."

"We hear a great deal about the imaginary boundary between Canada and the States, but when it comes to the tariff there is no imaginary line. Consciously, or unconsciously, this government has legislated for the benefit of the United States ever since it came into power."

In concuding his remarks Mr. Brown announced that a Conservative picnic, to be addressed by Honorable Arthur Meighen, Mrs. Fallis and others, will be held at Bethany on Thursday, September 10th, and the local Association was urged to be present in larg numbers.

Mr. P. Brown, of Port Hope, at the request of the chairman, briefly addressed the gathering, in the course of his remarks strongly supporting the selection of Mr. Bowen as the candidate for Durham, when the election date is announced. Personal conversation with Mr. Meighen, the speaker said, had brought from the Conservative leader, on more than one occasion, words of appreciation for the services Mr. Bowen has rendered his party. "He is not a man to get out into the limelight, but when work is to be done he is as busy as a bee until the object in view is accomplished."

The meeting was dismissed with the National Anthem.

SCHOOL STAFF DOESN'T PLEASE ALL ON CAMPBELLFORD BOARD

Unless Improvement Is Shown Some Changes May Be Made.

RE-OPEN ON SECOND.

Board Will Protect School Property From Horses and Lovers.

CAMPBELLFORD Aug. 29. —It was made apparent by a discussion at the meeting of the Board of Education Thursday night that everything is not satisfactory with regard to the teaching staff in the Public School, and that unless improvement is shown by some of the teachers, changes will be made as soon as it is legally possible to replace them by others. No formal motion was brought in, but it was indicated that the members of the internal committee, who have the engaging of the teachers and, as representatives of the Board, practically the management of the school, will see to it that the work in the various departments is kept up to the standard. One thing that will be insisted upon is discipline, the members of the staff must recognize an authority higher than their own and must submit themselves to it.

Reopening the Schools.

The members of the Board in attendance were: Chairman Bygott, Trustees Jeffs, Hall, Cock, Douglas, Benor, O'Sullivan, Loucks and Dr. Longmore. In the absence of Wesley Stephens, the secretary, who is on a vacation, the duties of that position were discharged by C. S. Hay, principal of the Public School.

Trustee Douglas brought up the question of the re-opening of the schools, and moved that this be delayed until Tuesday, September 8, the reason given by Mr. Douglas being that if the re-opening takes place on the date set by the regulations, September 2, the first week will be broken, as there will be another holiday o Labor Day. Another argument used was that the pupils should be given an opportunity to attend the Toronto Exhibition on Children's Day next week if they so desire. Trustee Douglas gave it as his opinion that the attendance would be comparatively small during the "broken week," especially in the High School as students from the country would not start until after Labor Day.

Trustee Cock seconded the motion but it was voted down, the main objection of the majority appearing to be that it would not be wise to change the opening date after circulars had been sent out announcing it as September 2.

No Trespassing Allowed.

Caretaker Massie reported that a local owner of horses had been tethering his animals on the High School grounds after night, pasturing them on the grass that the Board has spent money to cultivate. The horses would be placed on the grounds after dark and removed before daylight. When the owner was asked to desist from this practice, he declared that no horses of his had ever been pastured in the yard.

Another circumstance reported by Mr. Massie was that the dark entrance on the Ranney Street side of the building is being used as a trysting place by young men and women. When he ordered some of these swains off the premises, Mr. Massie said, one young man disputed his authority and the next night one of the window panes was found broken, some one having thrown a stone through it.

The caretaker asked the Board to back him up in his efforts to protect the grounds and buildings. He was instructed to place in the town pound any horse or other animals found pasturing in the yard and to turn over to the police loiterers found hanging around the entrances after dark.

FIRST FUNCTION OF OUTING CLUB GREAT SUCCESS

Free Picnic to Crowe River Bridge Drew Large Number of Citizens.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Sports and Races Provided For Everybody—Band Concert in Evening.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29.—The rercently organized Business Men's Outing Club held their first function Friday afternoon, the weekly half-holiday, the affair being a picnic for the entire community to Crowe River Bridge, a place a few miles from town which since passing into the possession of W. J. Dagleish about a year ago, is fast becoming an ideal summer resort. This season it has been the favorite picnic grounds for town and district. The grounds have been cleaned up, the scenery is rugged and beautiful, and the bathing, boating and fishing facilities are unexcelled.

Everything Was Free.

The committees in charge of the arrangements certainly deserve credit for the energy which they put into their work and for the success that crowned their labors. The whole town appeared to have taken a holiday. Not every family in Campbellford owns an auto, but those who do not were carried to the picnic grounds in the autos of their more fortunate neighbors, some car owners making two or more trips in order to get the people to the scene of the outing. Mayor Meyers had on one trip sixteen passengers in his big car, and all others were as thoroughly filled as the proverbial bread wagons. The true community spirit was in the air, all men and women were brothers and sisters and property for the day was owned in common.

Blaker's Historic Cave.

Crowe River Bridge, for that name is now used to designate the entire vicinity as well as the highway structure that spans the stream, does not lack for historic lore. One of the main points of interest for old and young alike, is Blaker's Cave, located on a small tract of land owned by Dennis Callahan, of Hastings. This is a cavity that extends under a hill for a distance of 250 feet. It takes an adventurous spirit to explore it The entrance is so small that a man who desires to reach the inside must place himself in the position of the camel negotiating the eye of the needle and get down on his knees. It is on record that Walter Lowe, of Campbellford, at one time while working with a surveying party, armed himself with a searchlight and made his way from one end of the cave to the other, and his report was that the space became more expansive the further he advanced, but that the apertures leading from one chamber to another were just large enough to permit the passage of a man built on not too generous lines.

The "Silver" Partners.

The story goes that the cave was first discovered by a man named Blaker, whose name it bears, that Blaker had a partner named Prentiss, and that the two were reputed to have a mine of silver in the cave or vicinity, keeping the location a secret. They used to make mysterious after dark trips to the vicinity, and those who followed them were baffled when the two men shadowed suddenly disappeared from mortal vision. Before daylight they have been seen to steal away, each man carrying a sack ponularly supposed to be filled with silver ore, which they disposed of in Toronto for $400.

If Blaker and Prentiss really had a secret they carried it with them to their graves. Blaker died in Toronto and Prentiss resumed his former occupation as a log driver on the River Trent. If at any period of his life he had been a miner and shook hands with prosperity, then like to many others of that all his acquired wealth had taken unto itself wings. He was drowned while working as a river driver in the vicinity of Meyersburg.

A Search For Minerals.

A hole dug in the vicinity of the cave and fenced as if to establish a miner's title, bears witness to the fact that some prospector for minerals has been at work here. The shaft is of the regulation miner's dimensions, and was sunk to the depth of about eight feet, where the solid rock was encountered. For lack of explosives or for some other reason the work was abandoned.

Programme of Sports

The programme of sports provided by the committee occupied the entire afternoon. The feature of this programme was a softball game between five married men and five single ladies on one side and as many bachelors and married ladies on the other. Regardless of their estate with regard to matrimony the ladies distinguished themselves in every branch of the game, at bat, in the field, or running bases. They helped to dispel the delusion that if a woman with a missile in her hand desires to deliver it near or at some particular object her only sane policy is to aim at another. Of course the ladies made a few errors but in this respect they are no worse than the male novices in the game, who overrun or fail to touch bases, drop easy flies, and when they throw to a baseman seem to harbor the idea that the indiivdual guarding that particular sack is at least 10 feet tall or is gifted with abnormal reach. This game, which was called at the end of the fourth innings, was thoroughly enjoyed not only by the players but by the spectators. The following took part:

Married Men and Single Ladies' team: eParce, 3b; Bonneycastle, p; Chaplin, 2b; Daniels, 1b; Menzies, c; Harriett Potts, lf; Verna Saunders, rss; Hazel Labrasle, 1ss; Flossie McComb, cf; Eva Runions, rf.

Single Men and Married Ladies' team: Poulton,p; Booth, c; Anderson, 1b; Bailey, 2b; McDonald, 3b; Mrs. A. L. Malcolm, cf; Mrs. Neil Morrison, lf; Mrs. W. J. Abernethy, rss; Mrs. Claude Duncalfe, 1ss; Mrs. Charles Ackerman, 2b.

The score was 10 to 3 in favor of the single ladies and their colleagues.

DEPRESSION CAUSES SUFFERING IN SLUMS

TOKYO, Aug. 29.—The condition of the school children in the slum quarters of Tokyo recently has been attracting the attention of the newspaper. Owing to the industrial depression, the poverty of the lower classes is becoming more and more pronounced. It is said that hundreds of children attending the Temahime, Mannen and Hayashi primary schools have been going without lunch daily because of lack of funds. The teachers, learning of the situation, have been soliciting funds to provide the youngsters with food.

WOMEN'S LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION MET AT MILLBROOK

A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., Addressed Meeting, Saying Election Is Imminent.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Mrs. J. R. Eakins, of Millbrook, Was Elected President.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 28.—A meeting of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association for Cavah and Millbrook was held in the Town Hall on Friday afternoon, A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., being in the chair.

Owing to the short notice at which the meeting was called, the holiday season, and the very busy time on the farms, the attendance was considerably smaller than the importance of the occasion warranted. Mrs. Howard Fallis, of Peterboro, was the speaker for the gathering, and F. W. Bowen, M.P., was also present and addressed the members.

The business of organization was the first item to receive attention, the following being elected: President, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Millbrook; First Vice-President, Mrs. J. H. Paul, Cavan; Second Vice-President Mrs. J. L. McCamus, Cavan; Third Vice-President, Mrs. Ira Lowes, Mount Pleasant; Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Vance, Millbrook; Treasurer, Miss M. Whyte, Millbrook.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Fallis intimated that he believed an election imminent because the people are thoroughly dissatisfied with conditions in the country to-day. One great need is that the people generally have an intelligent grasp of the situation, politically, industrially, and commercially, as it exists in Canada at the present time, and to this end a knowledge of facts is necessary.

Mrs. Fallis was introduced by the chairman, who stated: "I know from the big men in the political arena what they think of Mrs. Fallis' ability as a speaker, and organizer, and we are fortunate in having the privilege of hearing her to-day."

Acknowledging the kindly manner in which the member for the local House had presented her to the meeting, Mrs. Fallis said: "I wish to tell you that the very first invitation I ever received to speak at a public gathering, at the beginning of my short political career, came from Milibrook, yet this is the first time I have ever spoken here. As women we are all new at politics, and we must live up to our new dignity, and our responsibilities. We have new duties to perform since the franchise was granted, let us, therefore, take an active and intelligent interest in the great national problems, and thus become a greater asset to our nation."

Mrs. Fallis has been appointed organizer of the Liberal-Conservative women's forces for Ontario, and she spoke strongly of the members of her sex who say, "I have no interest in politics," and think thus to dismiss their responsibility. This is equivalent to saying, "I do not care how, or by whom, the country is governed."

Woman's Interest.

The speaker who lived in Western Canada for 8 years, stated he impression that the women there, as well as in the Old Land, are more interested in politics than their sisters in the East. "There never was a time when it was more important that every intelligent, alert woman voter should be actively interested in the political situation than at present."

The wide-spread, industrial depression, the speaker believes, is causing the best Liberals to swing over to the policy of the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, as they did at the time of Confederation, and in wartime, considering it the best means of solving the problems of the day.

"We often hear the statement that 90 per cent. of the women vote with their husbands; supposing we agree this is true, the remaining 10 per cent are sufficiently strong to swing an election. The business girls, the teachers, the splendid unmarried women—we need their vote and influence. Then again it has been known to happen that a wife is equally intelligent with her husband; more rarely still, she may occasionally possess more intelligence, and influence her husband to vote with her."

Only One Issue.

Mrs. Fallis stressed the fact that there is just one issue before the electors, and that is the record, and policy, of the King Government at Ottawa. Have its four years of rule been beneficial to Canada, or not? Women are more emotional than men, and more readily influenced by some popular election cry, and the Liberal leaders are trying to introduce Provincial problems and side issues in the mpending campaign "Don't let anyone sidetrack you on this matter."

"In Durham County you are fortunate in having as your representatives two members in the Provincial and Federal Houses, whose record, politically, and whose life among you, speakes for itself; you have no occasion for apology."

Referring to the Honorable Arthur Meighen, Mrs. Fallis declared he had incurred dislike in Quebec because he was the father of the movement to conscript men during the war, and this led to that province returning a solid block of sixty-five members against him. "To-day, the opposition leaders are fanning this feeling, walking through the sepulchre, raising the ghost of conscription, using a bloody key to enter office. Any man who will stir up racial and creed differences for party advantage should be forced off the public platform."

"They refer to mistakes in his war-time record. It is at least vastly superior to that of William Lyon MacKenzie King, who was sheltering himself in the arms of the American Eagle, wrapped safely in the folds of Old Glory, looking on, while Mr. Meighen and his associates bore the burden and heat of the day. I wonder they even mention the two leaders in the same breath."

Tariff Considerations.

The tariff was the next subject touched upon, the speaker reminding her hearers that women are apt to say this does not affect them. "Surely anything that affects our homes, living conditions, and our pocketbooks, touches intimately the women of our land."

"Why should American eggs come into Canada with a duty of three cents against them, while ours must pay eight cents duty to enter the States? Butter comes in at four cents, but ours is charged twelve. Why should the Americans be allowed to flood our markets with fruit and vegetables to the detriment of Canadian producers?"

"More than two thousand factories have been closed during the King regime, and the consequent reaction is felt by all classes, women and children being more particularly affected."

In conclusion, Mrs. Fallis urged her hearers to "get behind your candidate (I hope it will be Mr. Bowen), and work to have him returned by a big majority."

"Give loyal support to your leader, the Honorable Arthur Meighen. He is honest, brilliant, capable, the most able debater in Parliament at the present time, possesses all the attributes to make a successful head of a government, and is the brightest star in the political firmament today."

Mrs. Fallis was interrupted a number of times, during her address, by applause and this was renewed with vigor at the conclusion of her remarks.

"On Eve of Election."

The chairman then called upon Mr. Bowen, who spoke briefly, giving particular attention to the election which he felt assured the King Government had intended should take place last June. The budget debate, causing a lengthtened session, had made alteration in their plans, "but I sincerely believe we are on the eve of an election now."

The results of the elections in Nova Scotia, "where we reaped a return of forty bushels to the acre," and in New Brunswick, were referred to, and the exodus of the "flower of our young manhood and womanhood to the States, because there is no employment for them in Canada," brought condemnation of the government's fiscal policy.

"Our people cannot compete, industrially, with those of other countries unless our preferential tariff is made high enough."

Some figures in connection with the Australian treaty were quoted showing that while our meat has to pay 5 cents duty, their's comes in here at one-half cent; our eggs pay 8 cents, their's come in free; honey pays 4 cents, their's 1 cent; cheese 6 cents, their's free; canned peaches 8 1-2 cents, their's 1-2 cent; $1.50 per hundred, their's free.

We are getting the worst of the bargain ever since this government came into power, and we will soon have nothin left to bargain with. Over sixty countries have strengthened their tariff since the war, while we have lowered our at least 2 1-2 per cent, and disarranged trade relations," he said.

The need of developing our own resources, and manufacturing the finished article in Canada was dwelt upon. "We must have a national payroll in Canada; nothing else will keep things going as they should."

"We hear a great deal about the imaginary boundary between Canada and the States, but when it comes to the tariff there is no imaginary line. Consciously, or unconsciously, this government has legislated for the benefit of the United States ever since it came into power."

In concuding his remarks Mr. Brown announced that a Conservative picnic, to be addressed by Honorable Arthur Meighen, Mrs. Fallis and others, will be held at Bethany on Thursday, September 10th, and the local Association was urged to be present in larg numbers.

Mr. P. Brown, of Port Hope, at the request of the chairman, briefly addressed the gathering, in the course of his remarks strongly supporting the selection of Mr. Bowen as the candidate for Durham, when the election date is announced. Personal conversation with Mr. Meighen, the speaker said, had brought from the Conservative leader, on more than one occasion, words of appreciation for the services Mr. Bowen has rendered his party. "He is not a man to get out into the limelight, but when work is to be done he is as busy as a bee until the object in view is accomplished."

The meeting was dismissed with the National Anthem.

SCHOOL STAFF DOESN'T PLEASE ALL ON CAMPBELLFORD BOARD

Unless Improvement Is Shown Some Changes May Be Made.

RE-OPEN ON SECOND.

Board Will Protect School Property From Horses and Lovers.

CAMPBELLFORD Aug. 29. —It was made apparent by a discussion at the meeting of the Board of Education Thursday night that everything is not satisfactory with regard to the teaching staff in the Public School, and that unless improvement is shown by some of the teachers, changes will be made as soon as it is legally possible to replace them by others. No formal motion was brought in, but it was indicated that the members of the internal committee, who have the engaging of the teachers and, as representatives of the Board, practically the management of the school, will see it that the work in the various departments is kept up to the standard. One thing that will be insisted upon is discipline, the members of the staff must recognize an authority higher than their own and must submit themselves to it.

Reopening the Schools.

The members of the Board in attendance were: Chairman Bygott, Trustees Jeffs, Hall, Cock, Douglas, Benor, O'Sullivan, Loucks and Dr. Longmore. In the absence of Wesley Stephens, the secretary, who is on a vacation, the duties of that position were discharged by C. S. Hay, principal of the Public School.

Trustee Douglas brought up the question of the re-opening of the schools, and moved tnat this be delayed until Tuesday, September 8, the reason given by Mr. Douglas being that if the re-opening takes place on the date set by the regulations, September 2, the first week will be broken, as there will be another holiday o Labor Day. Another argument used was that the pupils should be given an opportunity to attend the Toronto Exhibition on Children's Day next week if they so desire. Trustee Douglas gave it as his opinion that he attendance would be comparatively small during the "broken week," especially in the High School as students from the country would not start until after Labor Day.

Trustee Cock seconded the motion but it was voted down, the main objection of the majority appearing to be that it would not be wise to change the opening date after circulars had been sent out announcing it as September 2.

No Trespassing Allowed.

Caretaker Massie reported that a local owner of horses had been tethering his animals on the High School grounds after night, pasturing them on the grass that the Board has spent money to cultivate. The horses would be placed on the grounds after dark and removed before daylight. When the owner was asked to desist from this practice, he declared that no horses of his had ever been pastured in the yard.

Another circumstance reported by Mr. Massie was that the dark entrance on the Ranney Street side of the building is being used as a trysting place by young men and women. When he ordered some of these swains off the premises, Mr. Massie said, one young man disputed his authority and the next night one of the window panes was found broken, some one having thrown a stone through it.

The caretaker asked the Board to back him up in his efforts to protect the grounds and buildings. He was instructed to place in the town pound any horse or other animals found pasturing in the yard and to turn over to the police loiterers found hanging around the entrances after dark.

FIRST FUNCTION OF OUTING CLUB GREAT SUCCESS

Free Picnic to Crowe River Bridge Drew Large Number of Citizens.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Sports and Races Provided For Everybody—Band Concert in Evening.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29.—The rercently organized Business Men's Outing Club held their first function Friday afternoon, the weekly half-holiday, the affair being a picnic for the entire community to Crowe River Bridge, a place a few miles from town which since passing into the possession of W. J. Dagleish about a year ago, is fast becoming an ideal summer resort. This season it has been the favorite picnic grounds for town and district. The grounds have been cleaned up, the scenery is rugged and beautiful, and the bathing, boating and fishing facilities are unexcelled.

Everything Was Free.

The committees in charge of the arrangements certainly deserve credit for the energy which they put into their work and for the success that crowned their labors. The whole town appeared to have taken a holiday. Not every family in Campbellford owns an auto, but those who do not were carried to the picnic grounds in the autos of their more fortunate neighbors, some car owners making two or more trips in order to get the people to the scene of the outing. Mayor Meyers had on one trip sixteen passengers in his big car, and all others were as thoroughly filled as the proverbial bread wagons. The true community spirit was in the air, all men and women were brothers and sisters, and property for the day was owned in common.

Blaker's Historic Cave.

Crowe River Bridge, for that name is now used to designate the entire vicinity as well as the highway structure that spans the stream, does not lack for historic lore. One of the main points of interest for old and young alike, is Blaker's Cave, located on a small tract of land owned by Dennis Callahan, of Hastings. This is a cavity that extends under a hill for a distance of 250 feet. It takes an adventurous spirit to explore it The entrance is so small that a man who desires to reach the inside must place himself in the position of the camel negotiating the eye of the needle and get down on his knees. It is on record that Walter Lowe, of Campbellford, at one time while working with a surveying party, armed himself with a searchlight and made his way from one end of the cave to the other, and his report was that the space became more expansive the further he advanced, but that the apertures leading from one chamber to another were just large enough to permit the passage of a man built on not too generous lines.

The "Silver" Partners.

The story goes that the cave was first discovered by a man named Blaker, whose name it bears, that Blaker had a partner named Prentiss, and that the two were reputed to have a mine of silver in the cave or vicinity, keeping the location a secret. They used to make mysterious after dark trips to the vicinity, and those who followed them were baffled when the two men shadowed suddenly disappeared from mortal vision. Before daylight they have been seen to steal away, each man carrying a sack popularly supposed to be filled with silver ore, which they disposed of in Toronto for $400.

If Blaker and Prentiss really had a secret they carried it with them to their graves. Blaker died in Toronto and Prentiss resumed his former occupation as a log driver on the River Trent. If at any period of his life he had been a miner and shook hands with prosperity, then like to many others of that all his acquired wealth had taken unto itself wings. He was drowned while working as a river driver in the vicinity of Meyersburg.

A Search For Minerals.

A hole dug in the vicinity of the cave and fenced as if to establish a miner's title, bears witness to the fact that some prospector for minerals has been at work here. The shaft is of the regulation miner's dimensions, and was sunk to the depth of about eight feet, where the solid rock was encountered. For lack of explosives or for some other reason the work was abandoned.

Programme of Sports

The programme of sports provided by the committee occupied the entire afternoon. The feature of this programme was a softball game between five married men and five single ladies on one side and as many bachelors and married ladies on the other. Regardless of their estate with regard to matrimony the ladies distinguished themselves in every branch of the game, at bat, in the field, or running bases. They helped to dispel the delusion that if a woman with a missile in her hand desires to deliver it near or at some particular object her only sane policy is to aim at another. Of course the ladies made a few errors but in this respect they are no worse than the male novices in the game, who overrun or fail to touch bases, drop easy flies, and when they throw to a baseman seem to harbor the idea that the indiivdual guarding that particular sack is at least 10 feet tall or is gifted with abnormal reach. This game, which was called at the end of the fourth innings, was thoroughly enjoyed not only by the players but by the spectators. The following took part:

Married Men and Single Ladies' team: eParce, 3b; Bonneycastle, p; Chaplin, 2b; Daniels, 1b; Menzies, c; Harriett Potts, lf; Verna Saunders, rss; Hazel Labrasle, lss; Flossie McComb, cf; Eva Runions, rf.

DEPRESSION CAUSES SUFFERING IN SLUMS

TOKYO, Aug. 29.—The condition of the school children in the slum quarters of Tokyo recently has been attracting the attention of the newspaper. Owing to the industrial depression, the poverty of the lower classes is becoming more and more pronounced. It is said that hundreds of children attending the Temahime, Mannen and Hayashi primary schools have been going without lunch daily because of lack of funds. The teachers, learning of the situation, have been soliciting funds to provide the youngsters with food.

WOMEN'S LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION MET AT MILLBROOK

A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., Addressed Meeting, Saying Election Is Imminent.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Mrs. J. R. Eakins, of Millbrook, Was Elected President.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 29.—A meeting of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association for Cavah and Millbrook was held in the Town Hall on Friday afternoon, A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., being in the chair.

Owing to the short notice at which the meeting was called, the holiday season, and the very busy time on the farms, the attendance was considerably smaller than the importance of the occasion warranted. Mrs. Howard Fallis, of Peterboro, was the speaker for the gathering, and F. W. Bowen, M.P., was also present and addressed the members.

The business of organization was the first item to receive attention, the following being elected: President, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Millbrook; First Vice-President, Mrs. J. H. Paul, Cavan; Second Vice-President Mrs. J. L. McCamus, Cavan; Third Vice-President, Mrs. Ira Lowes, Mount Pleasant; Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Vance, Millbrook; Treasurer, Miss M. Whyte, Millbrook.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Fallis intimated that he believed an election imminent because the people are thoroughly dissatisfied with conditions in the country to-day. One great need is that the people generally have an intelligent grasp of the situation, politically, industrially, and commercially, as it exists in Canada at the present time, and to this end a knowledge of facts is necessary.

Mrs. Fallis was introduced by the chairman, who stated: "I know from the big men in the political arena what they think of Mrs. Fallis' ability as a speaker, and organizer, and we are fortunate in having the privilege of hearing her to-day."

Acknowledging the kindly manner in which the member for the local House had presented her to the meeting, Mrs. Fallis said: "I wish to tell you that the very first invitation I ever received to speak at a public gathering, at the beginning of my short political career, came from Milibrook, yet this is the first time I have ever spoken here. As women we are all new at politics, and we must live up to our new dignity, and our responsibilities. We have new duties to perform since the franchise was granted, let us, therefore, take an active and intelligent interest in the great national problems, and thus become a greater asset to our nation."

Mrs. Fallis has been appointed organizer of the Liberal-Conservative women's forces for Ontario, and she spoke strongly of the members of her sex who say, "I have no interest in politics," and think thus to dismiss their responsibility. This is equivalent to saying, "I do not care how, or by whom, the country is governed."

Woman's Interest.

The speaker who lived in Western Canada for 8 years, stated her impression that the women there, as well as in the Old Land, are more interested in politics than their sisters in the East. "There never was a time when it was more important that every intelligent, alert woman voter should be actively interested in the political situation than at present."

The wide-spread, industrial depression, the speaker believes, is causing the best Liberals to swing over to the policy of the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, as they did at the time of Confederation, and in wartime, considering it the best means of solving the problems of the day.

"We often hear the statement that 90 per cent. of the women vote with their husbands; supposing we agree this is true, the remaining 10 per cent are sufficiently strong to swing an election. The business girls, the teachers, the splendid unmarried women—we need their vote and influence. Then again it has been known to happen that a wife is equally intelligent with her husband; more rarely still, she may occasionally possess more intelligence, and influence her husband to vote with her."

Only One Issue.

Mrs. Fallis stressed the fact that there is just one issue before the electors, and that is the record, and policy, of the King Government at Ottawa. Have its four years of rule been beneficial to Canada, or not? Women are more emotional than men, and more readily influenced by some popular election cry, and the Liberal leaders are trying to introduce Provincial problems and side issues in the mpending campaign. "Don't let anyone sidetrack you on this matter."

"In Durham County you are fortunate in having as your representatives two members in the Provincial and Federal Houses, whose record, politically, and whose life among you, speakes for itself; you have no occasion for apology."

Referring to the Honorable Arthur Meighen, Mrs. Fallis declared he had incurred dislike in Quebec because he was the father of the movement to conscript men during the war, and this led to that province returning a solid block of sixty-five members against him. "To-day, the opposition leaders are fanning this feeling, walking through the sepulchre, raising the ghost of conscription, using a bloody key to enter office. Any man who will stir up racial and creed differences for party advantage should be forced off the public platform."

"They refer to mistakes in his war-time record. It is at least vastly superior to that of William Lyon MacKenzie King, who was sheltering himself in the arms of the American Eagle, wrapped safely in the folds of Old Glory, looking on, while Mr. Meighen and his associates bore the burden and heat of the day. I wonder they even mention the two leaders in the same breath."

Tariff Considerations.

The tariff was the next subject touched upon, the speaker reminding her hearers that women are apt to say this does not affect them. "Surely anything that affects our homes, living conditions, and our pocketbooks, touches intimately the women of our land."

"Why should American eggs come into Canada with a duty of three cents against them, while ours must pay eight cents duty to enter the States? Butter comes in at four cents, but ours is charged twelve. Why should the Americans be allowed to flood our markets with fruit and vegetables to the detriment of Canadian producers?"

"More than two thousand factories have been closed during the King regime, and the consequent reaction is felt by all classes, women and children being more particularly affected."

In conclusion, Mrs. Fallis urged her hearers to "get behind your candidate (I hope it will be Mr. Bowen), and work to have him returned by a big majority."

"Give loyal support to your leader, the Honorable Arthur Meighen. He is honest, brilliant, capable, the most able debater in Parliament at the present time, possesses all the attributes to make a successful head of a government, and is the brightest star in the political firmament today."

Mrs. Fallis was interrupted a number of times, during her address, by applause and this was renewed with vigor at the conclusion of her remarks.

"On Eve of Election."

The chairman then called upon Mr. Bowen, who spoke briefly, giving particular attention to the election which he felt assured the King government had intended should take place last June. The budget debate, causing a lengthtened session, had made alteration in their plans, "but I sincerely believe we are on the eve of an election now."

The results of the elections in Nova Scotia, "where we reaped a return of forty bushels to the acre," and in New Brunswick, were referred to, and the exodus of the "flower of our young manhood and womanhood to the States, because there is no employment for them in Canada," brought condemnation of the government's fiscal policy.

"Our people cannot compete, industrially, with those of other countries unless our preferential tariff is made high enough."

Some figures in connection with the Australian treaty were quoted showing that while our meat has to pay 5 cents duty, their's comes in here at one-half cent; our eggs pay 8 cents, their's come in free; honey pays 4 cents, their's 1 cent; cheese 6 cents, their's free; canned peaches 8 1-2 cents, their's 1-2 cent; $1.50 per hundred, their's free.

We are getting the worst of the bargain ever since this government came into power, and we will soon have nothin left to bargain with. Over sixty countries have strengthened their tariff since the war, while we have lowered our at least 2 1-2 per cent, and disarranged trade relations," he said.

The need of developing our own resources, and manufacturing the finished article in Canada was dwelt upon. "We must have a national payroll in Canada; nothing else will keep things going as they should."

"We hear a great deal about the imaginary boundary between Canada and the States, but when it comes to the tariff there is no imaginary line. Consciously, or unconsciously, this government has legislated for the benefit of the United States ever since it came into power."

In concuding his remarks Mr. Brown announced that a Conservative picnic, to be addressed by Honorable Arthur Meighen, Mrs. Fallis and others, will be held at Bethany on Thursday, September 10th, and the local Association was urged to be present in larg numbers.

Mr. P. Brown, of Port Hope, at the request of the chairman, briefly addressed the gathering, in the course of his remarks strongly supporting the selection of Mr. Bowen as the candidate for Durham, when the election date is announced. Personal conversation with Mr. Meighen, the speaker said, had brought from the Conservative leader, on more than one occasion, words of appreciation for the services Mr. Bowen has rendered his party. "He is not a man to get out into the limelight, but when work is to be done he is as busy as a bee until the object in view is accomplished."

The meeting was dismissed with the National Anthem.

SCHOOL STAFF DOESN'T PLEASE ALL ON CAMPBELLFORD BOARD

Unless Improvement Is Shown Some Changes May Be Made.

RE-OPEN ON SECOND.

Board Will Protect School Property From Horses and Lovers.

CAMPBELLFORD Aug. 29. —It was made apparent by a discussion at the meeting of the Board of Education Thursday night that everything is not satisfactory with regard to the teaching staff in the Public School, and that unless improvement is shown by some of the teachers, changes will be made as soon as it is legally possible to replace them by others. No formal motion was brought in, but it was indicated that the members of the internal committee, who have the engaging of the teachers and, as representatives of the Board, practically the management of the school, will see to it that the work in the various departments is kept up to the standard. One thing that will be insisted upon is discipline, the members of the staff must recognize an authority higher than their own and must submit themselves to it.

Reopening the Schools.

The members of the Board in attendance were: Chairman Bygott, Trustees Jeffs, Hall, Cock, Douglas, Benor, O'Sullivan, Loucks and Dr. Longmore. In the absence of Wesley Stephens, the secretary, who is on a vacation, the duties of that position were discharged by C. S. Hay, principal of the Public School.

Trustee Douglas brought up the question of the re-opening of the schools, and moved that this be delayed until Tuesday, September 8, the reason given by Mr. Douglas being that if the re-opening takes place on the date set by the regulations, September 2, the first week will be broken, as there will be another holiday o Labor Day. Another argument used was that the pupils should be given an opportunity to attend the Toronto Exhibition on Children's Day next week if they so desire. Trustee Douglas gave it as his opinion that the attendance would be comparatively small during the "broken week," especially in the High School as students from the country would not start until after Labor Day.

Trustee Cock seconded the motion but it was voted down, the main objection of the majority appearing to be that it would not be wise to change the opening date after circulars had been sent out announcing it as September 2.

No Trespassing Allowed.

Caretaker Massie reported that a local owner of horses had been tethering his animals on the High School grounds after night, pasturing them on the grass that the Board has spent money to cultivate. The horses would be placed on the grounds after dark and removed before daylight. When the owner was asked to desist from this practice, he declared that no horses of his had ever been pastured in the yard.

Another circumstance reported by Mr. Massie was that the dark entrance on the Ranney Street side of the building is being used as a trysting place by young men and women. When he ordered some of these swains off the premises, Mr. Massie said, one young man disputed his authority and the next night one of the window panes was found broken, some one having thrown a stone through it.

The caretaker asked the Board to back him up in his efforts to protect the grounds and buildings. He was instructed to place in the town pound any horse or other animals found pasturing in the yard and to turn over to the police loiterers found hanging around the entrances after dark.

YESTERDAY'S TRAGEDY.

The old tradition that river drivers and sailors rarely know how to swim was tragically illustrated by yesterday's drowning in Little Lake where a young man engaged in sorting logs slipped from a log boom and was drowned.

Had the unfortunate victim possessed a knowledge of the art of swimming the unexpected dip in the lake would doubtless have been regarded by him as a joke, but like so many other men employed in "driving the river," he could not swim, and a tragedy resulted.

Of all people it might be expected that men engaged in driving logs would protect themselves by learning how to take care of themselves in the water, but it is usually the rule that they become so expert in their work that the possibility of falling into the water does not seem to worry them very much.

Too much cannot be said about the desirability of acquiring some knowledge of swimming.

More people lost their lives through drowning in Ontario last year than were killed by motor cars, great as was the toll taken on the highways.

This year's total promises to be equally large, and in the vast majority of cases the victims were non-swimmers who might have been saved had they been able to keep themselves afloat even for a short time.

PETERBORO'S EXHIBITION.

The Peterboro Industrial Exhibition is rapidly drawing near, and two weeks from Tuesday the gates will be thrown open to the public.

For the first time in its history the Exhibition will run through five days, and although there are those who believe that the Directors are launching out too ambitiously, the Examiner holds a contrary opinion.

The extension is a sign of progress, an indication that the Peterboro Industrial is putting itself in the major league of fall fairs, and an augury that before very long it will continue through a whole week, as do the Ottawa and London Exhibitions.

Lengthening the time of the Exhibition, too, makes it easier to attract exhibitors and concessionaires, who welcome a five-day stay as preferable to making several journeys in a week.

For Peterboro people the Exhibition Grounds should be the most popular spot in the vicinity of the city during the third week in September.

The programme is so full of unusual features and the exhibits promise to be of so high a grade of excellence that most local people will realize that two or three visits will be necessary, if one is not to miss many of the good things.

This makes for a larger than usual city attendance, while it is certain that there will be an increase in the number of visitors from outside.

Thirty thousand in 1925 should be attained—if the weather conditions are at all favourable.

A BUSY DEPARTMENT.

Although the City Council decided against continuing the paving programme this year, and as a result there have been no major operations to be carried on, the Board of Works Department has been by no means idle, and the result of the activities of this department can be seen in many parts of the city.

A municipality, like an individual, may perforce have to suspend larger pieces of work because of the necessity for economy, but there is always a lot of patching and repairs to be done if municipal property, like the homes of the individual citizens, is to be kept in condition.

Thus in various parts of the city connecting links of sidewalk have been added, ditches have been repaired and many of the street surfaces have been greatly improved.

The Board of Works is necessarily compelled to spend a substantial sum of money each year in such operations as these, and it is satisfactory to note that the work carried out this year has been of material benefit to citizens in all sections of Peterboro.

The Department of Works is one of the most important of all civic departments, and the Chairman of the committee has certainly no reason to complain of unemployment so far as he personally is concerned.

THE COAL STRIKE.

The threatened strike of the anthracite coal miners will become an actuality on Tuesday when 158,000 men will obey the orders of John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, and leave their work until a settlement is reached.

The effect of the tie-up, if it is of long duration, will unfortunately not be confined to the coal fields; it will be felt in Ontario, and by those whose shoulders are the least prepared to carry the burden.

Many citizens have already their winter's supply of coal in their cellars, and the strike concerns them merely as a matter of news.

But there are many more who have been unable to buy a winter's supply of fuel in advance, who are forced to buy their coal in small quantities as they need it, and to them the announcement of the tie-up carries a threat of inconvenience and expense ahead.

The city authorities should not fail to recognize the seriousness of the situation and be ready to act in the event that emergency operations are necessary.

A review of the local situation indicates that there are fairly large reserves of coal available and an ample supply of hardwood, but these statements should be verified by the uthorities, in a conference with the dealers, in order that a policy of action can be prepared for future use if the crisis develops.

WASHINGTON INVESTIGATES US.

The Ontario Prohibition Union was told, at a dinner in Toronto, by the chairman of a special committee of the United States Congress that the said committee had learned in a tour of Western Ontario, that 4.4 beer did not satisfy those who wanted a stronger alcoholic beverage, that the sale of 4.4 beer the sale of boot- had not reduced but had increased leg liquor, and that the whole system in Ontario was most unsatisfactory, says the Ottawa Journal.

We don't know what this committee from Washington set out to find—investigators of a sort usually discover what they want to discover—but we do know that the spokesman for the committee told the Ontario Prohibition Union just what it wanted to hear.

Some months ago a popular Philadelphia magazine sent one of its "investigators" to Canada, and what he discovered about the awfulness of the liquor traffic here was of a character amazing to those who lived on the scene and had better opportunities for knowing the facts. The Journal fears the Washington committee must be placed in the same category when it reports that 4.4 beer has resulted in an increased sale of bootleg liquor. Presumably the committee was reporting only what it had been told and we opine that it has been "stuffed" by both sides—by prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists who don't want any kind of beer.

As to the fitness of a special committee of Congress making adverse public utterances on the laws of a foreign country while they are its honored guests, well, we suppose we all have our own ideas as to what is or is not good form.

The committee is going to Montreal. There they will meet a horde of their own countrymen who will tell them that the liquor laws of the United States are "most unsatisfactory" and responsible for a fearful lot of bootleg whiskey drinking; there will be some to say that prohibition in the United States instead of curing has aggravated the liquor evil. But that is another story.

FRANCE HAS TWO WARS NOW.

While France has her financial advisors in London discussing the repayment of her debt to Britain, she is at the same time carrying on a two-headed war that must be plunging her farther into debt at an alarming rate. The Moroccan affair, being of long standing now, comes first, and the possibilities of a definite favorable outcome proved so unfavorable to France, as they had previously done to Spain, that the forces of the countries have been united in an effort to bring Abd-el-Krim to his knees.

The negotiations leading up to this Franco-Spanish action were conducted and concluded in such an atmosphere of secrecy that no definite statement was given about the possibility of peaceful settlement. The only definite statement was that of Marshal Petain's report on Moroccan operations, in which he stated the Riffs had 40,000 warriors, "keen mountaineers, active, skilful in arms, with an admirable knowledge of the precipitous country in which they are fighting, frugal to the point of being able to do without the convoys, which burden our columns, and having machine guns, artillery, and an abundant reserve of munitions." From an affair that looked to be impossible of long duration, it has grown to a war where French and Spanish armies have come into joint action to try and secure a decision before the next session of the French chamber, in which there is a strong socialist following opposed to the war.

France has her second war with the Druses, in Syria, and the fighting brings to print such names as Nazareth, Tyne, the borders of the Sea of Galilee, and the territory around Jordan. It is possible to get some idea of the ferocity of some of the attacks launched against the French from the casualty list of one engagement, where a horde of infuriated Druses fell upon a convoy of French artillery. Eight hundred were killed, wounded and missing, three aeroplanes wrecked, many guns and camels taken.

From the maze of explanations for the hatred of the French by the Druses, one can select almost anything from disputes over oil possessions to the abrupt manner in which the French have sought to make themselves at home in a land where their rights are at the best questionable. One explanation goes back into the threads of tradition, which were disrupted when the French insisted that no traveller could accept hospitality in private Druse houses. This was an old custom, dating back from the days when a hotel was unknown in the Lebanon mountains. Since the French occupation of Syria, which came about on the allowance of the League of Nations, there have been a number of modern hotels erected, but custom dies hard, and many travellers preferred the old order and continued to accept the hospitality of the natives. The inability of the French to reconcile the old with the new was revealed in an order which forbade travellers to stop with the Druses, and they imprisoned several of the natives for so doing.

That was merely one of many blunders, each of which was as stupid as it was unnecessary. The French went to Syria on the pretext that it would be an Arabia for the Arabians, an unmolested home for the Moslems. They have been there five years and have faced five rebellions. Now they have the sixth on their hands. Some of the French leaders have come there from colonies in Africa, and have proceeded to use jungle methods on a particularly high-spirited people. They mistook a religious festival for a political gathering and sent an army to disperse it; to make matters worse, firing by the troops followed, and an effort followed to arrest every Arab leader.

As a result, in this land, about fifty miles from Damascus, the Druses, the most fanatical of all easterners, have sent their wives, children and cattle across the border into Palestine, and the onslaught on the French convoy, referred to above, is the answer to French ideas of colonization.

With these two wars on her hands, France has a problem large enough to give serious thought, even if her whole governing force were behind the carrying on of such wars. But it is not, and there is enough disaffection in the French Chamber to put the Government out of power when it is called upon to try and justify the autocratic course it has followed in the name of peace.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT:

Let us make it 30,000 in 1925.

It is to be hoped the election will at least be held off until after the fall fair season.

The coal strike is passing from the menace stage to a reality. And the public, as usual, will have to foot the bill.

A THOUGHT.

THE IMPORTANT THING.

Sorrow has its thrill even as has joy and often the reaction is much the same.

A thrill of sorrow or a thrill of joy, it really matters but little which it be, the after effect is the important thing.

Thrills are useful and more, thrills are necessary, else we become smug and passive.

Thrills stimulate or intoxicate, animate or subdue, shock or fascinate, madden or entrance, overwhelm or evoke: yes, the after effect of a thrill is the important thing.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To Animal Lovers

The Editor of The Evening Examiner,—The time for the Great Canadian National Exhibition is here and, as usual, efforts are being made to make us feel happy to attend. Not so many years ago this Exhibition was small and year by year it has added to its attractions, which today makes it one of the most wonderful shows in the world.

Wonderful exhibits can be seen, among them fine horses and cattle are exhibited in the Coliseum and can also be viewed, with interest, in their substantial, well ventilated stables. Cats, dogs and poultry are exhibited in their own fine buildings.

The C.N.E. has fine, clean, amusements, which ar under special censorship. All animal shows are under careful observation so as not to permit cruelty or neglect in any form. This part of the work has been given by the Exhibition Board to the Toronto Humane Society to take care of, and officials are on duty constantly.

The Ontario Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S. P. C. A.) and Toronto Humane Society will have quarters on the grounds, as usual, and all humane workers or animal lovers, attending the Fair, may receive any information they wish from the trained workers in charge and at the same time learn what wonderful work is being done all over the world among well, suffering, lost and cruelly-treated animals.

The quarters are always comfortable for one to rest and meet their friends, also collect ideas on humane work as literature will be given those who desire to have it. The writer visits the tent each year and can say it is an inspiration to see the hundreds, yes thousands, of people who enter that tent and register their names. Posters drawn by school children are always on display, which are immensely interesting and people from all parts of the world view them.

The invitation of the Ontario S. P.C.A. is this:

Please call and see us. We will be glad to help you in your animal problems. .

ANIMAL FRIEND.

FOUR PIERROTS

Extraordinary Combination to Entertain Visitors at the Exhibition.

From the old world, the Four Pierrots, an extraordinary combination of four people, comes to Peterborough Exhibition to charm us with that dainty, daring, exotic manner that especially fascinates. It is so different with that foreign allure of costuming that they stand out. Their extremely hazardous and constantly shifting evolutions on the showy special apparatus are a continual delight and evoke numerous bombardments of wondering applause.

A series of new, difficult, and picturesque stunts opens their principal number on the aerial apparatus. Artistic pantomimics present two gigantic figures, about twelve feet high, dancing, waltzing, and capering grotesquely about, interspersed with many cute and sudden sallies, including new comedy acrobatics originated by themselves, the clown dog joining in the frolicsome festivities. There is an astonishing finale in which the three men group about her hips and shoulders in the form of an animated band, the lady waltzing about and finally carrying them off stage, giving her the well-earned cognomen, "The Human Band Wagon."

There is no resemblance whatever between their first and second acts. They appear in white, duplicating famous groups of sculpture in an artistic manner. Special properties are carried and this second act is an unusual treat.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 28—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today was reported very quiet, there being practically no demand from foreign buyers. There was some enquiry from New York exporters for No. 3 Northern Wheat at 27 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, C.I.F. Montreal, and sales of No. 2 Canadian Western Oats were made at 17 cents per bushel over, C.I.F. and No. 3 Canadian Western at nine cents per bushel over, C.I.F. while American malting barley sold at 78 1-2 cents per bushel, C.I.F. Montreal for all October shipment. It was reported that a vessel had been booked to carry 40 loads of heavy grain from Montreal to Avonmouth at 2s 9d per quarter, first half October loading.

The trading in cash grain on the local market was of a limited character.

The demand being only for odd cars to meet immediate wants. The tone of the market was steady.

The export trade in all grades of flour was quieter but a fair volume of business had been done so far this week for October shipment. Prices were steady.

The undertone of the egg market was firmer and indications are that prices will be marked up in the near future. The volume of business was moderate sized. Prices for butter and cheese were well maintaind under a steady demand.

ONTARIO CHEESE AUCTION

MONTREAL, Aug. 28 — At the United Dairymen co-operative auction sale of Ontario Cheese held here today there were 1,490 boxes offered of which 982 boxes No. 1 White sold at 21 11-16c per lb. and 508 boxes No. 1 Colored at 21 13-16c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—Uneasiness prevailed in the wheat market today and with a lack of really influential news of any character, the trend was up at the opening, then down, then up again and finally finished at a loss. The lower closing figures at Liverpool and the announcement from a leading Canadian authority that the estimate for the three Canadian provinces exceeded the official report by 12,000,000 bushels, seemed to be the only matters that were taken seriously and it was conceded that even these had little influence. Final quotations showed wheat 1 to 1 1-2 cents lower, with September $1.55 1-2 to $1.55 5-8 and December at $1.55 3-8 to $1.55 1-2. Corn was 3-8c up to 1 5-8c down, with September at 98 5-8 to 99 3-4. Oats 1-4 to 3-4c advance, and provisions 2c to 35c net gain.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 28—Last week was another dull week on the Toronto cattle market. Packers have large quantities of meat in store and have been filling immediate requirements of their plants from the western provinces. Thirty - four cars brought in nearly a thousand western cattle on Monday and 300 more of the same arrived on Tuesday. A large percentage of the current receipts were of a poor quality and the consequent trend of the market has been slow with the only activity in exporters which scored a slight advance on Tuesday. Butchers stock, while slow to move, about held its own on the first two days of the week. With the opening of the Exhibition and cooler weather in sight, more life is confidently expected in the market next week.

Choice forward springers were in good demand last week selling from $70 to $90; good $50 to $60; choice milkers $65 to $70; good $40 to $50; medium to common kinds were not popular and selling mostly over the scales.

Choice lambs sold on Monday at 13 cents with a slight advance on the next two days. Heavy lambs are not popular and selling very slowly at 11 to 12 cents.

Choice veal calves sold on Monday and Tuesday at 10 to 11 cents; Wednesday, 11 to 12 cents; medium, 9 to 10 cents; light, 7 to 8 cents; heavy, 5 to 6 cents; and grassers, 4 to 5 cents.

Hogs sold this week at $13.25 f. o.b., $13.85 fed and $14.25 off cars. Premium on selects was $2.71 per head.

Over 400,000 Workers Leave the Central Portion for Suburban Homes.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(Associated Press).—The day population of the city of London is 32 times greater than the night population, statistics in the official census of workplaces show.

At night there are 13,709 people in the city and during the day 436,715. These latter have to be transported to and from the suburbs morning and night in something less than two hours.

The suburbs of Hornsey and Leyton provide the greatest number of London's day population, following closely by East Ham, Hanwell and Walthamstow.

The "city" in London is a section in which many of the large financial and banking houses are located and in a measure corresponds to what in New York is called the Wall Street district.

SAYS ITS SLOW.

Mayakovsky, dynamic Russian poet, visited New York. He is the poet laureate of the machine age. It is too quiet, he said, as he listened to the roar of the subways and the rat-tat of the riveters. It is unorganized, he declared, as he watched the flashing lights in the Fifth avenue signal towers controlling the traffic. It is old-fashioned, he remarked, as he gazed on knee-length skirts and boyish bobs and painted cars.

Oh, to tour Mayakovsky through a certain town which prides itself on the past and says little of the future!

CONSERVATIVE LEADER TO SPEAK AT BETHANY PICNIC ON SEPT. 10

Fred Bowen, M.P. For Durham, Meets Party Workers at Bethany in Preparation For Conservative County Convention—To Welcome Meighen.

COMMITTEES OF 75 APPOINTED.

BETHANY, Aug. 29.—A Conservative meeting was held in the town hall on Thursday evening for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the county convention, to be held in the near future, place and date not yet decided upon. About 75 were appointed, both men and women.

Mr. Bowen, M.P., was present and addressed the gathering. He said he had been fortunate in getting the promise of the presence of the Hon. Arthur Meighen at the Conservative picnic of Durham County, which is being planned to be held on the Athletic Grounds here on September 10. This is expected to be a red-letter day in the history of the village. Committees are being appointed and that everyone interested may held to make this day a success both for the townpeople and visitors.

A number of the prominent speakers are expected to be present during the afternoon, and in the evening a concert will be given. There is to be no charge in connection with the picnic, except in regard to the several refreshment booths. Every family is asked to bring lunch and spend the afternoon meeting old friends and acquaintances.

More about this picnic will be published from time to time during the next week.

LOST MAN GOES HOME BY MISTAKE

But He Checks Out Before the Natives Discover His Presence.

SELINSGROVE, Pa., Aug. 29.—(United Press).—"General" J. S. Coxey, picturesque leader of the army of unemployed which marched to Washington in the late nineties to demand aid of the Federal Government, recently returned to his birthplace here because he lost his way while motoring across the state.

Coxey was born here and spent his boyhood here. When he came back no one knew who he was until he had registered at the hotel. He was alone in a luxurious sedan automobile.

The next morning he slipped away as inconspicuously as he appeared. He said he was on his way to Lewistown, near here, but had lost his way, coming unexpectedly to the town in which he was born.

REPLICA OF CANADA SHOWN AT OTTAWA

Most Minute Detail in Model of Dominion at Exhibition.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press).—An exhibit of particular interest is shown at the Central Canada Exhibition and consists of a miniature replica of the Dominion constructed under the supervision of Hon. Charles Murphy and shown by the Post Office Department. Canada from coast to coast is reproduced in the most minute detail for the instruction of the observant spectator with tiny trains passing through the principal cities, crossing the finely reproduced rivers and traversing the Rockies to their termini on the Pacific coasts. Besides the main railway lines a boat is shown braving the waters of Georgian Bay and in the far western north a dog team slowly follows the trail of ice and snow.

How to make Delicious Pickles

Delicious home-made pickles! What delight they add to any meal! How convenient to have a good stock of them on hand.

Good pickles are simple to make — and economical. Just try these two recipes. Clip them out and keep them in your Cook Book. You'll want them again.

Mustard Pickles

Peel onions, cut vegetables in small pieces, cover with weak brine and let stand overnight. In the morning bring to a boil and drain off.
Take 2 cups brown sugar, 1 cup flour, 6 tablespoonfuls Keen's D.S.F. Mustard, 1 tablespoonful turmeric and 2 quarts vinegar. Boil this mixture for twenty minutes, stirring continually. Pour over vegetables hot. Let stand ten days, stirring every day, then bottle.

Dutch Pickle

1 quart green cucumbers, 1 small cabbage, 1 quart onions, 3 red peppers, 1 quart green tomatoes, 1 large cauliflower, ½ cup salt. Chop all fine and pour on enough hot water to cover. Let stand half an hour and drain. Then make a dressing of the following, 8 tablespoonfuls Keen's D. S. F. Mustard, 3 cups sugar, 1 teaspoonful tumeric, 1 cup flour. Mix with a little vinegar until smooth, add mixture to two quarts vinegar, stirring constantly over fire until thickened, then pour over vegetables.

Keen's Mustard brings out all the hidden flavour and adds a zesty tang.

OPERATORS AND MINERS AGREED ON ONE DETAIL

Satisfactory Adjustment of Employment of Maintenance Men During Strike.

LEWIS' STATEMENT.

No Immediate Hope of Arbitration—Coal Supply For Three Months.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29—Suplementing his Thursday night order calling an anthracite suspension September 1, President John L. Lewis, of the miners' union, last night advised the 325 regional locals that an agreement had been reached with the operators on employment of maintenance men.

"We consider this agreement," Mr. Lewis said, "an advanced step over similar agreements and fully protects our every interest."

A survey of the situation following issuance of a strike call to 158,000 union anthracite coal miners emphasized yesterday:—

(1) That there are sufficient coal stocks on hand to last at least three months.

(2) That the government will not intervene for several weeks, or until a "pinch" actually is felt.

(3) That there is no immediate hope of arbitration.

Simultaneously as the strike was called by John L. Lewis, miners' chieftain, soft coal prices in west Virginia and Ohio advanced from 24 cents to $1.50 a ton.

Meanwhile the "citizens' no-strike committee," which failed to arrange arbitration of the wage dispute, resulting in the strike call, went into secret session at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., but with little hope of accomplishing anything definite.

The government, convinced the public will not suffer during the strike, indicated it was standing back from arbitration until a shortage appeared evident. The government will aid in supplying hard coal substitutes, it was said.

The feeling is growing that the union action in the anthracite fields is dominated by its greater concern in "soft" coal affairs, Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' committee, charged in a statement issued at Scranton, Pa. Only 250 of 1,300 "soft" coal mines in Ohio have been operating. Inglis also said that the miners will lose $1,000,000 a day in wages during the strike.

VANCOUVER WANTS PROMISED HOTEL

C.N.R. Delays Seven Years in Projected Building.

VANCOUVER, B. C., August 29.—Canadian Press. — Declaring it to be the duty of the city administration to force the issue, Mayor L. D. Taylor, in a letter to Sir Henry Thornton on Friday, drawing attention to the clause of the agreement with the Canadian Northern Railway by which the latter agreed to erect a first class hotel in Vancouver, states that the time has come when the city must insist upon the carrying out of the contract.

By section 43 of the agreement, power is given the city in case of the company's default, to carry out the undertaking to be performed by the company.

"The company is now over seven years in default," said the letter. "During the war years and reconstructing period there may have been excuse for the railway's default. The situation is now changed. The present welfare of the city and the needs of the city demand the immediate construction of this hotel.

"I am bound to tell you that the obligation would be enforced by prompt legal action for pecific performance and damages if further delay is indicated," the letter adds.

HELP SHORTAGE

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 29.—A shortage of harvesters to handle the western crop is regarded as possible in immigration circles here. It is felt that the necessary 55,000 or 60,000 hands required will not be easily found in Canada, and the labor markets of the United States may not be able to offer enough to meet the demand.

GREAT HELP TO YOUNG MOTHERS

Baby's Own Tablets Have Many Uses and Are Absolutely Harmless.

To have in the house a simple harmless remedy for the minor ills of babies and little children is a great boon to young mothers and this is exactly why Baby's Own Tablets have been found in many households. They reduce fevers, allay the irritation of cutting teeth and regulate the bowels, yet they have no drug taste and children like them.

Mrs Mary L. Damel, Central Falls, R.I., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are just what they are recommended to be. My little girl was badly troubled with pin worms, was feverish and restless and would be awake all night. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and they helped her at once. She is not nervous now and sleeps well at night. I have also found Baby's Own Tablets good at teething time and am glad to recommend them to other mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents a box, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby on Health and Sickness," will be sent free to any mother on request.

FOREIGN BONDS FIRM IN LONDON

French Securities Recover as Result of Debt Agreement With Britain.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press Cable)—Towards the end of this week the strength of foreign bonds on the stock market, especially bonds of the French variety, was remarkable.

This doubtless was partly due to the London visit of Joseph Caillaux, French foreign minister, and his conversations with Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, over the Anglo-French debt. The result of the conversations, while arousing political opinions that have been widely divergent seems to have been received in financial circles with equanimity.

The feeling is common in Throgmorton street that France could well afford to pay more than she offered, £12,500,000 per annum in 62 annual instalments, but anyhow the fact that the settlement of his vexed question is in sight is a matter of congratulation.

French railway and shipping bonds also joined in the recuperation of other French bonds on the stock market this week. The general recovery, however, was on the way before the Caillaux mission and must be attributed to the gradual disappearance of the old nervousness over the French financial situation.

BANDIT LOCKED IN BANK VAULT

Entered Vancouver Bank During Night and Greeted the Staff.

MANAGER'S CHANCE.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 29.—Driven into the vault of the Victoria Street branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce with two members of his staff by a bandit yesterday morning, A. E. Wilson suddenly dashed out of the safe and slammed the door after him. Cursing his way up and down the vault, the bandit fired nine shots at the door but failed to do any damage. R. W. Purvis and another assistant, mere youths, locked in the vault with the mad desperado, remained unperturbed, and when the police reached the scene the man gave up without resistance. He gave his name as Joseph Leonard.

Leonard, who is also known as Fred. Campbell, gained access to the bank by means of a transom during the night and hid himself in the manager's office of the bank. When he demanded that the vault be opened, Wilson told him it was a time lock and could not be opened until ten o'clock.

"Then we will wait," answered the desperado.

The guns that Leonard had in his possession had been taken from a drawer of a bank desk during the night.

SIXTY FIRES IN SUDBURY AREA IN SEVEN DAYS

Settlers Burning Bush at Period of Summer Forbidden By Forestry Branch.

NO TIMBER LOST.

Rangers Control Fires That Raged Until Friday Along the C.N.R.

SUDBURY, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press).—The fire hazard in this district was somewhat alleviated within the past twenty-four hours, according to information issued from the Sudbury branch of the Ontario Forestry Department.

While reports are not to hand from several remote points where conflagrations were raging earlier in the week, it is generally believed that the rangers have not permitted the blaze to break beyond control. Another pump was sent for use yesterday on the French River, where thirty men are engaged, and additional equipment has also been despatched to Wisner Township in the vicinity of Capreol, on the C.N.R., about twenty miles from here.

Altogether in the neighborhood of sixty fires have occurred within the last seven days, and many of these are attributed to settlers who are said to be burning brush without permission. At this season of the year, the ban is rigid, but it has not been observed, and prosecutions are likely to follow.

All of the conflagrations have broken out on burned over ground, and hence spread rapidly.

"We have not lost a single stick of timber so far this year," an official at the Forestry Branch stated.

60-FOOT MAMMAL CAUGHT AT ROMSDAL

Whales of Sperm Variety Are Seldom Seen So Far North.

BERGEN, Aug. 29.—A sperm whale measuring nearly 60 feet long one of a school of about a dozen, recently was harpooned by a Nowegian whaler off the coast near Romsdal. For a sperm whale to be seen so far north is a most unusual occurence. Its natural habitat is in the tropical waters of the Equator and its presence here is believed due to the recent abnormally warm weather.

TRADE BRISK REGINA REPORT

Western Centres All Registering Heavier Volume of Business.

MONTREAL, TOO.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—The weekly report of the Canadian Credit Men's Association reads as follows:

Halifax—Wholesale trade continues steady. Retail business fair. Collections satisfactory.

Montreal—A decided improvement is shown in wholesale business, especially in dry goods and hardware lines. Collections showing slight improvement. General outlook improved.

Toronto.—Business fairly active, some of the stimulation being due to the Exhibition. Automobile sales slow. Tire and oil industries a good volume. General conditions fair.

Winnipeg—Wholesale business in practically all lines continues satisfactory with increased volume of goods moving in dry goods, boots and shoes, hardware, clothing and other staples. Retail business in city fair. Collections satisfactory.

Regina.—Both wholesale and retail trade brisk, denoting a general improvement throughout. Collections only fair on account of the returns from the crops not yet being in general circulation.

Saskatoon—Wholesale trade generally good. Retail business only fair. Some improvement in the outlook on account of the fine weather which is facilitating the harvesting of the crops. Collections only fair.

Calgary.—Business generally continues to show a heathly improvement with optimistic attitude in regard to the returns from the crop. Collections showing improvement.

Edmonton.—Wholesale and retail trade quieter owing to recent heavy rains. Crop prospects quite favorable although frost has been reported in some districts. Collections fair.

Vancouver.— Wholesale hardware trade reported to be good. Groceries and other lines quiet, but improving slightly. Collections only fair.

ITALIANS BAFFLED BY MUMMIFICATION

Body Intered in 1912 is Found to be Perfectly Preserved.

NAPLES, Aug. 29.—A striking example of the mummification of a human body by natural processes has been discovered at Vatolla, in the province of Salerno, with the exhumation of the body of a local resident, Rosa Scarpa, who died in 1912. The body was found to be in perfect state of preservation; even her clothes were in a sort of petrified condition, but retained their original colors.

Thinking the mummification process might have been due to peculiar chemical qualities of the soil, the authorities ordered the opening of an adjacent grave, but the corpse in the latter grave had completely decomposed. This, therefore, led to the belief among devout natives that a miracle had been wrought.

SUBMITS DESIGNS FOR SARCOPHAGUS

Body of Ebert to be Interred With Those of Sons.

HEIDELBERG, Aug. 28.—Designs for a sarcophagus for the grave of the late Friedrich Ebert, first president of the German republic, have been submitted to Mayor Ernst Walz by Professor Behrens, an Austria sculptor. It is planned when the sarcophagus is completed to bring from Berlin the bodies of Ebert's two sons who fell in the war and place them in graves at right angles to that of their father.

Joseph Nepple, City Counsellor, said Heidelberg expects at a later date to acquire the modest home in which Germany's first [illegible] born and convert it into an Ebert museum.

C.N.R. TO SHOW CANADA'S CHARM AT EXHIBITION

Scenic Beauties Seen in Exhibit at Toronto This Year.

BIG PANORAMA

Operation of Transportation System Shown in Entertaining Manner.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 29.—(Special).—The scenic beauties of Canada, which annually draw thousands of tourists from the world over, are featured by the Canadian National Railways in their exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, this year. From the Atalantic to the Pacific Canadian landscapes are depicted in all their varied beauties, thereby giving the visitor a comprehensive idea of the many attractions which await the tourist from the time he lands at the seaboard until he has made the entire trip across the Dominion.

The feature attraction at the Exhibition is a big revolving circular panorama. A masterpiece of the scenic painters art, it shows scenes typical of the Maritime Provinces, the Highlands of Ontario and Western Canada. The latter shows Jasper Park, nesting amid the towering peaks of Jasper National Park. A background which brings into broad relief the rugged beauty of the mountains that has made Jasper Park one of the most famous playgrounds of America.

As interesting and of equal educative value is the huge map of the system which is set above it. Here is given at a glance the vast territory covered by the Canadian National lines. Every provincial capital in the nine provinces is shown on this map as well as every city of importance, and they are all touched by the C.N.R. Not only does the map deal with the Canadian National system in a big way, but it goes further and shows the trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific connections so that no matter from what town or city a visitor may fancy to travel or what the destination may be, the system is shown.

Pictures Effective.

The many and varied departments which go to make up the present day transportation system are fully explained to the visitor in a pictoral way. The activities of the Canadian National Telegraphs are concisely shown in a composite picture which tells the story of how a telegraph message is flashed over the wires from the time it is received until ready for delivery at its destination. This transparency is a most complete one of a modern telegraph system and shows among other pictures views of messenger boys, operating rooms and offices. Fine composite transparencies are also on view showing the activities of the Canadian National Express and of the radio department. The latter includes views of concert rooms, operating rooms and broadcasting stations.

The Canadian National hotel system is likewise well represented by two transparencies. One devoted to views of hotels open all the year and the other to summer hotels.

tion may be in imagination he, or she can step on a Canadian National train.

Operating Romance.

Apart from the actual lines of a railway, there is the romance of operating and many fine transparencies are devoted to showing the motive power and equipment; while a glimpse behind the scenes of active railroading is given by transparencies and pictures which show vividly just what a complicated thing it is to operate a modern transportation system. It is an unobservant traveller indeed who has not noted the numerous painted signs of "safety first". But just what is this safety first movement? It is all explained in attractive and informative way by a series of transparencies shown at the exhibit and it would be an equally unobservant person who cannot derive much benefit to himself after he has studied those pictures and seen for himself the dangers of every day life. Not alone in railroading but in any other form work a-day affairs; he will find many lessons here which can be advantageously employed in his own line of business. Then there is the first aid work. A movement of equal importance to that of safety first, and here again the visitor is taken behind the scenes and shown yet another important activity of railroading. One of the whitewashing wherever it is needed E. F. Mason was given authority to have the ceiling of the fancy work room fixed up, to improve its appearance.

FAIR BOARD HAS BUSY MEETING

Many Points Cleared Up in Readiness for Next Month's Big Show.

EXPECT BIG LIST

A number of last minute points were cleared up at the meeting of the board of directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, held last night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Strip tickets were submitted by the gates committee to be sold at four tickets (one strip) for a dollar. These will be put on sale in advance and the sale will stop before the opening date.

The question of passes called for considerable discussion, as it was felt that there had been a leak at this point in former years and greater care will be taken in the distribution and honoring of passes in 1925.

Posters were distributed to the members to be put up at various places to advertise the dog-show, which takes place on the last two days of the Fair. Attention was called to the fact that many farmers have good collies and sheep dogs, and that it is not necessary that they be registered in order to be eligible.

A plea was made for more entries in the grain classes. Good prizes are given but very few entries are received.

The Secretary advised that there had been an unprecedented number of requests for catalogues from cattle breeders and warned the committee to expect a large entry list. Last year there were 393 head entered. Herds from greater distances than ever before are among the probable entries.

It was decided that no parking would be permitted outside the Lansdowne street fence. The statue of the horse will be left in its present location, although some of the members wanted it moved outside the gate.

Arrangements were made for disinfecting the cattle barns and doing

WHEN THE NERVES ARE OUT OF GEAR

They Need New, Rich Blood to Restore Their Tone.

Men and women with nerves out of gear become irritable and fretful and are blamed for ill-temper; whereas the fault is not theirs. Their poor health is the cause. The tired over-busy wife or mother, whose household cares have worn her out; the breadwinner whose anxiety for his family has worried him until he is thin and ill, are the nerve sufferers who become run down. Their nerves, like all bodily organs, need healthy red blood; worry tells on their digestion and their nerves are ill-fed. In such cases a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is necessary, for these pills make new blood and tone up the nervous system. The patient becomes full of energy and happiness for themselves and others returns. Mrs. Wm. Hughes, Coldwater, Ont., has proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and does not hesitate to say so. She says: "Two years ago I suffered untold agonies with my nerves. The pains in my head and the back of my neck were unbearable. I was depressed and cranky all the time. All the rest I took and best of medical attention did me no good. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking them for a time felt much better. I continued their use with great benefit, and after my baby was born they were the only tonic that helped me nurse her. I found them a splendid blood enricher, and cannot recommend them too highly."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

YOUTH OF SWEDEN HAVE DRILL CLASS

3,000 School Children Are Encamped in Barracks on Old Drill Ground.

MALMOE, Sweden, Aug. 29.—(Associated Press).—The old military drill ground at Ljungbyhed has been converted into a playground this summer, where 3,000 school children, accompanied by their teachers, have been encamped in the army barracks, while receiving instruction in physical culture and outdoor life. It has been the largest mobilization of school children ever seen in Sweden and has been so successful that it will be repeated next year.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

MILES OF WIRE IN EIFFEL TOWER SIGN

More Than Fifty Miles Used in Wiring Electric Sign.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Wiring the Eiffel Tower for advertising purposes required more than 20 miles of thick wire, 35 miles of fine.

When it was first reported that the tower was to be used to display an electric advertisement, it was said that the state had consented to the scheme for the sake of the tax it would receive, which in the present condition of the treasury would be welcome. Later information, however, showed that the Eiffel Tower Company is not obliged to ask for authorization for such action, having only to satisfy the Paris Municipal Council that no scheme could be adopted that would be in a way an eyesore to the town.

The company receives a lump sum of 350,000 francs or, about $12,000, of which the city gets ten percent.

CANADA AS POWER IN BRITISH EMPIRE

Economist Says North America Will Become Centre of Influence.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 29.—In the opinion of C. M. MacInnes, professor of colonial and economic history at the University of Bristol, Eng., nothing can stop the North American continent from becoming eventually the chief influence of the future. He expressed that view when he stopped here recently on his way to Calgary, his birth place.

As to Canada's future he said: "I feel that in the years to come there is every likelihood of Canada becoming the center of the British Commonwealth of Nations, with the necessary political power transferred to her.

"There may be some who would advocate that Canada should go forward as an independent nation, outside the British Commonwealth. I fail to see this line of reasoning, for the fact that Canada is within the empire, appears to me one of the chief reasons of her strength."

Prof. MacInnes lost the sight of both eyes as a result of wounds received in the World War.

How the Allcast Moisture System saves money

Tests have proved important savings in fuel where the warm air from the furnace is properly moistened—the saving has reached upwards of 20 per cent.

Hygienic Vapor Pan

The Hygienic Vapor Pan in the Allcast is designed to supply the correct amount of natural moisture required for health and comfort — atmosphere that protects the family from winter ills.

Other exclusive, fuel saving features of the Allcast are the free-draught Shell-bar Grates which insure perfect combustion, and the fuel-saving air-blast which burns the smoke and gases.

The All-cast is easily operated. It burns soft coal and all other fuels equally well. It is reasonably priced. Come in and let us show you its many important features or write for complete details.

Important Departmental Changes

Two of our main departments are pressed for more room. First, the Furniture Department wants an exclusive room for Chesterfield Suites and Floor Lamps. This has been arranged for by temporarily discontinuing the Tea Room and giving over this space to the Furniture Department.

Then the Bargain Annex, that unique department where goods are sold for less, must have more space. Only recently enlarged, it is still too small for the large crowds each Wednesday and Saturday. The Advertising Offices are to be moved to the Third Floor and the space they now occupy is to be added to the Bargain Annex.

Bears and blueberry jam!

Can you imagine the rest of the tory?

One of the habitant farmers, back off the main roads in these mountains, had quite a blueberry patch near the clearing, so his wife made up her mind to put up some blueberry jam.

There was a kitchen garden, with a scarecrow dangling straw hands and wearing an old plug hat. There was a big iron pot, suspended on a wooded pole, hanging over an open fire. This iron pot was full of, or had been full of, warm jam. The woman had put away about three quarters of it, and was leaving the rest to cool, for pies and such like.

The farmer came running in to his wife with the news that there was an old bear and two smaller ones at the edge of the clearing, sniffing the air and coming closer to the iron pot. He got down his gun, but his wife was a nature lover, so the door was shut and the two folks sat at the window to see things.

The old bear finally came over closer, but was uncertain about that scarecrow. It looked too much like the bear's idea of some men she had seen, so she did not offer to hug it, but went right up to it, when she was sure it was almost human, and gave it one sweet slap in the face with her paw, knocking it for a goal. That was that.

A few low grunts brought the other two bears and soon all three were sitting on their haunches, dipping paws into the pot and licking off the jam, until they were satisfied.

"If bears are like human folks," said the woman, "it will be a case of feed the man and he will obey his wife, or feed the brute and tame him. Just watch me boss those bears."

The woman went out, began to order the bears to be gone, as she walked in a business like manner towards the iron pot.

The bears looked astonished, then satisfied to do as she demanded. "Gee!" said the farmer, "if she can boss bears what show have I got?" and he put away his rifle.

NEGLECT CAUSES SORES IN BABY'S MOUTH

I wish we could care for a baby so thoroughly and properly that it would never get sick. Alas! We can't hope for such perfection, but the good thing about it is that by strict attention to every detail of treatment we can avoid really serious ailments.

The mouth of a baby is subject to painful inflammations. It is easy to understand this, because the lining membrane of the cheeks and lips is extremely delicate. The thin tissue covers the gums and roof of the mouth, it is reflected to the tongue and reaches everywhere throughout the cavity.

There are several things which may cause inflammation in the mouth. Perhaps the most common cause is uncleanliness of the rubber nipple on the nursing bottle.

There can be no health and physical development if the milk is not properly prepared for the baby and unless it is given in a clean bottle, through a clean nipple. There must be no haphazard chance about guaranteeing cleanliness. Without it trouble is certain to come.

It is a mistake to imagine that cleanliness means nothing more than the absence of visible dirt. Surgical cleanliness, medical cleanliness—or what I sometimes call "health cleanliness"—is something entirely different from the kind of cleanliness you give an electric light bulb or the reflector on your automobile.

There cannot be health cleanliness without boiling the feeding bottles, the rubber nipples and all the utensils used in preparing the baby's food. One of the surest results of the lack of such cleanliness is infection of the mouth, an infection which may be followed by more or less severe inflammation of this region.

Indigestion, which in turn may be due to careless preparation of the food, there may be, to begin with, inflammation of the lining membrane of the mouth. Or the upset stomach may be the start of a series of disturbances, including sore mouth.

Whenever the baby has fever, no matter what its cause, the mouth may become sore. This adds a troublesome complication to the illness.

What I have told you about the causes of sore mouth makes it clear that cleanliness is the first step in its cure. The little mouth must be carefully washed every two or three hours with a boric acid solution, in proportions of a tablespoonful to a pint of water.

Fresh air, sunlight, attention to the bowels and reduced feeding will complete the cure.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

J. M. Q.—What can I do for my feet? They perspire so much.

A.—Give your feet daily baths in cold water and dry them thoroughly. For further particulars kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MRS. K. Q.—Is whooping-cough contagious?

A.—Yes.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BOBBY DISCOVERS A FLOATING TREASURE

"Now what in the world is that, I'd like to know?" Bobby mused as he spotted the ugly bunch of sticks and grasses floating down the stream. "I'll bet my hat——"

"Hold on a second," laughed a merry voice, and Squeedee, the wee elfin from Joyland, hopped down on the bank beside Bobby. "What ever you do, be careful, unless you want to lose your hat," he laughed.

"Oh, Squeedee, you elfin," laughed Bobby, shaking the wee elfin's hand. "I'm sure glad to see you. I'm glad you saved my hat. What is that dirty mass floating there?"

"Shoo-oo," whispered Squeedee, "or you'll hurt someone's feelings." Then he blew on his magic whistle and up popped a head from the mess of dirty water, soaked grasses and twigs floating down the stream, and when the owner saw Squeedee on shore, she dropped her feet over the edge of the floating nest and paddled over to the bank beside Squeedee and Bobby.

"Well, well, Mrs. Grebe," and Squeedee helped her off her nest on to the bank. "This is Bobby. He was just wondering who owned that floating treasure."

"I'm glad you recognized it as a treasure," laughed the queer, little,

"Is That Your Nest?"

ungainly looking bird. "I'm not a very neat housekeeper or a good builder, but no one can say I'm not a good mother."

"And is that your nest—that floating bunch of grasses and twigs?" asked the astonished Bobby. "You're a duck, then?"

"No, not exactly," smiled Mrs. Grebe. "But I guess we belong to that side of the family, all right, for we have webbed feet and live on the water. Ever seen a Grebe before, Bobby?"

"No, I don't believe I ever have," replied Bobby. "That's why I have been staring at you so much. I hope I haven't been rude."

"Not at all," laughed Mrs. Grebe, and she turned around and around so he could get a good look at her. Her body was rather boat-shaped and her neck was long and slender. Her head was rather small for the rest of her body and the feathers on her back were as shiny as satin. "Take a peek at my treasures," and she pulled aside the grasses in her nest and showed Bobby and Squeedee the two dirty yellowish eggs. "They were white when they were first laid, but the water has discolored them. You come around one of these days and see my babies. They will soon hatch out. There comes Daddy Grebe now," and settling herself once more on her floating treasure she went to join her mate.

"They are a most devoted couple," said Squeedee, as the birds disappeared around the bend in the stream. "When one gets away from the other, they are lost. You're a lucky boy to be able to see that family. They are very shy and most always keep hidden among the reeds. You see, they feed on tadpoles, fishes, frogs and water insects, so they very seldom fly very far from their wet home. Come on, maybe we can find something else interesting," and taking Bobby's hand Squeedee ran down the path to the woods.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, AUGUST 30-31.

Sunday's horoscope is not a very propitious one, although there may be active and satisfactory conditions in literary or professional matters, but sign all writings with care. There may be some benefit from change or travel.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of benefit through change or travel, as well as through writings or publishings, but sign papers carefully. A child born on this day may be original and inventive, but headstrong.

Monday's astrological forecast emphasizes flourishing conditions in all heart and home affairs, but hints of delays and probable disappointments in business. Guard against loss, defer removal and protect the health.

Those whose birthday it is should protect themselves against loss and disappointment in business and should safeguard the health. Removal and travel are not advised. Domestic and affectional affiliations should thrive and bring happiness. A child born on this day may be accomplished, well-conducted and much respected, but its business life may meet difficulties.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

YOUR GARDEN

SHADED PLACES

As the fall planting season approaches a number no doubt will be confronted with the problem of what to plant on the north side of buildings or otherwise shaded places. There are a number of things which will do very well but it should always be kept in mind that plants in such places require extra care by way of pruning, fertilizing and cultivation. Shrubs, especially will show a tendency to draw and become leggy and require the extra fertilizing and rather severe pruning. They must make the best of poor conditions and often compete with the stronger roots of trees. Perennials also must compete very often with other plants and will require extra care, although with many the shade is a help.

The degree of shade that these plants will endure varies somewhat of course. The following are recommended for varying degrees of shade and should be tried out.

Perennials.—

CHAPTER I.

Out of a blustery night that was steeped in the fabled Stygian blackness, a small boulder—dislodged by the persistant rain—slipped from Old Witch's Mask, on the heights of Granite Gorge and hurtled down toward two unsuspecting vagrants at the lee base of a train trestle pier.

The thin halo of their fire, fluttering bravely against the impounding darkness, revealed the younger tramp coaxingly feeding twigs to the blaze over which he held, to keep off the wind-blown spurts of rain, a rusted wash boiler top that had found its way into this remote hobo nest in the mountains, Heaven alone knows how; it showed, too—before its rays were lost impotently in the black void of the abyss, upon the edge of which he was kneeling—the fat and frowsy figure of the older tramp, paying out a line of cord.

A trickle of pebbles, and a sudden ominous overtone to the weird medley of wind and rain that thrashed down upon the snarling whirlpools in the bottom of the canyon, warned the man at the fire. But his instinctive yell to his friend was too late. The unwarned hobo, just rising to his feet and carefully commencing to draw in his string, was still in a half-bent forward position when the rock bounced like a petrified rubber ball on the ledge behind him, then jumped over him as though in playful leapfrog, barely grazing the broadest and fullest part of his frayed pants. Such, however, was the force of this glancing blow that the tramp was knocked flat on his face toward the brink of the chasm, over which he now slid, helplessly, his hands clutching futilely at the empty air, his feet in their toeless shoes pressing vainly on the smooth ledge for a braking hold that would stay his bulky body. His frightened shriek rose like a wail above the tempestuous symphony of primitive elements in the Gorge.

The lithe young hobo, dropping the boiler cover, made a leap and a grab, but for the second time in as many instants he was too late. His pal disappeared over the cliff.

Outwardly numb, inwardly quaking, the young fellow crawled to the edge, and peered over. He saw what he had been afraid to hope for—his comrade entangled in a stout bush a bare three feet below.

There was a precision and trained skill in the physical strength of the husky young tramp that spoke of better fed and rested days not far behind as he dragged his fat friend to safety, guiding him to help himself by taking toeholds in the glacially vermiculated face of the precipice. Gasping, when safe at last, the older man seized friend's hands in sentimental gusto, and with a great wagging of his greasy head and wrinkling of his rotund face—which, in the dying light of the neglected fire, was unmistakeably colored a boudoir green—he cried,

"My dear boy, I am eternally indebted to you. The cold fingers of the Grim Reaper were in my hair. But—drowning is not for Potts! It was not Potts' time—"

The young man jerked his head toward the invisible heights. "Are there apt to be any more of—those?"

Potts reflected, until the harsh effort left his breathing, then with the emotional vagabond's philosophic acceptance of things as they come, he decided:

"No, I don't think so. I'll tell you about the Old Witch later. Meanwhile—on with the stew, let our hunger be unrefined!"

With a gesture of dismay he called his companion's attention to the fate that had befallen their fire during the excitement. The wash boiler top had settled squarely down upon and smothered the heart of the blaze, though around its border tiny flames still burned—a faint corona to a tin eclipse. The young hobo rescued the top, then hastily raked the live twigs into a new core. His pal gathered fuel, meanwhile; wet and green, it was not the best food for an anaemic fire, yet the heroic efforts of both men, guided by the canny experience of the older—gained on many such a night—won out.

His comrade did not retort in kind—nor even smile. There was in his eyes a set glint of aloof bitterness that bespoke the impossibility of frivolity from him; a brooding mystery, as deep as the darkness of that stormy night and as evasive as its substance, lent a somberly wistful note to his expression. Potts speculated romantically upon the identity of his haphazard pal; but being a true gentleman of the itching feet he asked no questions. Potts liked the tall, silent boy.

When the fire was burning briskly again Potts said, "Now, if you'll prop this tin so it will keep off the rain, you can look for a large container for our stew while I'm making another effort to scoop up with a small can enough water to form the liquid ingredient—the, ahem! aqua pura—for the succulent piece de resistance of our evening repast. In my recent unfortunate mishap I regret that it was impossible for me to avoid losing both string and can. But my ball of twine is not yet done for—and here is another can."

"When you dip for the water this time I am going to sit on your legs," said the younger man laconically; then, reaching into the darkness just beyond the firelight he lifted into view a five gallon ex-home of motor oil and added, "I rustled this up a while ago!"

Potts inspected the large can critically. "Oxygen and hydrogen, au naturel, have banished the odor and the taint," he approved. "One usually finds a generous selection of cans—err-r-utensils!—in this locality, which is a favored one with our brotherhood. You may have observed the calling cards," he mentioned politely, with a graceful sweep of his fat hand toward a large boulder just within the aura of firelight. It was covered with a strange and bewildering confusion of signs, numbers, letters and symbols—the "cards" of all the more famous knights of the road, and some not so famous.

"Are you going to add yours when we leave here?" Potts fished.

The boy—he was twenty-five, perhaps—looked soberly at Potts with eyes that had their roots in pain; then he twisted one corner of his mouth down in a way, indefinite smile that got no further than his lips. Potts, in the week he had tramped with the lad, had come to know this shy, haunting little hint of a mystery and a fight against secret trouble which did not want to be prodded. He felt quickly ashamed of his inquisitiveness. After all, was it not enough that he liked the boy and that the boy seemed like him; that they had gravitated toward each other in one of those strange and outwardly ill-mated friendships of the dusty roads, where no reference are required? He changed the subject.

STREET NAMES

ANSON STREET.

Anson street is named for the Christian name of one of Peterborough's most active business men and manufacturers of a generation ago.

Anson Sperry was born at Schenectady, N.Y., in 1828. He came to Peterborough in 1847, and engaged first in the cutting of shingles and later in the milling business with Harry Denne. For many years he was a member of the Board of Education, and served on the Town Council for two years. In politics a Liberal, religion a Methodist, he was highly respected for integrity and uprightness of character. He died on March 28, 1899, and was interred at Little Lake cemetery.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-morrow's issue.

HOW GOLD ORES ARE MINED.

Methods Vary Only in Degrees— Small Producers Have But One Shaft, While Large Mines Like Hollinger Have Up To Six.

Much of the phenomenal development of Ontario, especially North Ontario, during the past 20 years, is to be attributed to the enormous stores of mineral wealth that have been uncovered in various parts of the province. Particularly is this true of the gold mining areas where busy prosperous communities throbbing with industry have arisen in districts hitherto peopled by a few prospectors or venturesome pioneer farmers.

While gold is found in varying quantities in every quater of the globe, it occurs in but two systems—alluvial deposits and rock formation. There are very few examples of the former in Ontario. Practically all Ontario's gold is mined from the auriferous quartz and pyrites ores of the pre-Cambrian layers, the most ancient of the rocks near the surface of the earth.

The methods of getting the precious ores vary only in degree. In a small mine which produces on an average 100 tons of ore per day one shaft and a comparatively small mill can cope with all demands, whereas large mines like the Hollinger with its daily output of five thousand tons of ore requires half a dozen shafts and a vast milling capacity. From the shafts at intervals of approximately one hundred feet levels are cut out which, with numerous cross cut follow the direction of the vein of gold bearing rock and all its off-shoots. Into the vein the "machineman" operating a compressed air machine drills holes about five feet six inches in depth and from nine to sixteen in number. These holes are loaded with dynamite and the fuses are lit just before the miners return to the surface. Each blast, if properly timed, breaks down from twenty to twenty-five tons of rock, which is then shovelled into cars by the "mucker."

Contrary to the generally accepted belief, the finding of gold nuggets is a comparatively rare event in a gold mine. Most mining companies are better pleased with the uncovering of a strike of high grade ore, than with the more spectacular discovery of nuggets or "free gold."

As the miners cut away the vein, working upwards to the level above, they soon excavate a number of large underground chambers. These chambers are called "stopes." In each of the stopes the mine timbermen build several chutes which extend to the level below. As the rock is broken off the vein by the blasting, it falls into these chutes and runs down into cars placed under the lower end. This arrangement facilitates the transport of the ore to the surface by eliminating a great deal of pick and shovel work. The men who fill the cars from the chutes are known as "trammers."

From the platform on the shaft head the ore is emptied into the "crusher," where it is broken into small pieces. It then travels on a belt into the mill and passes into huge drums, in the interior of which are many "stamps," large steel rods, having attached to their ends heavy iron shoes, which, falling on the ore as the drum revolves, grind it into a powder. The drums have feed openings at the front for the admission of the ore and at the back they have sieve-plates with holes ranging from one twenty-fifth to one fortieth of an inch in diameter, allowing the ground ore to be washed into great tanks, containing a strong solution of potassium cyanide.

During the twelve to sixteen hours required for dissolving the gold, the solution is kept in constant agitation. This is necessary to prevent the entire contents of the tank from settling into a solid mass. The next process is that of precipitating the gold by means of zinc particles. This accomplished, the tank is emptied, the solution passes through a press, where the gold and zinc adhere to the canvas while the cyanide is run off.

From the press the gold and zinc are taken to the "refinery" where, subjected to a great heat, the zinc is burned off, leaving the gold in the furnace. In order to get rid of impurities, the gold is melted in crucibles and refined by nitre and borax, added in small quantities at frequent intervals, and the slag and base matter are gradually fluxed or skimmed off. One of the impurities in all gold is silver, from which the more valuable metal is purified by chlorine gas, which leaves the gold free, the silver being afterwards recovered by crystallizing the sulphate and reducing it by carbon.

The purified liquid gold is poured into moulds and, as it hardens, forms a small brick of solid gold with the name of the mine or corporation at the top.

DOLLAR DAY BALLOT BOX HELD 11,821 ESTIMATING BLANKS

$50 Winner Makes a Bull's Eye—People Expected Figure To Be Higher—Absent Stores Made the Difference in the Total.

MRS. BUCHA M IS FIRST.

Peterboro people took full advantage of the August Dollar Day bargains and the merchants had a busy day handling the shopping crowds. There's no fooling about a Dollar Day shopper, they are out on business and usually know, from a careful study of the advertisements and windows just what they want and where to go to get it. The counting and sorting of the tickets revealed the fact that a majority of the estimators had not taken into account the fact that six of the largest shoe stores were not participating, and marked their blanks as high as when all the stores were handing out the tickets. Evidently the drop to 11821, the official figure, was not expected, as most of the blanks were filled in with numbers ranging from 13,000 to 18,000.

As it was the total showed only a proportionate decrease to the lessened number of George street central stores that were listed.

However, the successful estimators managed, as usual, to hit very close to the mark. Mrs. Bucham making a real bull's eye, with the exact figure. Only one tie occurred and that for the last $5.00, which was divided between the two winners.

Correct number—11821.

1—Mrs. Bucham, 493 Water St. 11821 .....$50.00
2—Audrey Jeffries, 523 Bolivar St. 11819 .....$25.00
3—Verna Strong, 537 Harvey St. 11818 .....$20.00
4—Mrs. J. K. Sheehy, 366 Simcoe St., 11825 .....$15.00
5—Mrs. N. D. Foote, 541 King St. 11813 .....$10.00
6—Mrs. H. Kellett, 633 Aylmer St. 11812 .....$5.00
7—Mrs. H. Whitton, 184 George St. 11809 .....$5.00
8—Dorothy Finn, 677 Aylmer St. 11808 .....$5.00
9—Mrs. Parnall, 789 Water tS. 11805 .....$5.00
10—Agnes Dryland, 521 Bolivar St. 11839 .....$5.00
11—Ida McBride, 751 Water St. 11839 .....$5.00
12—Mrs. F. Mather, 476 Monaghan Road, 11801 (tie).....$2.50
13—C. Sheppard, 184 George St. 11801 (tie) $2.50

Orangemen "Waging War."

Answering a question as to whether it was the Orangemen who were 'waging war' against him, the Bishop answered in the affirmative.

"I am not an Orangeman myself but the majority of the members of my clergy belong to the Lodges," he said, "and on numerous occasions I have exhorted them to belong to the Order because it gave them in my opinion more authority over their flocks.

"It is false however, to say that the Orange Order has any authority over my clergy. Despite all that has passed I will continue to believe that everything was due to a misunderstanding."

TO PREACH IN KINGSTON.

RELIGIOUS CONVICTION BOUNDED BY LEGALISM AND CHURCH BIGOTED

so profound that we run to evolution trials," the reporter protested. "Ontario is not likely to bar the teaching of evolution."

People Are Far Behind.

Dr. Rainsford snorted and banged his hand down upon his knee. "No," he said, "the question has never arisen—it never could arise. You people don't realize just how far you are behind. Do you realize that there is not a single pulpit in Toronto in which evolution could be taught? No, sir, not a single one—that is where you stand. Blue sky laws for Sunday, that is about the limit of religious conviction in Ontario. If you ever come to a time when evolution is discussed there will be some sort of hope for you."

The evolution of religion is the thing which interests Dr. Rainsford particularly. He accepts the evolution of life as something beyond contention. For that matter the evolution of religion is beyond contention as far as he is concerned. The Bible, he says, is an inspired Book, but that does not mean that it is to be accepted word for word without question.

"The vital, eternal truth in the Christian religion," he said as he leaned forward in his chair, "is not a creed, is not a book; it is a person, it is life."

In those few words he expressed his faith—a faith as simple as that preached by the Master. "But that is just what the Master preached," he explained. "There was nothing involved about His teachings. Lots of the things which the churches preach as being part and parcel of the Christian religion to-day are contained in the Bible, but they are set down years after the Saviour had gone. He did not say these things. He did not insist upon them; they are merely the views of people who lived after Him.

"In the years which have passed we have developed in religion as in everything else. Since the Bible was written thought has developed. We are more competent to express opinions on the substance of religion to-day than people were eighteen hundred years ago. Evolution has taken place."

Tells' Own Experience.

Dr. Rainsford told in dramatic sentences his own difficulty in accepting the evolution of religion. "The turning point in my life took place right here in Toronto," he said. "I will tell you about it.

"When I first came to Toronto in 1878 there was a population of 85,000. I preached a series of sermons in St. James' Cathedral, and because the time was ripe, the congregation was profoundly affected. After a stay of three or four months I went back to England, and it was there that I became assailed by religious doubts.

"I could not accept Athanasian creed, and because my conscience troubled me, I felt compelled to resign a parish in which there were wonderful opportunities.

"In the end I sailed for New York, feeling despondent, yet determined to preach what I believed. I had been invited to return to Toronto as rector, but in view of my doubts, I felt that I could not accept the position. Instead, I travelled through the United States, preaching wherever people would listen to me.

"I had some small measure of success, and the people of Toronto heard of me. Once again, they invited me back to St. James. I explained my position, but they were determined to have me, and finally I returned to the parish.

"You must remember that I was preaching something totally different to that which I had preached during the revival. I was in doubt myself, and I felt the lack of conviction in my words. Instead of a successful ministry, the people began to leave the church, my congregations dwindled and my churchwardens came to me in despair.

"You are pulling down everything you built up," they said, "You are preaching doubt instead of faith. Why don't you preach the Gospel as you preached it during the revival"

"They were right, but there was nothing I could do. I went home sick at heart. That night I dropped by my bedside and I determined that I would pray to God throughout the night. I asked Him to show me a way, but in the still hours between the darkness and the dawn, I dropped asleep. I woke up and between slumber and waking I dreamed a dream. I dreamed of the prodigal son.

I got into bed and I was never again troubled by doubts. I saw that I had been foolish and ignorant and blind. Instead of accepting the spirit of Christianity I had balked at the words."

Forced From Pulpit.

Dr. Rainsford spoke modestly of his mission when he began to speak with faith and sincerity. The people came back, the church was crowded for every service and once again he was happy in the service of God. But another difficulty arose, a difficulty which forced Dr. Rainsford from his parish, and lost for Toronto one of the world's foremost divines. "My congregation was unanimous in electing me as rector," he said, "but the vestry omitted to perform a purely nominal act. They did not secure the consent of the Bishop to my induction. The Bishop objected to me; the vestry had given him the necessary loophole, and he forced me to resign. I had been approached by St. George's Church in New York, when I still was in Toronto, and after my resignation I agreed to accept the charge—on certain conditions. The gift was in the hands of Pierpont Morgan, and I went down to New York to see him. I met him in the presence of the church wardens, and I said: "Gentlemen, I will accept this offer on three conditions. First, you must abolish every committee in the church; secondly, You must make every seat in the church free; and thirdly, You must give me ten thousand dollars a year to devote to charity. The church heavily in debt, the Sunday congregation was no more than two hundred; so it was no wonder the churchwardens looked at me blankly. But Pierpont banged his hand on the table and said "Done"—and I accepted the offer.

"When I resigned from the church in 1906 the membership was 7,000, and the funds in hand amounted to three quarters of a million."

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

FOR SATURDAY

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a young girl in my teens and am going with a young man ten years older than myself. I love him very much and he says he loves me, but he has been in love with another girl before he met me and sometimes I think he is still in love with her. Please tell me if I should continue my friendship with him. —Bobbie.

Bobbie: Never let the shadow of past friendships and relationships mar your happiness, Bobbie. If you are fond of this young man and he tells you that he is interested in you, don't worry about what happened in the past. Live your life to the full now—and you will not regret it!

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a young girl eighteen years old. I met a young man two years older than myself not so very long ago. He comes up to see me and he says he likes me. But I don't know whether to continue his friendship because sometimes I think I like him and sometimes I think I don't. —Rose.

Rose: The only way to determine whether or not you like this young man is to continue his friendship for a little while at least, Rose. Accept his invitations, be cordial and gay when you are with him and let time help you make your decision. In the meantime, of course, don't neglect your other friends.

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a young girl in my teens. I have fallen in love with a young man of twenty-one. As he is only a life-guard my parents disapprove of him. What shall I do? —Bashful.

Bashful: I am sure your parents do not disapprove of this young man merely because of his occupation, my dear. Ask them to be frank with you and give you their candid opinion of him. Probably they feel that he is not worthy of your friendship, and if they are right you hould be guided by their advice. But if his character is above reproach, you must convince your parents that they have been mistaken.

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a young man twenty years of age and am in love with a girl younger than I. Sometimes I think she loves me and sometimes she acts as though she doesn't care. Shall I try to win her, or forget her. —Billy.

Billy: Why give up so soon, Billy? Since it is not the young lady's place to broach the subject of her affection for you, she has no way of discussing this subject. I suggest that you tell her of your love and ask her frankly whether or not she is fond of you. When she says "no" then—and not before—it will be time to "give up." But I hope her "yes" is very emphatic!

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

Jewelry

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(United Press).—"Nothing can be quite as dead as an earring," sighed the jewelry salesman. "Women simply don't believe in having ears any more or if, like Gloria Swanson, they believe in exposing their ears they want the ears unadorned."

One can't have too many necklaces, on the other hand. And at present the trend among women of refinement is towards semi-precious types. Chokers and chains of amber, carnelian, turmaline, lapis, jade, coral, amethyst, acquarmarine and real seed pearls are popular with women of Fashion. They consider fake pearls flattering but commonplace. Chokers of pink, green and blue pearls are as dead as a door nail with them. Even crystals which were so popular a year ago have no place with the Fashionables owing to the fact that they have been duplicated in glass beads.

Marcasite, a greenish stone of deeper shade than jade, is popular in Europe at present. It is being set in brooches, rings, pendants and bracelets with silver mountings. So far, we have seen little of it in America.

Chokers continue their popularity being of the semi-precious stones mentioned above or of semi-precious stones combined with carved wood beads. Complete chokers of brown carved wood beads are worn with sports costumes.

Bracelets and chokers of matching stones are much in demand. Sometimes the bracelet matching an amber choker, for instance, will be a wide band of hand hammered silver set with a large carved piece of amber.

Diamonds and precious stones are seldom worn in the daytime nowadays. Even with the dinner gown one is liable to wear a chain of acquarmarine or turmaline. Necklaces are growing somewhat shorter than they were. One seldom sees one longer than the normal waistline.

WORTH IT.

This is an item to be preserved by those individuals who continuously lament the dizzy speed of present-day civilization.

Dr. David C. Bull of the Presbyterian hospital staff, New York, summoned to Grand Anse, Quebec, to set the broken back of 14-year-old Alexander Stillman, made the trip by air in six hours.

PANDORA

By Juanita Hamel

Curiosity? She's full of it—a regular, ultra-modern little Pandora! Ever since she's been big enough, she's peeked and pried into everything her dainty little fingers could touch. And now when she comes across this wonderful casket she promptly lifts the lid—and to her amazement out pops Love! He's delighted at the success of his strategy—for she has always laughed at him; but knowing her failing he locked himself in the casket of her heart and awaited results. The suddenness of his appearance has surprised her—but that won't last. For her joy at finding him will overcome any shock and she'll be happy—always.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A TRIM BLACK SATIN COAT.

We manikins have been busy lately, modeling the clothes for early Fall.

"Dear me, I look back on the afternoons when we had nothing much to do but sew for ourselves, and think how times have changed," Gaby remarked to-day.

She had just come down from a busy session up in the sewing rooms.

This Coat of Black Satin Has a Braid Collar of Royal Blue.

"Of course our leisure moments have gone, since the new season began," I returned. "But don't you think the bustle is rather amusing?"

"Sure I do," said Gaby. "Want to see something good looking?"

"Always ready to see something good looking," I replied, following Gaby's abbreviated manner of speech.

For answer she stepped out into the hall and signalled a small errand girl who was going by. The girl returned and Gaby said:

"Please run up and ask the tailor for that black satin coat I just had on."

The little girl soon returned with the coat in question, and Gaby slipped into it so I could get the full effect.

I saw that it was made with applied fullness at the front, and that the only bit of trimming was the small standing collar, which was merely a narrow upright band of royal blue braid.

"I like the straight back immensely' I remarked.

"Madame says the coat is such a success that she is thinking of making a dress to go with it and showing the two as a costume," Gaby informed me.

"Good idea," I approved.

"Madame says all women who pay for good clothes will stick to dress and coat costumes for the coming Winter," Gaby gave out further information.

"I'm glad," I returned. "I think a well blended ensemble looks better on the average matron, especially, than anything else she can wear."

"I think so too," I agreed. "Young girls look stunning in them, too."

"Madame is going to make a number of ensembles for young girls," Gaby said. "But she is also making some tailored two-piece suits for college girls."

"That's good, too," I replied. "No matter how popular ensembles are, I notice that a certain type of young school and college girls stick to the two-piece suits in good-looking woolen materials."

Gaby gave the stunning coat a final smoothing touch, and removed it so she could model an evening gown for a client who had just come in. Madame's busy season is on, there's no doubt about it.

DECORATIVE VALUE OF MIRRORS

There is nothing more decorative than well framed mirrors, well hung and properly placed.

The full length mirrors set in the panels of the closet door and on the inside of the bathroom door are of invaluable service. The frames in both instances being the mouldings to match the woodwork.

Sometimes, the mirrors are hung with the old time cords and tassels, or with the brass rings and chains which are a bit newer. The chains are treated with a solution that keeps them bright, and the rings used are the large sized ones, not less than three inches in diameter. A ring catches the hook on the picture rail and another is fastened at the top of the mirror on either side.

In a charming Chinese room seen recently, the mirror of rectangular shape had a carved frame painted that incomparable shade of red that is only found in Chinese decorations, the carvings were picked out with gold. The mirror was hung by heavy gold cords fastened with long gold tassels. Hung on a black silk panel set in a gold-covered wall the mirror became one of the most effective pieces of decoration in the room.

Oval and round glasses are always pretty, and if hung in the right places add much to the decorations. The unframed mirrors with beveled edges are suitable only for rooms with Victorian settings. Mirrors of this type are usually hung against a silken panel which forms a sort of frame for them.

A mirror of good size and good glass should be placed in every kitchen. It is best to fasten the mirror flat against the wall and frame it to harmonize with the woodwork. Also, place it where the light is good.

FREE STATE POPULATION 3,163,000.

DUBLIN, Aug. 29.—An official estimate gives the population of the Free State as 3,163,000. There is a slight decline in the birth and death rates. The Free State has not yet taken a census.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

THE LIFE OF A HOME-ECONOMICS-CLASS BABY.

Poor little Frances Pauline. I wouldn't be in her little pink knitted booties for worlds, would you?

She's five months old and she doesn't know and never will know probably, who was her father or what poor broken-hearted woman brought her into the world.

She's round and she's rosy and her big eyes are soft and dewy.

She's healthy, too, and good natured—poor child—but, oh she's been adopted and who do you think is adopting her?

The Home Economics Department of a New England college.

Goodbye to fun for Frances Pauline.

Meals on time, not a second late and not a second early, no matter how hungry Frances Pauline imagines she is.

Of course it's only imagination—the Home Economics Department knows just exactly when she ought to be hungry and that's the time she'll have to take and that's that.

No collywobbles for Frances Pauline and no petting and no pattings and no walkings of the floor.

Not for her.

No baby talk, no hugs and no kisses, no "this little pig went to market and his little pig stayed at home."

No rocking—and no singing to sleep.

Scientific from the start—that's what it will be—sterilized bottles and sterilized walls and sterilized floors and sterilized curtains—why they'll even sterilize Little Boy Blue and Old Mother Goose herself.

And the mottoes they'll have on the wall—not a thing about Puss in the Corner, or Baa baa Black Sheep—not a word.

Why clutter up the mind of Frances Pauline with a lot of babyish stuff that doesn't mean a thing—letters of the alphabet, figures out of the arithmetic, little biographical maps—these are the things that will hang on that wall.

I wouldn't be surprised if Frances Pauline could count up to twenty by the time she's two years old and say the Lord's Prayer in Sanskrit before she's three.

By the time she's six she'll speak French and German and know the theory of logarithms before she's eight.

Of course she'll have all "the advantages" and all the newest things in hygienic appliances—but whisper, I'd rather be little Mollie Nobody in the tenement house, down town, with the fire escape for my cradle and a street band for my music and my own mother rocking me to sleep with a silly old song about.

"Your father watches the sheep,
"The big moon is the shepherdess.
"Sleep, baby, sleep."

Wouldn't you—honestly now?

Let's Talk It Over

DOES MARRIAGE NEED A CASH BOND?

I entered this letter with smiles of approval, and emerged mad as a hatter. Dive in and see for yourself.

I would like to have your opinion on the recent statement that "it should be criminal for a man to marry without a bankroll of $2,000."

The money would be convenient to have, but, judging from the extravagant tastes of the majority of girls, the $2,000 would only serve as pin money for one shopping tour. Any woman who will not risk poverty with the man she loves, and enters a loveless marriage for the sake of riches, hasn't the spine of a jellyfish and is as bad as the courtesan of the streets.

Respectfully, E. T. D.

Now that's right, E. T. D., but a little more tolerance and understanding on your part would look prettier to me. Has it ever occurred to you that the woman of the poverty-stricken marriage is about 100 per cent worse off than the man? Let a woman tell you about it. A woman who has been very poor herself, and who knows what poverty means to one shut within four walls.

The man goes out to work, or, at least, to look for work. It may not be pleasant work—it may be hard and disheartening on the streets, making the rounds, looking for employment. But at least he comes in contact with other human beings. He gets out, and, unless he is absolutely ragged, he is not very conspicuous when he does go out. The difference in the dress of the poor man and the man who is comfortably provided for is very slight. Penniless Pete can mingle with Prosperous Percy without much difficulty.

What About Maggie?

But there's no such luck for Maggie. Maggie couldn't squeeze into that 1914 waistline, and she's probably cut her best dress up long ago to make something presentable for little Maggie to wear to school. Many a Maggie stays at home literally because she has nothing fit to wear outside of the home.

She's shut within four walls. If she's facing real poverty those walls are very likely dirty, dreary walls. Without the conveniences with which her more prosperous sisters lighten housework, she must battle with ancient, unhygienic plumbing, struggle with an old-fashioned cook stove and face an endless chain of wash and ironing days without washing machines and electric irons.

Hardships, yes, but bearable. The real tragedy of poverty is not the lack of gas stoves or clothes—it's the gnawing worry for the children, the horrible fear that they are not getting enough to eat—the anxiety for their physical welfare—the knowledge that they're not being properly nourished and cared for—that's the tragedy for the woman, my friend. Your story "listens well"—but the situation cannot be so lightly disposed of. We do not live by love alone—we gotta eat. That's the other side of "risking poverty with the man you love."

As for it being a criminal offense for a man to marry without a bank roll of $2,000"—that's ridiculous, of course As E. T. D. sanely points out, there would be few marriages if such a demand were made upon the prospective husband. Such a guarantee is neither necessary nor practical. But "some guarantee" of a man's ability to feed and clothe a wife and babies is necessary. "What should that guarantee be?" Is a good job enough? How much should a man have before taking on the responsibilities of marriage? What's your opinion, Pal?

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

One of the underlying reasons why the golfer should cultivate a natural, easy position during the address is because when he acquires that habit it leaves him with nothing to think of except hitting the ball. That is, it greatly promotes concentration on the ball—essential of good play. To find the perfectly natural address position for yourself, walk up to a ball naturally and easily, place your clubhead quickly back of the ball—without thinking about it at all—then observe yourself. You will have found what you were seeking because your own common sense will instinctively go to it when you do not interfere with it and confuse it with precautionary details. Going about an address in this way will reveal, also, what is meant by being free and natural in the address.

GERMAN REJECTS AMUNDSEN'S BOOK

Publisher Says He Must Make Amends for War Actions.

MUNICH, Aug. 29.—Roald Amundsen's latest book has been declined by the explorer's former publishers in Munich. The manuscript was rejected because "Amundsen severed all connections with the German nation when, during the war, he returned his German decoration and resigned his honorary membership of German societies." The publishers in their statement conclude: "Not until Amundsen has made proper amends for his inoffensive behavior to Germany, the result of misrepresentations by the anti-German press, will this firm consent to publish any more of his works."

Amundsen is scheduled to deliver a series of lectures in Berlin prior to sailing in September for America.

PRICES REDUCED

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR VEHICLES

Lower prices, announced on August 17th, represent the most impressive values Dodge Brothers, (Canada) Ltd., has ever offered to the public.

Wider markets, mounting sales and steadily expanding output have made possible these reductions.

They come at a time when Dodge Brothers product has achieved a new and impressive standard of excellence in four basic particulars—in beauty, in riding ease, in smoothness of operation, in dependability.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press). — Vic Foley, of Vancouver, Canadian bantamweight champion, last night won the decision on a foul in the eight round of a scheduled 10-round bout here from Vic King, bantamweight champion of Australia.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT.

Gertrude Ederle is Making Preparation For Long Swim Next Week.

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Gertrude Ederle to-day continued light work with the intention of beginning her second attempt to swim the English Channel next Monday, provided that weather conditions are sufficiently favorable. The Channel was still rough to-day, but the weather is moderating.

BRITAIN RE-OPENS MEXICAN EMBASSY

Resuming Full Diplomatic Relation After 10 Year Breach.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—The Foreign Office announced last night the intention of the British Government to resume "full official diplomatic relations" with Mexico.

Norman King, British consul-general in Mexico City, is to be appointed charge d'affaires pending the appointment of a minister.

Great Britain and Mexico have been without diplomatic relations of any kind since June, 1924, when the British charge d'affaires, H. S. Cunard Cummins, was ordered expelled by the Mexican Government and recalled by Premier MacDonald. Full diplomatic relations between the two countries, however, have not existed for more than ten years, since the British Government refused to recognize either the Carranza or the Obregon Governments.

Cummins' explusion followed friction which lasted for some time, finally culminating after his intervention to support Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject, who later was assassinated on her Mexican ranch. Since his departure, the American embassy has taken care of British affairs in Mexico.

HANGED HIMSELF.

Hamilton Man, Out of Work, Took His Own Life.

CONSIDER WAY TO MEET STRIKE OF COAL MINERS

Officials Fear That Soft Coal Miners May Walk Out, Too.

REVIVE FUEL ACT.

Give U. S. Government Wider Powers to Cope With Situation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press).—While Government officials are considering means of coping with the anthracite strike which has been called for next Tuesday, information has reached Washington that a strike in the bituminous fields may follow close upon the anthracite tie-up.

It is declared here today in responsible quarters that there is a serious likelihood of a bituminous coal strike in support of the revolt in the hard coal region. Prominent soft coal operators are said to believe a walk-out in their mines to be imminent.

The problem that would confront the government in the event of a general strike in both fields is reported to be engaging the attention of officials here.

The government might be called upon to undertake the distribution of coal, but there is no present authority under which this could be done. There is talk of possible revival of the Federal Fuel Act of 1922 which gave the government wide powers to handle a similar emergency.

JAPAN DEMANDING APOLOGY FOR DEATH

Wants Indemnity For Killing of Jap Seaman By Canton Fort.

TOKIO, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press)—An apology by the Canton Government was demanded by the Japanese foreign office in a note yesterday afternoon, for the killing of a marine and the sinking of a Japanese naval launch from the destroyer Momi by the Chu Kiang fort, August 26. Japan demands indemnity for the victim and punishment of the fort commander.

GOODS PILFERED ON DOLLAR DAY

Articles Stolen From Local Stores—Detectives to be Placed on Guard.

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

Complaints have been received from several stores in the city of goods stolen on Dollar Day. From Robert Fair & Co., come two specific instances. Mrs. Hurley, superintendent of one of the departments, lost the sum of $18.00, which was taken from the workroom adjacent to the showroom. Between 2 and 3 o'clock a bleached hem-stitched damask table cloth, valued at $15.00, was pilfered.

During recent sales articles have been stolen from stores in the city. One firm indeed reports instances of the receipt of conscience money some time after a sale.

It was stated to-day that merchants are contemplating having private detectives placed in each store on big days to safeguard the goods exposed for sale. No mercy will be shown to anyone found in the act of stealing.

BEVERAGE TAX TO PRODUCE MILLION

Provincial Treasurer Announces That Taxes of Beer, Etc., Will Bring $1,250,000.

TORONTO, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press.)— Although Provincial Treasurer W. H. Price has no tabulated statistics as yet on the revenues from the new beverage taxation, which covers not only 4.4 bere, but carbonated drinks and wine as well, the best available information at the Parliament Buildings is that the revenue for the year from that source will be in the neighborhood of $1,250,000.

STEEL COMPANIES FORMING MERGER

Three Big American Firms Will Unite in One New Company.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.) — Negotiations for $100,000,000 merger of the Otis Steel, Trumbull Steel, and Midland Steel Products Companies reached a definite stage yesterday when tentative proposals were outlined for the formation of a new company and an exchange of shares.

E. J. Kulas, of Cleveland, of the Otis and Midland Companies, will head the new corporation.

DRUSES STAY BACK.

Syrian Situation Improving, Although Rebels Are Still Active.

PARIS, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press).—The situation in Syria continues to improve, though Suedia is still besieged by rebel tribesmen, according to official information from General Sarrail, High Commissioner.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

COLORED MINSTRELS ARE BEST

The modern minstrelsy evolved from the colored race. The negro if he can be restrained from becoming self conscious makes the best minstrel man. Any person is sure of a good laugh if they can but be around a group of negroes thirty minutes without the latter knowing they are near, because then the colored man is perfectly natural.

There have been many colored minstrel shows which were unsatisfactory in their entertainment because the colored performers were self conscious and did not act natural. The Famous Georgia Minstrels have always been fortunate in having as a manager one who was familiar with the peculiarities of the negro, and knew just how to get the performers to exhibit that peculiar humor so well known among the Southern darkies. Mr. Arthur Hockwald, the present company manager, is a native of the South and has assembled a company of performers that are not posers, but real entertainers.

They will be at the Grand Opera House, September 1.

AT THE ROYAL.

COUNTRY STORE NITE MONDAY.

"Country Store Nite," with its prizes for the lucky ones will be included in the programme Monday. The feature "Miss Bluebird," with Bebe Daniels and Raymon Griffith is one of the best comedies on the screen market to-day, and comes highly recommended.

NEXT WEEK IS JOY WEEK. Two Exceptionally Clever Comedies Booked.

BEBE BACK.

Peppy, snappy, zippy, Frenchy and all the other adjectives denoting speed and charm, come in mighty handy when one sets out to describe Bebe Daniels' newest Paramount star picture, "Miss Bluebird," which opens at the Royal on Monday.

Frank Tuttle directed the production from Townsend Martin's adaptation of Avery Hopwood's phenomenal ly successful play, "Little Miss Blue-Beard." It is the fastest moving jolliest little love farce you have ever seen, with Beb Daniels as Colette, a French actress who finds herself with one husband too many.

From the time Colette and Bob Hawley (Kenneth MacKenna) are stranded in the rail road station of a small French town it is a case of one big laugh piling up on top of another. You laugh when they are left standing there gazing open-mouthed as the train pulls out. You laugh just a little louder when the mayor of the town mistakes them for another young couple and marries them, and you roar your head off when Hawley takes Colette to the London apartment of a well known composer and introduces the girl to him as Mrs. Larry Charters—his wife!

What a scene!

Here's sure-enough rib-tickler. Every scene's a laugh. As a comedienne Bebe is sure there seven different ways.

Ever see her when she's not serious? There's a treat in store for you.

Robert Frazer has the role of Larry Charters and Raymon Griffith is cast as the Hon. Bertie Bird who furnishes most of the comedy in the picture.

"NIGHT CLUB" COMING.

The paramount picture, "The Night Club," based on the stage play "After Five," by William de Mille, will be the feature at the Royal Theatre next Thursday to remain for three days.

"The Night Club," directed by Frank Urson and Paul Iribe, the screen's sole "team" who made "Changing Husbands" and "Lord Chumley," features Raymond Griffith, the funny fellow with the high hat; Vera Reynolds, Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda.

The story deals with a young fellow who inherits a million dollars from his uncle but has to marry a certain girl to collect. He has just gone through the unpleasant experience of "having the girl in the world" walk out of the church on him for another fellow, and his feelings towards women in general are not what they might be, so he passes up the legacy, but when he sees the girl in the case, it's a different story entirely.

If you laughed at Ray Griffith in "Miss Bluebeard" and "Lord Chumley" this one will tumble you right off your seat.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE UNHOLY THREE" IS UNUSUAL CROOK DRAMA

Tod Browning's Latest Thriller Has Lon Chaney, Mae Busch and Great Cast—Unusual Underworld Drama—About Criminal Adventures of Trio of Freaks Recruited from Dime Museum.

Tod Browning's "The Unholy Three," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, will come to the Capitol Theatre Monday.

This picture is said to be something entirely new in the way of crook melodramas.

It concerns the adventures of a trio of crooks who leave a dime museum and during their criminal operations give rise to a romance that lends a great quantity of color to the plot.

It is a film adaptation of C. A. Robbins' story and has a peculiar twist that has never been seen in any other play of this type.

Director of Crook Films.

Tod Browning, who enjoys the reputation of being the most successful underworld film director in the business was responsible for the direction of the picture. Browning has been directing crook films for many years, one of his outstanding productions of that kind being "Outside the Law."

Mae Busch, who has done such excellent work in pictures during the last few years notably "Bread" and "The Christian" and who is now a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured player, portrays the leading feminine role—an Irish-American girl who is in league with the underworld band.

Lon Chaney, the screen's greatest make-up artist and character man, is the leader of the crook trio and appears in the role of a sympathetic heavy. The remainder of the crook trio consist of Victor McLaglen, famous English leading man who played opposite Lady Diana Manners, and Harry Earles, a thirty-five pound midget who masquerades as a baby. Matt Moore plays the male romantic lead opposite Miss Busch and Mathew Betz takes the part of Detective Reagan.

Silent "Talkative" Parrots.

The action of "The Unholy Three" takes place in and about New York City. The film opens with a cheap museum but the plot is soon transplanted to a bird and animal store operated by "Mrs. O'Grady," whose expensive parrots for some mysterious reason are quite dumb in the homes of the owners, but who always were eloquent in the presence of the old lady.

Following a particularly atrocious murder the trio place the blame on Hector McDonald, a clerk in the bird store who has fallen in love with the girl.

The latter is dragged away to a mountain retreat and is saved in a most awesome manner by a powerful ape which when attacked by two of the crooks escapes and eventually becomes the instrument that saves the hero and unites him with the heroine.

A Four That Gives Things No Other Four Can Equal

CHRYSLER FOUR
The Touring - $1430
The Club Coupe $1625
The Coach - - $1675
The Sedan - - $1760

Bodies by Fisher on all Chrysler enclosed models. All models equipped with balloon tires. Hydraulic four-wheel brakes at slight extra cost.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. Chrysler dealers and superior Chrysler service everywhere.

No other four but the Chrysler Four gives such a smooth flow of power, such sustained speed, such lightning pick-up and almost incredible fuel economy. This is the result of the same fine engineering which produced the phenomenal Chrysler Six.

In no other four is vibration so completely isolated. Chrysler Four smoothness is due to a floating platform spring which supports the front end of the motor and to live rubber bushings which insulate the rear motor bolts eliminating metal to metal contact—distinctive Chrysler design which keeps all vibration away from the frame and out of the body.

No other four has such high quality, or is built to such rigid precision standards and material specifications. More alloy steels are used in the Chrysler Four than in many cars which cost twice as much.

No other four presents the lithe and graceful appearance which is so individually Chrysler. There are many who acclaim it one of the two smartest cars ever built, regardless of price—and both are Chrysler.

No other four offers such roadability and riding ease because of the Chrysler principles of low center of gravity, correct distribution of weight and Chrysler spring suspension combined with balloon tires.

No other four is so safe because of the Chrysler hydraulic four-wheel brakes, which are optional at slight extra cost.

And, to cap the climax, no other four carries with it the same feeling of trust and confidence in its quality and craftsmanship. Because this Four is a product of Chrysler, and is as inevitably stamped with the Chrysler genius as its companion car, the Chrysler Six.

Come in—we are eager to demonstrate to you these and other matchless Chrysler Four advantages.

OBITUARY.

DR. McCLELLAND

The funeral of the late Dr. McClelland will be held on Monday morning, at 11.00, proceeding from Comstock's Funeral Parlors to the Little Lake Cemetery.

BERT ALLEN.

The funeral of Bert Allen, who was drowned in Little Lake yesterday, will take place on Sunday at 1.00 p.m., and will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Heaslip, of Buckhorn. Interment will be in Ray's Cemetery, Lakefield.

Bert Allen was 25 years and nine months old, coming to Canada from England with his people 11 years ago.

JOHN ADAMS SMITHSON.

The sudden death of John Adams Smithson occurred at the old homestead on Sunday, August 23, at 5.00 p.m., and the sad news came as a shock to his many friends.

The deceased, who was 76 years of age, was the youngest of a large family of the late Richard Smithson and his wife, Sara Carew Smithson.

In his passing the Township of South Monaghan loses one of its oldest and most respected citizens. He is survived by one brother, Joshua, of Otonabee, and one sister, Mrs. Wm. Waterman, of South Monaghan.

The funeral, which took place last Tuesday, was largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. M. B. Williams, of Millbrook. Interment at St. Paul's Cemetery, Cavan.

A number of relatives were present from Toronto, Guelph, Kitchener, Peterboro, Fowler's Corners, Fenelon Falls and Millbrook.

The pall-bearers were Wm. Smithson, George Smithson, Howard Smithson, George Nurse, George Wheetington and Thos. Nimmo.

MRS. SARAH LEITCH.

The death occurred last evening of Mrs. Sarah Leitch, an old resident of Peterboro, at her home in Cleveland, Ohio. She was in her 85th year. Mrs. Leitch was born in North Monaghan Township, the daughter of the late William Fowler. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, James and William, of Cleveland, and one sister, Mrs. Richard Lillico, of North Monaghan.

Her sudden death came as a great shock to her many friends in this district, as she had just returned home after a visit here.

The funeral will take place on Monday from her residence, 3297 Mamouth Street, Cleveland Heights.

PREMIER OPENED C. N. EXHIBITION THIS AFTERNOON

Also Turned First Sod of New Ontario Government Building.

PERFECT WEATHER.

Parade of Returned Soldiers Was a Feature of the Opening.

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press) — The weather was perfect when the 47th annual Canadian National Exhibition threw open its gates this morning.

Premier G. H. Ferguson officially opened the exhibition this afternoon and combined at the same time the ceremony of turning the first sod for the new Ontario Government Building to be completed in time for the 1926 exhibition at a cost of half a million dollars. As usual, opening day is Warrior's Day and a great parade of returned soldiers was one of the features of the opening.

Chicago Water Steal Results in Hundreds of Stalled Boats.

TRAFFIC TIED UP.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press)—The evil of the Chicago drainage canal "steal" was never more manifest than now in the Welland canal, filled up with stalled boats, owing to low water. The water is two feet lower than normal in Port Colborne's harbor and the harbor is so full of boats waiting to proceed down that upboats had to creep slowly through a narrow lane between vessels tied up at either pier.

Uneven Price Movements On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(Canadian Press). — Uneven price movements characterized to-day's stock market. The high-priced specialties fluctuated within more narrow limits and aside from recessions of 3 and 4 points in Chrysler and U.S. Cast-Iron Pipe respectively, movements in these issues were generally meaningless. Bullish operations were effective in a number of motor, tobacco, chemical and shipping shares. Oils held relatively steady, despite further crude price cuts Little speculative interest was manifested in rails, although Gulf, Mobile and Northern Preferred and Colorado and Southern were lifted to new 1925 highs. The closing was steady. Total sales approximated 500,000 shares.

Sharp Break In Values.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Liquidation in September and December wheat started at opening to-day and almost immediately became general, values taking a rather sharp break. Stop-loss orders were uncovered when December hit 1.54, but even this proved only a temporary halting place. December, however, dropped to 1.53 and Sept. 1.53 1-2 before the first hour ended. A slight reaction set in at these figures and the market strengthened somewhat. Wheat opened 1-8 cents up to 5-8c. down, with September and December at the same figures, 1.55 to 1.55 1-2.

High Water Mark Reached.

TORONTO, August 29. — Canadian Press. — The Toronto Stock Exchange this morning surpassed its high marks of activity during the week, with the industrial leaders, notably Brazilian Atlantic, Sugar, Davie and Smelters, all heabily dealt in. Advance of Atlantic Sugar to the high point of 34 1-4 was a feature of the market but sugar receded towards the close to 32½ for a net gain of 1 1-4; Sugar preferred improved 7-8. Brazilian in dealings totalling more than 1200 shares advanced to 69 1-4 and closed firm, for a gain of 3-4. Davies A made the biggest advance of the session, climbing 4 points to 36, and closing at high Canada Cement advanced 1 3-8 to 114, City Dairy and Smelters were unchanged while Canada Bread issues eased a quarter point. Dome featured mining section with rapid advance of 95c to 15.95, from which it receded only 15.

To the Citizens of Peterboro and District:

"You are cordially invited to inspect our Tent, Awning and Flag exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, commencing today and lasting until September 12th. The Toronto Exhibition Park and Buildings are at this time a blaze of color, our Flag Department being responsible for the many thousand bunting flags and pennants, which has added much to its gala appearance.

Then again the large orange and black striped awnings erected on the Coliseum together with the solid green tinted awnings to be found on the Administration, Music and Railway Buildings, reflect credit on our Awning Department. Then again many of the large tents used throughout the grounds for refreshment, exhibit and other purposes, most conspicuous being two large solid orange tents placed by the Orangeade Management, are not only in keeping with their wares but are bright and attractive.

For many weeks we have been busy on our contribution to this wonderful exhibition and the many favours bestowed on this firm by the management, stimulates us to further serve with quality and real service.

Our Toronto exhibit is in charge of our Mr. W. F. Turner and Mr. Robt. Hendry who will do their utmost to make you feel at home and enlighten you as to the many lines of manufacture which have found such an extensive sale throughout the Dominion.

Trusting you will avail yourself of this invitation, we remain.

Sincerely yours,

BISHOP BIDWELL WAS VICTIM OF MISUNDERSTANDING, HE SAYS IN SERMON IN KINGSTON CATHEDRAL

Parts of Article Were Printed Without Reference to Former Article.

WERE MISLEADING.

Never Questioned Loyalty of Orange Order—Not Complaining of Criticism.

KINGSTON, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press).—Bishop Bidwell, who returned Saturday from England, preached in St. George's Cathedral at the morning service yesterday and outlined his position in regard to the Catholic Church and the Orange Order, in view of the recent conversion of his wife to Roman Catholicism.

He said in part: "My brethren, I am a Catholic in the sense which the great divines of our beloved church, from Archbishop Laud down to Bishop Gore, who have preached the faith for centuries.

"I know we have our divisions; I know it is said we lack a centre of infallible authority such as is claimed by another communion, but I know this, too, no church can surpass that which I belong and to which I owe all the spiritual life God has vouchsafed to bestow upon me in the wonderful love and magnificent devotion she has called forth in her children.

"Nothing gives me more pain than that caused by what seems to be the victim of an almost wilful misinterpreation and misunderstanding. Here is my own experience. An article appeared early in May just after I arrived in England, in an English church paper, which gave a very misleading account, in some points at any rate, of the condition of our church in eastern Canada, practically implying that the clergy dared not teach the full faith of the church because of the influence of a certain Order over them. I know this was not true. I know that they had taught and were teaching the faith. Who would correct the mistake if not their Bishop, when his own diocese was mentioned? I did so at once, and in the course of my reply was obliged to allude to this Order. The loyalty and patriotism of its members I never questioned to necessity for their organization. But I did give reasons why I considered that the writer of the original article had exaggerated their influence over our church, and alluded to their objection to ritual in divine service as a reason why so little is seen here as compared with church in England. What happens? For weeks no notice is taken of my letter, which appeared immediately after the article

Premier Expected To Announce Dissolution

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press).—Premier Mackenzie King is planning to make several speeches in Ontario following his speech at Richmond Hill in his own constitency of North York on Saturday next. The dates for the other speeches have not yet been finally arranged.

The expectation here is that Premier King will announce the dissolution of parliament in his Richmond Hill speech, and that it will be the keynote speech of the Liberal campaign.

American Prohibitionist Attends Geneva Conference Against Alcoholism and Bootlegging.

ONDON, Aug. 31. — United Press. — "Pussyfoot" Johnson, the American prohibitionist, is about to help the Turks dry up the Christians. He left here on Friday for Geneva, to attend an international conference against alcoholism and bootlegging, and thence will proceed to Constantinople.

"Our problem there isn't among the Moslems, who are total abstainers," said Johnson before departing, "but among the Christian people of of Turkey. Turks are trying to civilize the Christions—trying to get them away from the booze. I'm going to do what I can to help the Turks."

"Pussyfoot added that he had not given up England as a bad job.

"England is worth saving," he said, "and it will be saved yet. Just wait and see; things are immensely improved here already as compared with the pre-war conditions."

The imports were $817,000,000, a drop of $23,000,000 from the previous year. Exports of Canadian merchandise were $1,093,000,000, an increase of $27,000,000.

HOME AND BARN PREY TO BLAZE

Emily Man Loses Building and Stock When Lantern Explodes.

HENS AND PIGS BURN.

EAST EMILY, Aug. 31.—Fire originating with an exploding lantern on Saturday night completely destroyed the house and barn on the third line of Emily owned by Elmwood Faulkner. A number of pigs and about fifty hens were lost, together with machinery and hay.

The blaze is said to have started about nine o'clock, when the hired man was feeding the pigs by lantern light. The coal oil exploded, scattering fire quickly through the hay, which filled the barn. There was not much grain stored away.

In spite of willing efforts of neighbors the fire spread to the frame house, and by 11.30 both buildings were destroyed. The car, stored in the barn, was saved, as was most of the furniture from the house. Some of the thirty pigs escaped, but the survivors have not yet been counted.

The charges against two of the boys were withdrawn, the other two lads being convicted and given suspended sentences.

Two men were fined $10 and costs for being intoxicated in a public place on Saturday last.

Blames Clergy of United States For Collapse of Moral Code

(Contributed.)

The wave of crime that is sweeping over the United States should command the attention of the respecter of law and order in this country. A murder a day in a great city like Chicago and the daily records of daylight robberies all over the United States should be of supreme interest to the Canadian people. The fact that the majority of these criminals are young men between the ages of 17 and 25 is very significant. These crimes are no doubt due to a great variety of causes, but the unrecorded records of lesser offences by tens of thousands in the United States must be due to the lack of moral and religious training in the home, in the school and in the church.

Who Are Responsible for Crime?

Who are responsible for this lack of moral and religious teaching and how has it come to pass? That is the question the clergy of the United States must answer in the day of judgment, which is to-day and every day. The minority of clergymen can, no doubt, produce a record of devotion to duty, full of mercy and good fruits, and can call a cloud of witnesses, that they believe in and practice in their lives, pure religion and undefiled. They are the righteous that are the strength and salvation of the United States.

But there is still a more numerous class of clergymen who have turned their churches into political wire-pulling organizations to bring about moral reform by the force of law and legislation through Congress and their many legislatures. Wherever you go you can always find them. They dearly love the uppermost seats in the synagogues and greetings in the markets. They boast of the sky blue laws they have had passed. They take page after page out of the Bible and rip it to bits before a mob, they are unconsciously educating to be offenders. They boast of the money that has been given in trust for use in the works of the Master. They want a big organization and to do the work of the church in a big way with great big headlines, for the world to see that Rev. Doctor So-and-So is well advertised. They are always coming and going, ever creeping, intruding and climbing into the fold. Of other care they little reckoning make, than how to scramble at the shearer's feast and shove away the worthy bidden guests. Such are the blind, that lead the blind.

To such clergymen as these, the hungry sheep look, go home and find they are not fed, rot inwardly, and then foul contagion spreads. No question is made of their sincerity. They rejoice in their work. They love to be linked with governments and thrones. They number among their hosts the worldly and the proud. They rejoice in passing laws to oppress the common people. The instinct of force is a weed that grows rank in the shadow of their temple, climbs over it, possesses it, covers it, ruins and feeds on its decay.

Such is the indictment that a Canadian neighbor can make quite justly against his neighbor to the south. The great trouble is that these vast numbers of clergymen have no time to give to moral and religious teaching. They shamefully neglect their duty. They want to do things in a hurry and by passing a law. The fathers and mothers should be taught the duty they owe to their children. The children should be taught to respect the rights of others, to have sympathy for the sufferings of others, to honor their father and their mother, to respect their elders, to draw a line between mine and thine, and reverence and respect every inch of that line; to indulge in no excesses because it shortens life and degrades and narrows the soul; and to love their neighbors as themselves.

These politico-clergymen are the unworthy shepherds that lose so many sheep and lambs. Their neglect of their first duties is the cause—the chief cause—of the first offender going astray.

It is shocking in these days to see a clergyman with a revolver in his right hand, and with a policeman on his left, enforcing blue sky laws and trying by force of law to create in man a clean heart. Saul of Tarsus tried to do the same, but on his way to Damascus he saw a light to guide the erring on his way and show him what to shun.

If the young men of the United States are going to change their ways, then the clergymen who have turned their churches into political camps would be well advised to have these camps touched with a live coal from off a holy altar, and then they would see from the ashes produced where religion is a cloak and money is god.

The wave of crime in the United States can only be rolled back by sincere and honest practice and belief in the Christian religion in its purest and simplest form, that any child can understand. It has stood the test of two thousand years and has brought hope and consolation and comfort to the souls of millions. Then, why should not the kindly light be always held aloft in the encircling gloom by our clergy as a guide to the erring who are tempted to embark on the sea of crime?

The clergy of the United States will have to do something more than simply sing, "When He Cometh, When he Cometh, to Make Up His Jewels, etc."

MIDNIGHT SIGNALS WALKOUT THAT STOPS BREAD WINNING OF A HALF MILLION PEOPLE

Ten Thousand Railroad Men to Be Thrown Out of Employment.

KEEP PUMPS GOING.

Miners Demand Increased Rates, Check Off and Operators Object.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press.) — The widely heralded coal suspension in Northern Pennsylvania becomes effective at midnight. The stroke of twelve marks the expiration of the two year working contract of 158,000 mine workers who have been unable to agree with the mine owners upon its renewal and who decline to work until some renewal is negotiated.

The walkout will place a virtual padlock upon 828 rich mines. It will involve in addition to the bulk of the miners, a great number of their dependents. Those for whom bread winning accordingly stops, are estimated at 500,000. A skeleton force of about 8,000 maintenance men will remain in the pits by mutual agreement to prevent flooding.

Something like 10,000 railroad men are employed in the handling of coal shipments and in local shops and car repair work will probably be thrown out of work by the shut-down, according to word from the roads in the anthracite region.

No Disorder Expected.

The suspension will be practically 100 per cent. effective, operators and miners agree. The region has been thoroughly organized by the union and the handful of men the union has permitted its members to associate with despite the lack of union buttons is expected to quit as well.

Union officials contemplate no picketing, and the owners, so far as can be learned, are not importing non-union help.

The miners are demanding a ten per cent. increase in tonnage rates, $1 a day more for day workers, check off, two year contract, equalization of rates and other adjustments. The operators insist all demands must first absolve themselves of any likelihood of increasing production cost before they be given consideration.

Some human brains are three times as heavy as a gorilla's brain.

Coal Strike Will End In Reduced Fuel Cost

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press).—The strike which is scheduled to start in the anthracite fields tomorrow will have an unlooked for ending in the opinion of one observer here.

In previous coal strikes the public has always been the loser in the end. In the present strike, according to this novel but cheering prediction, the public will be the winner. The operators and miners will both be losers.

The result will be a reduction in the price of anthracite to the public, a revaluation downward in value of coal lands, and a big reduction in the number of miners who will find work.

TWO FIRES FOUND IN CHURCH NOTED FOR WAR ON RITUALISM BELIEVED WORK OF A FIREBUG

Acting Rector Discovers First When He Goes to Brew Tea.

KITCHEN IN BLAZE.

Crosses Stolen From Same Building Recently and Reward is Offered.

HAMILTON, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Two fires were discovered in St. Mark's Church during the night, and it is believed a deliberate attempt was made to burn the edifice. A fire was found in the kitchen of the church some time after the close of the evening service by the acting rector, Rev. H. A. Powell, and a couple of friends who went into the kitchen to brew a can of tea. This morning about 1 o'clock Mannis Raphael, when passing the church, saw smoke belching from the windows, and turned in an alarm. The firemen found a stubborn blaze again in the church kitchen, and put the fire out after a fight of half an hour. The damage is estimated at several hundred dollars. It is believed that the fire bug entered through the window.

A controversy over ritualism has been raging in St. Mark's for several weeks, with Rev. Mr. Powell as the opponent of any form of service which might show an Anglo-Catholic trend. A reward is now being offered for the crosses stolen from the church recently.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Following an argument over priority rights at the first tee of the Van Cortlandt Park golf course yesterday, Adolphe Sruda went to the hospital with a broken head and William Fuhrman to the police cells, charged with striking Sruda with a golf club.

WEEK END TOLL IS THREE DEAD

Two Were Drowned and One Killed By Motor in Windsor.

MAN TOOK POISON.

WINDSOR, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press)—Two persons were drowned and a third killed in an automobile accident during the week end. The dead are: Raymond Cousineau, 38, of Tampa, Florida; Vernon Gnau, 28, of Detroit, and Albert Leehart, Windsor. Daniel Crowley, aged 52, Windsor, is near death at the Hotel Dieu from swallowing poison.

Cousineau was killed yesterday morning in an auto accident. Gnau was drowned while fishing in the Detroit River when he fell out of the boat and young Leehart was drowned while bathing near the dock Saturday afternoon.

Despondent, Daniel Crowley, swallowed two bottles of belladonna last eevning in the bedroom of his home. His condition is serious.

City Man Stricken At Wheel of Auto; Dies in Hospital

Carman Gould Fatally Seized On Highway Near Peterborough—Housekeeper Escapes Injury When Car Runs Into Ditch—Auto Remained Upright.

LIVED ONLY AN HOUR AFTER STROKE.

While driving on the Provincial Highway, on his way to Toronto, yesterday evening, about seven o'clock, Carman Gould, 53, a mechanic at the Howson Garage, was stricken with heart failure, and died in the Nicholls Hospital about an hour later.

Gould, who had only one arm, was driving with his housekeeper, Mrs. Cadigan, near where Sherbrooke street crosses the highway when he felt weakness coming over him, and turned the key of the car. The automobile ran down into the ditch, which is quite deep at that point, but did not turn over. Mrs. Cadigan saw that he was running into the ditch and turned to tell him, when she noticed that he was unconscious. A doctor was called and the stricken man rushed to the hospital, where he died.

Mr. Gould had been in the employ of the Howson garage for about eight years, and previous to that he had been a salesman in tobacco stores in the city. At one time he had conducted a business of his own He was born in Brighton township, coming here from Colborne, and was of English descent. He was unmarried and is survived by one sister, Mrs. N. Montgomery of Toronto.

WEATHER

This is the last day of August, and a little survey of the weather conditions prevailing may prove of interest. The temperature during the day has averaged higher than usual, while the nights have been correspondingly cooler than usual. We had 6 days of 90 degrees or over. The two warmest days of the month (and of the year) were the 19th and 25th, when the temperature rose to 92 degrees The rainfall was short, and it is now greatly needed. On the 1st and 2nd, there was a good rainfall, namely .79 and .64 of an inch. On the 10th there was also a good shower, with .16. Two light sprinkles on the 13th and 14th made up the total for the month of 1.62. Sunday was another warm day, with 90 degrees in the shade. This morning the sky was overcast, and there apparently are bad bush fires raging somewhere in Eastern Ontario.

Many Japanese crabs attain a weight of more than 30 pounds.

BUSH FIRES HALTED AT EDGE OF MARMORA VILLAGE SUNDAY

Every Barrel and Pail in the Town Commandeered to Meet Emergency.

ALL NIGHT WATCH.

Blaze Sweeps Over Hundred Acres of Land Toward Village.

MARMORA, Aug. 31.—Bush fires which have been burning all the week at Marmora and which originated mysteriously in the refuse dump at the northern end of the village last Monday, proved more menacing on Sunday and caused quite a panic among the residents. The fire has up to the present, raged over more than a hundred acres of land, consuming good quality pine, balsam and cedar in its trail. The burnt territory is owned by the Pearce Company and Archie Jones. Through a shifting wind, various dwellings and farm buildings were threatened in turn. The fire travelled for a while in a northerly direction towards the farm of Alex. Quinn, a mile and a half out of the village. The home of M. Rylott, a mile north of Marmora, was also threatened for a time, and at another period, that of Thomas Ryan, at the north-eastern extremity of the village.

Bells Sound Alarm.

As the warning bells tolled forth yesterday from the Sacred Heart and St. Paul's Churches, practically all the villagers congregated around the fire belt. Horse wagons and motor trucks conveyed barrels and barrels of water. Every available pail and barrel in town was requisitioned.

The setting of a back fire in the early part of the afternoon safeguarded against a possible penetration into the village by way of the residences tenanted by Philip Revoy and James Nobes. The water system was utilized in the filling of barrels and worked very satisfactorily. A visit to the scene of devastation at 6.30 p.m. revealed smouldering fires which were being watched by guards stationed at the most threatened points, and William Holland's team was engaged in drawing water all night to meet emergencies.

FIRST CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL IN PETERBORO COUNTY IS BOAST OF APSLEY AS MINISTER APPROVES

Four School Sections Pool Resources — Election of Trustees September 19.

RECENT FROSTS.

Thermometer Dropped to 29 1-2 Degrees Friday Morning—Gardens Nipped.

APSLEY, Aug. 31. — A consolidated school for Apsley is now an assured fact. Mr. Spence has received word from the Department of Education to the effect that the Minister of Education has approved of the agreement for the consolidation of the four school sections that voted for the measure, namely, Nos. 2 and 7, Chandos, and Nos. 1 and 2, Burleigh and Anstruther, and has set Saturday, September 19, at two o'clock in the afternoon, for the election of a Board of Trustees for the consolidated section. Apsley now holds the proud position of being the first to adopt consolidation in the County of Peterboro. Other school sections are now taking up the question, and have approached the Revs. C. A. G. Spence and J. W. Ogden, who fathered the scheme here, with the view of having them address meetings in the near future.

Check Bush Fires.

Several bush fires during the week have engaged the fire rangers' attention, and due to their prompt and efficient exertions have been controlled. A force of thirteen men from Apsley and district battled on Sunday with a fire near the Depot Hill. Two were also reported at Gull Lake, one on the Ridge, and another at Paudash, while still another Saturday started near Cedar Lake.

Heavy Frost.

A heavy frost on Friday morning did considerable damage to corn and tomatoes. The thermometer registered 29½, and ice was seen on standing water.

A week ago Saturday morning ice was also seen, the thermometer registering 32.

BACKWARD AT SCHOOL
If your child does not make the progress at school that you think he should, do not always blame the child. Eye strain which often becomes real pain may cause the lack of interest on the child's part. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George St., phone 1160.

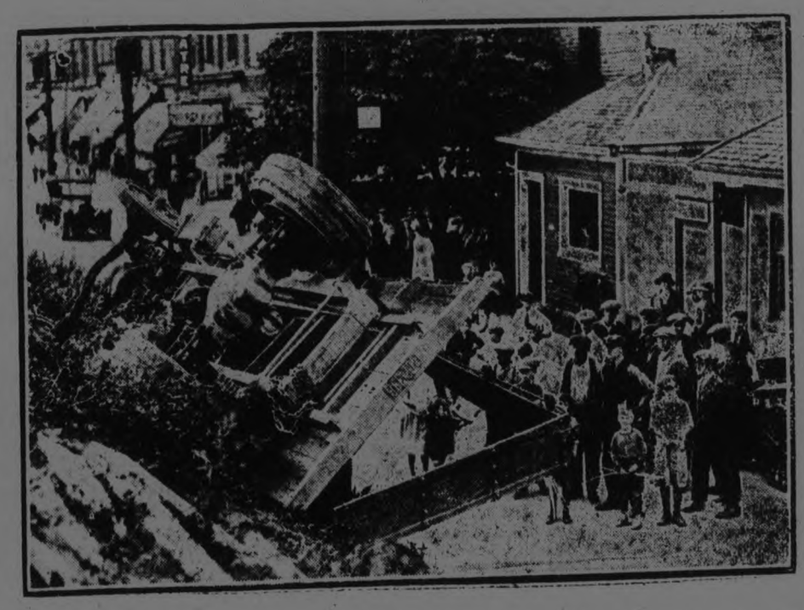
THE DRIVER ESCAPED WITHOUT A SCRATCH



When G. Lawson, Jr., was proceeding south on Main Street, Toronto, with his heavy truck, a street car was passing in the same direction alongside his machine. As he turned to the curb his steering gear became locked and the heavy truck went over the curb, rolled down the bank and became lodged against a pole. Although Lawson was pinned beneath the machine, he miraculously escaped without a scratch.

BEAT HIS WAY ACROSS A CONTINENT BORROWED GUN AND WON FIRST PRIZE

Horatio Alger in His Palmy Days Never Invented a More Interesting Fiction Tale Than This Odyssey of a 16-Year-Old Canadian, Maurice Humber.

Beating his way across the country to compete in the national trapshooting tournament at Chicago, securing third place against all comers from America in his class, capturing the preliminary event with a borrowed gun against many of the veteran stars of the nation and annexing the State championship of Montana on the range—such are the feats of Maurice Humber, the 16-year-old marvel with guns, and a native of Victoria, B. C.

Maurice was born in Victoria sixteen years ago and attended school at Sidney. He moved some years ago, with his parents and brothers, to the State of Montana, where he began a sensational career at the traps and range.

When Maurice was well under his teens, his father promised him a prize if he could enter high school and beat the record of his cousin, another Canadian lad. Maurice, who is as fond of books as he is of firearms, went ahead at his task. How well he succeeded is shown by school records, which list him as one of the youngest boys ever to enter the Butte high school. He was little more than 12 years old when he emerged from the grades, but the strain of overstudy undermined his health.

So nervous that he could scarcely place a pen in an ink well, the youth was forced to leave school and go under a physician's care. He was ordered to rest in the mountains, and there commenced the career that has made him nationally famous.

His rest home was in a cabin at Brown's Gulch, with Jack Ferry, trapper and old-timer. As Maurice began to regain his health, the trapper took him on hunting trips.

On April 1 of this year Maurice fired his first shot at a clay pigeon. It was during a registered shoot, and he finished with an average of 91.5 per cent. on 250 birds. He shot side by side with Rush Razee, well-known professional, and in several events broke even with the veteran.

A couple of years ago he made his first appearance on a rifle range, and today he holds such fancy records as 49 out of 50 rapid fire at 200 yards, and 47 out of 50 offhand shooting at the same distance. At the traps Maurice recently broke 49 out of 50 birds in practice, while numerous times he has had perfect strings of 20.

So He Went Anyhow.

Maurice, boy-like, was naturally eager to stack up against the finest shots on the continent. The Grand Western Handicap in Chicago would give him that opportunity. That was, if he could get to Chicago.

Several commercial concerns manufacturing ammunition offered to defray his expenses. But the boy rejected their offers as smacking of professionalism.

His father, though the family coffers were not bursting and all available funds could be put to immediate use, decided to try and raise the $300 which would be required to finance his son's trip.

"It'll cost too much, dad," he lad replied, when informed of his father's willingness to send him east. "I'll get there all right."

Maurice left home, beat his way across the country by riding on freight trains, and sleeping in box cars, a very remarkable contrast to his mode of travelling on his return. He did this in a Pullman car, with all the service he could wish.

A stranger in Chicago, and in that city for the first time in his life, this plucky 16-year-old youngster immediately got in touch with the secretary of the national shooting competitions on his arrival, and was directed to the trapshooting grounds.

Maurice secured a job, scoring, and later secured sufficient funds through winning prize money to enter the Grand Western Handicap.

Two days previous to taking part in the championship, young Humber went to look over the Lincoln Park traps. Senior marksmen, including most of the veteran stars of the continent, were putting in preliminary trophy races of their own. One old-timer took an interest in Maurice, whose gun had not yet arrived. The veteran entered him in the Class B trials for men, loaning the youngster a gun. Humber copped this preliminary event with the borrowed gun with a score of 92 out of a possible 100, and picked off a cash prize and a big silver loving cup.

Modesty of youth would have made him keep the trophy winning quiet, but the old-timer who backed the boy promptly wrote a letter to the lad's father explaining what he had done.

Maurice placed third in the national junior trapshooting tourniament. Away from home for the first time, he met the stiffest opposition in the land and finished just two below first place, his 88 being six below his average for the year. High winds wrought havoc with a number of the squads at the firing line, for some of the best known boy shots in the land failed to place, among them Bonner of New York, who won the championship for the past two years; Rimby, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mueller, of Chicago, Ill., tied for first place with scores of 90.

Returning from his successful expedition, Maurice went back to school, but still kept up practice on the traps. The annual trapshooting tournament for the State of Montana took place at Anaconda. Young Humber took part and captured the premier honors, winning the Butte Rod and Gun Club medal.

SMART FALL SUITS

"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus

SUSPICIOUS REPORTER AIDED IN ARREST OF YOUNG WIFE SLAYER

Impressed State's Attorney With Discrepancies in Dentist's Story.

HIS CONFESSION.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31. — The deliberate manner in which Dr. Thomas W. Young, Los Angeles society dentist, twisted the tourniquet of radio wire about his neck until he had garroted himself to death, was characteristic of the cold-blooded manner in which he murdered his beautiful young wife, Grace Grogan Young.

This city still shivers at the remembrance of the slaying by a deadly dental gas, somnoform, and the dry-eyed confession of Dr. Young of how he jokingly had his youthful step-son mix concrete to bury his mother's body in the bottom of a cistern.

It was on the night of February 21 last that Mrs. Young disappeared. Her father became worried after several days and approached Dr. Young. A search was started and the dentist became seemingly the most ardent in efforts to find his wife.

False Tale of Quarrel.

He employed a private detective and told him a story of how he and his wife had quarreled over a trivial incident in a roadhouse and how later that night she had disappeared from the Hotel Biltmore and had taken with her $100,000 in Liberty Bonds.

As the widow of Patrick Grogan California's "Olive King," she was heiress to $1,000,000.

Dr Young suggested she had gone to Paris.

But among the ardent searchers was a reporter, Otis M. Wiles. He was suspicious of the dentist's tale.

Day after day he tried to impress on the State's Attorney's Office and the detectives that there was something strange about the affair.

Later he had operatives go to the dentist, and then practically forced him to admit that his stories about her disappearance had been false.

Trapped Into Telling.

Finally, after hours of grilling, one of the investigators said:

"We have been digging in your cistern in Beverly Glen. Don't you think it's about time you told the truth?"

The dentist's face became ashen. He said:

"Yes, I am ready. Take me and get me a cup of coffee first."

The officers granted his request. They took him to a fashionable Broadway cafe, where the Saturday night crowds laughed gaily, not realizing the climax to a great tragedy was being enacted within its walls.

Selecting a booth, the party sat down and the dentist ordered apple pie with cheese, and a cup of coffee.

Amazing Confession.

Then he began to talk in a slow, deliberate way.

At the climax of his confession, which State's Attorney Keyes described as one of the most remarkable in the history of the State, Dr. Young cried out:

"Yes, I killed her! She slapped my face and broke my glasses. The blow stunned me and I flew into a frenzy.

"I remember nothing from then until I saw her body fall into the cistern. The next day I had her son, Charles, mix the cement — he not knowing what it was for—and we covered the body with this.

"He helped and did not dream of what he was covering."

He led the searching party to the place. At midnight he stood calmly at the edge of the cistern as they chopped away a foot of cement. First a hand protruded. Then the torso and limbs were revealed. The body was badly decomposed.

Glove in Her Mouth.

The dentist's rubber glove was found stuffed in her mouth. One eye had been knocked out.

More dramatic perhaps was the confession of Dr. Young than the grewsome recital of Loeb and Leopold, who murdered little Bobby Franks in Chicago.

Throughout the confession the wealthy dentist tried to convince his listeners that all his life he had been possessed with a "murder complex."

It was this uncontrollable desire to take human life to shed human blood, he insisted, that had caused him to murder his wife after they had been kissing each other in making up their quarrel.

Deliberation Admitted.

In his second confession, containing details, he contradicted his first story thus:

"I strangled her with somnoform, a heavy dental gas. I gave her Scotch whiskey until she got drowsy, drove her to our Beverly Glen cabin and then began giving her the gas. She stopped breathing. She was dead."

The authorities were convinced of two things. First, that Dr. Young had built the cistern merely as a "murder crypt." And second, that he had also planned to kill his step-son after the boy had come into possession of $1,000,000 he was to receive when he was twenty-one.

A supposed will was found in which the step-son left everything to Dr. Young.

The district in which the murder took place has become known as "The Canyon of Death." It was in Beverly Glen that J. Belton Kennedy was slain more than four years ago.

Wind Blew Tickets Away; Recaught Train By Taxi

There is a great lesson for the world at large in the recent actions of one Thomas Gilmore of Macomb, Illinois.

In the face of terrible odds, Mr. Gilmore struggled and won. The task he undertook seemed impossible, but he tackled it and succeeded.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore were sitting on a train which was rushing Californiawards. The conductor, as conductors do, requested their tickets. Mr. Gilmore was the soul of cordiality. He produced two lengthy strips and waved them in the wind for the benefit of all. Unfortunately he waved them in too much wind.

The breeze whisked the pasteboards out of his hand, out of the window, out of his sight. Mr. Gilmore promptly got off the train six miles from his starting point, close to the scene of the tragedy.

He walked back along the right of way and found the tickets in the weeds. Then hiring a taxicab he cut across country and re-caught the train he had left a short time ago.

This is success in one of its wildest forms.

SKELETONS PIQUE PALEONTOLOGISTS

Excavations in City Street Unearth New Subect for Contention.

A. W. FOLGER.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—(United Press).—Excavations for new construction on Calle Madero, the principal street of this city, may bring to light some interesting historical facts, and at least are certain to arouse the interest of paleontologists owing to the number of skeletons that have been unearthed by the workmen.

At first there was some talk of the bodies having been buried in the place by criminals of years ago, but on searching through the history of the city it has been found that the ancient tribes inhabiting the city before the coming of the Conquistadores buried many of their dead beneath the floors of their churches. It is not definitely known that a church stood on this spot, but this is one theory.

May Be Soldiers.

During the invasion of the American troops in 1847 a number of the native soldiers killed at Chapultepec were brought into the city and buried near the Alameda, the central park, which is only a block from the site of the present excavations. Also many citizens were buried near the same spot because of a pestilence that was sweeping the city at this time.

It is believed possible that the muck which forms the lower base on which the city rests might have moved about in such a manner as to transfer the skeletons from their original resting place.

So far little in the way of Indian relics has been uncovered by the excavators, but it is probable that they will chance on some of the former construction of the natives as the work continues.

MOUNT PLEASANT

MOUNT PLEASANT, Aug. 29—The harvesting in this locality is pretty well under way. Some farmers having nearly finished and a good crop is reported.

The young people of Ebenezeer put on a very good play entitled "Turning the Trick" in the hall on Thursday evening. It was largely attended.

Miss B. Lowes will soon be leaving to take up her duties in her new school at Myrtle and will be greatly missed by the young people of this section.

Miss Eveyln Fry of Lindsay has returned home after spending the past week at the home of her cousin Miss Viola McColl.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lowes were visitors to Peterboro on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Seawright of Peterboro accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert McColl and son, Jake, and Miss Eveyln Fry motored to Dunsford on Sunday and visited at the home of Mrs. McCall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCarrell.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bryans and Mrs. W. Bryans were business visitors to Peterboro on Saturday..

Among those from this vicinity who have gone to help in the Western harvest fields are: Messrs. A. Blande, E. MacLean, W. Bryans, W. Hunter and C. Clifford.

Orchard owners of the Niagara district of Ontario are considering equipping their orchards with electric lamps similar to those which have been found successful in New Jersey and elsewhere in combating the Oriental peach moth and other insect pests. These lights are hung fairly near the ground and beneath each is a large pan of kerosene oil or other liquid. When, after dark the electric lamp bulbs are lighted the moths fly for the light, become dazzled by it and fall into the liquid beneath. This kills them.

FRANCE SEEKS A SOLUTION FOR BIRTH PROBLEM

Two Million Surplus Women and Lack of Population Cause Despair.

FOREIGN MARRIAGES

Introduce Measure Repatriating Those Who Have Married Aliens.

By MINOTT SAUNDERS.

PARIS, Aug. 31. — (United Press).—"Marriage, ah, but it is droll!" said Mlle. Mistinguett, famous French dance-hall artiste, when asked her opinion about this world question.

But the question of marriage and especially that of its corollary—birth-rate—has become such a problem in France that it is no longer so "droll" as would appear from the light remark of the lady whose sprightly limbs attract so many thousands of Americans every year in gay Paree.

To combat the decreasing population of France, the French Government and French thinkers long have cudgeled their brains to find means of increasing the number of marriages. One of the newest plans is that which has been introduced in several forms of proposed measures in the Senate.

Encourage Foreign Marriages.

This plan, which is designed solely to stimulate marriages and would have no fundamental effect on the French population as such, is to preserve her nationality to the French woman marrying a foreigner, and would provide means for French women who have married foreigners to regain their original nationality. In case of war between the two countries involved, the woman would not be sent to an internment camp.

It is estimated that there is a surplus of 2,000,000 women, without the chance of marriage, unless they turn to foreigners. This and other questions involved in a complete revision of the laws pertaining to marriage probably will come up for discussion in the Senate and Chamber after the parliamentary vacations.

Since last December, "Marriage," a serious magazine devoted to the subject, has been conducting an investigation into the merits and demerits of marriages between French women and foreigners, with particular reference to Americans. It asked hundreds of public men, doctors, writers, actors, actresses, and others for their views. Those answering in the affirmative about equalled those replying in the negative, with a large number straddling the fence.

Mistinguett sees nothing against the union of a seductive French lady and a handsome American. In addition to her statement quoted above, she says: "I can tell you nothing since I never have been married, but I think that marriages of mixed nationalities can succeed —and can fail. The ideal in the marriage is the child."

Sad Examples.

Among those who perhaps have given more serious thought to the subject, Henry Kistemaeckers, well-known playwright, opposes, explaining he has seen too many "sad examples" of such marriages, although he admits there are foreigners and foreigners.

Francois-Marsal, former Premier of France, the man who turned Herriot from power, approves. "What better propagandists can La Belle France have abroad than her fair ladies?" he asks in effect. Doctors Henri Dufour and Paul Carnot approve.

Finally, Mlle. Cecile Sorel, well-known to the United States, approves in principle of such mixed marriages, but M. Dranem, celebrated Paris comedian, says he has been married only twice and that he must have a third try before answering.

ITALIAN TRADE SLUMP.

Slight Improvement to Adverse Balance Show Only in February.

ROME, Aug. 31.—(Associated Press).—Treasury department statistics show that the adverse trade balance, which in April, 1924, had reached 373,064,066 lire, mounted in January, 1925, to 708,446,218 lire. It improved slightly during February, and then slumped to 1,257,231,187 lire in April, 1925.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST

Beware, Madam

Don't Experiment with Your Good Complexion

Remember, no soap that is safe for toilet use will "remove" germs better than Palmolive

THERE'S a false idea going the rounds which, in the interest of fine complexions, we must combat . . . for your sake and for ours.

That is, that some soaps combat germs and others not. And that for aseptic reasons certain toilet soaps should be used.

That is wrong. Don't believe it if it is told to you. Good complexions are too precious for experiment.

Soaps to "destroy germs" should be used only on the advice of a physician. And for beauty's sake, remember this important fact:

The true difference in soaps is in their effect on your skin. All soaps "remove germs" to a certain degree. No soap suitable for toilet use will remove germs better than Palmolive. Why then take chances with a good complexion?

In old days, you were told, "use no soaps on your face." For all soaps were too harsh. Then Palmolive came. A soap made of cosmetic oils. A soap made to be used lavishly on the skin.

Women tried it and were amazed. Palmolive became the leading toilet soap in the world. In France itself, home of cosmetics, Palmolive is supplanting French soaps.

Palmolive is a scientific soap. A soap made for one purpose only: to foster and safeguard good complexions. When asked to try harsh ways, beware.

Palmolive is not the only fine toilet soap. We know of two others that compare favorably. But they cost you 25 cents, while Palmolive costs but 10 cents . . . no more than ordinary soaps. Enormous production brings you this modest price.

Wash, launder, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake, take care. Use Palmolive, a soap you know is safe to use. It is nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

Soap from Trees

The only oils in Palmolive Soap are the soothing beauty oils from the olive tree, the African palm and the coconut palm—and no other fats whatsoever.

That is why Palmolive Soap is the natural color that it is—for palm and olive oils, nothing else, give Palmolive its green color!

Note carefully the name and wrapper. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

CONFERENCE ON CHILD WELFARE IS LARGEST YET

Workers From Halifax to Victoria Will Meet in Ottawa.

FAMILY DESERTION

One of Most Vexing Problems to be Discussed at Meetings.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—What promises to be the most successful conference on child welfare that has yet been convened in Canada is the Fifth Canadian Conference on Child Welfare, to be held here for four days, commencing Sept. 28. Detailed attention will be given to many of the most practical problems facing the average Canadian community today, and every subject is being handled by an expert in the field. Noted child welfare workers and experts from Halifax to Victoria are on the program.

What is the small community to do with its dependent and neglected children? Judge Ethel MacLachlan of Regina, who has worked out the problem in a practical manner in the rural districts of Saskatchewan, will discuss the subject. Is it a neglected child that needs care? No one can discuss the problem more comprehensively than E. H. Blois of Halifax. Or is the problem created by a juvenile immigrant alone in a Canadian community? A. P. Paget, chief of Manitoba's child Gill University, Montreal; "Child Guidance Clinics," by Dr. W. T. B. welfare administration, will have constructive suggestions to make in this field.

The problem of handling dependent children in the highly-organized city community with its social agencies and institutions will be taken up by R. E. Mills of the Children's Aid of Toronto and Miss Violet Lafleur of the Children's Bureau, Montreal, who will describe how two large cities are meeting this need.

Family Desertion Delete If Necessary Problem.

One of the most vexing of present social problems is that of family desertion. Joseph Woolf of the Toronto Federation of Jewish Philanthropies will discuss the lines of family work that tend to prevent the problems of domestic relations reaching this stage. W. L. Scott of Ottawa will speak of the legislation existing in Canada, dealing with this and related problems. G. B. Clarke of the Montreal Social Agencies will treat of the possibilities of rehabilitating the family group when disaster has overtaken it.

An increasingly important question in country districts today is the provision of medical and nursing services of these rural sections. Dr. W. J. Bell, Deputy Minister of Health for Ontario, will open discussion on this subject. Miss Smellie, the executive head of the Victorian Order for Canada, and Dr. F. Routley of the Red Cross will also describe constructive plans for this problem. Miss J. Woods of the Toronto Health Department will present the contribution to the clinic to the treatment of the situation.

Other subjects to be treated in a practical manner include: "Essentials of Normal Childhood—Physique," by Dr. A. S. Lamb of McGill University, Montreal; "Child Guidance Clinics," by Dr. W. T. B. Mitchell of Montreal, and "Protecting and Improving the Health of School Children," by Miss R. M. Simpson, director of school hygiene at Regina.

Spiritual development of the child will be treated of in a series of addresses by members of the Religious Education Council of Canada and others. Social hygiene and child welfare, the child and tuberculosis, mental hygiene and child welfare, are other subjects. The conference concludes with an address by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States.

Jolly Earl Did It First Away Back In Early 1888

Baron Byng is not the first member of the English nobility to visit the far north, although he is the first governor-general who has done so. Away back in 1888 a memorable journey was undertaken by the Earl of Lonsdale—who because of his sporting proclivities has been styled "the Jolly Earl," "the Yellow Earl" and "the Costers' Earl"—about which he still talks to his intimates.

Leaving Winnipeg in the month of December, he traveled by dog sleigh up the Athabasca to Great Slave lake, and then down the Mackenzie river to its mouth. During this trip he was told by Indians of the presence of gold in what was afterwards the Yukon, and he sent a report to Lord Stanley of Preston, then governor-general; but it was nearly a decade after before the great rush to the Klondike.

From the Mackenzie Lord Lonsdale took a winter and went down the channel between Bankland and Melville land across to Bathurst island and then on to Lowther island, named after one of his ancestors who had been in the service of the Hudson's Bay Company a century or more before.

The earl is reported to have considerable investments in western Canada, though some of them have not added to his wealth.

CANADA'S NATIONAL EXHIBITION.

The Canadian National Exhibition—more commonly known as the "Toronto Ex."—is in full swing, and the people of Ontario generally, indeed Canadians in all parts of the Dominion, will wish the world's greatest annual fair a record-breaking two weeks.

The Exhibition is indeed a national affair now, and the whole Dominion looks upon it with pride as a demonstration of what Canadian initiative and driving power and ability can achieve.

There is nothing quite like it on the face of the globe, no annual exhibition that approaches it in value of plant and permanent buildings, in the extent of its exhibits or in its special entertainment features.

Year by year it has grown greater until what was regarded a decade ago as a triumph of achievement has long since been surpassed.

With a total attendance of a million and a half, with visitors from all parts of Canada and many of the States of the neighboring Republic, with an array of special displays such as were not even dreamed of a few years ago, the Canadian National Exhibition is one of the wonders of the age, and far from feeling any jealousy over that fact, the whole Dominion rejoices that Canadians have been able to register such a tremendous triumph.

DANGEROUS CONDITIONS.

Bush fires have been causing much trouble in this district, as in many other parts of Ontario, and the conditions are such in the woods as the result of the prolonged dry spell that calls for especial care.

The bush becomes like tinder, and once let a fire get started there is no telling how far or how quickly it will spread.

And it is an easy matter under the conditions that have existed for the last two weeks to start a disastrous fire.

Campers and hunters and all who have occasion to visit the woods should, therefore, redouble their vigilance.

Cooking fires should be made as small as possible, built away from mossy ground if at all feasible, and under no circumstance should be left untended.

Care should be taken to make sure that every last spark of fire is extinguished before the camp site is left, and at the same time smokers should be on the qui vive lest carelessness in disposing of their cigarette ends, matches or the hot ashes from their pipes should cause a blaze of dangerous proportions.

Canada pays much too heavy a bill each year for fire waste, and the danger is always greatest when there has been a drought of long duration.

Safety first should be the watchword in the woods these days.

MODERN PROBLEMS.

The double menace of death from motor cars or at the hands of a murderer is becoming so great in some of the cities across the border that the death rate soon promises to be greater than that of the United States army in the World War.

Statisticians have been calculating that a citizen of any one of a number of cities in the Republic has about the same chance of being murdered or killed in an automobile accident as had an American soldier of losing his life in the war against Germany.

Canadians are inclined to place the responsibility for the great number of homicides to a lax administration of the law and the ease with which killers seem to evade severe punishment for their crimes.

It is a problem about which there is not much concern in this country.

The motor car death roll is a different matter.

Canadians have become an automobiling people.

Three thousand motor cars are owned in and around Peterboro, and the number is constantly increasing, creating new traffic problems over night.

In larger centres the situation is becoming acute, the problem of directing traffic, providing parking facilities for cars, trying to reduce the number of accidents proving a constant source of worry to civic authorities.

The automobile has brought a lot of pleasure into the world—but it has added plenty of trouble, too.

BAND CONCERTS.

The citizens of Peterboro are indebted to the officers of the Peterboro Rangers and to the members of the regimental band for a series of enjoyable concerts during the summer, culminating with last evening's very much appreciated programme in Victoria Park.

The band has provided some splendid music during the concert season, and there will be regret on the part of many citizens that the series has been concluded.

Incidentally, the attendance at the Sunday evening concerts that have been given by the Rangers' Band leaves no doubt as to the popularity of band concerts on Sunday.

The Examiner was of the opinion early this summer that a mistake had been made in not recognizing the wishes of the majority of citizens in this regard, and the very large concourse of people in attendance at the Sunday concerts arranged by the band on its own initiative has strengthened that opinion.

Next year when the band music question is again to the fore it should be remembered that the average attendance at the Sunday concerts during 1925 was twice, if not three times, as large as the average for week night programmes.

Since the people have shown that they want Sunday concerts, and the band itself has shown a desire to play on Sunday, there should be no obstacle in the way of arranging a regular series of Sunday concerts next summer.

CANADA'S RAILWAY PROBLEM.

The attempt of the Montreal enemies of public ownership to represent the National Railway system as a white elephant which will in the near future eat the taxpayer out of house and homestead, is a most disingenuous one, says the Globe. The huge interest payments that must come from the Dominion Treasury—in default of sufficient railway earning power to meet them—go to private investors in Canada, Great Britain and the United States, who advanced almost a billion dollars for the construction of the Grand Trunk, Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern Railways. The struggle between these privately owned railways, especially in the race to the Pacific, cannot be laid at the door of public ownership. The people of Canada might have stood aside, as the people of the United States invariably do when a railway goes to smash through the vaulting ambition of its directors, and let the private investors lose their capital. It was out of investment on so colossal a scale during the war, and the financial chaos of post-war conditions might have done more than a billion dollars' worth of injury to the Canadian people.

We must now face the inescapable fact that these former obligations of privately owned railways have become either direct or indirect obligations of the Canadian Treasury, and must be met, unless Canada is to become a defaulting debtor. That is unthinkable. Nor is it to be thought of that the taxpayers shall retain the great burden of the National Railway debt and hand the railway itself over to the C. P. R. for operation as a private monopoly, with a guaranteed dividend to C. P. R. stockholders of 10 per cent. yearly forever. If we must keep the debt we shall keep the railway also, in the hope that, as population thickens along the National lines, the annual deficit will be reduced to the vanishing point. The fine harvest East and West will give both railways a much better freight revenue during the fall and winter than they had a year ago. There are reports of increases in recent weeks of from 8 to 15 per cent., and harvest freight has scarcely begun to move. Let us not forget that, per ton per mile, freight in Canada is moved more cheaply than anywhere else in the world. The shipper has some advantage from the plight of the taxpayer. And low freight rates eventually confer benefits, in the lesser cost of commodities, on the entire body of Canadian citizenship.

WORK FOR BOYS BEGUN.

Ontario's new training school for boys who have shown tendencies toward unruliness or waywardness may be said to have begun its work. The school, which is situated on three hundred acres of land near Bowmanville, was given a staff a short time ago and has been equipped to accommodate a certain number of boys. It will in the near future have dormitory space for a larger number, together with administrative offices, school rooms, workshops, a gymnasium, playing fields and a swimming pool. It has now received its first inmates, a party of sixteen lads.

The school, in the foundation of which Premier Ferguson has taken a keen interest, will be managed on lines laid down in the Boys' Welfare Act, passed by the Legislature of the Province at its last session. That statute was designed to make possible co-operation between the Government, public and philanthropic organizations and individuals. Already there has been such co-operation in the establishment of the training school. One of the two farms that constitute the institution's site was presented by a private citizen; the other was purchased by the Government. Furthermore, a number of organizations have approved of the foundation of the school and promised it their support. The statute enacted by the Legislature provided for the appointment by the Government of a board of thirty members to be known as "The Boys' Welfare Board of Ontario." That Board has charge of the Bowmanville school, and may accept gifts of real or personal property from municipal councils, bodies incorporated for educational, charitable or philanthropic purposes or individuals. It will hold the position of a guardian towards every boy in the school so long as he remains there, and is empowered to fix the age at which, and the conditions under which boys may be admitted to the home, the period during which a boy may be kept there, and the conditions under which he may leave the establishment. The task of the Board and the staff of the school is to give boys committed to their care a correct view of life and fit them to earn their own living as law-abiding citizens. Yet the school is to have none of the characteristics of a jail or prison. There, Dr. G. Elmore Reaman, the superintendent, has said, boys will earn privileges by good conduct and lose them by misbehavior, and an effort will be made to make the lads feel that they are receiving fair and square treatment. The young inmates will devote time to study in the class rooms, and will be given a chance to gain a knowledge of the nature of work on the farm and in trades of a number of types. They will be encouraged to decide what kind of work they would like to do, and, having done so, they will be trained by specialists in that work. In addition, they will be enabled to engage in outdoor sports.

Underlying the system is a belief in the possibility of preventing most boys who have been found difficult to manage, or even have to come into conflict with the law, from becoming criminals by placing them in healthful surroundings and under good influences, by encouraging them to control themselves and by enabling them to learn a congenial and lawful way of earning a livelihood. This belief has been justified, it has been asserted, by results attained in the Borstall Institutions in Great Britain. Those institutions are for the training of young offenders between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one years. The Ontario school will probably admit younger boys. It will more closely resemble the Shawbridge institution in Quebec, that is administered by a board of eighteen prominent men in Montreal. One of those business men, Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has said that observation by experts at Shawbridge of the development of individual boys and the application of measures to correct individual delinquency have proved most valuable. He has also asserted that "proper housing, decent living conditions plus wholesome outdoor sports, are potent factors in bringing a boy back to normal."—Mail and Empire.

A THOUGHT.

BUT THE MAN WHO CAN ACCOMPLISH THIS.

There is nothing more discouraging than physical enfeeblement.

A sick man's activity or possibilities for right reasoning, is handicapped. His exercise of reflection is in a sling, and so far as his imagination goes, it is hog-tied.

When a man's body is weak, his source of mental supply is often sickly.

The intrepid will of the arduous achievers, commonly called the "Winners," has been with very few exceptions, that of men of p - rful physical resistance.

But how we do admire the man who is weak physically but strong mentally, who fights against odds. odds.

And the man who can accomplish this is often a stronger man than the physically powerful man.

ENGLAND PROCEEDS WITH DEVELOPMENT

Scale of Local Improvements Larger Than Ever Before Attempted.

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Aug. 31.— (United Press).—Despite her crushing war debts and stagnation in industry England is spending money on national economic equipment on a scale never before approached in her history.

American visitors who arrive in London thinking of England as almost financially prostrate view with the utmost astonishment the external evidences of enormous expenditures that the government is putting into public improvements and government-owned monopolies.

No less are they amazed at the confidence with which private capital is pouring equally vast sums of money into the rebuilding of the heart of London and the extension of her environs far beyond limits even dreamed of a few years ago.

Regent street which runs through the very center of London from Piccadilly Circus to Oxford Circus in the last three years has been torn down and rebuilt with modern shops and office buildings practically in its entirety. Tens of millions of dollars have gone into this one development alone.

Rapid Development.

But it is one item only in a vast program of rebuilding that is now in progress in the central business districts, and also in many of the outlying centres. Meanwhile the development of residential districts in the suburbs goes on at a pace that is unprecedented in the long history of London. Old established suburbs are pushing out their boundaries years beyond the limits of their previously anticipated growth, and around newly established stations on the fast suburban lines entirely new communities are springing into a mushroom like existence.

As instancing the way that the government is spending money on the economic equipment of the British Isles items announced to the press only a few days apart cite one appropriation of $170,000,000 for the repair of existing roads and the creation of new ones to start immediately and to extend over a period of several years.

Another $150,000,000 appropriation for the improvement and further development of the telephone system of the country to be spent in the next three years has just been submitted to the House of Commons. This system, as is also the telegraph system is owned by the British government.

Huge Wireless Station.

Nor is the British government backward in the expenditure of funds for the advance of the science of wireless communication and is now constructing one of the largest and most powerful stations in the world near Rugby, England. The aerials of the new station will be supported by 12 masts two of which will be 820 feet high and will be the tallest in England if not in the world. The total expenditure on the Rugby station including the power plant will be approximately $2,000,000.

This perfecting of her economic equipment goes ahead hand-in-hand with even greater expenditures in the development of the resources of England's colonial possessions. It goes on in spite of items of expense since the war of more than $2,000,000,000 paid back to the American government in interest and principal on war debts; $800,000,000 paid out since 1918 in unemployment benefits; $1,000,000,000 more in the work of the industrial rehabilitation of the war wounded; goes on in spite of widespread unemployment and an unsatisfactory trade balance.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—With the exception of a few sales of American malting barley at 79 cents per bushel, c.i.f., the export trade on the Montreal market Saturday was inactive owing to the indifferent attitude of foreign buyers. The trade in cash grain on spot was also slow and the market was quiet, but steady.

The flour market was without any special feature to note, business being quiet and prices unchanged.

Prices for all grades of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand. A steady feeling prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats.

QUEBEC BUTTER AUCTION

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—The offerings of butter at the Quebec Federated Co-operative Society Auction sale held last week amounted to 2,800 packages, as compared with 2,800 for the previous week, and 4,350 packages for the same week last year. The prices realized were 38 1-8c per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized creamery, and 37 1-8c per lb. for No. 1 creamery which was 7-8c per lb. below the previous week, but they were 2 5-8c to 3c higher than the corresponding date last year. At the country boards last week prices were 1-8c to 3-8c per lb. lower at 36 3-4c and 36 7-8c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (Canadian Press. — Bearish sentiment prevailed and prices registered a sharp decline on the wheat market here today. Favorable weather in the United States Northwest, improved crop condition abroad, together with steadily increased movement of grain from the interior, combined to operate against the constructive side. Closing quotations were 1 1-2 to 2 3-8 cents net lower for wheat. September at $1.53 1-2 to $1.54, and December at $1.53 1-8 to $1.53 1-4; corn 1-8c up to 1-4c down, with September at 92 1-2 to 92 5-8c oats 1-8 to 3-8c decline, and provisions 2c to 22c higher.

"Based on reports from Washington, the wheat crop in twenty-two countries is placed at 66,000,000 bushels in excess of last year. Bullish sentiment seems to have stimulated the market heretofore by the belief that the United States was virtually on a domestic basis this year, but now many are of the opinion that even though the surplus is small, it will be necessary to dispose of considerable of it to keep prices up.

ENGLAND FINDS UNEXPECTED REVERSES IN RECENT RETURN TO GOLD STANDARD

Caused Price Drop in All Commodities Sold—Hit Coal Industry.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(United Press).—England is beginning to question seriously the wisdom of her return to the gold standard.

There is a growing disposition by politicians, economists and editorial writers to blame the economic ills under which the country labors, and especially the alarming depression in the coal industry, upon the return of the pound to par.

J. M. Keynes, well-known economist, for instance, in a pamphlet just issued called "The Economic Consequences of Mr. Churchill," (Mr. Churchill was the foremost advocate of the return to the gold standard) declares:

Caused Price Drop.

"The policy of improving the foreign exchange value of sterling up to its pre-war value in gold iron being about 10 per cent. below it, means that whenever we sell anything abroad, either the foreign buyer has to pay 10 per cent. more in his money or we have to accept 10 per cent. less in our money. That is to say, we have to reduce our sterling prices for coal or iron or shipping freights, or whatever it may be, by 10 per cent. to be on a competitive level, unless prices rise elsewhere. Thus the policy of improving the exchange by 10 per cent. involves a reduction of 10 per cent. in the sterling receipts of our export industries."

Co-incidentally with the publication of Mr. Keynes pamphlet Sir Josiah Stamp, another famous economist, has given to the Court of Inquiry which is investigating the causes of unemployment in the mining industry a memorandum which constitutes a severe indictment of the Government's decision to return to the gold standard.

After tracing the increasingly bad situation into which the industry has found itself slipping in the last four or five months, the memorandum continues:

"One could only assume that on the introduction of gold standard such responsible persons in a position to judge would be confident that the real 'step down' was not too severe a jolt for industry. Even in February last it was obvious to me that if the true gap between the American gold price levels and the British sterling was substantial the attainment of the gold standard would be won at a material immediate cost to industry, and that even this preparatory step would cause a painful reaction.

"However, at the time of the actual introduction of the gold standard, it might well be assumed that those on whose advice the change would be taken were in a position to know the monetary influences at work, and knew enough about the real extent of necessary delation to make any such fears, based on less wide information, groundless. But recent weeks have increasingly indicated that such an assumption must have been ill-founded, and that a considerable measure of inflation was in fact involved."

Coal Industry Hit.

Sir Josiah then tells why the coal industry, in which the margin of profits are small, was necessarily the first industry to be hit, and the hardest hit to date. He concludes:

"There would appear to be no way in which the competitive position of coal prices can be restored unless and until either the costs in this country are reduced or the gold costs of the other competitive markets are raised either by gold inflation there, or by less efficiency, shorter hours and higher wages abroad."

While Sir Johiah confined his observations largely to the effect of the return of the gold standard on the coal industry, Mr. Keynes in the conclusion of his pamphlet, declares:

"The plight of the coal miners is the first, but not—usless we are very lucky—the last of the economic consequences of Mr. Churchill."

ATLANTIC FLIGHT HAS BEEN DELAYED

Notice Not Given of Competition For $25,000 Prize Offered.

PARIS, Aug. 29—(United Press).—The proposed non-stop flight of Francois Coli and Paul Tarascon from Paris to New York, originally scheduled for the end of August, has been postponed.

It was said that the men would not attempt to make the crossing before November, since Raymond Orteig, New York hotel man, for whose 25,000 prize they will compete, stipulates that they shall give a two months' notice before starting. No notice had been given to cover a start at this time.

Is there a Price Tag on your Boy?

Not now perhaps. For of course no amount of gold could buy him from you. But wait—

The years will pass quickly. He will go out into the world some day to earn his living. Then the world will ruthlessly put a price tag on him—on your boy.

The world will ask him what he can do. And his earning capacity—his future comfort and happiness—will depend on his education.

You're planning for that, of course. But, would those plans miscarry in case you are not here?

BRITONS IN BUENOS AIRES DINED PRINCE IN HALL COMMEMORATING THE VISIT OF HIS FATHER IN 1881

Hospitality of Argentines and Sportsmanship of Polo Team Extolled By Prince.

REMEMBERS WELSH.

Sends Greetings to Little Colony He Is Unable to Visit.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The British colony had the Prince of Wales as their guest of honor at a banquet Saturday night on the eve of the conclusion of his official stay in Buenos Aires. The banquet was held in Prince George's Hall, a handsome building erected by the British residents in commemoration of the visit of King George as a young prince in 1881.

Most of the speeches paid tribute to the traditional virtues of the British race and the friendly relations between the two countries as evidenced by the celebration of the centenary of the treaty of amity and commerce. But the Prince devoted much of his talk to sports and sportsmanship and the skill of the Argentine polo team.

He spoke also of the generous hospitality of Argentine and made special reference to the Welsh colony at Chubut, "who," he said, "have maintained their national traditions and to whose members I send my best wishes and an expression of sincere regret that I have been unable to visit distant outposts of the principality."

The British Minister, Sir Beilby F. Alston, who proposed the toast to the Prince of Wales, declared that President De Alvear and his Government could not have done anything better calculated to please both countries than to extend an invitation to the Prince to visit Argentina.

STAGE ALL SET FOR STRIKE BY MINERS TO-NIGHT

Anthracite Production Ceases at Midnight—Miners Will Not Post Pickets.

NO TROUBLE FEARED.

Tie-up of 828 Mines in Pennsylvania Will Be Complete.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31—Strike headquarters of the anthracite miners will be maintained at the Bellevue Stratford in this city, after the 158,000 men suspend work in the hard coal districts to-night at midnight.

John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers, and head of the Scale Sub-Committee of six members that will direct the strategy of the workmen in their struggle with the mine owners, will maintain his headquarters at the hotel, whence he issued the strike order last Thursday.

The headquarters staff assisting Mr. Lewis will include Philip Murray, International Vice-President of the union; Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, and spokesman for the union officials, and the clerical staff of the President.

At 437 Chestnut Street, the offices of Samuel D. Warriner, veteran leader of the mine operators in previous anthracite wars, the operators will establish their headquarters, directing their battle from there and at the larger mine centres through the State.

Miners Not to Picket.

The miners announced that they would not picket the mines. They have no fear of any attempt on the part of the operators to work the mines with non-union labor. They point out that the tie-up of the 823 anthracite mines of the State will be complete, with the more than 95 per cent. of union miners joined in the walk-out by the few non-union workers, who cannot stay in the mines because of their inability to keep them functioning properly.

The operators announced that a force of non-union guards would be employed to watch the mines during the strike.

Both sides anticipated no trouble at this time because of the guards. The absence of pickets is counted on to avert any clashes.

Business men throughout the anthracite districts, while despondent that the attempts to avert the strike were fruitless, are not yet worried to any great degree. If the strike is short, as many of them profess to believe it will be, they feel that its effects will not be felt materially by business in the mining towns.

Strikers Have Reserve Cash.

They point out that striking miners are no longer penniless after the first week. Most of them, especially the married men, have bank and savings accounts built up in two years of steady work. A general mine strike is the signal for tremendously increased mercantile business for the first few weeks of a strike, the merchants say. The miners buy clothes and furniture, paint and repair their houses, attend theatres, smoked during daytime when they would normally be working, where they cannot smoke, consequently boosting the sale of cigars and tobacco.

But despite this quickening of their businesses for a short time, the merchants know that the prosperity is short-lived and false at bottom, because the miners are earning nothing and producing nothing. They know that industries dependent upon mine business and mine supply houses will soon shut down and throw additional men into idleness. They know that the circle of unemployment becomes cumulative and vicious.

The business men of the districts are worried also over the threatened invasion of the West Virginia soft coal producers into the best anthracite markets. From the Pennsylvania soft coal coal fields they hear the reports of the schemes of the operators there to make a bid for anthracite business.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE BROADENING OUT

Sunday Developments Threatened to Involve Atlantic Liners.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.) — The seamen's strike which heretofore has only slightly affected the British ports, took a new and serious turn to-day, threatening to involve the trans-atlantic liners.

A mass meeting of the seamen was held here this afternoon and decided to refuse to sign on except at the old rate of wages. A strike committee was formed and the men present pledged themselves to approach other seamen with the object of bringing about a general strike. Another meeting ill be held to-morrow.

SUGAR INDUSTRY AFFECTED.

BRISBANE, Queensland, Australia, August 31. (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's.) — Apart from the serious inconvenience which has been caused to the whole state by the strike of 18,000 railwaymen, the tie-up of the railways is having an especially bad effect on the sugar industry. Thousands of tons of sugar cane awaiting shipment to various factories have deteriorated and become unfit for use.

38 VESSELS HELD.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's.) — It is estimated that 33 vessels representing cargoes valued at about 600,000 pounds, are held up in Australian ports by the unofficial strike of British seamen.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

Merchant Chosen By Party in Glengarry.

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—At a nomination for Glengarry County held here Saturday Archie John MacDonald, merchant of North Lancaster, was chosen as the Liberal standard-bearer for the forthcoming Federal elections. Mr. MacDonald contested the county in the Liberal interests in the Provincial elections of 1919, when he was defeated by the U.F.O. candidate.

TORONTO MAN'S BODY FOUND IN OTTAWA RIVER

Had Been Missing Three Days—Relative Suspicious of Foul Play.

BRUISES ON HEAD.

W. E. Moor Had No Family Worries—Carried Large Sum of Money.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press.) — Missing from the Russell Hotel since Wednesday afternoon the body of William E. Moor was found floating in the Ottawa river near the Queen's Wharf shortly after noon on Saturday.

Mr. Moor, who hailed from Toronto, had been in Ottawa for some days in the interests of the Vulcas Asphalt and Supply Co., Limited, Toronto. He was putting a pavement in at Young street school.

His brother-in-law, H. M. Featherston, Ottawa, who was the last to see him, suspects that Mr. Moor met with foul play of some kind as he was in the habit of carrying considerable money with him. His effects at the hotel, when taken over by Mr. Featherston, had a large sum of money in them, and Mr. Featherston thinks that Mr. Moor must have had a sum on him when he disappeared.

Nothing was found in the pockets of the clothes that Moor had on beyond an unposted letter and a note book.

Will Hold Inquest.

He was not a drinking man, states Featherston, and although he suffered from slight paralysis on one side of his face, he was in good health, had no physical or financial worries, was unmarried, and therefore had no domestic worries.

Coroner Dr. J. E. Craig examined the body and decided that an inquest will be necessary.

While there are no definite marks on the body to uphold the theory of foul play there are several bruises on the head, which may be those inflicted by a sand-bag or simply bruises a body would get floating amongst the logs and other river obstructions.

NEW WHEAT IS OF LOW GRADE

Only Five Cars Out of Fifty-two Graded Number One.

PREMATURELY RIPE.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press) — The new crop wheat reports are disappointing as regards grade. Of 52 cars on record in Saturday's inspection sheet only five graded No. 1 northern and less than half in the three top grades. This early wheat is probably stuff that ripened prematurely and the quality may improve when the real movement begins. A half million bushels of new wheat were loaded Saturday.

HOLD BACK BROKE.

Horse Then Kicked Buggy, Injuring Occupants.

EAST EMILY, Aug. 31 — The many friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Max McCauliffe are sorry to learn of their accident last Thursday night when they were driving home from Ennismore lawn social with their horse and buggy. Coming south over Mr. Ned Hickey's hill, the hold back of the harness broke and let buggy run up in the horse which started to kick, breaking the buggy quite a bit. It also kicked Mr. McCauliffe pretty badly but he managed to jump out over the back of the buggy, taking the two kiddies with him. Mrs. McCauliffe remained in the buggy until she came nearly to Frank hill school and she managed to jump out but had a bad gash in her leg.

Mr. McCauliffe was confined to his bed for a number of days.

HORSES UPSET LOAD OF MILK

Four Were Hurt When Team Ran Away With Heavy Wagon.

HORSES INJURED.

ORLAND, August 31 — George Hughes, employed by Arthur Chatten, was driving to Cedar Creek Cheese factory this morning with a load of milk when his team ran away. When they met Frank Bitte's automobile, the horses ran into the bank and upset the wagon. The wagon and the milk cans were thrown on top of Hughes and three of Mr. Chatten's' children, all under twelve. Hughes was picked up for dead, but was only unconscious and was taken off. One of the children suffered a broken leg and all were badly cut and bruised. Dr. H. Clarke of Brighton attended the children, who were taken home.

After the wagon overturned, the horses broke away and ran on down the road. Catching up to Philip Crosjene, they tried to climb into the back of his wagon, and he was successful in stopping them. He took them back to the factory, where it was found that the horses were also badly injured.

BARN IS DESTROYED DURING THRESHING

Farmer Severely Burned Trying to Extinguish Flames.

LINDSAY, Aug. 31.—(Special).—A disastrous fire occurred on the farm of Mr. Levi Westcott, who resides in Brock, near the Victoria County boundary, on Friday evening, when his large barn was totally destroyed, together with the contents. Threshing operations were in progress, and it is believed that a gasoline engine, used to operate the blower, was responsible for the fire. Mr. Westcott endeavored to extinguish the fire in its incipiency, and was so badly burned that he is at present under the doctor's care. The loss is placed at $4,000, with insurance $2,000.

SOUGHT REVOLVER NOT BANK'S MONEY

Prisoner in Vancouver Offers Unusual Explanation.

VANCOUVER, B. C., August 31.—(Canadian Press.) — When Fred Campbell, alias Leonard, a Vancouver youth, entered the Canadian Bank of Commerce, East End Branch, Powell street, on Thursday night, he had no intention of staging a hold up but was only seeking a revolver, according to the story he told the police authorities Saturday.

Campbell, who was captured by the manager of the institution, said that he got into the bank about 10 a.m. Thursday, secured two guns, and just as he was about to leave he heard the voices of passing pedestrians whereupon he decided to wait a more opportune time. He sat down in a comfortable chair and dropped asleep and when he awoke there were many people passing the bank, so the youthful deserado decided to wait and attempt the hold-up.

He appeared in court on Saturday and was remanded until to-day.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

Rylstone S. S. Had Enjoyable Outing at Crowe River Bridge.

PETHERICKS' CORNERS, Aug. 31—The Rylstone S. S. held its annual picnic at the picnic grounds, Crowe River. A very pleasant day was spent. After a sumptuous dinner a softball game was played among the boys and girls and men. As the day was rather warm, swimming was the most exciting feature of the day. Those who were not bathing were having a joy ride in a boat. Supper was served at five o'clock. Everyone enjoyed the day's outing.

FIERY THREATS OF REVOLUTION AT CONVENTION

British Malcontents of So-called "National Minority Party Meet at Battersea.

600 DELEGATES.

Parsee Member of Parliament Utters Hatred of Flag

LONDON, Aug. 31. — A fiery speech by Shapurji Saklatvala, Communist member of Parliament, who is going shortly to the United States, in which he declared he hated the Union Jack and that he was "out for a revolution," marked the opening Sunday of a two day conference at Battersea of the so-called "National Minority Party," an offshoot of the British Communist Party. Six hundred delegates attended and listened to several revolutionary outbursts.

Saklatvala is a Parsee of Bombay, but represents North Battersea in the House of Commons.

"I am going to America," he said, "as a friend of the working classes and as an implacable enemy of the Union Jack and British imperialism. British imperialism ought to crumble in the dust. I am out to work for a revolution and for the day when the workers will control the whole world. But before this comes, you will have to face cold steel."

Saklatvala said he was willing to be shot in the cause of revolution.

Tom Mann, widely known labor extremist, former president of the International Transport Workers' Federation, presided and made a speech full of fighting terms and condemnation of employers.

James Larkin, famous Irish labor radical, who was convicted of criminal anarchy in New York in 1919, received an ovation when he entered the meeting.

27 PASSENGERS HURT IN WRECK

Two Dangerously Injured Near Mayne, Col.—Train Sideswiped.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Wiley Bell, of Dallas, Texas, and Miss Mary White, of Victoria, Texas, were dangerously injured and twenty-five others were less seriously hurt early Sunday when the engine of Colorado and Southern Passenger Train No. 1, northbound, sideswiped Passenger Train No. 8, southbound, near Mayne, Colorado. Number 8 was just taking a siding when the wreck occurred. Mayne is about 30 miles north of Trinidad.

The trains are Colorado-Texas flyers. Number 8 was carrying scores of passengers homeward bound from vacations spent in the Rocky Mountains.

SOUTHERN STATES REGISTER QUAKES

Shocks Felt Saturday Afternoon and Sunday Morning in Several Centres.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.— A severe earthquake shock was recorded by the seismograph of the United States' Weather Bureau at the University of Chicago early Sunnday. The tremor began at 4.42 o'clock and continued until 6.15, with the greatest shock recorded at 4.52, Central Standard Time. The movement was estimated at 1,790 miles from Chicago.

2,000 MILES DISTANT.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31.—An earth shock of great intensity was recorded on the seismograph of Loyola University Saturday afternoon. Father Abel, seismologist in charge, suggested that the shock was possibly 2,000 miles distant and probably reached a maximum intensity between 4.55 and 5.03 o'clock, Central Standard Time. Vibrations began at 4.55 and continued to 5.30.

FELT AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.— A "sharp" earthquake was recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown University last night between 5.43 and 6.35 o'clock. Father Tondorf, seismologist, said a conservative estimate placed the distance at 5,500 miles from Washington, but he was unable to determine the direction.

Till Emptied of $30 at Point of Gun Saturday Night.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press).—Rapid work on the part of Ottawa police resulted in the arrest of two Montreal men Saturday evening, just 45 minutes after the Dominion Store at 489 Rideau Street was held up and robbed of $29.61 by the same two men. Arrested and confronted with the storekeeper, the two men admitted the theft, police state.

The men are Ernest Whitticker and Richard Rye. With them was arrested Whitticker's wife, who is held on a vagrancy charge.

"The police are sure quick in Ottawa," was Whitticker's comment, as he was being searched at the police station.

Daniel J. Horan, manager of the Dominion Store, was alone in the store shortly after six o'clock, when two men came in to purchase a loaf of bread. He gave them the bread and they paid for it and walked out. Mr. Horan was preparing to close the store, when the two men walked in again. This time, however, one of them, Whitticker, had a gun and this he pointed at Horan with the peremptory demand, "Put up your hands."

Emptied the Till.

Mr. Horan remained in this position while one of the men quickly ransacked the till, taking its entire burden of cash, which Mr. Horan reckoned to be $29.61.

When the men left Mr. Horan rushed out on the street but they were nowhere to be seen.

He immediately 'phoned the police and gave them a detailed description of the two men.

Detective Tissot later saw a man on Anglesea Square, answering to the description of one of the hold-up men. After a short chase he arrested him and brought him to the police station. The man giving the name of Whitticker and his wife were arrested at the Central Station by Detective Fox as they were waiting for the Montreal train.

No Other Money.

The two had a considerable quantity of camping equipment with them, and Detective Fox is of the opinion that they hiked from Montreal by road. Beyond the stolen money, which was recovered, they had no money on them.

Nevertheless the detective is of the opinion that the recent hold-up on the Montreal road near here, may have been another act of the two men, and he is investigating with that end in view.

Dutch Colony Has Constant "Chase the Dirt" Campaign

BARENTSBURG, Green Harbor, Spitsbergen, Aug. 29.—(Associated Press).—Holland has carried a bit of its own atmosphere into these outlying arctic regions. The settlement here belongs to a Dutch concern, and it is named after Willem Barents, who discovered Spitsbergen in 1596.

"Clean up," is the slogan here, and perpetual warfare is waged, after the Dutch fashion, against the dirt and grime inseparable from a mining village. Barentsburg is the only place that has made an attempt at making a paved road, the first in all Spitsbergen. It is still in the embryo stage, but is encouraging to the weary traveller who knows the rough and slippery tracks that pass for roads elsewhere on these islands.

Great projects are afoot for the storage of coal at the Barentsburg mine. Against the steep mountain slope, a solid concere wall is being built which will form a container for 500,000 tons of coal.

DOURO PERSONALS

DOURO, Aug. 27.—Mrs. Dan Kennedy and small son of Peterboro spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Samuel O'Brien.

Mr. Fred Quinlan of Mount Pleasant, Mich., is visiting his cousin, Mr. Arthur Carveth. Mr. Quinlan has not been in Canada since his family moved to Michigan when he was only two years of age.

Mr. William O'Connor of Seattle, Wash., is home on a visit with his brothers and sisters here.

Mrs. Frank O'Connor spent last week with her folks in Ennismore and took in the re-union.

Mrs. Robt. Dwyer and two small daughters, of Hale's Bridge, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John L. O'Brien.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Garvey and family of Peterboro were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. James Healey.

Miss Pearl Moher left Friday for her home in Edmonton after a three weeks' visit with her uncle Mr. William Allen, and other friends here.

Miss Mabel Allen is spending a few days with friends in Lakefield.

Miss Helen Buckley is spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Perdue in Ennismore.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Leahy and baby of Peterboro are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Maurice O'Brien.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. David Garvey and Mr. Joseph Garvey were Sunday visitors with Rev. J. J. Garvey in Lakefield.

Miss Cecelia McManus was partially successful in her Upper School examinations at St. Peter's High School, Peterboro.

Among the local people who attended the Ennismore re-union were: Mr. and Mrs. P. Doherty, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. John C. O'Brien, Mrs. Allen Hayes, Mr. P. Farley, Mrs. Patrick McMurray and family, Messrs. Wilfred Kennedy, Kenneth Cavanagh, Alex Carlow, Miss Annabel Carlow, Mrs. Nellie Buckley and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Delaney, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walsh, and Miss Nellie Hogan.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Faber and children and Mrs. J. Harsison of Cedarvale, Toronto, were recent week end visitors with Miss Nellie Hogan. The children, Ruth and Harry, are spending a few weeks with Miss Hogan and are enjoying their first visit to a farm.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Drumm and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boland of Rochester, N.Y., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Delaney. Mr. and Mrs. Delaney accompanied them Sunday on a motor trip to Cobourg. They have also been touring through the province of Quebec.

Miss Barbara Barry passed her first form examination at Lang High school and Emmett Allen was partially successful at Lakefield High School in Form I.

Miss Mary Fitzgerald, who resides in the village has been very ill.

Miss Mary Coughlin of Lakefield has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Brien.

Mrs. Ellen Fraser of Trout Creek is visiting her niece, Miss Hanna Devlin.

Mr. P. G. Towns and son, Charles made a business trip to Tweed, by motor, on Monday.

Miss Anna Collins was partially successful in Form IV at St. Joseph's Convent, Lindsay.

Norman Wilson, the sixteen-year-old boy who was hurt last week on the farm of Mr. Frank Heffernan, is making satisfactory progress at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro, and strong hopes are held for his recovery.

MANY COUNTRIES EXHIBIT AT PRAGUE

The Eleventh International Fair Will Be Well Attended.

PRAGUE, Aug. 29.—The eleventh International Fair at Prague will be held from September 6 to 13. The engineering exhibit, as usual, will be the largest, but among the other outstanding features will be the radio and sports goods exhibits. The latter is indicative of a new industry created by the growing importance of sports of all kind as part of the national life.

The participation of foreign countries will be greater than at previous fairs. Besides a special French section there will be exhibits from the United States, Austria, Germany, Italy, Greece, Great Britain, Netherlands, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium, Switzerland, Hungaria and Jugoslavia.

SCIENTIST TELLS OF MAKING GOLD OUT OF MERCURY

Professor Adolphe Miethe is Discoverer of Process.

BROKE UP ATOMS

Dogma of Indivisibility of Atom Has Been Shattered by Discovery.

By PROF. DR. ADOLF MIETHE.
(Copyright, 1925, by United Press.)

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—(United Press).—In view of my intention to visit the United States next spring, I am looking forward to the pleasure of exchanging ideas with the distinguished American scientists who have made my discovery of the production of gold from mercury the object of their investigations.

In this connection I want to comply with the suggestion of the United Press that I give a popular description of the present phase of my experiments on production of gold from mercury, first published by the United Press last year.

In my opinion, what may claim public attention is the fact that the experiments conducted by me and Dr. H. Stammreich, my assistant, have made it possible for the first time to penetrate into the structure of the atom by the simple customary means methods available at the average laboratory in such a way that the product of such interference with the structure atom can be determined quantitatively by chemical analysis.

Rutherford Broke Up Atom.

It is known that Rutherford, the distinguished British scientist, succeeded long ago in breaking up the atom of some elements of low atomic weight by bombarding these atoms by means of certain rays emanating permanently from radioactive substances and known as Alpha rays. Rutherford's discovery did not shatter, however, the idea of the inassailability and unchangeability from the chemical point of view, of the elements which the chemist was entitled to continue to consider as indivisible units in the edifice of chemistry.

It was only following the successful disintegration of the atom by my experiments that the dogma of the indivisibility and unalterability of the elements collapsed.

Forecast By Japanese.

It was only after my assistant and I had successfully carried out our experiments in the spring of 1924 and after it has been proved that these experiments actually led to the production of gold from mercury that we heard about the activity of Nagaoka, the famous Japanese scientist. Nagaoka had carried out extremely profound researches in the field of spectral analysis which inspired him to proclaim the prophecy that we "may perhaps put into practice the dream of the alchemists, by smashing one of the hydrogen protons out of the nucleus of mercury by means of Alpha rays or some other powerful destructive effect."

What Nagaoka has foreseen as a possible accomplishment of future scientific research materialized very soon through my experiment. Nagaoka, however, had hardly hoped that it would be possible to succeed in this by such simple methods and implements as we used, because Nagaoka's thoughts evidently still revolved around ideas originating from Rutherford's highly complicated and difficult working methods. Furthermore, Nagaoka probably hardly imagined that it would be possible chemically to prove the presence of the gold produced.

It was quite natural that leading scientists in Germany and abroad should have received the news of my discovery with the reserve that befits the serious savant.

Gold From Mercury.

Today, however, it is recognized on the basis of my and other scientists' subsequent researches that the production of gold from mercury is a fact. It is highly important in this connection that Professor Haber, one of Germany's most distinguished chemists, who during his recent stay in America still uttered doubts as to the feasibility of my experiment, has arrived at the conviction that my discovery is a scientific fact, especially since Haber's exchange of ideas with Nagaoka in Japan.

In view of this situation, many more scientists will now be encouraged to take up this matter and thus we are nearer to the decision of the question as to whether or not the present very small quantities of gold obtained from mercury can be increased to such an extent as to render the discovery important from the technical and economic point of view as well.

Incidentally, I want to mention that in addition to gold, mercury appears to yield in considerably greater quantity than the gold, another body which we believe to be silver. Further experiments will throw more light on this new additional phase of my discovery.

SMALL CARRIERS WILL USE CANAL IN ST. LAWRENCE

Backers of Deep Waterway Don't Look for Big Vessels.

WANT CARGO SHIPS

Majority of Freight Vessels Can Ascend River 30 Feet Deep.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Although conceding that the great ocean liners, such as the Leviathan and the Majestic, have their places in the shipping world, credit for carrying the bulk of the world's ocean commerce is given to the cargo liners and tramps in a review made public by the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association.

The association made its statement as a defence of the proposed St. Lawrence ship channel project, declaring it was idle to suppose the Leviathan and Majestic type of ships would steam directly into the ports of Duluth and Chicago.

Cargo vessels devoted to freight service are rarely large, a majority drawing less than 25 feet of water, the statement said, adding that they must be small enough to enter several ports at both ends of their journey to obtain full cargo. Counting the numerous trips of express liners to New York, the statement said, the record of vessels engaged in foreign trade for 1922 shows that out of 8,526 inward and outward trips 70.7 percent were in vessels of less than 25 foot draft and 95.8 percent. with drafts under 30 feet.

"The large export vessels plying in and out of New York and calling at Boston are not necessary to the success of the St. Lawrence ship channel," the association continued. "New Orleans and Galveston have reached great commercial importance though they can accommodate only light draft vessels. It is an error to assume that a 30-foot channel can be navigated only by vessels drawing less than 25 feet. Such conditions are applicable only at entrance channels of exposed ports. Vessels drawing 29½ feet navigate the 30-foot channel to Houston. In the protected waters of the Detroit and St. Lawrence and Welland Canals, vessels load to utilize every available inch. Small ocean ships navigate the present 14-foot St. Lawrence Canal drawing 13½ feet and more.

"At the ocean entrance of the St. Lawrence nature has provided depths ranging up to 100 fathoms. A 30-foot channel through the 133 miles of canal involved in the St. Lawrence development will freely navigate vessels loaded to 29 feet. The large liners such as the Adriatic, Cedric and Celtic are not expected in the Great Lakes ports any more than they are expected at Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, Moile, New Orleans, Galveston, Houston and other highly successful commercial ports."

Motor Driver, Blinded By Sparks, Ran Into Hydro Pole and Crippled Service.

INJURIES SLIGHT.

PRESCOTT, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Returning from Morrisburg Saturday night, a car owned and driven by Fred. Lavery, of Prescott ran into a Hydro electric pole. Mr. Lavery threw a lighted cigarette from the car, the ashes from which flew into his eyes, blinding him for a moment, and causing him to lose control. The car crashed into the pole, broke it and crippled the service, throwing the town into darkness for several hours. Lavery escaped with slight injuries.

PLAN SECOND PICNIC OF BUSINESS MEN

First Outing Was So Successful That Another Will Be Held.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31. — The community picnic held on Friday afternoon at Crowe River Bridge under the auspices of the Business Men's Outing Club, proved so popular that it has been proposed to hold another function of the same nature before the close of the season. It has been suggested that this affair by way of variety, take the form of an excursion on the river, a nominal charge to be made for the tickets, just sufficient to defray the cost of chartering a boat.

Some Special Mention.

The committees in charge of the picnic wish to thank those who acted in the affair, those who donated the use of their autos, the Campbellford Band for their excellent musical programme during the evening, and the Campbellford String Orchestra consisting of Harry Ayrhart, Ray Blakely, Otto Sarginson, Fred Dorie and T. Godin, who played almost continuously and refused to accept any pay for their services.

The committee also compliments Night Constable Light, of Campbellford, for the efficient manner in which he handled the traffic and parked scores of cars in a limited space without accident.

Schools Re-open Tuesday.

The High and Public Schools reopen Tuesday, and all the teachers have returned from their vacations, ready to resume their duties. Pupils are requested to attend to-morrow so that the classes may be organized.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31. — Misses Dorothy and Grace Dayman of Colborne are visiting friends and relatives in Campbellford.

Miss Dorothy Peckett spent last week in Peterboro with Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Gash.

Mrs. Lester Hamilton (nee Mrs. Savill) and little daughter Edith are guests at the home of Mrs. John Ray and other friends in town.

Mrs. Thomas Sarginson, of Peterboro, motored to town on Thursday and spent the day with friends. Her mother, Mrs. William Sarginson, accompanied her and will remain for a visit.

Mrs. William Mulheron, of Paris formerly of Campbellford, is expected here this week and will be a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bakes.

Mr. Joseph Hore has purchased a fine farm near Trenton, and has disposed of his residence on Grand Road to Mr. John Ray. Mr. and Mrs. Hore will take possession of their farm this fall. Mr. and Mrs Hore will be greatly missed in town. Mrs. Hore being an active worker in the various activities of St. John's United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Burkitt, of Niagara Falls, Ontario, are expected here this week, and while here will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Moir. Mr. and Mrs. Burkitt resided here for some time, when Mr. Burkitt was employed with the Hydro, and their many friends will be pleased to meet them again.

Mrs. George McComb has returned home after a visit at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Marvin McComb of Morganston.

Mr. Douglas McComb is visiting at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rowe, Peterboro.

PASTOR AND BRIDE GIVEN RECEPTIONS

Rev. C. D. and Mrs. Daniel Received Presentations From Two Churches.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31—A reception held at the home of Samuel Diamond was tendered Rev. C. D. and Mrs. Daniel, who had recently returned from their honeymoon, on Friday evening when the young married couple were presented with an address and a well filled purse of money together with the best wishes of members of the Tabernacle church and other friends in the Engish line community. E. J. Mitchell read the following address and Mrs. Fred Smith presented the purse.

To Mr. and Mrs. Daniel,—We, the adherents of the Tabernacle United Church, English line, have assembled this evening to express our best wishes to you and Mrs. Daniel.

We hope that prosperity, health and happiness will walk with you both on your journey through life. We could not let this opportunity pass by without asking you to accept this token as a slight expression of our feelings toward you.

Wishing you every success possibe, we are, yours trustfully,

The English Line community.

Mr. Daniel on behalf of himself and bride, made a graceful acknowledgement of the honor that had been paid them.

Another Reception

On the previous Thursday evening a reception was held at the home of Alfred Barnum, near Petherick's Corners, with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel as the guest of honor. This was a community affair, Fred Barnum representing the Young People's League of Zion Church, one of the four in the Seymour circuit of which Mr. Daniel has been pastor for the past year, Thomas Fry represented the church, William Rowe the Stanwood church and Wilfrid Spence the Sentinel Orange Lodge to which Mr. Daniel belongs, at Petherick's Corners.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel were presented with two handsome wicker chairs and a wicker fern table.

Mr. Daniel since his becoming pastor of the Seymour circuit has made many friends not only among his own church people, but those of all other denominations as well and is especially popular with the young men in the community on account of the example he has set them as an exponent of every form of clean, athletic sports. Mrs. Daniels is assured of a hearty welcome from the people of the district into which she has just come an entire stranger.

93 PER CENT. OF MEN IN JAIL OWE DOWNFALL TO LIQUOR AND 90 PER CENT. SMOKE CIGARETTES

Says W. J. Shean in Attacking 4.4 Beer and Upholding O.T.A.

Ridicules Safeguards

Size of Window in Room is Not Specified By Government.

MILLBROOK, August 31. — "A few months ago, as a bolt from the blue, the gauntlet was thrown down to us, and while we were all surprised that another fight is necessary on the temperance issue, the struggle is on again."

With these words Mr. W. J. Shean, of Toronto, speaking in the interests of the Ontario Prohibition Union, began his impressive address in the United Church on Sunday morning.

For 30 years Mr. Shean has given Sunday addresses in the Mercer Reformatory and has tabulated the reasons why so many fine, intellectual girls are led to step from the path of rectitude.

"Eighty-seven per cent. of the criminality along women's lines results from the alcohol habit; not that they have all been drinkers, but they have come from homes where moderate or immoderate, drinking has been allowed, and their blood is on fire with the fires of hell from this traffic."

"Four point-four is a bad, and dangerous thing—why? I listened to a conversation in the street car recently: 'Jack, have you got your girl broken in to drink the new beer yet?' 'Not yet, she came from the country.' 'I've got mine all right. I took her in for a glass of ginger beer the other night, and topped the man a wink, so he really brought four-point-four. She said it was good. Last night, when I took her in again I gave the man a double wink, and he put in the real stuff. She thought that drink was better still."

"It is a piece of rascality for any government to make it possible for girls to be drink-lured by such green-eyed monsters—I will not call them men—opening a pathway to licentiousness for our unguarded, and unthinking young womanhood.

Referring to the restrictions surrounding the sale of the new beer, Mr. Shean point t out that no mention is made of the size of the room, or of the window, which may be a small affair giving a view of little of what is going on within. "Appetites are being created which will inevitably lower the standard of our citizenship."

From personal conversations, the speaker avowed his knowledge of the fact that 93 per cent of the men in our jails owe their downfall to the liquor traffic, and 90 per cent. are also cigarette smokers.

"The Ontario Temperance Act has more virtues than it has failings. It has destroyed the license system making illegitimate the traffic that debauched homes, robbed children of bread and butter, and of an education, broke women's hearts, and drove men to jail and to a suicid's grave. The governmnt however is leaning toward the liquor traffic again and making it harder to enforce the law."

"The homes are the standard of the morality or immorality of a nation, and we want to hold tenaciously to the O.T.A. until we get a Dominion Act, which will be something better."

"Thirty-nine million dollars went over the bar last year of the license system in Ontario. God will lead our hosts to victory when we are fighting a giant evil like that. Prayer and faith, with the Holy Spirit's guidance to temper zeal, and unremitting endeavor, will see the end gloriously accomplished and the enemy routed in utter def at."

An appeal for funds to carry on the campaign was made morning and evening and met with a generous response.

Some olive trees have been yielding crops for centuries.

ON HIKE WITH WHEELBARROW

Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Le Roux of Kimberley, South Africa, who are at present in Ontario, hope to make the record of being the first people who have ever hiked around the globe on foot. They started from Johannesburg, South Africa, on January 31st, 1922, and have since walked through Portuguese, North Africa, and the Native Territories to Egypt. They have also hiked across Italy, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland, England and part of Canada. To date they have walked 8 414 miles and sailed 1,100 miles. Bad weather which they encountered has resulted in their now being eight months behind time on their schedule, which contemplated girdling the globe in five years. Despite the fact that he pushes a wheelbarrow containing 200 pounds of impediment all along the route, Mr. Le Roux covers about 16 miles a day.

MARCUS USED TO BE A KING NOW HE PEELS JAIL POTATOES

Signed Himself Provisional President of African Republic, Etc., Etc.

NOW A NUMBER.

Crimson, Gold and Green Were Favorite Colors in Dress.

It must be a terrible come-down. Not so long ago he was the negro Moses, the nation builder and the black hope, the self-styled president of Africa. Now the Warden of an American penitentiary makes him peel potatoes and scour pans.

The gentleman who has just performed this avalanche act is Marcus Garvey, who one year ago to-day, was signing himself provisional president of the African Republic, Admiral of the Black Star line, president general of the universal negro improvement association and African communities (imperial) league, commander of the nobles of the Sublime Order of the Nile and Knight of the Distinguished Service Order of Ethiopia.

Now he is merely a number. What number, it does not particularly matter.

"He is a portly little black man," says the New York World, "with a big head, a chest like a barrel, and a voice like a cannon, who has learned to the full in the school of experience the possibilities which life holds in the way of contrast."

He staged a monster convention a year ago in Harlem, as the back files of all the city papers show. Marcus Garvey in all his glory wielded the gavel and rode at the head of all the parades. The lilies of the field were a drab and dull lot when stacked up against the would be dictator, arrayed in official robes. Crimson, gold and green were three of the favorite colors used for purposes of personal adornment.

It was the Fourth Annual International Congress of Negro Peoples. A court was held, when a few Knights and Ladies were created and a handfull of dukes and duchesses assigned to various farflung domains. Parades jammed the Harlem highways and exotic battalions, the Universal African Police and the Universal Royal Guards of Africa, marched behind fluttering red, black and green flags and the triumphant Marcus.

Six months later he had been definitely committed to a five year term among the convicted criminals sojourning in Atlanta. The charge against him was that he had been using the mails to defraud. He was attempting to raise capital with which to finance the Black Star line. His efforts finally resulted in the acquisition of one ramshackle tub which gradually rotted away at a New York pier.

Philosophical Potato Peeler.

News from a Georgia prison is very difficult to obtain. It doesn't even come out in dribbles. But the New York World recently managed to obtain and distribute a certain amount of information about the erstwhile maker of history.

He takes his imprisonment philosophically. He devotes as much attention to his duties in the kitchen as he formerly did to the formation of a new republic.

Nor has the fact that he has been publicly branded a criminal affected his standing. Colored prisoners in the same institution naturally accept him as their leader. They regard him as the savior of the race. A few may poke fun at his grandiose schemes, and his mouth-filling titles, but only a few. He is still the big chief and supreme boss of the works.

He has many visitors. With all of them he discusses his scheme of the black republic. He considers that his plans have been interrupted, not demolished for all time. He is, he says, guiltless and a victim of circumstances over which he had no control—he did not intend to defraud anyone.

He longs to return to Harlem and the Nobles of the Sublime Order of the Nile, but he is philosophical about that too. He holds conferences with right and left hand men and lieutenants with great regularity between spells of potato peeling.

Even the job in the kitchen has a great many compensations, particularly for a rotund man with a large appetite. It may shock his loyal followers and would-be subjects, but it is a blessing in disguise.

Atlanta is a highly popular institution always crowded to the doors, and according to reports there are never enough jobs to go round. Quiet meditation is all very well for a half hour period but when you have to do it for five years in a sparingly furnished jail cell it becomes more than a nuisance.

He is almost a model prisoner and his good conduct will undoubtedly result in a portion of his sentence being chopped off. Here fate is playing one of her most ironical jokes.

The negro Moses is a British subject born in Jamaica, and the American authorities are even now laying plans to deport him once he is set free. His friends are using all the persuasive force in their power to prevent this move but at the moment the case appears to be settled.

Every day nearer freedom is one day nearer the day of exile.

Meanwhile he wields the soap, the scrub brush and the peeling knife, and is as philosophical about this possible ending to his career as he is about everything else.

DATA OBTAINED ON DEEP SEA CURRENTS

German Expedition Made Successful Cruise to Cape Town.

HAMBURG, Aug. 31.—A scientific deep-sea expedition which left Hamburg in April recently arrived at Cape Town after a successful cruise. The expedition traversed the Atlantic between America and Africa 14 times and succeeded in studying scientifically submarine currents. The claim is made that this is the first time this has been accomplished. Reports from the expedition declared that its investigation proved that warm currents from the North Atlantic flow at a considerable depth for a distance of about 2,000 miles south of the Equator where they rise to the surface. Similar currents from the southern Polar regions pass northward.

The waters of these currents were found to contain such forms of organic food as is sought by whales and certain other fish. The expedition, financed entirely by private subscription, is in charge of Dr. Merz, director of the Berlin Institute of Oceanography. It will proceed to the southern Polar regions, making Bouvet Island its base and sailing eastward from there.

Sharks Seeking Surcease From Sun's Scorching Rays

OSLO, Aug. 31.—(Associated Press).—The prolonged spell of warm weather here has brought a considerable number of sharks into northern waters, where, under normal conditions, they are seldom seen. Several schools have been sighted off the southern coasts of Norway and in the Skagerak, and in several costal towns warnings have been issued to bathers. In the neighborhood of Christiansand and Porsgrund the sharks have made their appearance close in shore and at times when many people have been bathing.

NEW CIRCUIT OF UNITED CHURCH

Take One From Seymour Circuit and Two Union Churches.

SEYMOUR NOW LARGE

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31. — Rev. M. Ramsey, moderator of the Union Presbytery of Kingston, was in this district last week, looking over the situation with a view to making changes that will affect the churches on the Seymour circuit and the former Presbyterian but now Union Church of Rylstone. It is proposed to make a new church circuit, by detaching the church at Stanwood and taking in those at Springbrook and Rylstone. The two first mentioned were formerly Methodist churches, while the last voted unanimously to enter the Union. This arrangement would leave three churches on the Seymour circuit, Hoords, Tabernacle, and Zion. If the change is made the new pastor, it is expected, will reside, at Springbrook.

There are various reasons for giving this plan effect. Springbrook has been connected with the church at Marmora, but now Deloro wants a regular service, and this could be given by Marmora if that congregation is separated from Springbrook.

Seymour circuit, with four churches is regarded as two heavy a charge for one pastor.

The Union Presbyterians at Rylstone and those who have withdrawn from the church at Burnbrae are expected to unite and attend the church which it is proposed to establish at the former place.

There has been some discussion as to the advisability of the Union Presbyterians of the Burnbrae district associating themselves with the church at Hoord's station. This would render necessary the erection of a new building as the present edifice is too small to accommodate the united branches. This idea has been abandoned, for the present at least, on the ground of expense, hence the proposition to rearrange Seymour circuit.

At present Burnbrae Unionists are either attending service in the school house or at St. John's United Church, Campbellford.

FIVE DEAD BY FIRE.

Kerosene Lamp Was Upset, Causing Death of Children —Mother Fatally Hurt.

EVERETT, Mass., Aug. 31. (Canadian Press). — Five children all under 13, were burned to death and their mother, Mrs. Irene Soenna is at Boston Hospital with a broken back, which is expected to prove fatal, as the result of a fire here last night, started by the upsetting of a kerosene lamp in the Soenna home.

"Where have Robin Hood and the Merry Men of the Greenwood been, all these last two weeks?" asked one lad in a boys' camp. "We get the papers, but he isn't in—what's the matter?"

Well now, listen.

Robin Hood and the Merry Men of the Greenwood are just like other boys. They can't stick around and be dressed up like fashion plates all summer, nor weed gardens in Wess Johnson's yard, nor water the lawn and all that sort of thing.

What do you expect? Eh?

If you fellows went off to camp, why can't Wess, and Bill Davis, and Don Bonter, and Roy Preston, and Jimmy Britton, and Charlie Knight, and Ned Lewis, and all the rest of the crowd go?

Well, that's just it. They have been away at camp.

What did they do and see at camp? Ah, that's another thing altogether. If the story that Roy Preston told, about his fishing trip up the Wig-wag river in a canoe, is any hint at what the Merry Men will all be telling this winter, then you can get ready with a pillow to sit on, for you will not want to move, once Don and Roy and Jimmy get into their regular Greenwoods action.

It was getting fairly close to September, and all the lads were home from their vacations out of town. They all had big tales to tell and were laying for Wess, as he never went away, always remaining on the place to help his father, but they are going to get a surprise, for Mrs. Johnson was proud of her boy's leadership and made up her mind that he would have a chance to see a few things, so she let him visit a cousin down in Eastern Canada, on the sea-shore. Wait till you hear him.

However, Roy Preston told a good one, the very first thing, when the boys met in the Greenwood.

Roy had heard that the Wig-wag river was a wild and wooley place, and there was a trapper out in front of his shack, mending his snow-shoes, when Roy passed along the road on the way to the cottage his folks had taken for a couple of weeks, away up north of Toronto, on Georgian Bay.

Some friendly advances to the trapper gave Roy the chance, so he asked the man to tell him how to go up the river. The trapper wouldn't do it for a long time. He smoked and was afraid Roy would get lost and first thing he knew, he had promised to take Roy himself. So that is how they happened to go.

Roy skipped the next part about all that happened, till they got to a place where the dam was, and they had to pull the canoe over, or carry it. There was a spillway to one side of the dam, below which was a deep hole, then some rapids.

Now, the water had gone down and the hole was full of water and white-fish and trout, but the rapids from it was only a trickle.

The trapper said, "Now, my boy, I will show you how to get a meal of fish by tossing them out of that pool on to the bank, as they are thick in there."

Hardly had he explained how he would do it, when who should arrive, but a big black bear.

The trapper and Roy just sat tight, to see what was on the bear's mind.

That bear left nothing for the trapper to explain as to how to toss fish. He sat on the bank for a few minutes, trying to reach some fish as they would swim near, but the luck was bad, so he waded right in, up to his waist, if anyone can tell where that ought to be, and there he stood, the most comical creature on earth, watching fish swim around him, then making a quick scooping swipe with his paw, lifting the fish and the water high in the air, the fish landing high and dry on the bank, much to his delight and satisfaction, for he would swing his head or wobble it, with a most comical tilt, looking for all the world like a very happy fellow, tickled to pieces at his cleverness.

Unlike some human fishermen we have, all seen and have doubtless been ourselves at times, he did not fish out the pool. He was content with four good fish. Then he proceeded to splash himself with water and wash his face, just like all folks do.

The trapper got the canoe ready, during the noisy play of the bear, so he did not observe the movements. Roy says they made quite a bit of noise too, but the bear played and splashed too loudly. Anyway, the canoe was ready and Roy in it. The paddle was in place and the fish on the bank about half way between the bear and the canoe.

The trick was to get the fish at the bear's expense.

The trapper made a quick run for the fish, but, like a good fisherman in a crowd, the bear was keeping an eye on the catch, and before the trapper could get all four picked up, (they were so slippery) the bear was out of the water and after him.

Animals seem brave to defend their own and hate a sneak thief. The trapper had the fish when he arrived at the canoe but discretion seemed best, just getting into the canoe and away on the river in time to save the situation.

The bear did exactly as any human fisherman might have done. He saw that his fish were saved, so stopped short of the water, and gave vent to his feelings in very hot language, consisting of angry squeals and grunts, picked up his fish, started up the bank, turned to give the thief another angry look of disgust, and was gone.

"If he had been dressed in clothes, you would have thought he was a real man," said Roy.

"I think he was anyway," said Bill Davis.

YOUR HEALTH

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

INABILITY TO SLEEP IS A SIGN OF AGING

A year or so ago I read an interesting article about how to keep from slipping into old age. In the prevention of premature senility it advised the virtues of "play, sleep and a hobby."

The first symptom of old age is inability to sleep in the morning. Some people were born old, I guess, because there are a good many who can't sleep after sunrise. But, if you have been a good sleeper all your life and suddenly find you cannot stay in bed in the morning, you are arriving at the jumpingoff place.

If you have always slept well and begin to be restless and sleepless, good sense dictates that you find out why. There may be and probably is some physical cause for the change.

The most common factor productive of restlessness and sleeplessness is some disturbance in the digestive tract. The foods we take are perishable things; some of them are extremely perishable. Exposed to the air they wouldn't keep half a day without contamination and beginning fermentation.

These same foods taken into the body are capable of spoiling and creating trouble. Unless they are acted upon speedily by the digestive and assimilative processes, they may become poisons to the body, or else degenerate into material suitable for germ breeding.

The poisons or toxins produced in this way are sometimes stimulating to the nervous system. They set the heart to pounding, or act in some manner which drives sleep from the brain and eyes.

No matter what causes the sleeplessness, the loss of the refreshment given by sleep hastens the breakdown we call "aging." It lowers the vitality and lessens the resistance to disease.

Many persons have forgotten how to play. Or if they do play, their sports are as intensive and compelling as their work. Everybody needs real relaxation. The nervous system wants a rest from the stress and strain of life.

This is where the value of the hobby is established. A friend told me that during the World War King George took two or three hours every week to putter with his stamp collection. This is a keen pleasure to him and I have no doubt it did much to keep him fit during the soul-trying years of the war.

Everybody should cultivate a hobby. Whether it is blooded cattle or old bottles, it doesn't matter.

Just now I asked a friend if she had a hobby. She seemed dazed at the question. She has no hobby and that creates a void in her life. She should have a hobby. So should you. It will help to keep you young.

I am thinking what a lot of letters this article will bring me. Many of them will say this theory is all nonsense—that life is too serious to waste.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

READER. Q.—Should enlarged tonsils be removed.

A.—No. They should not be removed simply because they are enlarged, but if, in addition, they are diseased, they should be taken out to the advantage of the general health.

* * *

M. M. D. Q.—What is the best thing to do for red eyelids?

A.—Apply 1% yellow oxide of mercury ointment to the lids before retiring. This should give relief.

YOUR GARDEN

SEEDING THE LAWN.

August and up to the middle of September is a splendid time for seeding lawns particularly on account of the weeds. These have nearly finished their season's growth, are not so likely to spring up and consequently one gets a cleaner stand of grass. The heavy dews at this time also help.

Grading should be attended to first and the suggestions considered in previous articles adhered to. As mentioned, the grade should be carefully and thoroughly attended to before any fertilizer is applied or seed sown, though it need only be smooth enough for the easy running of the lawn-mower. Many of the natural undulations may be retained, especially in an area one hundred feet square or more. The next important step is to prepare the ground deeply and thoroughly as the permanence of the sod will very largely depend upon the richness and proparation of the soil in the beginning.

The character of the soil should be ascertained. Cold, soggy, wet land must be underdrained and if the soil is sour, air slaked lime can be used to correct acidity. A moist soil is the best for a lawn with a slight mixture of clay or a clay sub-soil which retains a certain amount of moisture yet is not wet. Sand may be added to a very heavy clay soil or clay added to a very sandy soil to get the proper conditions.

Well rotted manure should be applied at the rate of 15-20 tons per acre or a complete 4-8-10 fertilizer at the rate of 10 lbs. per 100 sq. yds. and this should be ploughed or dug in deeply. If the area is large enough to admit a team it may then be harrowed. The ground will then require a thorough raking. All debris should be removed, the hollows filled and humps smoothed. A good rolling will help at this stage after which the ground should be again raked to a fine smooth seed bed and the seed sown. One hundred and fifty pounds to an acre is a good medium seeding or one and a half pounds to 400 sq. feet. After the seeding the ground should be rolled again.

Only the best seed from a reliable dealer should be used. There are many mixtures on the market for general purposes and special locations which are usually quite satisfactory. For sowing, the seed should be divided into two parts, the first being sown in strips about 5 feet wide one way as evenly as possible and the second lot sown also in strips crossing the first. Thss one will secure the most even distribution of the seed possible, a comparatively calm day should be chosen when the groud is moist and the weather comparatively cool.

The first mowing of the lawn should be given with a scythe and the new lawn should go into the winter fairly long.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1.

According to the predominant aspects of this day, both by lunar and mutual position, there may be losses and extravagance of expenditure in business as well as household and personal outlay. Anxieties and complications may obtain, particularly through letters or writings. The inclination to the pursuit of pleasure and prodigality therein should be moderated. There is a menace of deception and fraud.

Those whose birthday it is are urged to exercise thrift and prudence in the use of their substance during the year, as they may incline to lavish and unwise expenditure, especially in the pursuit of pleasure. They should also be cautious in the handling of all papers and guard against deception and fraud. A child born on this day will require rigorous training in the matter of thrift and frugality, as it will be dispored to extravagance and riotous expenditure in the pursuit of pleasure. It will incline to vain display and not be too particular in the matter of veracity.

SOMETHING NEW IN MUSICIANS

Al. Sweet's Singing Band Brings New Form of Entertainment.

AT EXHIBITION

Something different! Something new! That is the continual demand of this restless age. It keeps managers hustling nowadays to satisfy this demand. There was a time when the ordinary band concert was quite the thing for parks, fairs, summer resorts, etc. A band did not need a national reputation to be assured of a long season. Any good band was in demand. The band concert at summer resorts was as much a fixture as the peanuts and popcorn.

Then along came the automobile, the movie and the jazz orchestra.

Managers suddenly awakened to the fact that the old style band in the old style uniform playing the old style program beginning with the Poet and Peasant overture and ending with the United Emblem march, could no longer attract the crowds.

A few with national reputation that had become established because of some special distinction held their place.

Sousa added new laurels to his reputation during the war and afterwards augmented his band to 100 pieces, making it stand out as the "largest" band in America. Santelman conducts the U. S. Marine Band, which is a Government institution. Goldman has established a series of concerts at Columbia University, Pryor has become a fixture at Miami and Luna Park, Conway has established a great School for Band Instruction, and "Al Sweet" has the only "singing band" in America.

Al Sweet had an idea. He believed there were bandsmen who could sing and he set out to find them. He searched the highways and byways, the colleges and the cabarets and he found what he was looking for. Of course, there are not many men who are gifted with voices that are good players as well. Sometime a fine high tenor voice must be scarificed because its owner is not up to standard on his instrument or a good baritone player won't do because he has a second tenor voice when a bass is needed. This is the reason why there will never be many "singing" bands.

Aside from his musicianship, Mr. Sweet is a showman. He has his finger directly on the public pulse. He knows what the crowds want—"novelty"—and he gives it to them in a full measure.

He is coming to Peterborough Industrial Exhibition on September 15 to do just that.

FORTUNE SAVED CAUSE OF DEATH

Bulgarian Returned to Native Land With $14,000 Savings Earned in U. S.

STABBED TO DEATH

SOFIA, Aug. 29.—(Associated Press).—Ivan Christo Markoff recently returned from the United States to his native Osman Pazar, bringing with him $14,000 which he had saved in America. Confiding his good fortune to several of his friends, one of them, Manu Dimoff of Bontoro, invited Markoff to dinner at his home.

Markoff is said to have enjoyed greatly the novelty of wine with a meal, which had been denied him in America. The result was that he went to sleep after the dinner. During his slumber he was killed with a dagger and his host was arrested, charged with the murder. Police said Dimoff was plentifully supplied with American dollars, which he intended to exchange for Bulgarian money.

CHRIST THE GREAT PHYSICIAN

"He Healeth all Thy Diseases."

When sickness and suffering by Heaven's decree,
Made their weary abode, close companions with me,
Disease, with a train of dark-browed troubles, came
To rack, and to ravage, this frail, trembling frame.
Earth's boasted skill failed sweet relief to afford,
Then my heart-wrung complaint I poured out to the Lord.

"O, Heavenly Father, in this time of need,
To my humble prayer hearken, and help me, I plead,
Most unworthy I am, and prone ever to sin,
With no merit or goodness, Thy favor to win,
Yet, in mercy, dear Lord, from these ills set me free,
For my hope and my trust, are stayed only on Thee."

Still unchangeably true to His own plighted word,
When in trouble I sought Him, He graciously heard,
Restored me to health and assauged all my pain
And from death's dreary border-land brought me again.
I was by stern affliction and sorrow brought low,
But He suffered not grief's swelling floods to o'erflow.

Now, blessed, forever, be His holy name,
Who in my distress, to my sure rescue came,
My warmest devotions, from henceforth are due
To Him, who safe brought me, the deep waters through.
A shelter He is, from the storm and the gale,
A Rock, and a Refuge, which never shall fail.

SYNOPSIS

A tramp, about 25 years old, is nursing a reluctant bon-fire, while his companion, Potts, an older man, kneels on the edge of an abyss, seeking with the aid of a tin can and a long cord to draw water from the river. Suddenly a small boulder crashes from the heights of Granite Gorge, and, grazing Potts, causes him to slide over the brink. The younger man finds him entangled in a brush only three feet below and rescues him.

CHAPTER I—Continued

"Prop your cover, Bob, and we'll get the water. It's way past a polite hour for the evening meal now!"

Presently, with Bob seated across his legs, Potts was stretched flat on his stomach—that is, as flat as the bulging front outline of his figure would permit!—lowering a can on a string toward the river that was invisible, though only thirty feet down. It was an uncanny operation in the darkness and Potts had to handle his line as daintily and skilfully as a trout fisherman to keep it from being snatched away from him by the rushing water. Three times he emptied the small can into the large one, which Bob held. The fourth time he retained the water in the small can; that was for coffee.

Bob, obviously a neophyte vagabond, forgot some of his own preoccupation as he watched the fat and tattered philosopher prepare, with ritualistic care and genial fussing, the favorite dish of highway chefs—hobo stew. Finding two stones of almost equal size Potts squeezed the now brisk fire between them until the stones were close enough for the bottom of the stew can to just bridge them. He kept adding fuel, and poking and nursing the fire into greater ardor, muttering to himself incantatively the while. When the water came to a boil, Potts stood up. An expectant smile wreathed his chubby features; and while he smacked his lips, winked his eyes, and wagged his head in professional vanity he began to empty the contents of his grimy pockets into the bubbling water.

"A feast fit for two kings—aye, for a whole kingdom of kings!—will be the result of this evening's culinary activities, my young friend," he said unctuously. "I've been a whole week collecting the ingredients for this dish!"

A short week ago Bob's appetite would have evaporated upon witnessing the manufacture of this stew. But tonight he was cold and hungry and miserable. Again, his mouth corner twisted—ironically. Other things seemed far behind—yet, he realized with a sudden bitter catch in his chest that the appetizing interest with which he watched Potts was just another sign—that he no longer cared. It was the real drifter's viewpoint!

Pott's threadbare pockets were like magicians' hats. First out of them came a large and softening tomato, which Potts squidged between his fingers tearing it into bits that he dropped into the boiling water. Four potatoes, in various stages of health, were similarly treated; four more potatoes, fished from his limitless pockets, were thrust into the fire beneath the can to roast. A naked piece of raw meat was taken from the pocket of honor—inside his coat—and shredded in to join the vegetables. Three small fish, cause and time of death uncertain, were brought forth. Potts twisted their heads off, ripped down their bellies with a pudgy forefinger, disembowelling them with the same operation, and pitched them forthwith into the hobgoblin brew. A small, choice assortment of seasoning vegetables brought the concoction to an artistic consummation—a fat carrot with the scraggy green plume unremoved, three onions, and a miscellaneous handful from the bottom of one pocket which he turned inside out and shook into the can blandly indifferent to the fact that articles which were not, strictly speaking, edible had also joined in this last minute avalanche.

Then, with a sigh of delight, Potts sat down to await the satisfactory moment when the stew would be thoroughly cooked. To Bob fell the task of stirring the steaming mess with a casual stick, the other end of which he used as a poker to goad the fire.

Meanwhile, during the foregoing preparations, Potts had alternated his culinary incantations with an eloquent description to Bob of the history and nature of this place in which the fate of the night road had taken them. Potts told Bob that in the first years of the trestle's existence over Granite Gorge rockslides from Old Witch's Mask—so called because its leering face, nosing close to the midarc of the sharp curve around which the tracks approached the Gorge, hid the trestle from view until the last moment—had been disastrously troublesome. For a long time the Old Witch's dirty face had shed boulders, like pox xcales from a countenance of evil and sin, despite the cultural efforts of the road's best construction engineers who massaged and braced and cared for the complexion of the Old Witch as carefully as the skin of a testy dowager might be treated in a beauty parlor. Finally their work had won comparative safety for the Gorge passage; rocks showered down no more and, as twenty years went by without a slide, the locomotive drivers no longer slowed up, as in the old days, except to the point dictated by ordinary caution. "The Limited Mail," the Transrockian's famed flyer, habitually was taken across the Gorge at thirty-five an hour, and better.

To people moving on the lawful business and pleasure traffic of the world, the bald and forbidding nakedness of Granite Gorge, high and deep in the lost places of the Rocky Mountains, gave no invitation to linger. There was plenty "for to see"—once!—in its sheer immensity of drops and jutments and leaps, but nothing "for to admire" because it was with sinister and not with gracious strokes that Nature had sculptured here. A chill wind constantly brushed the railroad trestle span; and like a rattler's incensed warning the narrow granite gash gave back the labored roars of passing locomotives with a resounding and venomous resentment. Trainmen and passengers breathed easier when the Gorge passage lay behind. It was with wisdom aforethought, the legitimate accommodation of necessity to virtue, that the Transrockian directors had arranged their through schedules so that the several crack flyers of the road crossed the Gorge at night.

"The Old Witch is a nice girl," mocked ribald trainmen, "when she's asleep!"

SCRAPPED SHIPS TO BECOME FLIVVERS

Ford Buys 199 Vessels for Plate Steel to Encase New Cars.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 31.—(United Press).—The first three of the 199 shipping board vessels to be turned into land "flivvers" by Henry Ford are expected to come to anchor at the River Rouge plant the second week in September.

The crafts will be in tow of one of the seven ocean going tugs brought from the government by the Detroit manufacturer.

Thereafter the others of the 149 lake size ships will be brought to the Rouge docks and when a few of them are on hand the work of ripping them apart with acteylene and electric torches will begin.

The fifty larger vessels of the ocean going type will be scrapped at Chester, Pa., or some other point and the steel sheets shipped to the Rouge plant. A few probably will be equipped with Diesel engines and put into service as part of the company's ocean going fleet.

The Ford Motor Company will organize a force from its regular employees to tear down the vessels. Estimates are that the work will require eighteen months.

Ships Sliced Into Strips.

The method to be followed in junking this unusual number of ships will be to strip the boats to the water line, huge cranes carrying the big steel strips away to the furnaces. The hulls will be towed to a small dry dock and chopped up there. In this manner ship after ship by a steady process will be reduced to innumerable slices of steel. The steel can be remelted and used to serve any purpose Ford desires.

None of the lake ships or machinery may be used for carrying purposes on the water but may be utilized in any manner on land. The machinery probably will be converted for work in the Ford factories.

STREET NAMES

CLUXTON STREET

William Cluxton was born in Dundalk, Ireland, in 1819. Six months afterwards he had the misfortune to lose both father and mother.

Brought up by relatives he came to Canada and Peterboro in his early youth, working first as a grocer and then in a dry goods business on Aylmer Street, of which he became manager by reason of thoroughness and attention to business. He did not confine himself entirely to business routine, but cultivated literature and music, and while still a young man gained a wonderful reputation as a musician. Eventually he entered into business for himself and became a leading merchant in Peterboro. In 1872, he devoted his energies to the produce trade and bought grain on a large scale, his deals totalling over half a million dollars annually. He took over the management of the Commercial Bank which he held for eight years.

Mr. Cluxton was also entrusted by his townsmen with positions of public responsibility. He was a member both of town and county councils, president of the Midland Railway Co., president of Little Lake Cemetery Co., of the Gravel Road Co. and of Peterborough Water Co. For many years he was a town magistrate and a captain of militia. He was elected member of the Dominion Parliament in 1872.

He died on February 16, 1901, aged 82 years. The funeral was the largest ever accorded to a resident of Peterborough.

Costs you less than 2% a year!

Though it accomplishes in a few minutes what would otherwise take you hours, the cost of the telephone is one of the smallest items in the family's yearly budget.

A study of expenditures by hundreds of families with incomes from $1,500 to $6,000 shows that the telephone costs less than 2%.

And the value of the service to subscribers is always growing. An army of 50,000 telephone users is added yearly to your calling list.

LOOK AFTER AUSTRALIANS FIRST GREAT BRITAIN SECOND IS POLICY FOLLOWED IN PUBLIC CONTRACTS

Island Continent is Great Believer in Keeping Trade in Empire.

BUYS FOR BRITAIN.

Takes 64 Per Cent. of Her Imports From Britain and Colonies.

QUEBEC, Que., Aug 31 (Special to The Examiner).—An interesting comparison of particular relative to Australian and Canadian trade was given by Sir James Elder, J.B.E. Commissioner, of the United States, who arrived here with Lady Elder on the Canadian Pacific "Empress of Scotland."

"Australian takes 64 per cent. of her imports from the British Empire," said Sir James. "Of this proportion 52 per cent. comes from the United Kingdom. Canada's proportion is next largest, being 4 per cent. of the total.

Australia sends 58 per cent. of her exports to the British Empire.

Family Trade.

Australia is a strong upholder of the principle of family trade. She has trade agreements with the Dominions on the principle of reciprocal treatment in customs preferential rates. She extends a generous preferential tariff to Great Britain which now amounts to the large total of fifty-five million dollars annually. In most of her public contracts there is a distinct and definitely expressed intention to favor her own citizens in the first place, and Great Britain in the second place. This policy is frequently expressed by paying actually higher prices to Australian or British tenderers than those offered from other countries. In this regard Australia resembles the United States whose policy is one that so distinctly favors her own citizens.

Australia's industries are rapidly developing. The value of her production from manufacturing has increased nearly 50 per cent during the last five years.

Per Capita Wealth Grows.

Australia's wealth per head is growing faster than her increase in population although that increase is as rapid as that of any country. There are one million more people in Australia today than there were seven years ago. Her population is now six millions, of which nearly 98 per cent. is white British. The average expectation of life in Australia is now eight years longer than it was three decades ago.

MORE WORK FOUND FOR UNEMPLOYED

Fifty-two Applications in Peterborough—53 Positions Found.

Applicants are now registering in increasing numbers at the Employment Exchange. Fifty-two new applications were filed last week, over 75 per cent. of which were from city residents. Work chiefly on farms and in the bush was found for 53 persons. It is expected that an increased demand for help will come in for ploughing which will commence as soon as the ground has been moistened. The official summary for the week says:

"Many of the offices report a large number of men as having gone to the West on the harvest excursion and this has reduced the number of unemployed registered. Farm orders for Ontario harvest and threshing still continue to come in. Building operations are fairly good. The domestic situation remains about the same. On the whole there has been an improvement in conditions generally.

SUBMARINE MISSING SINCE SHAM BATTLE

Italian Vessel, With 55 Men, Has Been Lost For Three Days.

ROME, August 31. Canadian Press—The Italian 900 ton submarine Sebastiano Veneiro, with 55 men on board, which has been missing three days, and the navy admitted to-day that extensive researches were being made for her.

The Veneiro participated in the recent naval sham warfare and was last reported off Cape Passero.

The finding of oil on the waters there gave rise to rumours that she had foundered.

PETERBORO GETS BIG 'GLAD.' SHOW FOR NEXT YEAR

1,200 Exhibits Filled Big Drill Hall in Hamilton Armouries.

RIOT OF COLOR.

Obtaining Exhibition For Peterborough Should Give Beauty Culture Impetus.

The next exhibition of the Canadian Gladiolus Society will be held in this city, says C. S. Thompson, who has just returned from attending the fourth annual show of the society at Hamilton.

Mr. Thompson is of the opinion that this decision should be of untold value to Peterborough, because of the stimulus it will certainly give to flora culture.

The gladiolus spike is a thing of marvellous beauty and due to development of late years a number of new types and colors has been evolved which makes their cultivation an absorbing practise which if once established should result in beautifying the entire city. The gladiolus is a hardy plant especially adapted for this climate and because of this as well as its decorative features, Mr. Thompson believes that it might be profitably encouraged.

In honor of the fact that Peterborough has been selected for this exhibition of bloom, the residents should plan to specialize in growing gladioli next year. As there is a special class open for local competition, there will be plenty of incentive given. Hitherto the exhibits have been staged farther west and it is with a desire to increase the interest of the residents of eastern Canada that it is being held in Peterboro next year.

The display this year occupied one entire drill hall of the Hamilton Armouries, and included the contributions of 1,200 entrants who had on display every variety and color of gladiolus spike known. The educative value of the show could not be underestimated and the Gladiolus Society has as its object the development of Ontario into the garden province of the Dominion.

Dr. J. E. Bennett of St. Thomas, Ontario, President of the Association, said that Canada should lead America in the horticultural movement and that Ontario should set the pace for the Dominion. The gladiolus is the flower of today because of its adapability, hardy nature and variegated bloom.

Thousands of Hamilton people visited the show, a fact which attested to its importance, and the interest which the movement is developing.

The St. Thomas Horticultural Society had an unique exhibit comprising over 1,500 stock of 200 varieties, the whole mass of bloom being formed into the letter H.

A New Zealand exhibitor grew his seedling in Canada in order that he might compete under the rules of the society. When the interest in the cultivation of the gladioli grows to the proportions which prompt people of other nations to compete, some idea of its importance may be conceived.

J. H. Callender had sent for display purpose a basket of Los Angeles gladioli, which had been originated by Houdyshel of California. They were the only spikes of this variety in Canada, so far as is known.

It is certain that in Peterborough there is already considerable interest in the cultivation of the beautiful flowers which formed the basis of this display.

This interest should be materially heightened when such a society, Dominion wide in its proportions, announces that this city will be the display site for the products of 1926 season, and the individuals should see that in the local portion of the exhibition, Peterborough might be represented by a mass of beauty grown in this district.

VISITORS STRUCK BY BEAUTY AND OPPORTUNITIES

British Newspapermen Who Are Touring Canada, Entranced by Maritimes.

MUCH INTERESTED.

Chances of Development Seen on Every Hand, Appealed to Visiting Writers.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Examiner).—The British newspapermen now touring Canada on the invitation of President E. W. Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, last night completed their trip to the Maritime Provinces and are setting out for Montreal on their way to Ontario and the West. Tuesday will be spent in Montreal, Wednesday in Ottawa and Thursday and Friday in Toronto, and later a visit will be paid to Hamilton and the Niagara district, including the Falls.

The entire party has been greatly struck with the beauty of the scenery in these provinces and with the opportunities for development which they have seen on every hand. Their investigation into economic and industrial conditions has been as thorough as the length of their stay permitted, and the hospitality of the people throughout the trip has been most generous.

They have motored most of the way through the provinces visited, arrangements at this end having been made by Hon. J. A. Walker, Minister of Resources. Premier Rhodes presided at a lunch given yesterday, and among those present were the Lieutenant-Governor and the Government Ministers.

The party was greatly interested in a visit to the Evangeline country and spent some time at Evangeline Memorial Park, the scene of Longfellow's historic poem.

PLAN FLOWER SHOW FOR SEPTEMBER

Effort Being Made By Horticultural Society to Surpass Past.

Plans are under way which should should result in making the Flower Show, to be held on September 10 and 11, better than any previously held. George Baldwin, an acknowledged authority on horticulture, has been secured to act as judge, and negotiations directed by Col. W. Gordon Hall are under way for the purpose of securing the armories for display purposes.

The executive is busy working out the necessary incidentals and arrangements have been perfected so that a children's choir recruited from all the schools in the city and under the personal management of Miss Rannie, of the Normal School, will provide entertainment. The choir will have eighty voices.

WANT THE GAME TO BE PLAYED OVER

Petes Contend That Ground Rule Only Allowed Batstone a Double Saturday.

The executive of the Peterboro Ball Club will in all probability decide at a meeting today to ask that Saturday's ball game at Kingston be replayed on the ground that Batstone's hit in the fifth innings which was allowed to go as a triple, scoring three runs, was under the ground rule a two base hit, and that the Kingston score for the inning should have been only three runs instead of four leaving the tally at the end of the game a tie.

"I am not complaining of criticism—every public person must expect that—but those who attack should at least make sure of all the facts before they bring undeserved pain and abuse upon one already involved in a great and abiding sorrow. I am glad to say that those who know me, and took the trouble to acquaint themselves with the facts, have written to me expressing their deep regret that so completely unfounded a charge should have been used against me. I am not concerned in the least to defend my action but simply to explain why I consider it both necessary and justifable."

ULSTER TO LOSE TENTH OF LAND BOUNDARY COMMISSION AWARD

Forecast Says Ulster Gets Part of Donegal From Free State.

DUBLIN GETS MORE.

Most of Fermanagh, Armagh, Monaghan, Louth and South Down to South.

LONDON, Aug. 31. — (Canadian Press).—A forecast of the Irish Boundary Commission's report, which is to be published this week, is made by the Daily Mail's Dublin correspondent, who says the Free State will receive about one-tenth of the present Ulster territory, while Ulster receives in exchange only a small part of the County of Donegal from the Dublin Government.

The findings of the Commission are said to be almost entirely the work of Justice Richard Feetsham, of the South African Supreme Court, who was appointed with representatives of the Free State and Ulster to draw up the report, as the Irish delegates are understood not to have departed from the "Die Hard" attitude of their governments and were not willing to entertain a compromise.

The outline of the forecast gives the Free State almost the whole of the County of Fermanagh without the town of Enniskillen, the greater portion of South Armagh, with the town of Newry, and the Counties of Monaghan, Louth and South Down.

WELLINGTON HAD VISIONS OF BIG CANAL SYSTEM

Recommended in 1819 the Construction of Interior. Waterways.

INTERESTING HISTORY.

Rotarian Killaly Discusses the First Canals in Canada.

That the Duke of Wellington, hero of Waterloo, recommended in 1819, the construction of a chain of canals from Ottawa to Lake Simcoe, via the Kawartha Lakes, and the extension of this system of waterways as far west as the Grand River, was one of the unusual bits of information that featured an address by Rotarian A. L. Killaly before the Rotary Club at its luncheon to-day.

Rotarian Killaly's subject was the early history of canals in Canada and his treatment of this unhackneyed subject was full of interest.

The first canal in Canada, he explained, was built by the Jesuit Fathers at Lachine, and in 1763 when Canada passed from French into British hands this was the only canal into the country. A little later there was a canal built at the Cascade Rapids, a very small affair, but six feet wide and with a depth of only 2½ feet.

The speaker pointed out that after the war of 1912 the British military authorities were apprehensive of any navigation developments along the frontier and this apprehension resulted in the Duke of Wellington's recommendation, which was designed to provide safe water communication in the interior. As a result of this report the Ottawa river canal and afterwards the Rideau canal were built by the Imperial government.

About the same time the people of the Trent district petitioned to have this waterway developed, and the government of Upper Canada in 1833 ordered the construction of locks at Bobcaygeon the beginning of what is now known as the Trent Canal.

TAKING MOVIES OF TOURISTS

The Picture Bureau, in the Department of Provincial Treasurer Price has adopted what appears to be an excellent device to popularize Ontario in the United States. An auto is being utilized to go into various parts of the province where American tourists may be disporting themselves, the apparatus shown in the above photo will be attached to the car at the convenient spot, and from the elevated position the camera man will do his work. Pictures will be sent to the newspapers in the places from which the tourists hail.

New York Worm Market Shows Sensational Rise

NEW YORK, August 31. — (United Press.) — The New York worm market showed a sensational rise over the week end.

As a result of a sudden run of fish in the vicinity of Staten Island, sand worms for bait sold yesterday afternoon for as high as $5 a dozen.

WORKS BOARD HAS BIG JOB ON HAND

Work of Engineer's Department Should Not Be Judged By Paving.

Mr. Parsons says that because no paving operations are being conducted this year the people may be under the impression that the Board of Works is sitting back and enjoying an easy summer.

On the contrary he states that the biggest job undertaken in several years is in the making. The Sewage Disposal plant is a $220,000 job whereas the most ever spent in one year on paving was $135,000 so that by comparing these figures an actual representation of the work in progress this year is given.

On paving jobs the plans are simple, almost standardized but for a plant such as is being built at the southern extremity of the city careful planning is necessary as well as painstaking supervision on the part of those on the board. The plant is quite unique there being very few in operation in the Dominion. Mr. Parsons states that the work is progressing favoraby and is of an excellent grade of craft and material.

FELL FROM POLE.

Boy Seeking Kite Received Severe Shock and Bad Fall.

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press)—Dropping 60 feet from a hydro pole, Arthur Rippen twelve, years old, is in the hospital in a critical condition, with burns from the high tension wire added to the injuries he received in the fall. The boy climbed up to free his kite from the mesh work of high voltage wires at the top of the pole, came into contact with a wire carrying 13,000 volts and received a terrific shock which threw him to the ground, enveloped in flames.

SWIMMING CHANNEL.

London Doctor Left Dover This Morning To Swim To France.

DOVER, England, Aug. 31. Canadian Press. — G. B. Brewster, a London doctor, 34 year old, is the latest aspirant for the channel swimming honors. He ntered the water here at 11.45 o'clock this morning and at 3 p. m., was swimming strongly. The sea was calm and the weather perfect.

DIG TRENCHES AROUND CANTON

"Reds" Are Preparing For Fight With Anti-Red Forces.

UNREST CONTINUES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press). — Cablegrams from Canton, delayed by the strikes and disorders there, received here to-day say that the "Reds" (Chinese declared under Russian Bolshevik influence) are digging trenches around the city in preparation for a conflict with the opposing faction.

Kwantung soldiers, "anti-Reds," are being disarmed by the opposing faction which is said to be causing a continuance of the unrest which had prevailed in the city for many weeks.

YOUNG WOMAN DISAPPEARED

Mrs. Ben Davis Left Her Home at Indian River on Saturday.

NOT SEEN SINCE.

Constable W. H. Whibbs phoned yesterday from Indian River, advising the Peterborough police Department of the disappearance from Indian River, of a young married woman, Mrs. Ben Davies, who went off in an automobile, towards Peterboro on Saturday evening, and has not been seen since. She is twenty years of age and has black bobbed hair, and wore a brown dress, sandals and black stockings. It is thought possible that she may be suffering from loss of memory.

AN OPEN LETTER TO

HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa.

Dear Sir:

The undersigned purposes addressing to you, through this and possibly other newspapers, a series of open letters, in the course of which various phases of our country's economic life will be dealt with.

Behind these letters there will be but one object—to secure for Canada, regardless of whether it has a Liberal, a Conservative, or a Progressive Government, the acceptance of those policies best calculated to ensure the continuous and well-balanced development of all her resources, and to promote the happiness and prosperity of all her people.

My Company itself has no sectional interests to serve. To it all races, all creeds, all occupations, all districts, are but component parts of a unity like the human body, that can have no well-being apart from the well-being of all its members.

It is, however, concerned in principles, and in obtaining for those principles the widest possible recognition and practice among the men and women voters in Canada.

Should some of its questions, or its manner of raising them, prove embarrassing to you, please be assured that that is not intentional, but only incidental to the attainment of a worthy object, which is the giving of food for serious thought to the Canadian electorate.

Its messages to you will be read by thousands of people, a steadily increasing number of whom will be awaiting with interest any pronouncement you see fit to make in regard thereto.

Whether you will find yourself in harmony or in disagreement with us, we trust that, in the interests of an intelligent vote at the next election, you will declare yourself and let the people know definitely what your policy will be in the event of your Government being returned to power.

Bespeaking for these messages a consideration commensurate with the importance of the issues they will raise, and with personal good wishes,

Yours respectfully,

President.

OPEN LETTER NO. 2

HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING,
Prime Minister and President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa, Canada

Dear Sir:

Why is it that Canada, with the elaborate literature she is distributing, and with high-pressure agents in Europe picturing her as the land of great opportunity, is getting RELATIVELY LITTLE IMMIGRATION, while the United States, without any propaganda at all, always has a WAITING LIST OF IMMIGRANTS anxious to get in?

Like hotel "spielers" at the big railway stations, our agents are doing their best to steer travelers into our open portals, but the travelers are ignoring them—passing right by to knock at Uncle Sam's closed door —CONTENT TO WAIT UNTIL HE IS READY TO OPEN IT!

Why is it that hundreds of them every year are said to be ready to pay "runners" as high as five hundred dollars to be smuggled across the Canadian border into that country?

What is the explanation? What is there about the United States that makes that country so attractive to immigrants? What is there about Canada that makes her, by comparison, so unattractive? WHY ARE SO MANY CANADIANS THEMSELVES FLOCKING ACROSS THE BORDER?

Does the United States offer superior educational advantages, or greater religious liberty? Is it because she has adopted national prohibition that immigrants from Europe are attracted to her? Is her judicial system an improvement on ours? Has she a lower crime record, and does she promise better protection to the life and property of the immigrant? Does she offer the newcomer a lower cost of living?

If it is none of these, if it is DESPITE HER INFERIORITY in some of these respects, then what is it?

If you do not know, there are millions of Canadians in the United States who will tell you that the UNITED STATES' TARIFF POLICY, by assuring every new-comer a steady job at good wages, HAS BEEN THE ONLY IMMIGRATION POLICY SHE EVER NEEDED!

Is your Government going to follow her good example, and profit by her experience, or is it, by persisting in a policy of proven inferiority, going to leave the United States in a position where she can continue to bleed us?

Yours respectfully,

J. J. GIBBONS,
President.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

MONDAY ISSUE

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a girl twenty years old. I was very much in love with a man four years my senior, but we quarreled and he went away. Since then I have met a man whom I admire very much and I have promised to be his wife. The first man has now returned and asked me to forgive him. He says that he loves me and I love him more than ever. But he has no money and the other man is one of means.

Which shall I choose?

—In Distress.

In Distress: Of course, if money means more to you than love, you may be happy if you marry a man whom you only admire, my dear. But if you were really in love you would let money and everything else material go to the winds. I suggest that you talk this problem over with your friend and your fiance and tell them exactly how you feel about the whole situation. My advice is that you break your engagement with the man you do not love and marry the one you do. Otherwise your marriage will not be successful and you will regret it.

Dear Annie Laurie: I am a girl of sixteen and am engaged to a young man of twenty-two.

Do you think I am too young to be engaged? —Duck.

Duck: Marriage is a game which demands strong shoulders and a mature mind my dear. And at sixteen, no matter what your store of experience is, you are hardly able to cope with the problems of marital life. As for your engagement, that too, should not be thought of now. Long engagements are impractical and very often embarrassing and I would suggest that you explain the matter to your fiance and ask his permission to break your troth. Then continue your friendship with him but do not give up your other friends until you are old enough to consider marriage seriously.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

A DREAM CAME TRUE FOR LITTLE BOY BLUE.

Little Boy Blue was having the time of his life. He'd never been on the train before, and dear me, how he did love it—everything about it. Little Boy Blue laughed aloud and clapped his fat hands—he was so delighted.

Little Boy Blue was chubby and roly-poly and round, and he had two dimples, one on each side of his funny, pursed-up little mouth, and his knees were so ridiculous that you just wanted to bite them.

And his cheeks were like fresh peaches, and his eyes were as blue as the blue lakes in the highest mountains in the world, and his hair was exactly like yellow corn silk.

His little back was straight and stiff, and his little chest was broad and deep, and how hard he did try to walk like a man.

He wore blue denim overalls, with a red pocket and red trimming around the neck—and how he did love that pocket!

He told the conductor about it, and the porter and the brakeman and all the passengers. He didn't say much—he just pointed and swelled out his chest, and everybody knew what he meant.

He was just about two years old—and he loved being alive, and you couldn't look at him a minute without being glad you were alive—yourself.

The watch—that was the great thing.

He didn't call it a watch, he called it a "tick-tick"—and what do you think? The woman in the drawing room let him have the "tick-tick" right in his own hand—think of that!

It was a broken "tick-tick"—and a pretty cheap one at that, with both of the hands gone—but Little Boy Blue didn't know that, and he wouldn't have cared if he had known.

Here he'd been nearly all the two years of his life plotting and scheming to get a "tick-tick" into his hands. His relatives often had shown him one—at a safe distance.

His blue eyes were round with astonishment. He pursed up his funny little mouth in an "O," clutched the "tick-tick" an waddled to his daddy to show him.

All day long he played with the "tick-tick"—what cared he about the broken hands, and it was nothing to him that the watch didn't cost more than a dollar and a half in the first place—he had found out the treasure of his life, and when the moon rose over the mountains in the clear air of the evening he stretched out his chubby little arms toward the sky and laughed happily.

I think he thought the moon was going to tumble right down into his arms—why not? He had wished for the moon a hundred times—and for the "tick-tick," too—the "tick-tick" had materialized. Some night, perhaps—some one would hand him the moon—just like that.

Bless his little heart, I hope he'll get his heart's desire and that they will all make him just as happy as the cheap, little, old, broken watch made him.

ENMESHED

By Juanita Hamel

There's no escaping Fate! You may think you are dodging the net which she has laid to ensnare you, but you cannot do it forever. Sooner or later Fate will enmesh you in the golden net of love, and then—you're no longer a law unto yourself. Love will be your law and your guide. And She whom Fate has prompted to weave around you the golden net of Love will be a your magnet. She it is to whom you will be irresistibly drawn and irrevocably held by the slender, golden web which Love has woven.

A Navy Blue Twill Coat Trimmed With Lighter Blue Crepe Insets.

Light weight navy twill makes this smart advance Fall coat. We are told that blue will be very smart for the Fall season, and this model is most effective in its use of lighter blue crepe strips, inset as a trimming for the navy blue.

The military collar carries out the spirit of the coat. The lower strips at either hip conceal tiny inset pockets.

Other advance Fall coats feature black satin, or navy blue. A stunning black satin model worn by a prominent actress is banded all about with chinchilla.

DEVONSHIRE FAMILY SCATTERED IN CANADA

The above family, which is that of John Dovell, Toronto, is scattered, some in Ontario and some in Saskatchewan. The picture, which was taken some years ago, shows the father and mother and fourteen children, with the eldest living daughter shown separately. There were in all eighteen children, but two died at birth and one at the ages of a year. Mr. Dovell came out from Devon at the age of five, married a Canadian girl, and now at the age of 75 he has set out for Saskatchewan to "help the boys get in the harvest."

Let's Talk It Over

HE WANTED A WIFE; NOT A SISTER.

"I can only be a sister to you," says she.

"I got a sister already, I don't want anymore," says he. "What I had in mind was a wife."

"I don't want to be your wife; and besides," says she, hedging, "how was I to know that was what you wanted?"

"Whatd'ja think I've beeu sticking around you for the last six months for?" says he, refusing to be hedged, "spendin' all my money on shows and taxis and chocolates and chickens-a-la-king? So I could be a 'brother' to you?"

That's what "Lonesome One" said to the lady who ate his lobster and spurned his love, and if you ask me I'll say he had a perfect right to say it. No, I'm not advocating matrimony as the price of lobster, and I'm not denouncing the girl who accepts an occasional treat from the lad she'll never be more than a sister to. But I "am" going to join with the sex that does the paying and say that a nice girl who accepts expensive attentions and serious advances from a young man she has no intention of marrying is as bad as the Gold Digger, and maybe worse. The Gold Digger may not be a pretty specimen of womanhood, but she's generally known for what she is, while the sweet young thing who leads a man on to expect marriage, for the sake of the safe good times he'll give her in the interim, is a snake in the grass.

Read what "Lonesome One" has to say about it: there's truth here:

What do you think of a girl that leads a fellow on until he is almost ready to pay the first installment on the wedding furniture and then says: "Oh, I dodn't think you meant anything like that! I can't possibly be anything but a friend?"

I don't mean the jazz-baby kind of a girl. A fellow knows what to expect when he steps out with one of them. And if they string him, it's his own fault. What I mean is the nice girl who is supposed to have something in her head beside thoughts of a good time. Usually these girls work too and you'd think they would realize what it means to a young fellow to spend a lot of money, when he is only getting a small salary. But generally they are just as bad as the rest. They take all they can get and then when you want them to set the day, they act as if you were crazy. Don't you think a girl understands what a fellow means?

—Lonesome One.

Yes, son I do. And if a few of your friends will read my prefactory remarks to your letter, they'll also understand what I mean. It's time some rude journalist told those Calculating Carries where they get off, and I'm willing to tackle the job whenever it's necessary.

Here's another letter:

I went with a fellow for a year. I loved him and had reason to think he loved me. He wasn't earning very much and I wanted to help him save so we could get married.

At the end of the year what happened? While I was sitting at home building air castles about him, he was out with some gold digger, spending on her what he had saved on me. Flowers every other night, candy, taxis, shows. And he loved it! Bragged about it! That's why we have Gold Diggers. Men don't appreciate the other kind.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

ACQUIRING A TRIM FOOT.

Do you really understand the importance of caring for your feet after the most approved methods?

I ask if you really understand, because many women who think they look after their feet properly, simply do not understand this more or less simple matter.

Washing your feet daily, drying them carefully, and wearing fresh, perfectly clean stockings and keeping your nails the proper length is not all that is necessary. You may do all this, and still do your feet the greatest injustice by squeezing them into shoes that were never meant for them.

You want to be smartly shod, of course. But do not let this desire overrule your common-sense in the matter of picking shoes. For instance, if you like a long, narrow vamp, do not insist upon this even if your feet are of the short, wider type. Study the type of your feet and choose your shoes accordingly.

The time has passed when most sensible shoes were unlovely to look at. Now the best shoes are so well made and designed with an eye to symmetry and beauty, that they can combine the most sensible aspects and be beautiful and easy to wear at the same time.

High heels are very pretty in their proper places, but I, for one, am much in favor of a lower heel for walking and everyday wear. The heel need not be of the very flat, low, Oxford type if you do not find it most becoming. There are Cuban heels and various medium heels that are sensible and pretty. Wear these during the day, and when you dress for the evening slip on the most fragile, frivolous slippers you please, providing they fit you.

Now, if your feet ache after a long day when you have done more than your usual amount of walking or standing, try the following treatment. You need only three simple aids, as follows:

A footbath filled with hot water.
Castile or any other pure soap.
Two handfuls of bran.

First make a lathery soapsuds with the hot water and soap. Just before you put your feet in the foot-bath put in the two handfuls of bran. The bran will help stimulate circulation and make your feet feel more rested. If you wish, rinse them in a second clear hot water bath afterwards.

Dry your feet thoroughly and complete the feeling of refreshment by donning fresh stockings and shoes of a different type from the ones you have worn all day. Changing shoes helps wonderfully in resting your feet.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS HAS A MERRY CHAT WITH A PAIR OF HAPPY TRAVELERS.

Doris stood perfectly still, watching the little brown bird until he settled on a bush near her.

"Why, you pretty little sparrow!" Doris exclaimed. "Yet you're larger than a sparrow, aren't you?"

"Guess I am," twittered the brown bird. "At least, that's what I have heard, that I'm larger than a sparrow. I'm Bobby Bobolink, the gay traveler, and you're——" he he tilted his pretty little head to one side and chirped.

"Doris Day," laughed Doris. "A friend of Happy Giggles, Squeedee and Goocombeack."

"Of course, Bobby Bobolink knew that," laughed a tiny voice, and Doris turned to see Happy Giggles, the merry little elfin from Makebelieve Land, smiling at her side. "When did you get back, Bobby and where have you been and how?"

"You're something like me," laughed Doris, "asking so many questions at once."

"That's all right" chirped Bobby Bobolink. "Well, we're mighty fine, the wife, the family and myself. We sure have had one glorious season."

"We Live in the Hayfield."

"Oh, then you don't stay here all the year?" asked Doris. "You really do travel?"

"I hope to tell you we travel," laughed Bobby Bobolink. "Why, last Winter we, my wife and I, were in the West Indian Islands. My, I never saw so many grubs, insects and seeds to eat. Why, we grew so fat and saucy, folks called us butter-birds. Then along the first of April, I think it was, the wife grew restless, and we came back into South Carolina. Here we filled up on rice to our hearts' content, and——"

"I suppose they called you rice birds," laughed Doris.

"Just what they did," chirped Bobby Bobolink. "And we lost many in our party, for they trap and eat all the rice birds they can catch. Well, along the middle of May we went up into Virginia and Pennsylvania. Here we feated on young wheat and barley until the folks began to call us reed birds. We came into New England the middle of June and here we'll stay until Fall."

"Then do it all over again," laughed Happy Giggles. "Yes, and another thing you forgot to mention, Bobby, was the fact that you change your suit to keep up with your surroundings."

"I was going to say that, then I looked at this sombre brown suit I have on now, and kept my mouth shut," replied Bobby Bobolink. "You see, these are my working togs. I have a family to take care of now, so I must dress so folks won't spy me so easily. If you'll excuse me, I'll be on my way. Come over sometime and see my wife. We live down in the hayfield," and spreading his pretty brown and buff wings he sailed away.

Doris turned to say something to Happy Giggles and found herself alone.

Humming merrily, she ran back home to tell her Mama what Bobby Bobolink had said.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

SOME APPETIZING BUFFET FISH DISHES.

Cold fish dishes for luncheon, or cold dinners, are quite popular, and when properly prepared are very appetizing.

Fillet of Anchovies.

The fillets come canned. Drain the oil from the fillets carefully. Have ready four slices of crustless, lightly buttered toast and arrange the fillets on them, dust with a tiny bit of red pepper and garnish with sprays of fresh watercress, lemon quarters, radish roses, and a fresh scallion placed across each portion.

Codfish Flakes.

Select a fine fresh codfish and take two or three pounds from the shoulders and boil. When the fish is cold remove the binder and then carefully take off the skin and draw out the large bones. Next carefully flake in large pieces the depth of the fish and the width from backbone to edge. Mask each flake in Russian dressing and place it on a fresh, crisp lettuce leaf. Garnish with a piece of red pepper cut into fine strips, and pimento olives. Serve dainty bread and butter sandwiches with the fish.

Fish Tarts.

Flake cold boiled fish enough to make two cupfuls. Season with pepper, salt, juice of an onion, two tablespoonfuls of French dressing and enough white mayonnaise to moisten the mass. Add a teaspoonful of minced capers, a teaspoonful of minced pepper and celery leaves. Fill tart shells of rich crust with the mixture and garnish with a curled anchovy on top of each.

Some People Have Funny Ideas

What do you think Carnation Milk is like?

Do you think it is "thick as molasses in January"? It isn't... Do you think it is syrupy sweet? It isn't. Do you think it has a funny taste? It hasn't. Do you think something is "put in" to make it keep? There isn't. Do you think some of the food value is taken out? It isn't.

Pure Milk in a modern package—that's all

Carnation Milk is just pure milk with part of the natural water content taken out by evaporation.

All the food value of full-cream milk is left in. No artificial sweetening or other preservative is added.

Each can is hermetically sealed and sterilized to keep its contents pure, sweet, and utterly safe.

Carnation Milk is a great aid to better baking because of its convenience, safety and richness. Always ready for use on your pantry shelf—none is wasted because it keeps sweet for several days when opened. Sold by grocers everywhere—order several tall (16 oz.) cans or by the case of 48 cans.

CARNATION BREAD

1¼ cups water, ¼ cup Carnation Milk, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cups flour, 1 cake compressed yeast, 3 teaspoons sugar. Soak yeast, in a small amount of lukewarm water. Measure the salt, sugar and shortening into a mixing bowl. Add the scalded milk and water. When lukewarm add the yeast and mix thoroughly. Then add the flour gradually. When stiff enough to handle, turn the dough on a floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Put into a bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place about one and one-half hours or until double its bulk, then make into loaves and put in baking pans. Cover, and again let stand in a warm place about one hour or until it has doubled its bulk, then bake about forty-five minutes. This makes two loaves of bread.

SUNSHINE CAKE

6 egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 7 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon orange or lemon extract. Beat the yolks of eggs thoroughly. Sift flour twice, sift sugar once. Beat whites until foamy, add cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Fold sugar in lightly, add beaten yolks, then add flavoring and cut and fold in flour. Bake about fifty minutes in a moderately hot oven. This serves twelve to fifteen people.

PETES NOSED OUT IN PLAY-OFF GAME AFTER LEADING PONIES BY 4 RUNS TO 0 HALF WAY HOME

Beaten 6 to 5 in Loosely Played Battle in Which Both Pitchers Suffered From Poor Support.

Gallagher Goes Route.

Veteran Southpaw Pitched For Ponies and Secured Verdict Over Petes in

A couple of most unlucky innings coming after they had piled up what looked to be a safe lead vanquished the Petes at Kingston Saturday in the re-play of Wednesday's tie game, the Ponies winning by 6 to 5 and capturing the series and the Central Ontario League championship.

In the first two games of the series the Johnstonites had not been favoured with many of the breaks, but in the early frames of Saturday's contest it looked as if old man Hard Luck had decided he had done the Petes enough harm.

They earned two clean runs off Gallagher in the third and were presented with two more on three Kingston errors in the first half of the fifth while the Ponies had been kept off the scoring sheet.

But old John B. Jinx was only biding his time—waiting to do his stuff when the Petes would feel it the most.

In the last half of the fifth he decided it was time to hop out there and throw the hooks into the Petes—and he did it aplenty.

Just at this stage, remember, the invaders were in front 4 to 0 and the game seemed safely stowed away in the bat bag.

How It Happened.

An error started it, for when Scott, first up, dubbed a weak roller down third base way Helson fumbled momentarily and then threw low to first.

Whitehouse passed Arniel, putting two runners on, but he worked on Gallagher, striking the big pitcher out, and disposed of Teepel on an easy fly to Helson.

With Halbert up—usually a soft spot for left-handed pitchers — the danger seemed over.

But old man Jinx was going nicely now and thus when Halbert bounced a high one back at Whitehouse the pitcher's stab for it caused the ball to bound high in the air toward second. Rose ran over to gather in the Spalding for a force play that would have retired the side but lost track of the ball in the blinding sun and the tap went for a hit, filling the bases.

Harry Batstone, whose triple in the ninth inning of Wednesday's game saved his team from defeat, was the next batter, and with the count 3 and 2 on him cracked a liner down the first base line that lit almost exactly on the foul line and bounced into the crowd and three runs scored while the batter reached third.

The play caused a big dispute inasmuch as it was understood by the Petes that on a ball going into the crowd between the foul flag and the plate, as this one did, only two bases could be given and Manager Johnston argued strenuously, but to no avail, that Batstone should be sent back to second and only two runners allowed to score.

The umpires contended that the ground rules as made only applied to left field and the Petes kick got them nothing, Batstone scoring a moment later when Somerville's grounder was fumbled.

That was bad enough for a couple of games but there was more coming for in the next frame when Kingston filled the bases with none out on a hit, a walk and an error, old Mr. Jinx again appeared.

Gallagher the next batter sent an easy high bounder toward first for what looked like a sure force out at the plate but Harrison lost the ball in the sun and it went by him, allowing two runs to score. The next three were easy and this break gave the Ponies a two run lead that the Petes failed to overcome.

It was a mighty tough game for Frank Whitehouse to lose, or the winner should not have scored off the Peterboro youngster. The side should have been retired in the fatal fifth before Batston got a chance to drag his menacing bat up to the plate and the two counters registered in the sixth were caused by Old Sol butting into the argument. Three of the hits made off Whitehouse were scratches and with any luck at all he should have breezed home a winner.

Opposed to Whitehouse was the veteran Gallagher and although the Petes did not fatten their averages very much against the wily old lefthander they got to him early for the only two clean runs of the game and when they were presented with two more it did not look as if Gallagher would go the route. The fours runs scored by the Ponies in the fifth proved a life saver, however, and he finished the game in good style.

Although full of excitement it was the poorest played game of the series. Both teams seemed to feel the tension and their defensive work suffered as a result while an unusually glaring sun gave the players on the right hand side of the diamond a tough day, Teepel the Ponies' right fielder having three errors while both Purvis and Harrison lost plays in the sun that went for hits.

In the first Rose popped to Gallagher and Ash was thrown out by Halbert. Swanston was hit. Harrison struck out.

For the Ponies Teepel fanned. Halbert rolled to Harrison. Batstone doubled to deep centre. Somerville scratched a hit on a bounder over the box but Batstone was caught between third and home on the play.

Hall rolled to Somerville to start the second. Wolfe flied to Scott in left and Helson drove one to Teepel.

In Kingston's half Cherry lifted high to Hall. Purvis doubled to right centre. Scott struck out and Holyman tossed out Arniel.

Petes Score First.

The Petes scored the only clean runs of the game in the third. After Holyman had been thrown out by Gallagher, Whitehouse singled down the first base line and scored on Rose's beautiful triple to deep centre. Rose trotted home on Ash's sacrifice fly to Cherry. Swanston rolled to Halbert.

Helson ran to the crowd and made a fine catch of Gallagher's foul in the Ponies' half, and Whitehouse threw out Teepel and Halbert.

Harrison, first up in the Petes' fourth, boomed a fly to Teepel which the right fielder dropped but recovered in time to throw out Harrison out at second. Hall rolled to Gallagher. Wolfe singled past second and stole the middle station. Somerville made a fine catch of Helson's low line drive which looked like a sure hit.

Batstone opened the Kingston end with a walk but was forced at second when Rose knocked down Somerville's liner and threw to Holyman. Cherry flied to Hall and Helson made a fine stop of Purvis' hard rolled to force Somerville at second.

The Petes made it 4 to 0 in the fifth. Holyman was thrown out by Batstone and Whitehouse hit to Purvis for an out at first. Rose walked and stole second. Ash rolled one to Somerville, who let it get away and Rose scored while Ash went to third on Teepel's bad throw to the plate. Swanston was hit. Teepel muffed Harrison's fly to right, Ash scoring and Swanston going to third. Harrison stole second. Hall rolled to Somerville.

An Unlucky Session.

Then came the first disastrous frame. Helson fumbled Scott's roller long enough to lose the runner and Arniel walked. Whitehouse fanned Gallagher and got Teepel on a pop to Helson, but Halbert's bounder over the box bounded high in the air off Whitehouse's glove and Rose, with the sun in his eyes, could not handle it. This cheap hit filled the bases and then, with 3 and 2 on him, Batstone drove down the right field foul line for the bases, scoring Scott, Arniel and Halbert. Manager Johnston argued strenuously that, according to the ground rules, the drive was only good for two bases, but he was over-ruled. Holyman fumbled Somerville's roller and Batstone scored the tieing run. Whitehouse threw out Cherry.

In the sixth Wolfe flied to Cherry and Helson was thrown out by Batstone. Purvis lost Holyman's liner in the sun and it went for a hit, but Whitehouse's high bounder was speared by Gallagher.

Kingston got the winning runs in their half on the toughest kind of a break. Purvis doubled to right. Scott was safe on Holyman's fumble and Johnston went to short stop. Scott stole second. Arniel was passed, filling the bases. Gallagher bounced a high one down the first base line and with an easy force out at the plate Harrison completely lost the ball in the sun and it bounded by for the cheapest of cheap hits, Purvis and Scott scoring. Teepel popped to Rose, Halbert struck out and Batstone raised a high one to Harrison.

The Petes got an easy one back in the seventh. Rose hit a slow one to Batstone and looked to have the throw beaten but Umpire Gerow called him out. Ash cut a single over Batstone's head. Swanston struck out and on the third one Ash stole second, going all the way round when Arniel threw low to the keystone and Halbert recovering the ball threw it past Batstone. Harrison fanned.

For Kingston Somerville flied one to Whitehouse. Cherry double down the left field foul line. Purvis hoisted to Rose and Hall came in fast and grabbed Scott's short fly.

The Petes had a chance in the eighth when Hall, first up, was hit, but Wolfe flied to Teepel and Helson to Batstone. Hall then stole second but Johnston struck out.

Arniel flied to Wolfe. Ash made a jumping catch of Gallagher's smash down the right field foul line and Teepel gave Rose a put out.

In the ninth Heckman batted for Whitehouse and came close to tieing up the game with a homer for he drove the ball to deep right centre, only to have Cherry make a fine catch. It started like circuit clout. Rose was thrown out on a fast play by Bastone. Ash was hit but Swanston was tossed out by Gallagher and it was all over.

BABE RUTH DENIES EXCESSIVE DRINKING AND WILL REFER HIS PUNISHMENT TO JUDGE LANDIS Alleges Huggins Has Made Him "The Goat" For Yankees' Slump.

STAYED OUT LATE.

"Disciplining Him For General Misconduct Off the Field," Says Manager.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30 (Canadian Press).—Scoring Miller Huggins, manager, for what he characterized as an attempt to shift the blame for the poor showing of the New York Yankees this season, George Herman "Babe" Ruth, baseball premier slugger, left here yesterday for Chicago, where he proposes to lay before Commissioner Landis the entire case growing out of the $5,000 fine and indefinite suspension imposed upon him yesterday.

Ruth declared that if Huggins is to continue at the helm of the team, he (Ruth) felt that he could no longer continue playing for him.

Radiating confidence and appearing in perfect physical condition, Ruth seemed more concerned over his suspension than the unprecedented fine assessed against him.

He contended that the latest development was caused by a minor infraction of the club rules.

Cause of Suspension.

"I came in an hour and a half late Saturday morninng," Ruth said. "I had been out with some friends until midnight, and then took an automobile ride because it was so warm. I arrived at the hotel at 2.30 a.m. We were ordered to be in at one o'clock.

"This suspension is just an attempt on the part of Huggins to shift the blame for the team's poor showing onto me. He charges me with excessive drinking. That is not true. I have never trained so faithfully in my life as I have this year. I was out later than he allows only twice on this road trip—Saturday morning, and once in Cleveland."

"Misconduct off the field," was responsible for the fine and suspension imposed on Babe Ruth, Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees stated Saturday night.

May Be Out for Season.

"Does this mean that Ruth is out of the game for the remainder of the season?" Huggins was asked.

"That's entirely up to me, and I will decide when the time comes," he replied.

"Was Ruth's misconduct what is generally known as breaking the training rules?"

"The misconduct was off the field of play. That's all I care to say."

"Does 'misconduct off the field' mean drinking?" Huggins was asked.

"O course it means drinking," said Huggins, "and it means a lot of other things besides. There are various kinds of misconduct."

"Patience has ceased to be a virtue. I have tried to overlook Ruth's behavior for a while, but I have decided to take summary action to bring the big fellow to his senses.

General Misconduct.

"I am disciplining him for general misconduct off the ball field detrimental to the best interests of the club during this present road trip. I am not saying anything about his actions on the ball field."

"Everyone knows he has been having an off year," said Huggins, "and his weak batting has been excused on account of his illness this spring.

"When he started playing the 1st of June, he was on probation more or less, bound to take care of himself physically and live up to the rules of club discipline.

"He has forgotten all about these restrictions on this trip, hence the fine and suspension."

The Babe's Heydey.

Babe's home-run history really began in 1918, when he turned in eleven. This was the war year and the season was curtailed. In 1919 Ruth turned in 29. The next year he set a mark of 54 for the season, and in 1921 he drove out his highest total of 59. This mark probably will stand for some time despite the lively ball.

In 1927 Ruth fell down to 35, but started on the upgrade in 1923 with 41. Last year the King of Swat smashed out 46. He got a late start this season. Last Monday he made his fifteenth homer.

President Approves.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press).—President Ban Johnson of the American League is "heartily in accord with the punishment meted to Babe Ruth by Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees."

"Ruth has the mind of a 15-year-old boy and must be made to understand where he belongs" President Johnson said Sunday. "The American League is no place for a player who dissipates and misbehaves."

The chances are that Ruth will not play again this year, the junior circuit head intimated. This is the last year of Ruth's contract at his present salary of $52,500 per year, and he is due for a big reduction next year, he said.

IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

BABE RUTH

Mulsted $5,000 and indefinitely suspended by Miller Huggins for "general misconduct off the field" George Herman Ruth, otherwise the Batting Bambino will appeal to Judge Landis, baseball's commissioner

LOCKWORKS WIN MERCANTILE CUP

Defeated Bankers 17-4 in Final Game of League Play-off.

ERRORS LOST GAME.

Lockworks had no trouble in beating Bankers in the third game of the Mercantile League playoff, thereby winning the League pennant. The score of Saturday's game was 17-4. Errors behind Armstrong and Baird were responsible for the Bankers loss, as both teams made 8 hits. The losers were unable to hit Connors in the pinches, while the winners got hits when they were most needed.

Thorndyke, Moore and Jobbitt supplied the heavy artillery for the Lockworks, with two hits each. The Baird brothers and Ackerman each made two for the Bankers. Moore and G. Connors led the fielders, having five assists each.

NO HIT GAME BY ROTARY HURLER IN BANTAM GAME

Only One Visiting Player Reached First in Nine Innings.

GOOD SUPPORT.

Crary's Team Also Hit Hard Behind Him—Had Sixteen Strike-outs.

Elizabeth Bantams of Toronto, could collect neither hits nor runs of Jack Crary's delivery on Saturday, while Rotary Bantams made 11 of the pitching by Miller. As a result Rotary won by 10-0.

Crary was always master of the situation. He struck out 16 of the visitors and all the rest were easy outs except one. Bobkin in the 9th lifted a pop fly which Mowry dropped, giving the batter a life. Only 28 Toronto batters faced the local boy in the 9 innings.

Miller occupied the mound for Elizabeth. He was wild and his support was poor. His catchers were unable to hold him and in one inning he was forced to fan five. Altogether he struck out 17.

Good Fielding.

In the field the Peterboro boys had little to do. Starr handled Crary's offerings with excellent judgment. Cuffe and Moffatt made nice catches, although only three balls were hit to the outfield. At the bat corner Dormer had nothing to do, Crary's speed forcing the visitors' right handed batters to a man to slice the ball to second base. Cuthbertson made a couple of nice stops and picked off two high ones. Mowry made a nice catch of Caplan's flies and McDonald took all kinds of throws without a miss. He made a pair of nice catches in the ninth with a man on.

Hits Plentiful.

Hits were frequent in Peterboro innings, only the 5th drawing a blank. Starr had a double and two singles in four tries; Cuthbertson a double and one single in the same number. Bill Cripps hit two triples but on the second omitted the formality of touching second and was easily retired, reducing the blow to a single.

As base runners the Petes ran wild, stealing nine bases, of which Dormer helped himself to four. Neither Toronto catcher had any idea where second base was and over-throws were frequent.

The game started as if it were to be a battle. Crary fanned the first seven men to face him. A double by Cuthbertson and a dropped fly from Dormer's bat chased one over in the first.

In both the second and the third the Rotary boys had two men on but Miler fanned the last batter.

Then it broke. Cripps tripled and Gibble foolishly threw to the plate on Cuffe's slow roller. Howden fanned, but Starr doubled to score Cuffe.

The fifth brought two more. Crary struck out, choosing a wild pitch for the third strike, and went to second when Dormer was walked. On a double steal Sagman threw to left field and Crary scored, Dormer taking third. Sagman missed the return from Goldstein and Dormer counted. McDonald also chose a wild pitch for the third strike but Cripps, Cuffe and Howden fanned properly.

Successive singles by Starr, Mowry and Cuthbertson, with McDonald's infield out, sent in three more in the sixth. Gibble's error on Dormer's roller, a poke in the ribs to McDonald, followed by Cripp's second triple, sent in two more in the eighth, although Cripp was out for cutting second. That ended the scoring.

THISTLES KEEP PHELAN TROPHY FOR THIRD YEAR

Canadian Woollens Held Them to 1-1 Tie in First Half.

FINAL SCORE 2-1.

Richmond Kicked Both of Thistles Goals—Game at Oval Close.

The Thistles retained their hold on the Phelan Charity Cup on Saturday by defeating the Woollens 2-1 at the Oval in a very evenly contested game. The Woollens won the toss and set the Thistles to face the sun.

Richmond kicked off with both teams short, Woollens having 10 men and the Thistles 9. In the opening minutes Woollens forced a corner, Mitchell heading over. At this stage Sayers arrived and put the Woolens at full strength. Woollens forced another corner but F. Wade cleared. Following a long drive from J. Wade which went past Thistles again pressed and in a melee in front of the goal Credland handled in the penalty area. Richmond gave Hillman no chance from the spot.

From the kick off Thistels forced corner after corner but of no avail. End to end play followed, each team missing chances.

Some nice work by Burgess and Mitchell spread the Thistle defense, and from a clever cross Griffen drove into the net, Brown having no chance. Some midfield play followed and half time arrived with the score 1 goal each.

Half time: Thistle 1; Woollens 1.

Second Half

On resuming Woollens pressed without success. Then Thistle got going on the right and forced two fruitless corners. From a free kick Woollens pressed but Burgess shot past. Thistle returned and forced three corners without success. Give and take play followed till Richmond rushed off for Hillman to make a good save. A run along the right by Clark was stopped for a corner but Brown made a good save from Griffen. Hutton collided with Read who was forced to retire for the remainder of the game. After some see-saw play Richmond broke through to score, the ball hitting the post on its way to the net. From the kick off Griffen and Mitchell tested Brown in turn. Thistles then forced two corners but to no avail. Just at the final whistle, Richmond drove into the net.

Final score: Thistle 2; Woollens 1

After the game, Mr. Wyllie, president of the Association, presented the cup to the Thistle captain, J. Wade who responded with a few well chosen words. Three cheers all round being given. This is the third year in succession the Thistles have on this cup.

PETERBOROUGH TENNIS CLUB WINS 1925 MORROW TROPHY

Players Defeat Cobourg in Final Event to Take Championship.

WIN 27; LOSE 15.

Close Finish on Saturday to Central Ontario Competition Adds Thrill.

On Saturday the Cobourg Tennis Club, last season's winner of the H. A Morrow Trophy, played the final match with Peterboro at the Monaghan Road courts.

The Peterboro players were three points up on Cobourg before the match started, and the Cobourg Club brought up its strongest team for a final effort to capture the cup for this season, and the match was so close that the final event decided the league winners.

The first three events to be played were the two men's singles and the ladies' singles. Peterboro lost twice and won one. The next three events —the ladies' doubles, the men's doubles and one mixed double went the same way, Peterboro one, Cobourg two, tieing the score between the two clubs after a season's playing. In the final event, a mixed doubles, Peterboro won in two sets and the cup stays in Peterboro.

It was the end of a perfect day for the Peterboro club.

The Cobourg club was served light refreshments at the courts, with Mrs. W. M. Cruthers in charge, Mrs. W. A. Jackson poured tea.

The committee in charge of the league matches wish to take this opportunity to thank the players for their splendid work, the ladies for providing the refreshments, those who supplied transportation, the umpires and others who so willingly assisted when needed.

The Record.

Reed, Cobourg, won from Dr. Hewett in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3.

Jackson, Peterboro, won from Dr. Jamieson, Cobourg, in three sets, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

Miss C. Hayden, Cobourg, won from Mrs. W. M. Cruthers, Peterboro, 6-0, 6-0.

Miss Floyd and Miss Willmott, Cobourg, won from Mrs. B. Moore and Miss Margaret Turner, 6-2, 8-6.

Miss M. Hayden and Reed, Cobourg, won from Miss Mackenzie and Scott, 6-4, 6-1

Cochrane and Butler, Cobourg, lost to Weber and Jackson, 6-3, 6-2.

Miss C. Hayden and Dr. Jamieson, Cobourg, lost to Miss G. Kirn and Weber, 6-3, 6-2.

LAKEFIELD CRICKET CLUB LOST TO CITY

Locals Double Score of Visitors—Pleasant Meeting on Saturday.

On Saturday afternoon last, under ideal conditions, a team journeying down from Lakefield, played the return game with the local club. The pitch and outfield never looked better as during the week the grass on each had been cut.

Lakefield won the toss and elected to bat first, sending in C. Grier and J. Langley against the bowling of Frank Dyer and Charlie Thorpe. The opening did not augur well for Lakefield, as by the last ball of the over Dyer bowled Grier. Jack Langley livened things up in the next over by lifting two balls to the boundary. This same player turned out to be top scorer for Lakefield with 18 runs to his credit. Other good scores for Lakefield were 11 by Fawcett and 14 not out by Wotherspoon, the innings closing for 72 runs.

Peterboro opened with Stuart and Manning against the bowling of Grier and Mackenzie. Prospects did not look too bright for the local club, as their first four batsmen were cheaply dismissed. However, Dr. Hewett changed matters by knocking the bowling all over the lot, contributing a merry 37, being out by a splendid catch by Strickland on the boundary. Conner-Fenton contributed a valuable 13 and then retired, being replaced by Dyer. This batsman showed no mercy, hitting the bowling all over for a snappy 46, giving only a difficult chance at being caught on the boundary when he had made 40. This was Dyer's day, as besides making the top score of the match he was the most successful bowler. Another pleasing innings was Chenhall's 11 not out.

For Lakefield, Grier and McKenzie were the most successful bowlers, with five and three wickets respectively to their credit, and for Peterboro Dyer with five, Thorpe and Manning with two each and Elliot with one.

A most refreshing tea was served on the ground by the Peterboro ladies, and the Lakefield team made a special request that their very hearty thanks be extended to them.

This was Peterboro's last home match. They finish up the season next week with a couple of matches in Toronto: on Saturday against the C.G.E. Davenport Works Cricket Club, and on Monday (Labor Day) the return game with Birchcliff.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

When all is said and done, the failure of the Petes for the fourth year in succession to win the Central Ontario League play-offs can be credited to a lack of socking ability. The pitching delivered by Frank Whitehouse in the first and third games and by Al. Heckman in the second fixture—the Ponies being held to five earned runs in 27 innings—was good enough to have won any series, coupled as it was by good fielding in the first two games. But the old punch was lacking, accentuated by the fact that Max Swanston and Hap Harrison, who have led the team all season in driving home runs, could not come through at all in the series, "Swannie" going hitless and Harrison producing but one profitless blow.

* * * * * * * * *

On the other hand, the timely hitting of Batstone and Somerville were the main factors in Kingston's wins. Batstone's triple on Wednesday saved the day for the Ponies, and his three-cushion wallop won the Saturday fixture, while Somerville has batted .546 for the series.

The mix-up over Batstone's drive into the crowd on Saturday could surely have been avoided if the umpires had been right on the job in making the ground rules on Wednesday. The Petes contend that the understanding was that a ball hit into the crowd between the foul flag and home plate would be a two-base hit. Umpire Colling's version was that the rule applied only to the left field foul line. But why in the name of common sense should there be a ground rule for left field in Kingston and not in right when everybody knows that it is in right field on that ground that the encroachment of the crowd is always the worst? And if there was no ground rule in right, why was not Batstone given a home run when the ball was hit into the crowd? Awarding the hitter three bases and allowing three runs to score meant just the difference between a Kingston victory and a tie score.

* * * * * * * * *

The fielding features for the Petes on Saturday were Helson's running catch of Gallagher's foul fly near the Ponies' bench in the third and a spectacular grab by Fred. Ash of a long, high foul from the same player's bat in the eighth. Ash had to make a long run and jump high into the air to spear the drive.

The outstanding local pitching feat of the year was that of Pitcher Crary of the Rotary Bantams in twirling a no-hit, no-run game against the Toronto Bantams in an O.B.A.A. game Saturday. The Peterboro youngster came within an ace of that perfect game that is the dream of all pitchers, only one of the visitors reaching first base. The local Bantams played snappy ball behind their clever pitcher. —F. D. C.

COBB SHAKES HANDS WITH 1,000; STARS AT BAT FOR TIGERS; 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Accounted For Three Runs in Four Times Up and Helped Defeat the Athletics on Saturday—Guest at Banquet.

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—Tyrus Raymond Cobb celebrated his twentieth anniversary as a member of the Detroit Baseball team Saturday by driving in one run and scoring two himself with a double and a single in four trips to the plate, this helping to defeat the Athletics. The Georgia Peach shook hands with fully 1,000 fans before the game started and autographed hundreds of score cards as he stood bareheaded at the home plate.

Saturday night the 38-year-old veteran was honored at a great banquet and presented with a $1,000 gift, paid for by the city of Detroit by vote of the council at the suggestion of Mayor John W. Smith. Speakers included Cornelius McGillicuddy, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics; Jimmy Callahan, one-time director of the White Sox; Billy Evans, veteran American League arbiter; Bugs Baer, sport humorist; Frank J. Navin, owner of the Detroit Club and Mayor Smith.

Cobb came to Detroit Aug. 30, 1905. Less than 1,200 fans saw his debut in a game against New York. Dick Cooley, a regular outfielder, was out of the lineup, and Cobb, for want of anyone else took his place, batting fifth under Sam Crawford. Big Jack Chesbro, pitched for New York. A man was on third and two out, with Cobb at bat. With a double he bloomed on his American League debut.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

COLLEGIANS IN DEMAND.

Two famous college baseball stars have ended their days as "rah, rah" athletes. Shortstop Walter Gautreau and Pitcher Owen Carroll of Holy Cross.

It is only natural they should be in demand by major league clubs. Both intend to take a fling at the professional game.

Carroll, according to report has been the property of the Detroit club of the American League for several years. The story is that he was placed under contract two years ago when he gave evidence of being quite a pitcher.

Recently Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants made Carroll an offer. It is said the amount was considerably in advance of what his Detroit contract calls for.

Naturally Carroll would prefer to play for the advanced figure. It is said that an effort is being made to break the Detroit connection on the grounds that Carroll was a minor when he entered into it.

This contention is similar to the case which involved George Sisler, when Pittsburgh of the National and St. Louis of the American League were fighting for his services.

CASE OF CARROLL

Sisler, it seems, was only 17 when he agreed to go to Pittsburgh. Later he signed with St. Louis, then under Branch Rickey, who had coached Sisler at Michigan Pittsburgh's claim to Sisler was declared void and he was made the property of the St. Louis club.

Since Carroll is conceded to be the greatest college pitcher of the last decade, it will be interesting to see what disposition is made of his case. He is a pitcher worth fighting for.

Jack Barry, former star shortstop of the Athletics, now baseball coach at Holy Cross, is strong for Carroll. Some time ago while discussing college stars with me he commented as follows on Carrol.

"Carroll is a finished pitcher. He can step right into the majors from the college field and deliver. He has everything a big league pitcher should have."

Like most major league clubs, Detroit can stand another good pitcher, incidentally, McGraw could use him as some of the veteran Giants are going none to well.

ANENT MINOR STARS

The failure of the minors to develop big leaguers in proportion to the demand has caused the scouts to pay close attention to the colleges.

Within the next two weeks at least 20 college stars will join various major league clubs for a trial.

Prominent among these is Captain Eddie Farrell of Pennsylvania. He is a shortstop and comes to the New York Giants. While there is little chance of him breaking into the lineup, McGraw is strong for a capable secondary defense.

It is understood that Gautreau of Holy Cross, considered the best college second-sacker in the east, is the property of the Philadelphia Athletics and that he will be sent to Portland of the Pacific Coast League for a year of seasoning.

Such a procedure worked out in great shape with Catcher Gordon Cochrane, who starred for Boston University. He spent one year at Portland and now is rated one of the best catchers in the American League.

Holy Cross is famous for turning out big league stars. Some of the game's greatest players received their early training there.

STORMY PETRELS' REIGN IS ENDED

Radich is Latest Wild Man of World Politics to Calm.

The era of the stormy petrel is passing. One by one, the wild men of world politics are reforming or quieting down.

Take Stepan Radich, the Jugo-Slavian, who led the Croat-Peasant party in his native legislature and had a genuis for creating all varieties of trouble. Until recently he was "detained" by the Belgrade government on the charge that he had been mixed up in plots with the Russian soviet. He fought tooth and nail against semi-organized authority on the grounds that the proud and intellectual Croats were not receiving fair treatment at the hands of the officials, who, in most cases, were Serbian.

Now he sits in parliament, the leader of his party, with one-third of the cabinet seats at his command, and co-operates with the coalition government headed by Nickola Pachich, the only European statesman who has remained in power through both ante and post-war periods and during the struggle itself.

From his prison cell, Radich arranged the coalition.

Doubts are of course, expressed about the sincerity of his reformation. But his acts seem to indicate the real situation.

Jugo-Slavia has a unanimous ambition to settle down. She is uninterested in wars and rumors of war. Disorders in bordering states interest her mildly but do not alarm her.

Radich seems to realize this. He has thrown his whole effort into the work of reconstruction. If he really plotted with Russia, all that is forgotten.

PACKERS WON IN SECOND PERIOD

C. P. C. Juniors Defeated North Dummer By 2-1 at King Edward Park.

BREEZE A FACTOR.

The C.P.C., last season's Junior League champions, defeated North Dummer, 2 goals to 1 at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. The C.P.C. will in all probability meet the De Laval in a play-off for the championship.

The Township men won the toss and had the wind and sun behind them, and at once became dangerous, Sharman testing Montgomery in the first minute. Grant relieved, and Foster went away but was unlucky in his final effort. From the goal kick, Monks sent out to R. Payne, whose shot Montgomery fielded in fine style.

The Township men pressed again, Sharman passed to R. Payne, who sent in a terrific shot; Montgomery bringing off a great save. Sherwood Payne met the rebound and sent in a beautiful shot and opened up the scoring. From the centre kick Buchan made a nice dribble and sent to Mitchell, who was every unlucky in not equalizing. Carmichael, Halliday and Cross were feeding their forwards to perfection, but the Township defence was strong. Half time arrived with the Township men leading by 1 goal to 0.

Second Half.

With the elements in their favor, the Packers went at it in fine style. Carmichael, who had changed places with J. Downer, kept sending in some nice shots. Jones was playing a great game in goal for the Township men, and the Packers were having bad luck. From a foul near goal, W. James made the game equal. Now came the tug of war. Both teams were playing for all they were worth, and the defence on both sides had their work cut out to keep the forwards from scoring. Sharman missed a golden opportunity by hitting the crossbar; Foster and Carmichael were playing well together and were unlucky in their final efforts. Mitchell got away and sent in a nice centre. Garvett gave a corner; Mitchell took the kick and Foster just sent wide. From the goal kick Sharman gave to Payne, who in turn gave to Monks, whose shot Montgomery tipped over the bar. From the corner, which Munro well placed, Montgomery isted down the field. James got hold of the sphere and sent to Foster, whose centre was met, and put the Packers ahead The game now was very exciting, both goals having some narrow escapes. The defences of both sides held out. There was no further scoring. Time was called and a very fast and pleasant game ended in a win for the Packers by 2 goals to 1.

The Teams.

LEAGUE MEETING.

Young People of Petherick's Corners Had Good Time.

The Zion Young People's League held a successful social evening on Thursday night at the home of Mr. Alfred Barnum. A good crowd gathered and enjoyed a good night's fun.

The early part of the evening was spent in a softball game between the Blues and White, the Blues winning by a large score.

Another exciting feature was jumping the bamboo pole.

Everyone then gathered at the door when speeches of welcome to Mrs. Daniel were given by Messrs. Fred Barnum, president of Zion League. Thomas Fry on behalf of the Zion United church, Mr. Wm. Rowe on behalf of the Stanwood United church, Wilfrid Spencer Master of Sentinel L.O.L., on behalf of the lodge.

To show in more than words their appreciation, Mrs. Daniel was asked to accept a gift of wicker chairs and fernery to match, from the Zion League and church, Stanwood appointment and the Sentinel lodge. Mr. Daniel, though completely taken by surprise, made a fitting reply, thanking them for their kindness.

Everyone then joined in community singing and as it was cool all sang their loudest to warm the throats.

The remainder of the evening was spent in games. Ice cream was sold so that no one needed to sweat much. A sumptuous supper was then served and everyone left happy.

The Rylstone baseball team intends holding a social on Sept. 11th in John Simpson's Grove. A baseball game between Rylstone and Burnbrae will be played.

HIGHBROWS FAVOR DETECTIVE PLAYS, STATES BROWNING.

Film Directors says Thrillers give the greatest Relaxation to Brain Workers—Made "The Unholy Three."—Latest is Unusual Melodrama of Criminal Adventures of Freak Trio.

The crook play, also known as the detective play, is highbrow entertainment.

This is the observation of Tod Browning, noted motion picture director, whose particular enthusiasm is the making of crook plays, many of which he has written himself.

"The statement that the crook play is highbrow amusement or rather entertainment for high brows, is based on long study of the public appetite in action pictures and reading," said Mr. Browning.

"Some of the greatest mental leaders of the world have been devotees of this form of entertainment. The late President Wilson was an arden reader of "detective story" magazines —they relaxed his mind.

"Persons who do a great deal of strenuous mental work turn readily to the motion picture crook play for relaxation. The situations in it are so entirely different from the ones they encounter in their daily work that it is refreshing. "And of course they teach the moral always that 'Crime does not pay.'"

"The next time you go to a motion picture detective play study your audience. You will see that a heavy percentage of it is made up of brainworkers who find in this sort of film the stimulating diversion they need."

Browning is recognized in the film world as an authority on the crook plays.

Mr. Browning directed "The Unholy Three," a crook story with a unique turn of plot, in which Lou Chaney and Miss Busch are featured, which is now playing at the Capitol theatre.

BEBE SCORES HIT AS COMEDIENNE IN "MISS BLUEBEARD"

In Title Role of Hopwood Stage Play at Royal Tonight

Bebe Daniels comes to the Royal Theatre today as the star of the Paramount picture, "Miss Bluebeard," directed by Frank Tuttle—a picturization of the Broadway stage play, "Little Miss Bluebeard," by Avery Hopwood.

The screen play, by Townsend Martin, deals with a series of matrimonial adventures and gives Miss Daniels a fine opportunity to display her talents as a comedienne.

Bebe's role in the picture is one of a French actress. She goes to London on a holiday and, through a series of most amusing incidents enroute, she arrives there the wife of two men.

This piquant situation and the complications that follow are said to provide the volatile Bebe with an excellent opportunity for her comedy talents. The fun, while at all times clean and wholesome, is declared to be practically continuous. The stage play made from the same story, in which Irene Bordoni starred, scored a big success both on Broadway and on the road, auguring well for the picture.

Playing in support of Bebe in "Miss Bluebeard" are Raymond Griffith, one of the screen's foremost character comedians; Robert Frazer, leading man; Kenneth MacKenna and others.

RAYMOND GRIFFITH DUE

Raymond Griffith, the high hat scream of "Miss Bluebeard" and "Lord Chumley" comes to the Royal Theatre next Thursday featured with Vera Reynolds, Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda in the cast of the Paramount picture, "The night Club," a picturization of William de Milles stage play, "After Five."

Paramount claims it to be funnier than "Miss Bluebeard" and "Lord Chumley" rolled into one. See what you think about it.

It's an amusing story of a confirmed woman-hater who has to marry a pretty girl to collect a fortune left him by his uncle.

GIRLS PROTEST.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In reference to the insolent letter, "Women Protest," published in Friday's issue, we wish the public to be informed that no one connected with the C.G.E. Ladies' Softball Club is responsible for same. As a body, we are strongly against such criticism of Mayor Turner, or any public official, who we maintain, are minding their own business and also the business of the citizens at large, in a most satisfactorty manner, and a request that you will publish our protest against such piffle will greatly oblige all members of C.G.E. ladies' team.

A. BURNS, Secretary.

REPLY TO "VETERAN."

Mr. Editor: "Ex-member of the 87th Batt.," must not have been reading some of the recent examiners or he would have seen a notice issuing a general invitation to all Veterans' Associations in the Province of Ontario, whether organized or unorganized, to send delegates to participate in a Provincial Conference which was held in Toronto on the 19th inst.

Delegates were elected at that meeting to attend the Dominion conference at Ottawa in October next. Colonel Miller was one of the eleven delegates chosen to represent Ontario. Colonel Miller was present at the written request of General Turner, V. C., and as we members of the 21st Club had knowledge of this invitation and of its acceptance, We availed ourselves of the opportunity of asking him to represent us at the same time, and we rejoice to see our representative made such a good showing at the election of Dominion delegates. Ex-members of the 87th Batt. should obtain a copy of Colonel Miller's report on the Provincial Conference, a copy of which was read at the last 21st. Batt. Club meeting, as an overseas man he would appreciate it.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

COAST GUARD CUTS RUM ROW ACTIVITY

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Aug. 29.—Sweden's rum-running problems are rapidly decreasing, says Count Posse, head of the coast guard service. In previous years there usually were a dozen vessels in rum row on the west coast, while now there are never more than two or three that need watching. The decrease has been proportional on the east coast.

Count Posse points out that in 1923 the authorities confiscated 150,000 liters of illegally imported liquors, while last year the amount fell off to 90,000 liters. The indication for this year, he said, are that these figures will be cut in half.

This particular work of the coast guard service is expected to become easier when the Helsingfors convention, signed recently by the Swedish government, goes into effect. The convention, which increases the territorial limit to 12 miles has been signed by 12 states.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

"Old time truth" has been covered up for a long time. When being uncovered and proclaimed, many who are in bondage to erroneous creeds, call it false doctrine. The old gospel, that was foretold to Abraham, and preached by Jesus and the Apostles, is rejected by many, principally on account of religious leaders preaching doctrines utterly false; and not encouraging their flock to read and understand the Bible for themselves. Some who have a glimmer of the truth, are hesitant about confessing it, possibly on account of what it would mean to them in the way of ostracism, etc. The promise that God made to Abraham, He bound with His oath, doubly assuring Abraham, that it would be performed. Observe that this oath-bound covenant with Abraham contains neither conditions nor limitations. This promise certainly guarantees opportunity to every one. The promise is: "In thy seed shall all families of the earth be blessed." What blessing does man need above everything else? All will agree that man's greatest need is, everlasting life, in a state of happiness.—M. T. Butcher. 1d-52-2016

Trades Congress Will Demand Drastic Legislation to Restrain Corporations.

OPENED TO-DAY.

Annual Convention in Ottawa Was Addressed By King and Murdock.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31. — Canadian Press. — A resolution demanding "immediate and drastic legislation preventing corporations from maintaining armed forces" will come before the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada which opened here this morning. The resolution also states that the failure to secure adequate legislation will compel the Trade Unions of Canada to take such steps as may be necessary to protect their own members during strikes and lockouts. Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, addressing the opening session, said every effort was being made to safeguard the interests of Labour and see that Labor got a "square deal."

Tom Moore, president of the Congress, made an appeal to the farm workers of Canada to join with organized labor and help its mutual interests. The future of Labor in Canada demanded the cooperation of farm workers. In welcoming the delegates Premier King said the happy relationship which existed between Canada and the United States was largely due to a bond of understanding between the workers of the two countries.

All One Tribe Said To Be Negotiating For Submission.

HEAT INTENSE.

FEZ, French Morocco, Aug. 31—(Canadian Press)—The French 19th Corps continued its clearing operations on the eastern front. A detachment from the corps, aided by airplanes, is said to have advanced to the Krakrar region and to have met with little resistance. All the Branes tribesmen are asserted to have now opened negotiations for submission to the French. Calm prevails on other sections of the front. French troops are working hard in perfecting organizations.

The enemy is still active on the west, notably in the Shesshuan region where they are strongly entrenching, apparently expecting a combined Franco-Spanish attack. Another heat wave has descended upon the country with temperature varying from 110 to 120 in the shade. The health of French troops is declared to be excellent despite torrid weather.

Favorable Foreign Reports Sent Wheat Prices Down

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(C... Press).—Wheat prices took an early swing downward to-day, influenced to a considerable extent by a material decline at Liverpool. The setback in values abroad was in turn ascribed more or less to fine harvest weather being enjoyed by Great Britain and other European countries, and to reports of favorable crop conditions in Argentina. Some standing orders to stop losses at various fixed limits were forced into action here by to-day's dron. The opening, 1¾ to 2 1-8c off, with December 151¼ to 152 and May 155⅜ to 156, was followed only by a slight rally.

Corn and oats were easy, sympathizing with wheat weakness. Besides, the receipts of corn were liberal, 324 cars. After opening unchanged to 3-4c lower, December 81⅜ to 81 3-4, corn recovered and then went a little above Saturday's finish.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c off, December 41 3-8 to 41 5-8, and later held near to the initial figures.

In line with hog values, the provision market was steady.

Radio Corporation Buy Sent Specialty Prices Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(Canadian Press).—The purchase of a block of 10,000 shares of Radio Corporation at 53 attracted an immediate speculative following whose buying carried the price up to 55 9-8. Confident accumulation of various other specialties caused the market to rally, with high-priced shares responding vigorously. Chrysler making up all its loss. General Railway Signal climbed from 355 to 366, and S. S. Kresge jumped 15 points to 590, both new high figures.

Foundation Company, National Dairy, Products and Brown Shoe were also quoted at new maximum figures for the year. Renewal rate on call loans was reduced to 4½ per cent.

C.W.D. Lake Led In Activity On Mining Exchange To-day

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was fairly active this morning, with transactions totalling 191,746 shares. Cons. W. D Lake, under heavy sales, advanced fractionally to 13 5-8. Keora declined fractionally to 14 3-4, after opening strong. Argonaut declined 2½ points to 28, and Dome Mines advanced $1.35 to 15.65. Kirkland Lake was 1¼ points lower at 43 3-4, and Premier four points lower at 225; while Teck Hughes advanced one point to 172. Tough Oakes declined 2½ points to 39. Can. Lorrain was 9 points higher at 54, and Crown Reserve sold 2¼ points higher at 22. Keeley was 14 points lower at 166, ex-dividend.

Trading Active In Toronto: Brazilian Leading Stock

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Strength and activity characterized the Toronto Stock Exchange in the first session of the week this morning, with Brazilian the leading stock in point of transactions. Brazilian was marked up to 69¾, then eased off to 69¼, a quarter point drop. Atlantic Sugar issues were features. Common advancing 5-8 at 43¼, and Preferred 1 3-4 at 79½. Bell Telephone advanced a half, and Canada Bread B a quarter, and Smelters strengthened 1-8 at 120 5-8. Winnipeg Railway sold up 3-4 at 51¼. Davies A and Dominion Canners both lost one and a half points of their big advance at the end of last week, Davies selling at 34½ and Canners at 132½.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Pte. Arthur Frost, killed in action Aug. 30, 1918, also his brother, Pte. Tom Frost, who died at Shorncliffe, England, Sept. 1916:

Across the sea in a distant land,
Beside their comrades brave,
Our boys lie quietly sleeping
In an unknown warrior's grave.

May the heavenly winds blow softly,
Over the sweet and hallowed spot
Though the sea divides their graves from us
They will never be forgot.

Father, Mother, Brothers and Sisters.

IN MEMORIAM.

IVEY.—In memory of late George H. Ivey, who died August 31, 1924.

"Oh! how patient in his suffering,
When no hand could give him ease;
God, the helper of the helpless,
Saw him suffer and sent him peace.
Rest in peace, your pain is ended,
Sleep in peace, your cares are done,
You have gone where those who love you
Soon are coming one by one."

Around The City.

The East City gas tanks, which which were the subject of such spirited contention in the spring, have been subjected to a coating of grey paint which serves materially to improve the appearance of the real estate belonging to the British American Oil Company. The manager of the station said that many who objected most strenuously to their placement are now commenting on the improved appearance of the grounds from their former wild state. A substantial wire fence has been built around the property. The tanks have been given two coats of grey paint and the understructure will be painted green. Later on the warehouse and garage will also be painted.

FACTS ABOUT OPTOMETRY

The Prevalence Of Far-Sight

It is the opinion of Optometrists that this error of vision is more often met with than any other. And in addition to being so prevalent, it is very detrimental. It is present in all ages, the majority of children being to some extent far-sighted. There is but one way to correct far-sight—placing glasses before the eyes that remove the error. We have success in such cases.

SOCIETY

Mrs. E. J. Wagar and daughters, Misses Marion and Constance Wagar, have returned to their home at 105 Lock Street, after an absence of two years in Toronto. Miss Constance Wagar has been appointed to the teaching staff of the Prince of Wales School.

J. Wells Fraser, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has recovered from his operation, and is back to work again.

To the Citizens of Peterboro and District:

"You are cordially invited to inspect our Tent, Awning and Flag exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, commencing today and lasting until September 12th. The Toronto Exhibition Park and Buildings are at this time a blaze of color, our Flag Department being responsible for the many thousand bunting flags and pennants, which has added much to its gala appearance.

Then again the large orange and black striped awnings erected on the Coliseum together with the solid green tinted awnings to be found on the Administration, Music and Railway Buildings, reflect credit on our Awning Department. Then again many of the large tents used throughout the grounds for refreshment, exhibit and other purposes, most conspicuous being two large solid orange tents placed by the Orangeade Management, are not only in keeping with their wares but are bright and attractive.

For many weeks we have been busy on our contribution to this wonderful exhibition and the many favours bestowed on this firm by the management, stimulates us to further serve with quality and real service.

Our Toronto exhibit is in charge of our Mr. W. F. Turner and Mr. Robt. Hendry who will do their utmost to make you feel at home and enlighten you as to the many lines of manufacture which have found such an extensive sale throughout the Dominion.

Trusting you will avail yourself of this invitation, we remain,

Sincerely yours,

RATES PROTEST FROM RHODES TO RAILWAY BOARD

Nova Scotia's Premier Acts on "Disquieting Rumors" of Changes in Rates.

TELEGRAM TEXTS

Contends Freight Rates Should be Considered With Reference to Country.

HALIFAX, N.S., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Premier of Nova Scotia, stated last night that he had heard "disquieting rumors bearing the earmarks of authenticity," in the matter of the re-adjustment of freight rates by the Board of Railway Commissioners, and that in consequence of these rumors he had despatched the following telegraphs to the Minister of Railways and the Secretary of the Board of Railway Commissioners:

"Minister of Railways:

"Respectfully urge consideration my telegram just forwarded to Secretary, Board of Railway Commissioners.

The telegram cited was:

"Strongly protest against any decision or action by your Board affecting the general rate invetigation in reduction or adjustment of freight rates upon any one or more provinces, districts or localities wherever situated except with reference to the adjustment of the whole Canadian rate structure after a full investigation has been had as directed by the order in council of June last is made by your board. Otherwise the whole rate structure so to be reviewed could not be adjusted equitably in terms or requirements of the reference to your board. Also direct attention to my telegram addressed to your chairman August 29."

The telegram of August 29 asked the Board to withhold any rate decision until the Maritimes rate expert had submitted his report.

FIRE DESTROYS EXCURSION BOAT

Three of Crew Missing, Believed Lost in Morning Blaze.

ENTIRELY BURNED.

WESTFIELD, N.Y., Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The excursion steamer, Colonial, was destroyed by fire with a probable loss of three lives about a mile and half off Barcelona Harbor, near here, just before dawn this morning. The missing men are Thomas McGurn of Cleveland, assistant engineer of the vessel; Earl Duncan, Erie, Pa., second cook; and Paul Bryan, Cleveland, wheel man.

The vessel was on the way to Dunkirk from Erie to make an excursion trip, and only the crew were on board.

The Colonial was in use as an excursion steamer, taking moonlight trips from Erie and neighboring ports to Port Colborne, Ontario.

Ruth's Overhead Too High Grey Hairs, Toil and Worry

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Questioned as to the attitude of the New York American League club regarding Babe Ruth, Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the club, said to-day: "Find us a customer; somebody who will take Ruth's contract and his upkeep, his overhead in gray hairs, care, toil and trouble and we might talk business. Can you think of any club-owner who would want to undertake such a job?"

WEMBLEY FAIR LOSING MONEY

Loss is Estimated at Three Million Pounds Sterling.

NEED A SHOW MAN.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(Special by United Press).—The British Empire Exhibition at Wembley will prove as great a financial failure this year as in 1924, it is feared. One estimate put the loss to the big British firms guaranteeing the Exhibition at £3,000,000.

This pessimistic forecast is based on the rate of attendance to date. It is estimated that unless the attendance totals rise, only 8,500,000 persons will have gone to Wembley this year by the time the great Fair closes its gates at the end of October. Last year 17,000,000 paid admissions, which was half the number needed to make Wembley a financial success. "The biggest business proposition ever put up by this country is also the biggest failure," says one London newspaper to-day, attributing the failure to the fact that "Wembley all along has lacked a show-man—an inspired autocrat who, with the marvellous material at hand, could have made it the most successful and stimulating exhibition the world has known. To-day Wembley is a tragedy of inexpert management."

May Let Down Bars On the Sale of 4.4 Beer Declares Premier

Abolition of Table Service Proposed For Future to Eradicate "Tipping" Evil—Promises to Issue Permits For Sale More Freely Hereafter.

ALL LICENSES TERMINATE NEXT MONTH.

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press)—An enlarged sale of 4.4 per cent. beer in the province of Ontario is in prospect according to a statement made yesterday at the parliament buildings by Premier Ferguson. Recalling that the sale of the beverage had been hedged about with restrictons during its initial period in order that the public might be shown that the beer was entirely harmless, the premier said yesterday that the government now regarded this demonstration as complete and proposed accordingy to issue sale permits more freely.

An interesting development which the premier also forecast in discussing the matter was the possible abolition at some time in the future of the requirement of table service. He admitted in ths regard that his attention had been drawn to the "tipping" evil which has grown up as the result of service at tables and he decared that he would like to curb such practice. The time at which table service might be done away with, however, he declared was still in the future. The Premier pointed out for the information of permit seekers that all licenses terminate with October 31 of this year. They were issued for the fiscal year of the government, he explained, not for one year from the date of issue or for the calendar year.

ANNUAL ATTACK ON BOOKSTORES

Children Swarm at Counters Buying Books For New Term.

ANIMATED SCENE.

To-day witnessed a combined movement of several hundred school children as they concentrated their attack on the bookstores handling supplies. A general air of excitement pervaded the atmosphere which would tend to convey the idea that the pupils were glad to resume their duties.

Some came with lengthy lists and retained the services of a salesman for a considerable period, while others dashed hither and thither, getting a book or a pencil whenever inspiration prompted.

The attending forces at the stores were hard put to it to cope with the situation although the staffs were augmented by extra clerks.

While the dealers could give no exact estimate of the value of stationery disposed of, they had no hesitation in placing the figures at several hundred dollars.

Some new books have replaced texts which the Department of Education had considered obsolete.

Among these revised publications are the High School English Grammar and Arithmetic and Public School readers for the Third and Fourth classes. There is also a new Public School Speller.

Smartly Attired.

But books were not alone in evidence, for all of the young folk appeared in smart up-to-the minute creations in personal attire. Boys were clad in those sturdy suits guaranteed to withstand the shocks and bumps which initiations and sports call upon them to endure. The girls' creations on the other hand were constructed to strike that individual note so painstakingly sought by each member of the sex.

All business transactions were accompanied by a running commentary on purchases already effected and those yet to be made. All experienced the thrill of getting back to school again. New comers to the Collegiate were readily distinguishable because of their shy and diffident manner, quite unlike the boisterous camaraderie of their sophisticated seniors.

To-morrow will start the big drive and teachers will tell of crowded curriculums and express a doubt as to the ability of any pupil to pass the coming exams. unless the individual settles down to earnest endeavor at the beginning of the term.

Many resolves will be made, but after the first hectic struggle, the mighty efforts will gradually sizzle down and things will be at normal again.

Honolulu hopes before long to have a baseball team in the Pacific Coast League, basing its ambition on the expected development of seaplane transportation.

LABOR CONGRESS IS OPPOSED TO NARCOTIC DRUGS

Went on Record as Favoring Complete Prohibition Except For Medical Purposes.

SUPPORTS MINERS.

Advocates Amendments to B.N.A. to Give Dominion Government More Power.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press)—The Trades and Labor Congress today went on record at their annual convention favoring the complete prohibition of the sale and manufacture of narcotic drugs except for medical purposes.

The executive was instructed by the convention to send a telegram to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, extending the sympathy and moral support of the Trades and Labor Congress to the striking anthracite miners in the United States.

Amend B.N.A. Act.

Amendments to the British North Amc. Act were advocated in the adoption of the report of the executive which read:

"The time has arrived when amendments to the British North America Act should be secured which would give greater authority to the Dominion Parliament and bring about more centralization of our laws which vitally affect the conditions of wage earners.

A resolution to alter the basis of representation at the annual convention was rejected by the Congress this morning.

The proposed change would have permitted the "block vote" system by which votes could be cast on a per capita basis of payments to the Congress by the various organitations instead of by the actual delegates at the convention.

Without debate the Congress threw out the proposed amendment to the constitution which would permit the issuing of charters to general laborers.

JULY IMPORTS FROM STATES UP

Canada Bought More Than in June or July of Last Year.

EXPORTS ALSO UP.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Canadian purchases in the United States, which have been showing a decline, were up again in July. In that month they totalled $52,000,000, as against $49,000,000 in June and $45,000,000 in July last year, according to returns to the Bureau of Statistics. Canadian exports to the United States were $37,000,000, about two hundred thousand less than in June and a million and a half more than in July last year.

Strike in U. S. Helps Mines in South Wales

LONDON, Sept. 1 (United Press).—As a result of the United States coal strike, Welsh anthracite mines began sending shipments to British Columbia by way of the Panama Canal—the longest distance hitherto taken for large shipments. South Wales mines expect an advantage from the American trouble should it last long.

500 More Miners Resuming Work In Sydney Collieries

SYDNEY, N.S., Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).— Five hundred additional miners were given employment last night when Collieries No. 1-B, 2 and 4 went on double shift for the first time since the settlement was affected. The resumption of night work at these mines means that last evening every colliery now operated by the Dominion Coal Company is working two shifts.

SMUTS LEADING TOUR OF PARTY

Penetrates to Sparsely Settled Areas of South African Interior.

APPEALS FOR UNITY.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—"South African Party Week," in which the leaders of the party will address meetings throughout the Cape province, was inaugurated yesterday, when General Jan Christian Smuts, former Premier, commenced a seven hundred mile tour of the north-western districts, being the first party leader to visit these vast and sparsely populated areas.

Addressing a mass meeting at Hopetown, the former Premier said that he was convinced the South African Party, upon which great responsibility would always rest as the strongest individual party, would again lead the country. He was thankful that both sections of the European population were burying the racial question.

Henry Burton, K.C., who was Minister of Finance in the Smuts Cabinet, speaking at George, dwelt on the danger of the spread of ultra-Socialistic doctrine as the outcome of the present vicious political situation, and appealed for the co-operation of all conservative elements and interests in obtaining stable government along sane, safe, democratic and non-racial lines.

RAINS INTERRUPT HARVESTING IN PRAIRIE PROVINCES, BUT WHEAT CROP IS SURPASSING THE AVERAGE

No Evidence Yet of Sprouting in Stooks—Cutting Nearly Completed.

ENOUGH MOISTURE

Some Damage From Rust in Manitoba, Report by C.P.R. Shows.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 1.—During the past week showers caused further delay to harvesting in the Prairie Provinces. Present weather is favorable and, if it continues, rapid advancement in cutting will be made and threshing become general, according to the weekly crop report issued Monday by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Help is generally plentiful at wages ranging from $3.50 to $4 per day, says the report. Shortage is reported from a few districts, but the situation is not serious. Recent rains have been beneficial to pasture and fodder crops and apparently caused no injury to grain.

In Manitoba cutting is completed at many points and in the southern sections the crop is 80 to 90 per cent. cut. In the northern sections it is 60 to 80 per cent. cut. Showery weather again occasioned delay but harvesting is now resumed generally. Very little threshing has been done so far. The general yield of wheat is above the average and samples fairly good. In the south eastern sections rust has done a considerable amount of damage, particularly to oats crops. Barley will, in all probability, be a good crop. Corn, roots and garden stuffs are uniformly good.

Saskatchewan's Crop

Saskatchewan harvesting is in full swing although it was again interrupted last week by rain. At present the weather is favorable and a continuance of present weather will enable full progress to be made in threshing. Further rains would place standing crops in danger of damage from sprouting and possible lowering of grade by bleaching and toughening. Cutting is from 65 to 75 per cent. done and the crop is turning out satisfactorily except in some central and southern districts where the yield has been reduced by premature ripening. Haying throughout the province is completed. Fall rye seeding has commenced. The land is in good shape to receive the seed.

Delay in Alberta.

In Alberta cool, cloudy weather, with intermittent showers during the week, interfered considerably with the progress of harvesting. This precipitation benefited later crops to some extent but further moisture was not really needed. Many points in the southern section of the province report all grains in stook, but the average for Alberta runs from 85 to 90 per cent. The sugar beet crop is doing well with an anticipated yield of eight to twelve tons of beets per acre.

Along the line of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway the weather during the past week has been unfavorable for harvesting operations. In a few places some of the wheat has started to sprout in stook, but it is not at all serious yet. In Berwyn and Grande Prairie there was some frost which damaged oats and blackened potatoes.

Dry in British Columbia.

In British Coluumbia the small fruit season is almost over. Considering drought conditions which have prevailed, in addition to the extreme heat, apples are sizing up well. Yellow transparent and Duchess apples are nearly all harvested. Early plums are now on the market.

In the lower mainland the weather is warm and dry. Blackberries, principally for canning, are the only small fruits harvested. Greengages are of a good size and quality.

In the Okanagan Valley all crops are sizing up well and prospects have improved materially during the past month. The whole country is in need of a good rainfall which would improve the color and quality of the apples.

Neighbors Make Complaint Agent Finds Forty Cats

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(United Press).—More than forty cats of all hues and species were found in the house visited by four agents who were sent to investigate the "filthiness" of the residence.

Its owner, Mrs. Gertrude Hale, had been taken to a hospital for observation, and the neighbors complained that the presence of so many cats was a violation of the sanitary code.

'NO PARKING' SIGNS APPEAR

Five in Peterborough to Prevent Abuse of Merchants' Tolerance.

NO CONSIDERATION.

In all Peterboro there are but five "No Parking" signs, one at King Street, opposite the side entrance to the warehouse of J. J. Turner and Sons, one in Chambers Street, two in Water Street, and one in George Street, opposite the main entrance to Messrs. Turners. The fact that there is only one such sign in George Street was well emphasized by the long line of parked cars on both sides of the city's principal thoroughfare on Saturday night.

Frank H. Dawson, who has had the latest sign put up in front of his place on Water Street, explained yesterday that he was compelled to do so in sheer self-defence. "People parked their cars in front of the store," he said, "without showing the slightest consideration for others. I timed one man. He left his car opposite the door at 8 a.m. He took it away at quarter after 3." Mr. Dawson said that his men repeatedly had to carry goods several hundred yards along the street because of parked cars. Farmers and tradespeople had to stop their cars in the middle of the street on account of the congestion of autos alongside the curb. Since the appearance of the sign this condition has been remedied.

PRINCE OF EGYPT KIDNAPPED FROM AN ASYLUM ATTENDANT

Scotland Yard Seeks Ahmed Siefeddin, Brother-in-law of King Alfonso—Effort Recently Made to Secure His Release From English Asylum.

INCARCERATED 24 YEARS

LONDON, September 1 (Canadian Press).—Scotland Yard officials have been asked by government representatives to ascertain the whereabouts of Prince Ahmed Siefeddin, brother-in-law of King Fuead of Egypt. The Prince is believed to have been kidnapped from the attendant of a private asylum in England, of which he had been an inmate for the past 24 years.

Prince Ahmed disappeared from Hastings, where he was visiting with the attendant. It is believed that relatives were at the bottom of his disappearance. They had been making efforts recently to obtain his release.

A week ago the Princess Newd Juan Kanem Effendi, mother of the Prince, issued a writ against the British Government, in which she claimed $22,000,000 in an effort to effect her son's release. Prince Fued was senteneed to 7 years' penal servitude for attempted murder, was later found insane, and transferred to an English asylum.

PRINCE VISITING SEVERAL RANCHES

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Accompanied by an official reception committee of prominent members of the British colony and publishers of Buenos Aires newspapers, the Prince of Wales travelled in a special train Monday through parts of Argentina and visited several ranches owned by Englishmen. Today he will inspect a British meat packing plant at Colon, in the province of Entrerios, where he will board a steamer down the Parana River for the capital, arriving Wednesday morning.

The Prince will spend Wednesday in Buenos Aires and leave that night for San Marcos ranch, in the province of Buenos Aires, where he will be the guest of Jack Nelson, the Argentine polo player, until Saturday, when he leaves for Chile.

FAIRBANKS LED MOVIE COLONY.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—A motion picture comedian and a former movie comedian provided readers of the published federal income tax lists with one of the biggest surprises today.

Charles Spencer Chaplin, believed by many to have one of the largest incomes in the world, paid $345 per sonal income tax, while Roscoe C. Arbuckle, generally regarded as nearly broke, paid $5,116.

Others who trailed Arbuckle included Rudolph Valentino Lon Chaney, Buster Keaton, Barbara La Marr, Ramon Navarro, Charles Ray and a score of directors and producers prominent in filmdom.

Of forty-two residents of Los Angeles and vicinity who paid more than $40,000 each on their personal income, only four hailed from the motion picture colony.

They were Douglas Fairbanks, who paid $182,190; Gloria Swanson, who paid $57,075; Jesse L. Lasky, the producer, whose tax was $48,592, and the director, James S. Ruse who was down for $40,343. Mary Pickford paid $34,387.

AMALGAMATE PARTIES.

Winnipeg Tribune Says Liberals and Progressives May Be United.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press)—The Tribune carried the following in its news page:

"Inspiration for the attempt to launch a 'western party' as an amalgamation of Liberals and Progressives came from Hon. T. A. Crerar, Saskatchewan Progressives declare. There has been lively curiosity throughout the west over the source of the political articles the Saskatoon Star had been running.

These articles constitute an attempt to line up Liberals and Progressives in a solid western party to demand western rights.

The source has been disclosed."

Springville Ladies Pack Bale For Indian School.

The Senior Auxiliary of the W. M.S. of Springville United church meet on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Rotbertson and packed their bale of clothing to be sent to the Round Lake Indian school in the Northwest. A summer outfit for a girl aged 14 in this school was supplied by the society. A quantity of good second-hand clothing was contributed by the ladies and made up a splendid bale. It was decided to hold their annual Thank offering at the evenin gservice on Sept. 6th, with Rev. Mr. Gordon, of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, as minister.

SPECIAL PREACHER.

William Hill, of Scotland, Addresses Gospel Hall Audience.

A great speaker who is in love with his subject, as was shown in Gospel Hall last night when preacher Wm. Hill, of Scottland, spoke on five facts concerning the Lord Jesus Christ. First He came into the world. Second He died. Third, He arose from the dead. Fourth He ascended into Heaven, and fifth, He's coming again. Mr. Hill said Christ's coming was different to any other who ever was born for the Bible declared He came, implying a pre-existant personality. He chose who His mother should be. He also chose before hand the time of coming and He chose His nationality.

All was previously arranged and carried out to schedule time, as declared in the Galatian epistle: "In the fullness of time Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

His death was a voluntary giving of himself as atonement for man's sin.

The resurrection was God's public declaration that the sin question was settled to God's requirements and all may be saved who will. God can do no more. All who refuse are sent up to judgment.

Mr. Hill will continue every night this week in Gospel Hall.

CITY IMPROVED BY REMOVAL OF SURPLUS POLES

Dismantling of Machine Telephone Company Involves Unstepping Giants.

MANY USELESS ONES

Poles of Five Different Companies at Present in City —Many Now Obsolete.

Peterboros' dead forest is being cleared away and the city is emerging from the clutter of giant poles which line the streets, like petrified sentinels. The dismantling of the Machine Telephone Company has resulted in the downfall of these monarchs which have stood silently gazing on the growth of a city for more than a quarter of a century.

At present in the city are poles which belonged at one time to the Peterboro Light and Power Co., and to the Otonabee Light and Power Co., both of which were incorporated under the Utilities Commission. Added to these are the poles of the old Machine Telephone Company, now being dismantled, and those of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Telegraph Companies, which have leads to their offices. Away from the central part of the city are the Bell Telephone Company poles.

There is admittedly no scenic beauty in this lifeless forest and the fact that numbers of them are being removed should occasion little grief. It is one more step in the clean up campaign. Many of the poles had no wires nor have they served any useful purpose for years. Mr. Parsons stated that so many companies had borrowed many of them for so many purposes that their real and original ownership had in many cases become lost.

The Utilities Commission in its programme of gradual reconstruction is doing well in eliminating so far as is possible the great horde of unnecessary standards and replacing them where essential by straight, clean poles from British Columbia.

J. M. McHardy, of the Bell Telephone Company, said that 60 per cent of the wire mileage of the Bell System was underground, thus obviating the use of the unsightly and cumbersome pole, particularly in the crowded districts.

There are no Bell telephone poles on George St., between the Canadian Packing Company and Smith street. The same applies for a considerable distance out Charlotte street, and over the Hunter street bridge to East City. From the Canadian Packing Company the conduits are ready to receive the cable, which will be placed in them when occasion demands. From time to time more underground cable will be put down. At present there is very little open wire in the air, and as a consequence the thirty foot pole can be used where underground cables are not provided.

The Bell Company makes a practice of securing the major quantity of its poles locally because they were of a cleaner and better quality than those which it was necessary to bring from a distance to insure an adequate supply. The use of the covered cable obviated the demand for the great fifty-five foot monarchs, as wires may now be strung through trees without resulting interference from contact with the limbs.

England, France, Belgium and other countries of Europe plan to send some of their best oarsmen to compete in this year's international rowing championships, which are to be held at Prague during the first week of September.

PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

In the year 1873 when the church that house the George Street Methodist congregation was found to be inadequate for the accommodation of those worshipping there, two important decisions were arrived at. One culminated in the building of the present George Street Church, the other had its fulfillment in the formation of a new circuit and the building of a new church, known as Charlotte Street Church.

In seeking a building lot, consideration was given to the growth of the town on the South and West and the site chosen, at the corner of Charlotte and Reid streets, was one that had originally been occupied by the house of the Rev. Vincent Clementi, an Anglican clergyman, and is now the site of the Standard Medical and Surgical Clinic. The corner stone was laid in 1873 by Mrs. George Hilliard and the church was opened on December 7 of the same year, the Rev. Dr. Nalles of Victoria College being the preacher at the introductory services. The new church was plain and unpretentious in external appearance, but was beautifully finished and furnished inside.

A fine and commodious Sunday School building was added as a wing to the church in 1891 and was later improved by the addition of galleries.

Under successive pastors and fostered by an energetic Board of Trustees and Stewards, the church prospered and outgrew its accommodation, and the question of erecting a larger edifice came before the members. At first the voice of the congregation was that a new building should be built on the old site, but on May 27, 1913, the Building Committee, to whom had been entrusted the responsibility of arriving at a final decision, agreed to build the new church on the property known as the Aaron Cox site on Simcoe street. The corner stone of the new church was laid on September 22, 1914 by H. C. Cox of Toronto, the son of George A. Cox, long a friend and supporter of the church. With the removal to a new location came a change of designation, the church being known as Trinity Methodist Church. The church was formerly dedicated by the Rev. S. D. Chowen, D.D., on Sunday morning, January 3, 1916.

Situated on a picturesque location at the head of Simcoe street with a frontage on Rubidge street, Trinity Church is of Norman English architecture, is built of grey stone, seats 900 people, and cost $55,000 to build. The mullioned windows, filled with stained glass are reminiscent of Old World abbeys and cathedrals. The organ, rich in tone and elegant in appearance, is one of the finest in the city.

Trinity's war record is worthy of mention. Eighty-five members enlisted for service overseas and the congregation contributed $625 to the 50th Battalion fund.

The Rev. A. J. Langford was called to the pastorate of Trinity church in June 1921.

FIRE THREATENED NEAR BAILIEBORO

Picnickers Failed to Put Out Bonfire, Which Spread Close to Cottage.

BAILIEBORO, Sept. 1.— About five o'clock Sunday evening a fire gained considerable headway on the property owned by Roy Pengelley. The blaze was first noticed by some of the neighbours, who immediately gave assistance in fighting the fire. A motor boat was seen to leave the shore while the fire was still burning. Evidently some picnickers had stopped to cook their meal and had gone away without extinguishing their bonfire. A fire at this time would prove a very serious loss as everything is in a very dry condition owing to the lack of rain. The fire had gotten into an old stump fence and had caught on to the long grass in the unpastured field, and as a result had spread very rapidly.

The fire had been built only a few feet from a very thickly wooded cedar swamp and had it made its way into the loose underbrush it would have been impossible to check as the swamp continues for many miles.

A cottage owned by Mr. Pengelley stood quite near and it was with great difficulty that the men were able to keep the flames from the building. Beside the burning field was a heavy crop of peas already cut, but the blaze was caught in time to save the crop. Some of the men had to stay quite late in order to assure safety to the premises.

Fruit Stolen.

Mrs. Hilliard McMahon discovered a loss of fruit which she had preserved for the winter. Her raspberries, as well as other things in her cellar, have been quietly removed by some one unknown.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Airplane P.N.-9 No. 3 was forced down three hundred miles off the California coast on its attempted flight to Hawaii, when oil pressure lines to both engines were broken. The destroyer William Jones made a hundred mile run in four hours to the aid of the stricken plane and took it in tow.

LAST OF MINERS LEAVES COAL PIT

Tie-up of Hard Coal Fields Complete To-day— Pumps Running.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Peaceable but complete tie-up of the hard coal fields was reported to-day as the result of the suspension instituted by 156,000 mine workers at midnight.

The last of the miners quite the pits on the stroke of twelve, which terminated the last two years' contract with the operators. Work will not be resumed until the contract is renewed. The departure of the last squads of men from the mines was business like and unmarked by any show of feeling.

The first shift of ten thousand maintenance men who will police the mines throughout the suspension by mutual consent, took their assigned places without a hitch. The laying off of ten thousand railway men owing to the decrease of traffic is expected to take place within three days.

EMIGRATION ISN'T AS BAD AS SAID

Recent Rumors That Many Leaving City Not Borne Out.

The local Jeremiahs who have been industriously propagating the idea in recent times that Peterborough is emigrating piece by piece to the neighboring republic, will find cold comfort and little support in the Utilities Commission reports of household lighting installations and disconnections. The following table shows the comparative figures over a period of four months.

In the month of March there were 67 re-connections and 51 disconnections. In April 156 re-connections and 136 disconnections; May 167 re-connections and 161 diconnections; June 94 re-connections and 60 disconnections. It will be seen that March is the only month in which gains do not exceed losses. It was further pointed out that no one is justified in assuming that when a family asks to have its lighting arrangements disconnected, it is of necessity about to emigrate.

The Canadian Pacific ticket office give the number of United States tickets sold as 535 during the first six months of the year. The Canadian National estimates a sale of 200 tickets to the United States over the same period. Neither of these figures can be taken as an index of an exodus of population, the chief clerk at the C.P.R. pointing out that many people on a visit to the States, buy their returning tickets on the other side.

BANDITS RELEASED EIGHT MISSIONARIES

Bishop Mowll and Party Were Captured on Aug. 6 at Cheng-tu.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Bishop H. W. K. Mowll, his wife and six other members of the Church Missionary Society captured by bandits near Cheng Tu, Szechwan Province, on August 6, have been released. This news was contained in a telegram received yesterday by the local office of the Church Missionary Society.

The bandits swooped down on the missionary group during a picnic. Later advices said the party was being treated well by their captors.

PAYROLL TAKEN BY HIGHWAYMEN

Five Men Held Up Officials of Detroit Lumber Company.

STOLE $3,000.

DETROIT, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Five armed highwaymen yesterday took the $3,000 payroll from Arthur H. Blackheim, an official of the Detroit Lumber Co., after forcing his automobile to the curb.

The five thieves, heavily armed, drove alongside Blackheim's auto in a high-powered car. While four of the bandits covered him, Jack Bremmer and Miss Beatrice Cameron, company employees, the fifth man jumped on the running board and snatched the satchel from Blackheim. The three victims were compelled to hold up their hands during the robbery.

Canadian and United States wheat flour in transit was 229,000 barrels, against 274,000.

FIRED ON FASCISTI.

Socialists Killed One at Celebration in Palmi—Spectators Hurt.

ROME, Sept. 1 —(United Press). —Socialists at Palmi fired upon a group of Fascists during the latter's celebration in the main square of the city to-day, killing one Fascist, injuring another and slightly wounding two spectators.

The police arrested several Socialists.

TAGGING SALMON.

Movements of Fish Studied By Government.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—The Department of Marine and Fisheries has marked a considerable number of Atlantic salmon by attaching silver tags to their dorsal fins, for the purpose of learning something regarding the movements of these fish.

A salmon trout was marked and liberated off Burns' Point, Port Maitland, Yarmouth County, N.S., on June 11 last, was killed in the Moisis River, Que., in the early part of July.

If this fish took the most direct route, it travelled in the vicinity of 800 miles; but if it followed the larger indentations of the shoreline it travelled over 1,200 miles.

GOOD BUSINESS AT SUB OFFICES

New Postal Facilities Appreciated By Citizens of Peterborough.

SELL MONEY ORDERS.

Charles Lacheur, postmaster, reports that the first month has shown a creditable volume of business done by the sub-stations established at four stragetic points in the city. People are rapidly availing themselves of the service afforded, and may soon be given the additional advantage of money order and postal note accommodation.

As a matter of fact, this department was inaugurated this morning at sub-station Number 1, which is at the corner of Chamberlain Street and Monaghan Road. This office is conducted by W. J. Byers.

The three other offices will receive the service when business warrants its adoption. When the people of the districts served by these outposts realize their value and make use of them accordingly the service will be augmented to satisfy the increased need.

STEADILY GROWING.

Nothing illustrates better the reputation that has been gained by the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition than the report made at a recent meeting of the Directors that a number of herds of cattle from distant points are to be exhibited here this year.

The cattle exhibits have been steadily growing, and when cattlemen consider it worth while to ship their animals a long distance to compete at the Peterboro Industrial it speaks volumes for the manner in which the local Exhibition has been conducted and demonstrates the value of liberality in planning prize lists.

The growth in this department has been matched by similar progress throughout the Exhibition, and aside altogether from its entertainment features, this year greater than ever, the local Fair has made wonderful advancement in the extent and quality of its livestock exhibits.

Although the accommodation has been greatly increased, the influx of new entries makes a big demand upon the available space.

All things considered, the 1925 Peterboro Industrial should set a new mark for next year's Directors to shoot at—and let us hope that a new attendance record will be included.

4.4 A FAILURE?

The Washington delegation which has been investigating the sale of 4.4 beer in Ontario has reported that the introduction of the new beverage has been a failure inasmuch as it has not satisfied the man who wants a "kick" in his beverage, and it has not cut down the manufacture of home-brewed beer nor lessened the activities of the bootlegger.

With that finding there is not likely to be much fault found for it confirms the general impression.

Four-point-four beer, perhaps due to a considerable extent to the price charged for it, has not proved to be the popular beverage that many people imagined it would be.

More than one hotel proprietor rues the fact that in order to comply with the regulations and secure a permit he went to the expense of altering his premises, for the expected rush of business quite failed to materialize.

The introduction of stronger beer has antagonized the temperance people, without gaining the favour of the wet forces.

No wonder there is much pressure being brought to bear on the Ontario Government to go a step further toward a wetter Province, pressure that may perhaps explain the impression that Hon. W. F. Nickle is to leave the Attorney-General's office to become Chairman of the Ontario Hydro-electric Commission.

Efforts of that kind would be much more likely to succeed were the present Attorney-General out of the way.

TY COBB AND BABE RUTH.

Young men who think could not fail to notice the lesson that was taught by two items that appeared in yesterday's sporting page.

One told of the downfall of Babe Ruth, famous home-run hitter, who has been fined $5,000 and suspended indefinitely by the manager of his club because he has been dissipating.

The other described the honours paid another celebrated player, Ty Cobb, on the twentieth anniversary of his advent into big league baseball, the presentations including cheques from the city of Detroit and from the Detroit Ball Club.

The career of these two stars affords a valuable guide to youths everywhere.

Cobb, not as great a long-distance hitter, but a wonderful player in all departments of the game, has taken care of himself, lived a clean life and watched his health, with the result that after twenty years in the American League he is still among the first five batters in the organization.

And he is reported to have amassed over a million dollars as a result of his baseball activities.

Ruth, not long ago the greatest attraction in baseball, possessing the ability to drive a ball to greater distances than any other player in the history of the game and the highest paid diamond athlete in either league, has been wasting his substance and his health, with the inevitable result that he has been suspended, and that very little remains of the enormous salaries he has received during recent years.

There is no need to point the moral; the contrasting stories of Cobb and Ruth make it plain enough for everybody to read for themselves.

ONE WAY TO SAVE MONEY.

Henry Ford, in pursuit of his private interests, is illustrating in a striking way the value of the fresh water route to the sea and the possibilities of the proposed deep waterway, says the Toronto Star.

Recently the steamship "Anders" brought 1,650 tons of steel rails from Antwerp, Belgium, to Detroit, consigned to the Ford Motor Company. The cost of transportation was $3 per ton; the distance 4,400 miles. The all-rail rate on that character of shipment between Detroit and Montreal, a distance of 612 miles is said to be $7.50 per ton.

Mr. Ford is operating three ships on the new line between Antwerp and Detroit—the "Anders," "Nico" and "Norford"—with regular dates of sailing. A fourth will be added. These boats have to be of canal size. They come up the St. Lawrence to Montreal, use the 14-foot Canadian canals to Lake Ontario and then pass through the Welland Canal, which will soon be superseded by a canal with more than 20-foot depth.

The saving of $7,425 between Detroit and Montreal effected by the use of the all-water route for steel rails, leaving out the additional saving between Montreal and Antwerp, bulks large. It was thought that the ship might return empty or nearly so. But motor trucks were sent to Europe as a return cargo, and on these the saving was three days in time and 48 per cent. in cost. A full return cargo to Europe is in sight for the next two boats. The saving per automobile works out to $30 and there is less loss from breakages because trans-shipment is avoided.

Opponents of the project for deepening the St. Lawrence system pretend that canals are obsolete, whereas the shallow ones now linking the Atlantic with the great lakes are continually growing in favor. But their use and the saving they effect will be tremendously increased when, instead of cargoes of 2,000 tons, eight and ten thousand-ton cargoes can get through the canals. The whole North American Continent will feel the impetus to business that will come from the cheapening of transportation by improving the natural channels between Duluth and the ocean.

RE-STOCKING NECESSARY.

A couple of Buffalo men were in Peterboro on Sunday night on their way home after paying a brief visit to the district north of Tweed, where they succeeded in a few hours' fishing in making a catch of twenty-five black bass.

The point of the incident is that these visitors worked as usual on Friday in Buffalo, left that city the same night in a motor car, reached their fishing ground on Saturday, made their catch, and were on their way home again the next day.

It explains why the Examiner recently pointed out that the northern lakes would have to be restocked or they would soon be fished out.

The automobile has brought these waters as close to Buffalo fishermen today as they were to Peterboro people a few years ago.

Every day during the summer season on the roads in the northern part of Peterboro County can be found United States cars, and it is obvious that the fishery resources of these lakes will be exhausted unless steps are taken to replenish the supply.

When fishermen from New York State find it an easy task to spend a week-end fishing trip in this district it will readily be admitted that the motor car has set up new conditions that must be dealt with.

TEN THOUSAND YEARS HENCE.

For months past our eyes have been peering into the past to learn more about our earthly origin. British scientists seem to be looking in the other direction. Having accepted evolution some decades ago, they are now more concerned about what we are to evolve into and what sort of earth we may have to live upon. The discussions of the British Association for the Advancement of Science seem to be following Edward Everett Hale's motto—"looking forward and not back"—and, with all their discouragements, looking up and not down. They are the best sports in the world. They face mosquitos and earthquakes alike with the same equanimity that their statesmen have shown in dealing with distressing economic problems. If there has been a "fall of man," they are not discouraged by it. They accept the theory that the earth has been a billion years in the making, but they show a tolerance toward the youngest scientist in their midst.

Their chief interest at the opening session at Southampton seems to have concerned what is going to happen to the earth geologically. Within "measurable time" it is not impossible, it is physically possible, that the areas now occupied by civilization will again be seized by the glaciers whose predecessors left their mark on stones in temperate zones around the world. One of these scientists, a Canadian, has pictured a polar civilization, while the zones in which man has assumed continued progress will be swathed in snow and ice. The reports do not state the basis for the prophecy, but, if it is a sound one, future ages may look back to Peary and Amundsen as we now do to Ericson and Columbus and Cabot and Cartier and Champlain.

While this forward looking was going on in Southampton, in South Africa General Jan Smuts was making like prediction, only he was not so vague in the matter of dates. His "measured time" was 10,000 years. By then, approximately, the European climate would have "altered beyond recognition" by people living in our time. The new ice age is drifting nearer and nearer. This will mean not only that certain torrid wildernesses will pass away, but that "the present human races will have disappeared" and given place to a higher species. Living, as he does, in that part of the world where there are "living fossils" (Bushmen), remains of a race which disappeared from Europe thousands of years ago, and where there are still living fossils of plants that have gone from all other fields, he has good reason for his faith that there will be still further evolution—that the races now living will some day be but as fossils to men of a bettering breed, whether they live at the Poles or in the latitudes which have bounded mankind's past achievement.

One can but recall General Smuts' words to his fellow-Boers who had vowed to fight to the bitter end: "The end has come, and it is more bitter than we thought it could be, but let us bow before the will of God." That will may "lead to the light of a brighter day." This higher fate is the only thing that can fully justify our having come as far as we have. It remains, as one of the great schoolmasters of England used to say, to "take the bitter and the sweet as sweet and bitter come and play the game." And are any of us playing the game better than those Britishers, scientists or statesmen, who, with all their difficulties, insist upon looking forward?—New York Times.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SAYS VETS SHOULD PULL TOGETHER.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In your columns a veteran is desirous of finding a foundation to a rumor re a mass meeting that he presumes is to be held in the Victoria Park Sunday, September 20. I am sorry that I am unable to give him any particulars about this meeting, as to me it seems entirely out of the question. In the first place, I don't see the necessity of a delegate of the so-called unattached to go to Ottawa, in so far as a general meeting was called and was largely attended at the G.W.V.A., with the result that the meeting was in favor of one organization in Canada, and that a committee was formed composed of non-members and members of the G.W.V.A., to look further into it. That opportunity was not taken advantage of, and with the consequence that the time arrived for the delegates to attend the Provincial Conference in Toronto representing an organized club, to which was carried out in a business-like manner, and a long and detailed report brought back subject to inspection any time the committee wishes to see it. Furthermore, if a delegate was sent from every organized and unorganized outfit from every village, town or city, Ottawa would be filled to capacity, and with such a large body of men it would be a difficult job to transact business in a speedy and business-like manner. Things are best left alone, and in the hands of five or six, that are now representing military district No. 3, and nominated from the Provincial Conference. Now, just imagine a mass meeting in the Park, where a man will be expected to shout to some person on the stand his likes and dislikes about the G.W.V.A. and other little petty grievances that he may have. And why a public park? If this meeting is so much desired, why not ask the management of the G.W.V.A. for the hall, or the management for the Armouries, which no doubt will be granted. Personally I think a room 10 by 10 will be large enough to hold the promoter and supporters of this meeting, and in my opinion the sooner this small and narrow minded business is cut out the further we will get ahead. So pull together and remember the verse,

"United we stand,
Divided we fall."

Thanking you for your space, etc., yours truly,

Oliver White, 21st Batt.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31. Canadian Press. — With reports of a stronger undertone on the Toronto market, and of a better outlook in Montreal, indications are that the dull condition of the Canadian egg market, which has lasted throughout August, is coming to a close.

The Toronto market is unchanged but a little better undertone is noted for the better grades. Country shippers are paying extras 35, first 32, seconds 25, and making sales extras 36, firsts 34, seconds 29 f.o.b.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, August 31. Canadian Press. — The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market to-day showed no improvement, the demand from foreign countries being somewhat limited, and only sales of odd loads of oats and American barley were made. There was some enquiry from New York exporting houses for No. 1 Northern wheat at 22c per bushel over the Winnipeg October option for the first half September shipment. Sales of American barley were made on spot at 78½ to 79c per bushel, and extra No. 1 feed oats at 8 1-4c per bushel over the Winnipeg October option c.i.f. Montreal.

Owing to the reduced premiums on all grades of Canadian and the further weakness in the future market, local spot prices for cash grain were 1 to 2c per bushel lower. The demand was quiet.

The tone of the market for millfield remained firm owing to the continued small supplies available on spot for which there was a good enquiry. The feature if the market for standard grades of rolled oats was the fact that the sales were made for export account. The local trades was inactive but steady.

There was an improvement in the demand for eggs and a fair volume of business resulted. The tendency was steady A stronger feeling developed in the butter market and prices were marked up 1-4 to ½c per pound owing to the better demand over the cable and the keener competition between the local buyers

Cheese prices were advanced ½c to 5-8c per pound

Old crop beans were quoted at $2.45 to $2.50 per bush.

QUEBEC BUTTER AUCTION.

MONTREAL, Aug. 31. Canadian Press. — At the Quebec Federated Co-operative Society auction sale of butter held here to-day there were 1500 packages of No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter offered and all sold at 38 3-4c per lb.

MONTREAL, August 31. — Canadian Press. — At the United Dairymen's Co-operative auction sale of Belleville cheese held here to-day the offerings amounted to 2303 boxes of which 762 boxes of No 1 colored sold at 21 7-8c per lb, f.o.b. Belleville for shipment to Montreal. For 1541 boxes No. 1 white 21 5-8c per lb. was bid, with 21 7-8c per lb. asked.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, August 31. — Canadian Press. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:

Sterling demand $4.84 3-4.

Sterling cables, $4.85 1-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 31. — Canadian Press. — Instead of an expected increase of about 1,000,000 bushels, the United States visible supply of wheat showed a sudden decrease of 557,000 bushels to-day and the wheat market rallied from an early decline in price. The closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to 3-8c higher, December $1.53 1-8 to $1.53 1-4, and May $1.57 5-8 to $1.57 3-4, with corn ranging from 1½c decline to 5-8c advance; oats 3-8 to 5-8c down, and provisions varying from 17 to 20c off to a rise of 15c.

At first the wheat market here displayed a notable downward tendency owing more or less to a sharp drop in values at Liverpool where increased world shipments and fine harvest weather for European countries were among the leading factors. Before the Chicago drop in prices was checked, numerous standing orders to stop losses at various fixed limits were forced into action, and the market was carried beneath any recent low level. Then heavy buying on the part of houses with eastern connections set in. An all-round advance ensued, but the purchasing dwindled at the last and most of the gains were wiped out.

Late reports of the sale of considerable amount of spring wheat at Duluth to come to Chicago had some influence toward checking the upward swing of the market here. On the Other hand announcement of the visible supply decrease virtually simultaneously with the completion of the domestic spring wheat harvest, came as a surprise to most traders, and apparently gave further significance to slowness of the after-harvest movement of the winter crop.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—Trade at the cattle market opened slow with an easier feeling on all grades of cattle. The large receipts were mainly on poor quality stuff. A few baby beeves brought $8 to $11.50 Butcher steers sold mostly from $5 $6.50 a hundred, with common downward to $4. A few choice handyweight steers sold up to $7.75. Export trade is draggy, with good heavy steers at $7.50 to $ 8.25. Store cattle ranged from $3.50 to $5.50 per hundred weight.

Calves were steady at $11 to $12 for choice. Grass calves sold from $450 to $5.50 a hundred.

Buyers on the hog market were bidding a quarter lower, but salesmen look for a steady market. Prospects are $14.25 off car for thick smooths and $15.63 for selects, with premium $2.71 for select bacon off cars.

The lamb market opened slow with no early sales. Buyers were offering $13 for the best lambs. Sheep are firm at $7 to $8 for choice.

ROYAL BANK HAS NOW 800 BRANCHES

Amalgamation With Union Bank Effective To-day Enlarges Service.

To the mind of the average person, the name, The Royal Bank of Canada, does not adequately convey the manifold activities of this Canadian institution with over 800 branches in Canada and with over 100 branches established in such countries as Cuba, the British and French West Indies, Haiti, Argentina, Brazil, British Guiana, British Honduras Costa Rica, Colombia, Peru, Uruguay, Venezuela, as well as in London, New York, Paris and Barcelona, nor does the average business man realize the wide and varied service this Bank is able to render without going outside its own organization.

The Royal Bank of Canada has done much to foster Canadian trade abroad and the value of its service to exporters and importers lies, not in its regular banking business alone, but also in its willingness at all times to supply information regarding markets and marketing conditions, tariffs and confidential credit reports, etc. The value of this type of service is to be found in the fact that information is gathered direct by Managers who are not only on the spot, but know intimately local conditions.

In a little over fifty years, The Royal Bank of Canada has grown from a purely local Bank to an institution of international importance and to-day holds a foremost position amongst the great banks of the world.

The Royal Bank of Canada was incorporated in 1869 as "The Merchants Bank of Halifax. Its name was changed to the present title on January 1, 1901. The Head Office was transferred from Halifax to Montreal on March 2, 1907.

During the last two decades, a vigorous policy of expansion has been followed. The assets of The Union Bank of Halifax were purchased by The Royal Bank of Canada on November 1, 1910; of The Traders Bank of Canada on September 1, 1912; of The Quebec Bank on January 2, 1917, and of The Northern Crown Bank on July 2, 1918.

The Bank's facilities for serving the public in Canada have been greatly increased by the purchase of The Union Bank of Canada, announcement of which was made by The Minister of Finance at Ottawa, on May 22, 1925, and which was unanimously ratified by the shareholders of both banks on July 21. At the meeting of The Royal Bank shareholders held at the Head Office in Montreal, it was decided to increase the authorized capital of the Bank from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000, as it has always been the practice of the Bank to keep its authorized capital somewhat higher than its paid-up capital.

The purchase of The Union Bank of Canada has added another 270 offices to The Royal Bank's original chain of branches in Canada, thus giving the Bank a total of over 800 branches in the Dominion and more than 100 abroad The merger will bring the total assets of The Royal Bank of Canada well over 700 million dollars with deposits of over $600,000,000.

The Union Bank of Canada was established in 1865 and has been regarded as particularly a Western Bank. Its Head Office was in Winnipeg and the majority of its branches served the farming sections of the Prairie Provinces.

The absorption of the Branches of The Union Bank of Canada by The Royal Bank of Canada was effected on September 1, 1925.

A THOUGHT.

THE LESSON.

Not every day can wear the charm
Of sunbeam's smile and cheery air
Nor every life know naught of harm,
Or sorrow's cross of care.

But every day that comes with rain
Means brighter sunny days to be;
And every life with hours of pain
Joy's happier hours will see.

This truth the years would have us learn;
By sorrow, joy is sweeter made;
Where fairest roses glow and burn,
The rain's soft lips were laid.

ELECTION NOT MENTIONED, SAYS PREMIER OF CABINET MEETING

Federal Council Largely Attended by Ministers Monday —Another Conference This Afternoon — Routine Business Disposed Of.

VACANT POSTS STILL UNFILLED

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—"We did not even discuss elections—there is nothing to report," declared Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, last evening, at the conclusion of a lengthy session of the Cabinet Council, which lasted over four hours.

It was intimated further that no action was taken at yesterday's meeting by Cabinet in respect to the numerous vacancies to be filled. A further session of council will be held this afternoon.

The application of the Backus-Seaman interests for pulp concessions in Manitoba was considered by the Cabinet, but it was stated afterwards that no decision was arrived at in the matter. Further consideration, it is understood, will be given to this application at today's meeting. An accumulation of routine matters was also dealt with by Council.

Mondays session was largely attended. Those present, in addition to the Prime Minister, included: Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals; Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice; Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works; Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence; Hon. Chas. Stewart, Minister of Interior; Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance; Hon. Chas. Murphy, Postmaster-General; Hon. P. J. A. Gardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries; Hon. A. B. Copp, Secretary of State; Hon. H. S. Beland, Minister of Health and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment; Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor; Hon. T. A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Hal. B. McGiverin and Hon. J. E. Sinclair, Ministers without portfolio.

Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs and Excise, was not present, but is expected to arrive in Ottawa in time to attend today's sesion. Senator Dandurand left Canada some time ago to attend the Assembly of the League of Nations which meets at Geneva shortly.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE MAROONS SHIPS IN FAR-FLUNG POSTS OF BRITISH EMPIRE AND MAY ANCHOR OTHERS

Sailors Stay Ashore at Hull and Avonmouth — May Quit at Southampton.

REJECT WAGE CUT

"Idle as Painted Ships Upon a Painted Ocean at Cape Town.

LONDON, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—The unofficial strike of the seamen at various British ports is causing much concern. Trans-Atlantic liners are beginning to feel the effects of this unofficial movement, which has developed considerably in the past day or two. The White Star liner Majestic, due to sail from Southampton for New York on Wednesday, is one of them, for there is uncertainty as to what the Majestic's crew will do.

Last night there was hope that the strike would not prevent the Majestic from sailing; her crew had not yet given the 24 hours' notice of withdrawal, and this the men were required to do by 11 o'clock this morning if they were to quit the ship.

The Royal Mail liners Arlanza and Glamorganshire refused to sign on yesterday, and it is possible that their sailings will have to be postponed. The strike, however, so far as it concerns Southampton, appears to be hanging fire.

At Hull, a meeting of seamen decided to join the strike; they formed a strike committee and detailed pickets to visit the docks. The meeting, however, represented only a small portion of the Hull seamen.

The fruit steamers Cavina and Aracataca, due to sail from Avonmouth for the West Indies yesterday with passengers, were unable to depart, the sailors and firemen refusing to sign on at reduced wages. The engineers took the vessels to Walton Bay, hoping to obtain crews from other channel ports.

Tied Up at Cape Town.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuters).—The liner Kenilworth Castle arrived in the Cape Town waters yesterday, but owing to the strike of British seamen she was not docked, but remained in the roadstead, and her future movements are uncertain. Her passengers were landed by tugs plying between the dock and the ship. The mails were taken off and transferred to shore by tugs.

The Arundel Castle, which was to have sailed last Saturday with Princess Alice, wife of the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of South Africa, is still here awaiting strike developments. The passengers on the Arundel Castle waiting for her to sail have been given 24 hours' notice to leave the ship and find accommodation ashore.

Mails Held Up.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Following the action of the 15,000 railway men of Queensland who are on strike in boycotting the handling of mails the Federal Premier, S. M. Bruce, has telegraphed Premier W. Gillies, of Queensland, with regard to the hold-up of 26 bags of mails at Rockhampton.

Premier Bruce points out to the Premier of Queensland, the seriousness of such action on the strikers' part, which is a breach of the law, he says, and he requests assurance from Premier Gillies that prompt action will be taken to deal with the offenders.

The strike council's decision to attend a compulsory conference of all the trades unions summonded by the president of the arbitration court has aroused hopes that the strike may soon end.

Strike Bill Passed.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuters).—The Senate yesterday passed the bill providing for special police in connection with the seamen's strike.

The bill was bitterly opposed in the Australian House of Representatives and it had a somewhat stormy passage through the Senate also.

The object of the bill is to provide for the creation of a special police force which will execute deportation orders against agitators (Communists and others) responsible for the strike of British seamen in Australian waters.

The House of Representatives recently enacted a measure providing for the deportation of persons proved to have caused labor troubles, and the bill making provision for police to enforce this law naturally followed.

$3,000 SHORTAGE.

In Accounts of Nova Scotia Sanatorium.

HALIFAX, N.S., Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press.)— Hon. Gordon S. Harrington, Minister of Works and Mines in the Nova Scotia Government, said last night that a shortage of $3,000 had been discovered in the accounts of the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, Kentville, N.S. The Public Accounts of the province are now undergoing an independent audit at the hands of a Montreal firm.

A few days ago shortage of $3,000 was discovered in the books of the Agricultural College, Truro, and the accountant was placed under arrest. Hon. Mr. Harrington stated last night that the same procedure would be followed in the case of the Nova Scotia Sanatorium.

BARN BURNT IN ENNISMORE

Thos. Cavanagh Lost Large Crop in Three Barns—Much Equipment Burnt.

SMALL INSURANCE.

ENNISMORE, Sept. 1 — Three barns, full of hay and grain, one horse and a large number of implements were burned at the farm of Thomas Cavanagh, here, last week. Spontaneous combustion is believed to have been the cause.

Mr. Cavanagh had had a large crop, which was in the barns. He had a manure spreader, fanning mill, pulper, scales, several sets of harness and some odd grain in the barn, all of which was lost. There was a small insurance, which will not cover the loss.

LABOR'S RANKS GROW THINNER

Membership in Canadian Trades Congress Declining Steadily Since 1923.

105,912 AT PRESENT.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press). — The membership of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada is 105,912 for the current year, as compared with 117,060 in 1924 and 121,842 in 1923. The membership was 81,687 in 1918. In the following years it rose to 173,778 in 1922, and has declined since that year.

The total receipts for 1925 were $23,274.41, total expenditure $20,938.34, and the balance $2,336.07. The financial report was presented to the Congress convention Monday afternoon.

A resolution was adopted urging the Quebec Provincial Government to ratify of the draft convention of the Internartional Conference of Labor at Geneve on workmen's compensation in industrial accidents.

The convention went on record in favor of an amendment to the Civil Service Act to allow any branch of the service desiring to come under the Industrial Disputes Investigations Act or an independent board "with full powers to adjust any grievance that may obtain from arbitrary findings of the Civil Service Commission."

Frown On Armed Force.

By a vote of 95 to 56, the Congress rejected part of a resolution which would, if legislation was not secured to prohibit corporations from maintaining armed forces, favor the arming of trade union members for protection during strikes and lockouts. The rejected section of the resolution was warmly supported by T. Buck, of Toronto, who said that so long as corporations were permitted to shoot down strikers, they would keep armed forces. It should be made more dangerous for a man to carry a gun for the company than to be among the strikers. The resolution was carried, referring only to the need for "drastic legislation," forbidding companies to arm men and deleting the section respecting the "steps to protect their own members."

U. S. FREIGHTER STRIKES ROCK

Headed For Boston With Hold and Bunker Leaking.

HIT OFF HALIFAX.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—With leaks in hold and bunker, the United States Shipping Board steamer Kearney, bound from Baltimore to Glasgow, was steaming at reduced speed to this port last night after she crashed into a rock near Seal Island, off Halifax.

The details of the crash were not included in the radio report which Captain George J. Breeden, commander of the vessel, sent to Rogers and Webb, Boston agents for the Oriole Line of Baltimore, which operates the ship.

Officials of the line stated last night that they had been advised that the Kearny struck before daybreak Monday morning, resulting in leaks in No. 2 hold and in a bunker.

The Kearny sailed from Saint John, N.B., Sunday night after adding 600 head of cattle to the 4,400-ton cargo taken on at Baltimore. The steamer was built in 1919 at Kearny, N.J.

She was expected to reach Boston early today and arrangements have been made to float her into an East Boston drydock for a survey of her bottom.

MANY TEACHERS SEEK POSITIONS

Two Hundred and Twenty Applied for One School Near Cobourg.

COURT AT BEWDLEY

COBOURG, Sept. 1.—Zion school near here needed a teacher and the fact that there were 220 applicants for the position, shows that many teachers in the district are without schools. Mrs. Johnson of Cobourg who last year taught in Western Ontario, was selected to fill the position.

A Presentation.

Miss Helen Thompson, daughter of Mrs. W. R. Thompson, who is leaving on Monday to enter Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, as a nurse-in-training, was presented with a handsome writing case by Miss Cannon's class in the United church Sunday school of which she was a member. About fifteen girls assembled at her home for the presentation and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Court at Bewdley.

Magistrate Floyd was at Bewdley on Wednesday, when two residents of that place came up, charged with operating a punchboard. They were fined $10 each and costs.

Band At Home.

The Cobourg Kilties Band had an engagement to play at the four days fair there. It was a repeat engagement, they having been there last year.

Sold Prize Horses.

Mr. J. P. Richards has sold his fine roadster mare, Princess Axwothy, that won several prizes and a championship at the Cobourg Horse Show, also a handsome pair of standard breds, Herman and Wenger, to James Franceschine of Toronto, president of the Dufferin Construction Company, the price paid is stated to have been $1,400.

Personal Mention.

Miss Ruby Rothwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rothwell, is leaving shortly for Hartford, where she will enter a hospital as a nurse in training.

Judge Riddell, Toronto, was in town for a few days last week.

Rev. Gordon S. Jury, missionary on furlough from Formosa, accompanied by his wife and family, spent a few days in town during the week visiting friends. Mr. Jory is a former pastor of Cobourg Baptist church.

"Class-Mates" Duofold Jr. and Lady Duofold

Would You Like to Start School with a Duofold?

Here is the $7 Pen in a $5 Size

YES, $5 buys a Parker Duofold Jr. with a full-handed grip for a fellow's strong hand; and $5 buys a Lady Duofold Pen with a slender grip to fit a girl's slim fingers.

Both of the $5 Duofolds are just like the $7 Parker Duofold except for size.

This extra good fountain pen would make your school work lighter, for the more skill used in making a pen, the easier it is for you to write a smooth, clear hand with it.

Choose your size, choose your point—Extra Fine, Fine, Medium, Broad, Stub, or Oblique. And choose your color—the Duofold lacquer-red with smart black tips, or the plain black trimmed with gold.

Some fellows have spent $8 or $10 on unsatisfactory fountain pens before buying a Parker Duofold, others only $2 or $3, and still others have bought a Parker right from the start. You'll see more of these pens at school this fall than ever. Decide to have one yourself.

The Secret of Speed in Electric Range Cooking

A quart of water raised to boiling point in 8 minutes on an electric range! And everything cold—range and water—at the start!

Doesn't a fast worker like that appeal to you. That's the new Beach Electric Range.

It's a great range—a range you'll enjoy using every day in the week, every week in the year. It was designed to be "the Best"—to make housewives' work easier, their cooking better, their kitchens prettier.

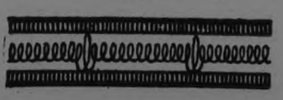
Let Us Explain Its Quick Heat!

There are so many fine features in the Beach Electric that we hesitate to tell you about one and ignore others.

It uses the open element. That is, the heat comes directly from the white-hot coils to your cooking utensils. There is no covering in between to waste valuable heat and to check the flow of direct heat.

Every bit of heat generated in the coils is focussed directly on your cooking utensils. That is a big thing! In most electric ranges the coils have a large percentage of contact with the porcelain plate. Now porcelain absorbs heat. The result is, there's a lot of heat wasted, and it takes a long time to get the coils up to their proper heat, in addition to using up a lot more current than is necessary.

In the Beach, one coil in eleven in the element touches the porcelain, and then only at two points. The result is that waste heat is cut down to an absolute minimum.



One Coil in Eleven Touches!

Porcelain absorbs heat. Every coil that touches it means less speed in cooking. Only one coil in eleven touches porcelain in the Beach.

Ask a Beach Dealer

But you'll only fully appreciate the Beach by inspecting one at your nearest Beach dealer's.

When you do, notice what a sturdy, handsome range it is, with its embossed steel, its burners set in recesses at top and bottom of the oven to give you lots of room, its double action oven door spring, the convex edges of the cooking top, its easily reached switches and fuses, its big-grip door handles — its many other striking features!

Ask your dealer to show you a Beach Electric, or write direct for full information and prices.

do ants parade through your pantry?

NOT an ant in the house—if you use Flit.

Flit spray destroys bed bugs, roaches, ants, and insect eggs. The cracks and crevices where insects hide and breed are readily reached by Flit spray. It is clean, easy and safe to use.

Kills Household Insects

Flit spray clears the house in a few minutes of mosquitoes and disease-bearing flies. Spraying Flit on garments kills moths and their larvae which eat holes. Extensive tests showed that Flit did not stain or injure the most delicate fabrics.

A Scientific General Insecticide

Flit is the result of exhaustive research by expert entomologists and chemists. More than 70 formulas were tested on various household insects before Flit was finally perfected. Flit is a 100% effective insecticide containing no inactive (inert) ingredients.

Come And Get The Best From The Tree

PLUCK This PEACH

The last day of August!

Now will begin what some folks think is the finest part of our Canadain summer: the glorious Autumn.

Already some of the more delicate birds are on the way south. The whip-poor-will, the night-hawk, the chimney swift, the black-and-white warblers, are flocking south. Of course they go in easy stages, which makes it worth our while to put their social activities in the personal column of Nature Lore in the newspapers. We would take almost any inviting garden in almost any town now, find out who owns the place, then make a personal as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Prettygarden entertained some friends over the week-end, when a very enjoyable time was had by all the guests. Those present included five generations of the black-and-white warbler family, who practically cleared all the trees of caterpillar eggs, and the four chimneys were hardly enough to hold the swifts, so, after a consultation with the host and hostess, these sooty visitors went over to the church chimney, where they played merry-go-round until all were in for the night. Some song sparrows, still in song, were bathing in public and singing in the bath, much to the delight of all present.

We might also make personals about nearly every form of wild life. The paper would not hold it all. Look for Monarch butterflies this month. This is the big reddish brown butterfly with the heavy black veins with white dots at the margin of the wings. These flock like birds and congregate on trees in swarms, assembling for the journey. Look for them. This is the milkweed butterfly. It will return in the spring and make its headquarters on the milkweed.

Scatter seed under the shrubs and trees in the garden, it may bring you some slate coloured Juncos, with their tails flashing white as they scampe. at your coming.

Things crowd so fast that we can only touch on them, for I saw a young deer yesterday, and it has lost all its baby spots and is swift of foot; it fairly floated over fallen trees, and left me wondering how such slim legs can carry it so lightly. How nice it would be to float through the air, as this deer did, only touching the ground gently now and then.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

By Temple Manning

THE ORIGIN OF THE GAME OF CHESS.

A few years ago all America was startled by the arrival of another prodigy on its shores. This was the little nine-year-old chess marvel, Samuel Rzeschewski, who hailed from the land of vodka and red shirts, and who claimed the world's chess championship title.

Sammy met twenty chess wizards at several tournaments and defeated each and every one of them simultaneously!

Naturally enough, such a remarkable phenomenon aroused widespread interest in this intellectual pastime. Men who played chess in the privacy of their own homes, because the game was not considered "socially elect," now boasted of their prowess openly.

The popularity of chess has led to many conjectures as to its origin. From the mass of hypotheses and semi-facts which have been presented, this much has been gleaned: The game was known in Russia and in Arabia by the middles of the sixth century. It was originated in India, where it was known as chaturanga, "a complete army." The Persian catrang and Arabic shatraj are merely phonetic variations of the Sanskrit chaturanga.

The history of chess divides itself into three distinct periods. The first is that of the ancient Hindoo game called chaturanga, in which the moves and powers of all the pieces employed (with the exception of the queen) were the same as they are at this day. The board consisted then, as it does now, of sixty-four squares. The game was played by four persons, each having a king, a rook, a knight and, lastly, a bishop, together with four pawns. The two opposite players were allied against the other two and the moves were decided by the turn of an oblong die having four faces marked with the numbers two, three, four and five.

The second, or mediæval, period in the history of chess occupies one thousand years—that is, from the sixth to the sixteenth century of our era. At the commencement of this period the improvement made in the game was very decided. The board and the powers of the pieces still remained the same, but the two allied forces were each united on one side of the board. Transferring power from one piece to another, the whole game was reduced to a pure trial of mental power and intellectual skill.

The third, or modern, period commenced with the sixteenth century. The several changes made then brought the game to the stage of perfection which it has now reached. It is quite probable that posterity will introduce some further modifications, such, for instance, as giving the queen the additional power of the knight.

Whoever was the inventor of chess had the game of war in his mind's eye. Chess is a battle, the chessboard a battlefield, and the pieces the opposing armies. For aught we know, chess may have been the prehistoric kriegspiel, or war game, designed to give, in miniature, instruction in the theory of war. More than any other game, it demands the military quality of instant seizure at the right moment.

SYNOPSIS

Potts, a seasoned vagabond, and a young tramp who has seen only a few days "on the road," tarry at the foot of a railroad trestle in Granite Gorge, in the Rockies, cooking a "hobo stew" over their rude fire. The inquisitive Potts attempts by sly hints to learn something of the past life of the companion with whom he has so recently met up, but the younger man is silent concerning himself. It is a night of inky darkness, with rain falling heavily and a chill wind blowing.

Granite Gorge was, on the whole, one gesture of Nature that would scare rather than thrill the tourist and travelling public; that section of the public, at least, which journeyed in pullman comfort.

But to vagabonds the Gorge was a friendly haunt—the rocky declivity from which sprang the spindly legs of the trestle's eastern arch was a havening cove beach whereon lapped the flotsam edged tide of homeless wanderers that washes over the mellow ways of the Continent always in shy and cautious forerunning of the vernal days of whatever clime their frowsy presence favors.

Tonight the Old Witch had been guilty of an inhospitable show of temper toward even her favorite children. So Potts and Bob cautiously kept their ears alert for signs of further spitefulness; but no untoward sound came to them through the noise of the storm and presently they relaxed in confidence that the Old Witch's action was not to be repeated.

Potts, with the vagabond's knack of imparting a homey leisure to a campfire under any conditions, calmly unpocketed a newspaper, determined to enjoy his well-earned respite as any real gentleman should. He opened to the crossword puzzle, and was soon lost in its riddles.

Bob was freed from his own searing thoughts temporarily by a sudden, affectionate interest in a study of the happy-go-lucky character into whose company Fate had thrown him. This much he had learned in a week of carefree rambling and foraging by day, and sharing—by night—of the mean cover of a single gunny sack; that Potts was fat, freckled, a philosopher, a poet, who many years before had been a professor of history at an obscure university. He had not told where it was or why he had left it—perhaps he did not know the latter himself. Bob, surveying him, wondered if the answer was in Potts' weak chin—which was a buttery knob receding in a surf of double chin waves. Bob wondered savagely if there was in his own face any telltale of the trait responsible for his own—decision. Or had it been in his own case, after all, a sign of strength—the assumption of this rowing that society had not trained him, nor Nature fitted him, for. Forth from this dismal campfire and chilly night his thoughts wandered and captured a confused group of dreams, then bore them to his heart clanking in the brass chains of bitter memories that dazed and burned. He closed his eyes, as if to curtain off the tormenting show. When he reopened them slowly, he became aware that Potts was staring at him with questioning concern on his fudgy face. Again came the wry droop to one corner of Bob's mouth—the smile that never got beyond his lips. He lowered his eyes and went on stirring the stew.

"What kind of dessert," Potts asked him by way of sympathetic diversion, reading from the crossword definitions in his paper, which was now limp and blurred from the raindrops that blew into the half-sheltered retreat, "what kind of dessert, I repeat, sir, is usually eaten after roast turkey, mashed potatoes, and brown gravy?" But the luscious visions conjured up in Potts' mind by this "puzzle" made it too difficult for him to long remember that his original intention was to beguile Bob. He immediately became lost in a rapture of martyred longing.

Suddenly both tramps grew alert and rose to their feet as, from the enshrubbed darkness nearby, a whistle sounded, fluid and clear, ending with a peculiar trill—the hobo signal.

Potts cautiously responded in kind, adding to the signal notes a few bars of reassuring comradery. Then Potts and Bob stood still and listened. But no ound of approaching footsteps reached them.

Without warning Potts jumped forward with a shrill squeak, dropping his newspaper and clapping both hands to the seat of his pants. Only quick intervention by the startled Bob saved him from tumbling into the fire.

"Spike Nelson!" Potts ejaculated in painful recognition, without even looking around.

"De same!" admitted a hobo of sinister mien and dirty, rather than ragged, appearance as he slunk into the circle of firelight. "I t'ought I either sniffed a hobo stew cookin' around dese diggin's or me beezer was a Congressman—meanin', in less toney lang'age, a liar!"

The newcomer was a typically soiled specimen of that furtive, slinking, genuinely bad minority whose stigma of "suspicious characters" must unjustly brand all nomads the world over. Symbolically enough, the storm increased and lightning began to flash coincidental with his advent. In physical aspect he resembled a cross between a wolf and a gorilla, with none of the gentler attributes of either beast. His face was cruel beneath its grimy stubble; his left hand was missing and in its place there was a steel spike, pointed to a rapier-like sharpness. Quickly appraising the noisome visitor, it struck Bob that this spike must be a fearful weapon.

"Bob, the unexpected but—" Potts hesitated, ruefully nursing the spot where Spike had jabbed him, before adding reluctantly "—welcome—addition to our little family tete-a-tete is Mister Nelson, who, I may say, is a man of considerable reputation in our brotherhood. He can walk like a rubber-soled Indian, fight like a mole, and has a visual acquaintance with every police chief and a sleeping acquaintance with every jail in our noble country! Spike, shake hands with Mister—err-r—Bob!"

"Me friend, de professor, ain't told yer half of de woist, young fellow! I'm tough, see, tough—de toughest 'bo on two dogs!" he boasted by way of impressing Bob, upon whom he fixed his buzzard eyes. Bob uncomfortably thought that he would not like to be dead and have those eyes viewing his remains.

As their glances clashed, some suddenly awakened latent instinct caused both men to withdraw the hands they had started to extend; some subconscious law written when tribal castes were molten that had made these two forever traditional social enemies.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HEALTH SUPERSTITION NEEDS SCRAPPING.

My good friend, the Health Commissioner of Buffalo, has been saying some good things—the usual thing for him to do. He rails against those who believe onions will prevent smallpox, that amber beads protect against goitre and scarlet fever, that shaving the upper lip weakens the eyes, that salt pork applied to a wound will ward off lockjaw.

Dr. Froncszak holds that these traditions and superstitions are dangerous. Indeed "vicious" is the word he uses in characterizing them.

As I see it, the Commissioner is absolutely right. To trust to these popular beliefs is to lean upon a broken staff. They will not bear the weight of experience.

It was perfectly natural in the old days, before medicine could boast of scientific foundation, to trust to some charm, or empirical means to give protection against dread disease. There is no excuse for it now.

One of my friends tells me he reads these health messages every day. He won't like it if I laugh at him for wearing amber beads. Not a day within his memory has he gone without them. He would feel as naked without them now as a girl would feel who, for the first time, left her ears uncovered by her hair. But also, he would be in an agony of fear that he would "catch" something.

How bound we are to our beliefs and superstitions! Thirteen at table, walking under a ladder, dreaming of snakes—the list is endless. Friends of mine who are sane on everything else are worried over these experiences. It will take ages to get all this foolishness out of the minds of men.

There may be almost as much dissension in medical circles over the treatment of particular ailments as there ever was. But medical and other scientific men are in full harmony regarding the nature and prevention of disease. Since these men agree, why stand out against their conclusions? Few laymen are qualified to investigate and pass upon such matters. It seems rather absurd, then, to continue to hold a childish belief in superstitions which are entirely at variance with scientific knowledge.

Smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid fever and now, scarlet fever can be protected against by the immunizing agents which the laboratories have given us. Typhoid, cholera, yellow fever and malaria can be wiped out by proper sanitation. Clean food and drink and the extermination of the insect pests will guarantee health when all the practices of tradition will fail.

The surest of all the means for preventing disease lies in adopting the proper mode of living. It is unwise to trust alone to vaccines and serums, to bottles and pills. Every wise physician will tell you that within your own body are the elements which make for or against health. Your "powers of resistance" tell the story of your safety or danger. We cannot escape contact with the germs of disease. But we can live in such a way that we need not worry about the germs.

I recognize that the mental state had a lot to do with it. Freedom from fear gives a long start. But if you will live right and think right and eat right you can hold up your head and go forward unafraid.

Answers to Health Queries.

R. D. Q.—What would you suggest to clear up my complexion. I am troubled with pimples on my chin.

A.—First of all you must correct your diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Correct faulty intestinal elimination. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

* * *

Lynn G. B. Q.—How can I remedy specks and streaks over my eyes?

A.—I would advise you to have your eyes examined as you may need glasses.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address "all inquiries" to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

THE TUMBLE-BUG TWINS MAKE A SAD MISTAKE

One bright, beautiful, sunny day, two little Tumble-bugs sat basking in the sunshine on a leaf by the side of the road.

"Pshaw," signed Tilly Tumble-bug, "I'm mighty proud of my lovely brown dress."

"Not any prouder than I am of mine," called her twin sister, Milly Tumble-bug. "Why, there isn't a soul in the meadowlands that can compare with me when it comes to neatness."

Just then they looked up and saw an old grasshopper smiling at them from a spray of goldenrod, and the Tumble-bug twins began to snicker.

"I'm mighty glad I'm not a grasshopper," snickered Tilly Tumble-bug, "they are such a common-looking class of people. I think I should die if I had to dress in a sombre old suit like you wear."

"Yes," and Old Grasshopper only smiled more. "Well, it's mighty nice to have a good opinion of oneself. But with it all, I'm mighty glad I am a grasshopper myself, and I give you ladies the same privilege. So you don't think you'd like to be a grasshopper," and he chuckled merrily. "And I am glad I'm not a Tumble-bug."

"Oh, I don't know," snapped Milly Tumble-bug. "You could do worse. Fact is, I should rather die than belong to your family. My such common, ordinary looking clothes."

"Not only your clothes," joined in

"I'm Sorry I Spoke so Rudely."

Tilly Tumble-bug, "but I'd sure hate to have hind legs so much longer than my front ones. Tell me, Mr. Grasshopper, why are your hind legs the longest?"

"So I can jump," replied Old Grasshopper. "You see, you folks never have to jump to get through the world. You just run over the ground. But with my long legs and my wings, I have to sail through the air. I don't believe I could get along with shorter hind legs."

"Not for me," sighed Tilly Tumble-bug. "And I'm mighty glad I don't have to cart a sword around with me all the time, like your wife does. I wouldn't be a grasshopper, they are so common looking, and——"

"Run, run, run!" cried Old Grasshopper. And something told the Tumble-bug twins there was danger, and, quick as a flash they scooted under a log just as a red-headed Woodpecker settled on the log. There they stayed hidden until they were sure their enemy had disappeared. Then they came creeping out. Grasshopper was nowhere in sight.

Tilly Tumble-bug looked at Milly Tumble-bug and then they both sighed.

"Believe me, I'm sorry I spoke so rudely to Old Grasshopper. I wouldn't mind being a grasshopper if I could be a nice one like he was. Why, if he hadn't warned us we would have both been dead. Let's hunt him up and say we are sorry."

"Never mind, girls," laughed Old Grasshopper, crawling out from under a weed. "That's all right," sand, spreading his wings he sailed off across the meadows, a beautiful flash of gay color.

"That will teach us a lesson," snapped Milly Tumble-bug, "never to judge folks too quickly," and the Tumble-bug twins ran over the meadow to tell their friends how Old Grasshopper had saved their lives.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2.

The astrological forecast for this day may be considered of a disquieting nature. Although the favorable position of the major malefic, Saturn, may result in the breaking away of old obstructions and congestions, yet there are figures making for troublesome and difficult situations. Those in the employment of others are under a baneful place of the luminaries and should do nothing to put their positions in jeopardy. The finances are not fortified and the affairs of heart and home are under an unfriendly Venus sway.

Those whose birthday it is may have a disquieting year in spite of a friendly position of Saturn removing congested conditions. Those in the employment of others should safeguard their positions and affairs of the heart should be managed with discretion. A child born on this day may be studious and industrious, but may fail in application or activity. In employment it may encounter difficulties. The sages prophesy that a female may marry an elderly person or widower.

STREET NAMES

Thomas M. Fairbairn, M.P.P., was a barrister and solicitor, practising in Peterboro. He was a keen politician, being especially interested in Provincial politics, and was eventually elected as member for Peterboro to the Ontario Legislative Assembly. He retained the seat until his death, May 13, 1874, at Jacksonville, Florida, where he had gone in search of renewed health. His remains were brought to Peterboro and buried in Little Lake Cemetery.

SINGING BAND FULL OF PEP

Al Sweet's Musicians Are Strikingly Costumed—All Classes of Music.

CONVENTIONAL GONE.

Young musicians full of pep and dash and military snap comprise Al Sweet's Famous Singing Band. Strikingly costumed in handsome uniforms and led by Mr. Sweet, one of America's greatest bandmasters, they are as snappy as a crack regiment and render a sparkling program ranging from classical overtures to the latest popular music. The harmony of their playing is indeed exceptional. Each player in this remarkable organization was selected because he was the best to be had in his line and the training of the company has been so thorough, their experience so broad, that an almost perfect ensemble has been attained. It is owing to this, that Mr. Sweet, with a limited number of men, is able to produce a volume of music equal to a band of three times his number and maintain at the same time a perfectly synchronized symphony. Mr. Sweet has searched the country over for men who were trained singers as well as players and the result is a male chorus which ranks with the best.

The Band presents a program which has all the variety, as well as the merits, of a vaudeville, grand opera and military concert combined. Big pretentiouse overtures, stirring marches, operatic choruses, popular songs and bits of jazz for encores are all handled with equal skill, by this unusual group of artists.

In costuming his company, Mr. Sweet has discarded the old conventional band uniform and garbed his men in the handsome regimentals of the old world Hussars and their picturesque appearance is at once a pleasant surprise to any audience.

LADIES' AID MEETINGS.

Norham and Meyersburg Ladies Held Busy Sessions Last Week.

NORHAM, Aug. 31.— The Norham Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Lorne Evans on Thursday afternoon. There were twenty members and ten visitors present. The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. David Evans. The meeting opened by singing, "Wonderful Words of Life," after which Mrs. Fred Laver read the 23rd Psalm and Mrs. J. F. Everson led in prayer. Several items of business were then attended to, after which the following programme was given: Vocal duet by Mrs. Martin Peterson and Miss Eva Denike; reading, Flossie Everson; instrumental duet, Mrs. Ivan Denike and Miss Lulu Mitchell. An interesting item of the afternoon was a bouquet contest, to which fifteen ladies contributed, for which three pirzes were offered. The judges were Mrs. John Diamond, Mrs. Frank Meneilley and Miss Lulu Mitchell. First prize was a colored glass fruit dish, which was awarded to Miss Madge Cliffe; the second, a glass bon-bon dish, was won by Mrs. Lewis Denike, and third a china cream pitcher, by Mrs. Fred Huycke. The meeting was closed by singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," followed by prayer by Mrs. Stanley Brenton. Lunch was provided by Mesdames J. Wesley Newman; Charles Pierson, Robert I. Mitchell, Martin Peterson and Fred Platt was served and a social hour enjoyed. The next meeting of the Aid is to be held at the home of Mrs. Marcius Massey.

Meyersburg Ladies' Aid held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jacob Clark on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Albert Bertrand, the president, occupied the chair. The meeting was opened by singing "My Faith Looks Up To Thee." The pastor offered prayer and read the Scripture lesson. The secretary gave a report of the garden party held on the church lawn in July, at which a net profit of $118.00 was realized. Mrs. John Ibey and Mrs. J. W. Jones provided lunch and the members and visitors enjoyed a social hour together. The next meeting of the aid is to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Jacques.

STAGING EXHIBITION GLADIOLI.

The time of gladiolus exhibitions is drawing very close and the thoughts of enthusiasts will be turning towards the pleasures of competition with their neighbors. Just growing high class flowers is only part of the proceedings and it is necessary to stage them well and artistically to win prizes.

The flower spikes should be cut when the first buds are opening and placed in water in a cool cellar. During hot, dry weather especially, they will consequently be found of better quality and color than if left until several flowers have opened. Flowers that must be shipped should be cut and left in water for a few hours in order to give them time to fully fill with water, so that they will keep fresh in transit.

In cutting to obtain maximum length remember in your enthusiasm that if the corn is to mature, sufficient foliage must be left on to enable it do so. Three or four leaves at least should be left, as if the whole growth is cut off the corn will be sacrificed.

The flowers should be true to type and endeavor to select spikes in which the blooms stand out boldly, are evenly arranged on the stem and have plenty of substance. The more flowers out at the time of exhibition the better, provided the lower ones are showing no signs of fading. Carefully avoid staging any spikes that show the slightest sign of insect injury or blemish on the flowers or foliage.

In classes which call for six, twelve or eighteen of distinct varieties, only three spikes should be put in a receptacle, so that each spike will be seen to advantage. Display classes, in which a more massed effect is usually desirable, are an exception. From the judge's point of view, crowding should be avoided and all spikes should face the one way to facilitate inspection.

With a wide range of tints to choose from, color harmony become important in arranging this flower. A little preliminary arranging of varieties in the course of house decoration will help one to gain experience and give opportunities for noting colors that harmonize or clash.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT MASQUERADE

Annual Dance at Lakefield Was Very Successful Affair.

FINE COSTUMES

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 1.—The annual masquerade dance held at Riverside Pavilion on Thursday evening was a very successful event, both in excellence and originality of the costumes, and also in the fact that there was a very large attendance of spectators and dancers. The pavilion was gay with flags and bunting, and the music supplied by Follis' Orchestra was most alluring. The costumes were varied and included the usual assortment of Pierrot and Pierrette costumes, Aunt Jemima of pancake fame, Oriental costumes of exceptional merit, crepe paper costumes, gypsies and national costumes, mostly by bright hues, which attracted the eye, and the scene was a brilliant one.

The judges, who were Rev. W. Cox and Messrs. G. G. Connell and J. W. Ridpath, had a difficult task to select the prize-winners, but awarded the prizes as follows: Ladies' fancy costume—Mrs. W. Millage as an Early Victorian Belle. Gentleman's fancy costume—W. L. Webster, as the Sultan of Turkey. Ladies' comic costume—Miss Iwah Windsor as a "Broadway Sheik." Gentleman's comic costume—Mr. H. Wood of Peterboro, as "Aunt Jemima."

Other notable figures included Mrs. Osborne as a Spanish Lady, wearing a handsomely embroidered Spanish shawl; Mrs. Trude Waldon in a magnificent mandarin coat, brought from China by her sister, Miss Northcott; Miss Gertrude Summers in a real Chinese costume, and Miss Peggy Lefevre in a handsome Spanish costume brought from Chili; Miss Lileon Stuart as a Ballet dancer; Miss Constance Stuart as a French lady; Ida Webster, a black-eyed Susan; Miss Winifred Payne, a rose; Miss V. Payne as a daisy; Miss Margaret Lawless, a Highland lassie; Miss Gwen. Simpson as a Hiwaian lady; Miss Helen Simpson as the Sultana of Turkey; Misses Angela Osborne, Myrtle Darcy and Jean Ridpath as Pierrettes; Miss S. Elmsley as Red Riding Hood; Eva McIlmoyl as a Dutch girl, and Miss Aileen Brown as a Gypsy, were among the best ladies' costumes.

Among the geneltmen, Dr. J. C. Smith, as "Mephisto," in bright scarlet with horns and tail, was an outstanding figure; Mr. Earl Edwards, a "Lady of Fashion," aroused much curiosity as to his identity; Harding Stuart was a Cowboy, and Jack Brown a Toreador; Russell Brooks was a Spanish Gypsy, and C. F. Webster a Clown.

The curiosity as to "Who was Who" kept the crowd amused between dances, and the event provided a pleasant and very jolly evening's entertainment for a large number of people, including a large number from outside the village.

Another Big Fish.

Mr. Robinson, of Young's Point, who is in the employ of Mr. Buell at Stoney Lake, demonstrated on Friday afternoon that big fish exist on the Kawartha Lakes as well as in fish stories when he hauled in a twenty-three and a half pound 'lunge near Kawartha Park. The fish is one of the largest caught this season, and was taken to the Park, and weighed, and was exhibited to a large crowd which rapidly gathered to admire the fish and congratulate Mr. Robinson on his good luck.

Car Aroused Interest.

The oil-electric car which made a trip to the village on Tuesday caused a considerable sensation and aroused the hope that in the not far distant future this type of car will be used on this branch of the C.N.R.

The exterior of the Post Office is being repainted, and is much improved in appearance. Messrs. Jewell & Dever have the work, and are busily engaged at it.

Mr. James Walton was the victim of a painful accident last week when he fell from the top of a load of grain on the farm of Mr. Blakeley and sustained injuries to his leg. No bones were broken, and Mr. Walton is doing very well.

TOURISTS REQUIRE LICENSES TO FISH

Several Fined Recently at Kingston for Neglecting Permits.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1. — Fish Inspector Webster of Kingston was in town last week relieving Inspector R. J. Allan, temporarily transferred to Merrickville, in Eastern Ontario. Mr. Webster calls attention to the fact that all American tourists fishing in Ontario are required to pay a license fee of $5.50 for the season. For failing to secure a license, several Americans were recently fined $5 and costs in the police court at Kingston.

Profane But Pointed.

A large car from Cleveland, Ohio, filled with tourists, passed through town Monday. Under the license number, in moderately-sized letters, was the inscription, a warning to auto drivers in the rear: "If you can read this you are too d--m close," the qualifying word being spelt out in full. Perhaps the sign escapes attention while the car is in motion on the road, but it was certainly read and commented upon while it was stationary here.

Preached at Brighton.

Rev. James and Mrs. Grier, J. A. and Mrs. Anderson motored Sunday afternoon to Brighton, where Mr. Grier preached to the non-union Presbyterians who meet in the Town Hall. There was a large gathering, and the discourse of Mr. Grier was highly appreciated. After the services, Sam. Nesbitt, ex-M.P., one of the leaders among the non-unionists, entertained the Campbellford party at his residence.

Personals.

J. E. Hendricks, formerly of town, but now in business in Hamilton, has returned home after a two weeks' vacation spent at Bass Lake.

Miss Hilda Cowell, who has been spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell, Queen Street, has returned to Brooklyn, N.Y. Miss Cowell was recently notified that she had passed the regent examination, which entitles her to write R.N. after her name, and to officiate as nurse in any hospital in the world.

Jack Cowell has returned to Brampton, after a week spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell.

MARMORA NEEDS RAIN FOR FIRES

Monday's Wind Fanned Bush Blaze—Water Drawn From River.

MARMORA Aug. 31 — The fire belt has been watched today by several men under Constabl Hugh Gillen, at exposed threatening sections while vigilant eyes were kept upon smouldering embers elsewhere. The driving wind in the middle of the day again raised the fears of householders residing near the bush. Several of such, who are employed at Deloro, rushed home to meet emergencies. Today the fire advanced over approximately 4 acres of Thomas Ryan's property. It was arrested by more back firing. Water has ben drawn continuously today from hydrant and river by William Holland's team and David McGarvey with other help is keeping watch tonight. Until rain falls the checking of the fire can only be temporary.

DISTRICT COUNCIL OF A.Y.P.A. HELD PICNIC

Attendance Was Not Large But All Spent Enjoyable Afternoon.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 1—The picnic of the Peterboro Local Council A.Y.P.A., postponed from August 13 owing to inclement weather, was held on August 27 at Chemong Park but owing to a misunderstanding in the sending out of notices the attendance was small but what was lacking in numbers was made up in the social time which was spent. Rev. M. G. Williams of Millbrook, Rev. W. Cox of Lakefield and Mr. Robert Stone of Millbrook ran off a programme of races after a bountiful supper had been disposed of. The races were keenly contested although the number of entries was not large. The following were winners: Men's race, 100 yards, 1, D. Fowler, 2 L. Russell; Married Ladies' race, 1 Mrs. Rowan, 2 Mrs. Russell; Back to Back Race, men, 1 L. Russell and D. Fowler, 2 M. Gray and J. Bent; Coat race, 1 Miss Gertrude Gray and J. Fowler, 2 Miss M. Pitt and M. Gray; Blindfold race, ladies, 1 Mrs. Rowan, 2 Miss Gertrude Gray; Broad jump, L. Russell, 2 M. Gray; Ladies' time race, 1 Mrs. Williams and 2 Miss Gray; Hopping Race, men, 1 L. Russell, 2 G. Gray.

TWO NUNS BURIED.

One Was Descendant of French Nobility.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Simple but impressive were the funerals yesterday of two members of the Grey Nuns' Community. Rev. Sister Josephine Deschambault, who died at St. Boniface last Saturday at the age of sixty years, and Rev. Sister Anastasie Vinet-Foisy, who died last Friday. The double service was conducted in the chapel of the Old Folks' Home, St. Boniface.

The late Sister Deschambault was a daughter of one of the noblest families of France of Marie Antoinette's days. Born at Isle La Crosse, Athabaska, in 1865, she was a daughter of Lord Fleury D'Echambault and Marguerite Mackenzie, an Indian maiden.

The father of Lord D'Echambault, as they then spelled their name, was the Seigneur Louis D'Echambault Devaudreuil, who was a descendant of one of the most ancient and noble families in France. His uncle was Marquis De Vaudreuill, last French Governor of Canada, grandson of a former Governor of that name.

BID FAREWELL TO PASTOR WHO SERVED 8 YEARS

Rev. C. F. McIntosh Leaves Campbellford Church For Toronto.

A PRESENTATION.

Purse of Money Given Him By People of Two Churches.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1. — The congregation of St. John's United Church, at a meeting held in that edifice last night, took formal farewell of their associate pastor, Rev. C. F. McIntosh, who to-day left for Toronto. Mr. McIntosh was not allowed to depart without a tangible token of the esteem in which he is held, this token taking the form of a sum of money presented by the local congregation and by the Unionists of Burnbrae, a total of over $300. With this gift there were many sincere expressions of regret and the surrendering of the ties between the pastor and people and graceful acknowledgment of the ministerial work Mr. McIntosh has performed in Campbellford.

Eight and One-Half Years' Service.

It is eight and a half years since Mr. McIntosh, then a comparatively young man in the ministry, accepted a unanimous call to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here. He remained in that position up to six months ago, when a majority of his congregation voted to remain out of the Union. Mr. McIntosh had the courage of his convictions, and for those convictions he was ready to make sacrifices, resigning his pastorate when he realized that he was no longer in accord with the majority. Those who favored the Union movement went over to the Methodist, now St. John's Church, and Mr. McIntosh accepted an invitation to become associate pastor of the United congregation, his supporters who left St. Andrew's with him becoming responsible for the payment of his stipend. He still holds that position although he is leaving Campbellford having been granted indefinite leave of absence without salary, so that the ties formed during eight years and a half of service here are not entirely severed. He has proved himself a scholarly and sincere preacher, and a hard-working and sympathetic pastor, being at all times ready to help the sick and the unfortunate whenever a call of distress was heard. He leaves here with every assurance that his services have been appreciated and that sincere friends regret his departure. When he left for a month's vacation in July he was presented with a honorarium of $50, and the substantial gift which he received last night was another indication of the esteem in which he is held.

Last Night's Meeting.

G. A. Kingston, a member of the session, presided at last night's meeting, and invited Mr. McIntosh and Rev. C. Daniel to the platform. After several musical selections had been rendered, P. B. Nelson, another elder, and Malcolm Totten, the latter representing the Unionists of Burnbrae, made brief addresses and each presented Mr. McIntosh with an envelope. Mr. Nelson spoke of Mr. McIntosh as an outstanding leader in the Union movement, and Mr. Totten spoke of the assistance he had given the Unionists of Burnbrae in their recent trouble.

Mr. McIntosh's Reply.

Reviewing briefly his career in Campbellford and dwelling on the epochal events of the past six months, Mr. McIntosh said he had regrets, not for himself, but for those who had denied themselves the privilege of becoming a part of the new Church. For his own part he is more convinced that benefits will follow Union that he ever was before the movement took definite shape.

During the past six months, to him a period of pleasant memories, he had been encouraged by the words of many who told him that his ministry had helped them. Former cordial relations have not been entirely maintained, but there have been compensations — the kindness of those of his former congregation who remained with him and of those who belonged to the Methodist Church. He is fully confident that the United Church will prosper and that the congregation will be able to accomplish a great deal of good during the coming years.

One Who Knew Him.

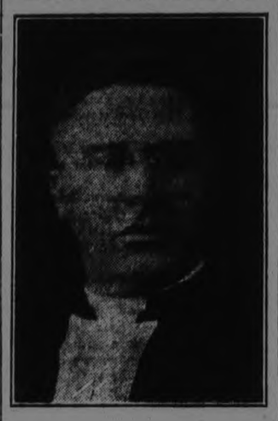
Rev. C. D. Daniel, who occupied bachelor quarters with Mr. McIntosh early in the summer, said that for that reason he knew him well and had nothing but praise for him. He had found him a man of high ideals and was always true to them. Mr. McIntosh had made sacrifices for those ideals, but he would have his compensations as it was impossible to keep such a man down.

Mr. Daniel believes that there is not a man in the United Church more thoroughly imbued with the spirit of Christian unity than is Mr. McIntosh.

The Musical Programme.

Musical and literary selections were given between the addresses, these consisting of solos by Miss Cherrie Turner and G. W. Lucy, and readings by Mrs. J. H. Bell.

LEAVES CAMPBELLFORD.



REV. C. F. McINTOSH,

For the past six months associate pastor of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, who, on his departure for Toronto, was presented with a purse of over $300.

FLOWER SHOW AT GRAFTON A SUCCESS

Many Beautiful Blooms Were on Exhibition Last Week.

GRAFTON, Sept. 1.—A unique event took place here Friday when a flower show was held in the Town Hall under auspices of the South Haldimand Horticultural Society. The flowers were very beautiful and a credit indeed to the growers, and the event took on the form of a much enjoyed community affair.

Giving Up Housekeeping.

Mr. Percy Morgan, who was so sorely bereaved a few days ago by the death of his wife, who succumbed to the terrible injuries which she received some weeks previous, when her clothing caught fire from an oil stove, is giving up housekeeping and will hold an auction sale at an early date.

OBITUARY.

MABEL THRING.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1. — A telegram was received here yesterday, announcing the death at Tillsonburg, of Mabel, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Thring. Mr. and Mrs. Thring left here last week for Tillsonburg, where Mr. Thring had secured a position, making the journey by auto. Their daughter was taken ill on the way, and died soon after they had reached their destination.

SAY KING GOVERNMENT SHOULD HAVE TAKEN SENATE CHALLENGE

Globe Declares it Puts Country and Duty Before Party.

MAINTAINS COURSE.

Advocates Principles of Political Liberalism—Not a Party Organ.

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—In reply to a "Life-Long Reader," who asks why the Globe does not give the present Federal administration more vigorous support, the Toronto Globe this morning, in a long editorial, declares it is now as it ever has been, an advocate of the principles of political Liberalism and not a party organ. To its questioner, the Globe says:

"The Globe must once more remind him and all others whom it may concern that it owes no allegiance to a party which can be permitted to stand in the way of its duty, to its members and to the country. For us, as for the founder of the Globe, the country is above party."

After tracing the history of the Globe's record under its founder, George Brown, and pointing out that it differed with Laurier, as with other Liberal leaders, the Globe continues:

"The course it has taken in the past, it proposes to take in the future. We have criticized and shall continue to criticize, the Government of Mr. King when that Government fails, as we believe it has failed, to meet the issue of responsible government raised by the Senate during the past two sessions of Parliament. The Government saw its measures of social reform, of railway aid, of relief to Home Bank depositors, of advantage to farmers by the extension of rural credits, and in the restriction of gambling, thrown out with contempt by an appointive House responsible neither to the dead or to the living. Their arrogant challenge should have been accepted. Parliament should have been dissolved on the issue raised by Senate veto."

As for the future, the Globe "proposes in the coming election to advocate the principles of political Liberalism as it has advocated them for the past."

NICKLE ON HOLIDAY.

Attorney General's Portfolio Will Be Administered By Prime Minister.

TORONTO, September 1. — Canadian Press. — Hon. W. F. Nickle, K. C., left the Parliament buildings yesterday for a vacation of some two or three weeks at his home in Kingston. During Mr. Nickle's absence his portfolio will be carried by Premier Ferguson.

HYDRO WON FIRST GAME OF PLAY-OFFS

Defeated Clerks 8-4 in Finals of Campbellford Softball League.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1.—The Hydro defeated the Clerks in the first game of the play-off for the softball championship at the Fair Grounds last night by a score of 8 to 4. The Hydro deserved the victory on the night's play. They fielded in grand style and hit at the opportune time, while the Clerks appeared nervous and made a number of bad errors.

The Clerks' re-arranged line-up didn't work very well and after the sixth inning they fell back on the old combination. Line-up:

Hydro—Tinney, l.s., Colby, 3b.; Beatty, r.f.; Adamson, 1b.; Watt, 2b.; Badgley, c.f. Saunders, r.s.s.; Meyers, l.f.; Ferguson, c.; Johnston, p.

EDITOR APPOINTED.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)— S. J. Farmer has been appointed Director of Publicity and Statistics for the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, the central selling agency of the three western wheat pools. He has been editor of a weekly paper here.

PEOPLE WAR ON RECKLESS DRIVERS

Number of Fatalities Causes Formation of Protective Society.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—In consequence of the increasing number of road traffic casualties, which have almost trebled in the past seven years, a "Pedestrians Protection Society" has been formed with the object of insuring its members against street accidents and to provide legal advice for them.

The society asserts that figures collected show cases of death and personal injury totalled 98,215 last year. It contends those accidents should decrease, and intends to take steps to prevent dangerous and reckless driving as well as to control the speed of motor vehicles in towns and villages.

NO DISORDERS AS MINERS GO OUT

Maintenance Men Remain on Duty to Protect Property.

BIG COAL RESERVE.

NEW YORK, September 1,—Canadian Press.—One hundred and fifty thousand miners quit the anthracite pits of Pennsylvania yesterday to enforce their demands for a ten per cent. increase for contract miners, $1 a day for day workers, and the check off.

Some 8,000 to 10,000 maintenance men remain on duty to protect the property. No disorders have occurred.

Considerable reserves of mined coal are on top of ground, either in the hands of the anthracite producers or the dealers. Estimates of the amount vary from two to four months supply.

HON. J. A. CROSS ELECTED.

Provincial Attorney-General Was Not Opposed.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 31.—Hon. J. A. Cross, Provincial Attorney-General, was declared elected by acclamation in Willow-Birch Riding, the returning officer announced this afternoon. No candidate was nominated to oppose him.

CARS COLLIDED

Occupants Sustained Minor Injuries and One Car Was Smashed.

MARMORA, Sept. 1.— About midnight on Thursday, cars driven by Clinton Rose and Walter Hornsby collided near the Pearce Co. office. As far as can be ascertained, the occupants of the cars save two, Clinton Rose and Tom McQuaig escaped injuries, and fortunately in the case of both, the injuries are of a minor nature. Mr. Rose's car was badly smashed.

On Friday evening last, Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Veenman entertained about thirty-five of their friends at a shower in honor of Miss Elizabeth Pollock, whose wedding takes place early in September. After the gifts had been presented by two little tots (Evelyn Legrow and Betty Wetton) Miss Pollock, although taken by surprise, thanker her friends in a few well chosen words for their thoughtfulness. A pleasing part of the shower was the breaking of a confetti ball which was suspended over the guest of honor, while she opened her gifts. The remainder of the evening was spent in singing and dancing.

Births Down Marriages Are Unchanged; Deaths Up

The births registered in August, 1925, show a decrease of 7 under the figures for August, 1924. During the month just past 47 new citizens were ushered in to take up responsible positions in the home. August, 1924, and July of this year had 54 births in each.

Marriages appear to run on schedule, as their were ten for August this year, and the same figure represents the number of unions effected in August, 1924

July of this year made a mighty effort to keep up to June's high mark, and so ably did it succeed that one more was added The score stands Jun, 21; July, 22

Three more people died this year than last during the month of August as the figures of this year say that 21 died against 18 for August, 1924. In July, 1925, thirty deaths were registered.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A SHADED FALL EVENING FROCK

"Is the vogue for shaded evening frocks still good?" asked an eager young client of Madame this morning.

"Indeed it is," Madame replied.

"I knew they were good in the Spring, and I hoped they still were for Fall, because I'm crazy to have just such a dance frock," the young thing informed Madame.

"I'm making them in warm shades that are perfectly lovely for Fall," Madame assured her.

"Will you make me one?" the young girl asked.

"It would be a pleasure," Madame responded.

"What colors are you showing?" asked the client.

"I can't think of anything nicer for you than a sheer chiffon in a gorgeous color, say flame shading to rose at the lower part," Madame told her.

"You see, when a frock is made of such lovely material as this, it needs very little elaboration," Madame explained.

She said:

"I should like a long, plain bodice like this for you, because it will show off the slender lines of your figure to advantage."

"I like the rounded edges, where the panels are joined to the bodice." the client remarked.

"The lower edges of the skirt will be bound with slender bias strips of the chiffon," Madame explained.

Then she told the client that the neckline would be rounded in front and cut V-shaped in the back. She added:

"There will be long tabs of the flame chiffon which drop from either shoulder in the back and knot together about at the waistline, with the loose ends dropping to the edge of the skirt."

About this time the errand girl returned with the lovely chiffon and the costume was ordered.

This Chiffon Dance Frock Shades from Flame to Rose.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

FOLKS ARE TOO BUSY WITH OWN AFFAIRS

Dear Madam.—Will you please give us your opinion of the people who are always asking you to come and see them and when you do call on them they fail to return it, but every time you meet them they always make an excuse and say, "I'm coming soon?"

These women really should know bet ter, as they are mostly college girls. We have been taught that even an informal visit is a courtesy and should be returned.—One Who enjoys Your Column.

Now, what do you think of that? I'll tell you what I think.

I think the writer of that letter pays entirely too much attention to what other people do and other people say and other people think.

In the first place, few people return "visits" any more.

It used to be one of the laws of the Medes and Persians that every once in so often you had to "make calls."

You put on your best clothes and your newest hat and your smartest gloves and your most uncomfortable shoes and tied a little fine mesh veil over your nose and took "the carriage" for the day—or, anyhow, for the afternoon.

If you didn't have a carriage of your own, you hired one, you—and your best friend—and out you went—"calling."

You had a list of names and addresses—and every person who was on that list must have a "call."

It didn't make any difference whether you liked them or loathed them—old or young, sick or well, stupid or amusing—you owed them a call, and that was that.

If they weren't at home you left your visiting card—let's see, you had to leave one for every grown member of the family, didn't you? Seems to me I've heard rumors to that effect, and most of the time those who didn't care for you were upstairs peeking out from behind the curtains and saying: "Well, that's done for the next few weeks."

And after you'd gone the hiders tiptoed down the stairs to get a closer view of your back as you went out the gate, and they knew exactly what you had on, and wondered when you bought it, and who made it, and how much you paid for it, and where on earth you got the money, and had just as much fun talking you over as if they had dressed up and come downstairs and said, "Isn't the weather delightful?"

All this sort of thing has gone by—thank goodness!

Nobody "makes calls" any more.

If you want to see a friend, you call her up on the telephone and ask her when she'll be home, or beg her to slip around to your house for a few minutes.

If you're too busy or too tired or too unhappy to see anybody at all—you don't have to see them, and nobody thinks a thing about it.

These college girls are just trying to please you by asking you to come and see them. They probably like you well enough, but perhaps there isn't anything specially congenial—nothing that makes any of them think: "I've simply got to see that girl."

Why should you worry?

Go and see the people you want to see, and if they want to see you they'll come and see you.

But nobody sits down and "visits" these days.

There isn't time—everybody is motoring or playing golf or getting a new swing for tennis, or swimming or riding or reading at a reading club, or having morning musicales or visiting the hospitals or doing some neighborhood settlement work.

Nobody but intimates see much of each other—and for my part I'd like to say "Hurrah!" and "Hurray!" every time I realize that the formal call is as much a thing of the past as the red-wheeled buggy and the mantilla your grandmother wore.

Don't feel badly about your callers who haven't called, my dear. They're just busy and absorbed, that's all.

MOUNT ELGIN, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—A unanimous invitation to Donald Sutherland, M.P., to represent the Liberal-Conservative party at the Federal elections was tendered to the sitting member here yesterday afternoon.

Home-Making Helps

By Wanda Barton

MAKING MONEY AT HOME.

How to make money at home is a question that is agitating many women to-day who live in small towns or suburbs.

One of the many who have tried tea-rooms, with the usual gift shop attached, has made a big success of the venture. Her house, set in a wonderful old-fashioned garden, well back from a much-traveled motor road, had a deep, vine-shaded porch. On the porch she placed her tables of different sizes. A large white-painted wooden tea kettle, with the word "Tea" on it, was placed on the gate post. On the opposite post stood a wooden figure of a small serving maid handing a gift to an imaginary buyer, with the word "Gift" in black letters on the bundle.

Sandwiches and salads were made to order, excellent tea and coffee freshly made, and a stock of home-made cake and pie were always ready. The second year she added a wonderful chicken dinner, with home-made ice cream that was prepared on order. Her gift shop was filled with charmingly useful things, not antiques or expensive things, but novelties that appealed to women. The place has paid well now for four years and is going strong. The secret is good things at a fair price.

Another woman makes delicious cakes, pies, bread, rolls and fancy desserts on order only. She has added a new feature the last season by making very good crocks of baked beans, scalloped oysters, scalloped vegetables and roast chickens for those who wish them for Sunday-night suppers.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

My friend, whom I think a great deal of and have known for several months, asked me to spend the evening with his folks at his home. I do not know his family very well. My friend works rather late and therefore wanted me to come to his home alone, as it would be rather late when he could call for me. Would it be proper for me to go to his home alone? STENOG.

STENOG: This is not so much a question of propriety, my dear, as it is one of good commonsense. If you accepted the invitation (and I hope it was extended not by the young man but by his mother) and went to his home alone, the situation would be embarrassing all around. Since you have never met his family before, you would have to introduce yourself to a group of people who are total strangers to you. Until your friend came to your rescue you would be at sea and the evening would not have been begun very auspiciously. I suggest that you have your friend call for you, even if it is rather late, and conduct you to his home. I am sure you will feel at your ease if he does this—and awkward if you go alone.

There is no truth in the belief that most deaths occur between the hours of two and six in the morning. From investigation it is known that the number of deaths for each hour of the day is very evenly proportioned.

RUTH APPEALING TO THE COLONEL

Will Lay His Trouble Before the Owner of the Yankees.

DIDN'T SEE LANDIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth, the Yankees' bad boy, left last night for New York for a heart to heart talk with "Jake."

After failing to meet Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, here yesterday to protest against the indefinite suspension placed on him by Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees, and a fine of $5,000, Ruth left at noon for his conference with "Jake." The Bambino spoke feelingly about "Jake," who is Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees.

"It is all up to Jake,' 'Ruth said. "Huggins has him 'bulled' but I think when Jake hears my story, everything will be all right. Huggins handed me a dirty deal in this suspension and fine. He simply made me the goat for the poor showing of the Yankees this season and I am going to fight for my rights."

Ruth came to Chicago from St. Louis determined to place his grievance before Commissioner Landis. Landis, at his summer home in Burt Lake, Mich., said by telephone that Ruth could go to the Michigan resort if he wished. But Ruth was advised that under the rules the commissioner has no jurisdiction in this case for ten days. So he decided to hurry to New York.

ATHLETICS AND SENATORS MEET

Two Games This Week in Washington—Four in Philadelphia Next Week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—One of the most important series of the season so far as the American League pennant race is concerned will be played this week when the Athletics and Senators, the teams which have been fighting for first place during practically the entire campaign, will meet each other. The series between the two pennant contenders will consist of only two games but two victories over its most dangerous rival would mean much for either team.

The two games between the word's champions and their most serious opponents will be played in Washington on Tuesday and Wednesday. This series will mark the first time these two teams have met since late in June when they met in Washington.

Th coming series between the Senators and the Athletics may end indecisively but the two teams will renew hostilities again next week, this time in Philadelphia. After completing their coming series of two games, both of the leading American League teams will be idle for two days this week. On Saturday they will get back into action again. The Senators will oppose the Red Sox in Boston on that day while the Athletics will clash with the Yankees in this city. Each of these series will consist of two games and both will end a week from today.

With these games out of the way the Senators and Athletics will go at each other again. They will open a series in Philadelphia a week from yesterday by playing two games there. They will also meet there again on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. All attendance records for a single series in Philadelphia are expected to be shattered when the rival pennant contenders clash there next week.

CAVAN CAN ALSO GROW TALL CORN

Over Ten Feet High—Root Crops Well Advanced—Rain Needed.

CAVAN, Aug. 31.—We notice in The Examiner reports of the wonderfully tall corn grown in Otonabee and at Tilsonburg. Cavan corn can compare favorably with these. A patch was noticed on the Eighth Line, where a great deal of it is over ten feet high, and probably if an extra tall stalk was searched for, one several inches taller could be found.

There are a few fields of oats in the stook while flax is ripening speedily.

Nearly all the alfalfa has been cut the second time.

Mr. Everett Keegan, Eighth Line, has finished harvesting.

Mr. Amos Fisher, of Cavanville, is threshing peas in the field for Mr. J. H. Perrin.

Many of the farmers near here will have to thresh before they can finish drawing in their oats.

The root crops are well advanced for the time of year but need rain badly.

Tomatoes are beginning to ripen in satisfactory numbers now and a few report having table corn.

The plum crop will not be as heavy as usual, but will supply the needs of the growers.

Apples promise to be an average crop.

ENGLISH CRICKET

LONDON, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press) — The results of county cricket games today were as follows:

Worcester beat Hampshire by six wickets; Hampshire 180 and 51; Worcester, 123 and 110 for four wickets.

Nottinghamshire defeated Glamorgan by five wickets; Glamorgan 93 and 128; Notts 125 and 97 for five wickets.

BETHEL REPORTS.

BETHEL, Aug. 31.—On account of the very hot weather the thimbleberries are drying up on the bushes. Only for that there would have been a very heavy crop.

The farmers are getting pretty well on with their harvest now, excepting buckwheat and seed clover.

The gardens had all kinds of good prospects but are drying up fast with the heat. Quite a number of potato patches are touched with blight.

The most of the corn fields are extra good.

COBB'S RECORDS IN MAJOR BALL

Has Highest Lifetime Batting Average of .369 For Twenty Years.

HIS FIRST GAME.

Here are the records established by Tyrus Raymond Cobb during 20 years of competition in the American League:

Played in most games—2,700.
Scored most runs—2,015.
Made most hits—3,797.
Made most triples—279.
Largest total bases—5,421.
Has highest lifetime batting average—.369.
Made 200 or more hits in nine seasons.
Holds jointly with Jesse Burkett the .400 record, hitting that figure three different seasons.
Holds jointly with George Sisler the highest batting average made in the American League—.420.
Until 1922 he held the league record for consecutive hitting, by getting one or more hits in 40 games in a row. Sisler broke the record in 1922 by hitting in 41 consecutive games.

Cobb's Debut.

Less than 1,200 people saw Cobb on the day of his debut, August 30, 1905. New York was the opposing team. Dick Cooley, one of the Detroit outfielders, was out of the lineup that afternoon and Bill Armour, managing the Detroit team at that time, used Cobb in centre field as substitute for Cooley. He was fifth in the batting order, coming up just behind "Wahoo Sam" Crawford, one of the greatest natural hitters and sluggers of all time.

He Faces Chesbro.

Big Jack Chesbro, at the top of his splendid career, was pitching against Detroit that August day. In the first inning of that game Matty McIntyre, leading off for Detroit, drove out a two-bagger. Lindsay, next up, singled, scoring McIntyre, Schaefer sacrificed Lindsay to second. Crawford tapped weakly to the box and Chesbro threw him out, Lindsay going to third. And then walked to the plate a tall, gaunt, almost gawky-looking boy, who appeared extremely nervous.

A murmur ran through the crowd. Score cards were scanned. A newcomer. Who is he? Oh, just filling in for Dick Cooley.

Jack Chesbro wound up and shot a high fast ball past Cobb. Minor league players in those days were all regarded as high ball hitters. They would bite on the high ones. Here was a minor leaguer and Chesbro used the orthodox method of major league pitchers. Cobb lunged at the ball. He missed. He had never seen a high one pitched quite so fast.

"Strike Tuh," Cried Silk.

Chesbro wound up again and pitched. This time it was a curve that broke over the plate, waist high. Cobb did not offer at the ball. "Silk" O'Loughlin, umpiring, called it "Strike tuh," as only the pittcturesque O'Loughlin could call a second strike.

Once more Chesbro wound up. He figured he had the batter's number. Another high fast one is what he would expect. Chesbro would cross him up. He would pitch a fast one but waist high.

The ball did not pass the plate. Cobb met it. He "got ahold of it." Out in centre field, Hahn took one look at the ball, then turned and ran fenceward. Cobb, streaking to first, turned sharply and without apparently lessening his stride in making the turn, headed for second. He slid into the bag safely. Cobb had successful launched his major league career.

That was the only hit he made in his opening game, but it impressed the patrons. The following day this paragraph appeared in The Detroit News.

"He hit .326 in the South, leading his league. Of course, he does not expect to hit anything like that up here. If he hits .275 he will be satisfied. So will the fans."

Before the season ended, Cobb was regarded as a regular. He played in 41 games. He went to bat 150 times, scored 19 runs, made 36 hits, stole two bases and batted for an average of .240. It was the only season in his major league career that he failed to hit above .300.

Cobb's Advantage.

Cobb was fortunate enough to have an advantage when he joined the Detroit team. Bill Armour, the manager, had selected Cobb from Augusta over Cicotte and Engle. It was Armour, holding out for Cobb, that had finally swung the vote to the boy. The owners favored Engle. Bill Byron, the "singing" umpire, who worked in the South that season, had watched Cobb and come to the conclusion that he would make a great player. Byron and George Leidy, manager of the Augusta team, convinced Armour. Since the manager had insisted on Cobb, it was up to him to show that his judgment was correct.

If Cobb had been wished upon Armour, chances are that he could not have held his place in the lineup. The manager would have been prejudiced. The situation in Cobb's case was the reverse.

But managerial favor did not entirely make Cobb's path a smooth one. No player ever found the road rougher than did Cobb; for which his temperament chiefly was to blame. It was difficult to get along with him, and he was thrust into a situation where a position such as his causes strife.

Cobb Cost $750,

In the spring of 1905 the Tigers, under Manager Bill Armour, trained at Augusta, Ga. Detroit, that year, had the privilege of picking any member of the Augusta team for $750.

Eddie Cicotte, a pitcher originally with Detroit; Clyde Engle, an outfielder, and Cobb, were the three members of the Augusta team that stood out. The Detroit owners and manager rejected Cicotte, because they thought him too small to succeed in the majors, and the choice rested between Engle and Cobb. At first they favored Engle, but were finally talked into picking Cobb instead. He came to Detroit in August, 1905.

Detroit bought Cobb before the draft. Four clubs put in a bid for him in the draft and if Detroit had not bought him for $750 he would have gone to one of the four other clubs for $500, the draft price at that time.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The Peterboro Ball Club yesterday filed a protest in regards to Saturday's game at Kingston, asking to have it re-played, on the ground that the ground rules made before Wednesday's game and in force on Saturday were violated when Batstone was allowed to go to third and three runs to score on his hit into the crowd along the right field foul line. The contention is that the understanding was that on such a hit only two bases could be made, and when this was not lived up to Kingston obtained one more run than they were entitled to, thus winning the game, instead of finishing with a tie score.

* * * * * * * * *

* * * * * * * * *

The protest will be threshed out during the week by the Central Ontario League Sub-committee, composed of past Presidents of the league, including Ernie Parsons of Oshawa, M. P. Duff of Belleville and A. C. Kimmel of Peterboro.

The Rotary Bantams journey to Toronto on Saturday for the second game of the O.B.A.A. semi-finals, and a victory will send the youngsters into the finals against Guelph.

Softball fans should not fail to notice that the Danforth ladies' team of Toronto, who were beaten by the C.G.E. girls last week, triumphed over the crack Toronto ladies' team in the C.N.E. series on Saturday.

HORNSBY AND SPEAKER HOLD LEAD IN MAJOR LEAGUE BATTING RACES

Cardinals' Star Drops to .386 But Tops Bottomley By 8 Points—Indians' Manager is 11 Points Ahead of Simmons.

Rogers Hornsby lost two points during the past week, but he is still leading in the race for the batting championship of the National League. His present average is .386, which is eight points higher than that of Jim Bottomley, also of the Cardinals, who is in second place among the regulars. Bill Sherdel of the same club ranks first among the pitchers, with eleven victories and three defeats, for a percentage of .786. Leaders in other phases of play follow:

Most runs scored—Cuyler, Pittsburgh, 120.

Most hits made—Bottomley, St. Louis, 191.

Most two-base hits—Bottomley, St. Louis, 38.

Most three-base hits — Cuyler, Pittsburgh, 22.

Most stolen bases—Carey and Cuyler, Pittsburgh, 30 each.

Tris Speaker, with an average of .390, is still in front in the race for the American League. His mark is eleven points higher than that of Al Simmons, star outfielder of the Athetics, who is second among the regular batsmen. Sam Gray, pitching ace of the Philadelphia club, is leading the twirlers with fourteen victories and two defeats for a percentage of .875. Leaders in other phases of play follow:

Most runs scored—Mostil, Chicago, 111.

Most hits made—Sisler, St. Louis, 190.

Most two-base hits —O'Rourke, Detroit ,38.

Most three-base hits — Goslin, Washington, 17.

Most stolen bases—Mostil, Chicago, 37.

FIVE YEARS IN PRISON.

Russian Robbed Bedrooms at North Bay.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—John Antonuik, Montreal Russian, was yesterday sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary, when he admitted he was the man responsible for stealing money from bedrooms in four city homes while the owners were sleeping within a few feet of him. Magistrate Weegar regretted that as there had been no violence he was unable to impose lashes.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

During the golf swing—with any club—the body should be kept to a rather fixed position, though not rigidly in position. The shoulders turn, the arms swing and the wrists unwind as the club goes forward, while the body keeps to it original line with the ball. Thus, at the finish the right shoulder should point toward the spot where the ball was teed. Swaying one way or another can very easily creep into the swing and spoil many otherwise good shots. Even a slight sway sometimes causes a lot of trouble. The ball that drops continually to right or left of green, instead of on, may be tkaing its skid flight because of swaying. The golfer can sway toward the ball, forward into the direction line, backward behind the ball, or backward away from the ball. All these must be guarded against.

(Copyright, 1925.)

One common cause of slicing results from swaying toward the ball. This often is combined with a dipping of the right shoulder into the ball. The forward sway is due to pressing—such exertion is applied to the forward movement of the club that the hands break down and the body lunges forward some. This lets down on the pressure that otherwise would be applied to the shaft with the right hand, so that the club face opens up just as the ball is hit and the slice spin is applied to the ball. The player might be confused for weeks wondering what caused his persistent slice when this fault of play would be responsible for it. The best cure for this is to swing slower and make it a point "to let the clubhead swing." Determine not to exert so much pressure—take it easier. The clubhead will do its work properly if you will give it a chance.

ANNUAL REGATTA A GREAT SUCCESS

Many People Were at Crow Lake for Aquatic Events.

MARMORA, Sept. 1.—The third annual regatta, under the auspices of Crow Lake Beach, by the Marble Cliff Pavilion on Friday afternoon. A good crowd of lakesiders and villagers put in an appearance. Mr. A. V. Yates of Deloro handled the programme of aquatic sports very efficiently while Messrs. S. B. Wright, R. Banter and G. B. Airhart, reeves of Deloro, Marmora township and Marmora village respectively made excellent judges.

Following are the results:

Canoe race, men's single—1. N. Garneau, 2. J. H. Doige.

Boy's swimming race—1. J. Emigh 2. A. S. Barton.

Girl's swimming race—No entries.

Canoe race, mixed—1 N. Garneau and B. McCullough, 2. C. Halliwel and D. Keyes.

Men's swimming race—1. Gordon McWiliams, 2. Raph Neal.

Canoe race, men's double—1. J. H. Doige and I. McCullough, 2. N. G. Garneau and J. Garneau.

Motor race—1. Alphonse Shannon, 2 Percy Gray.

Skiff race, men's single—1. N. Garneau, 2. C. Christie.

Fancy diving—1. C. McInroy, 2. G. Pritchard.

Dr. Hamilton Crawford superintended the boys and girls foot races which were won as follows:

Boys, 8 and under—1. G. Lummiss, 2. W. Hewitt.

Boys, 14 and under—1. Clarence Campion, 2. Albert Barton.

Girls, 8 and under—No entries.

Girls, 14 and under—1. Evelyn Rice, 2. Kathleen Pitts.

The midway and refreshment booths did well and dancing afternoon and evening in the pavilion drew many.. Lunch was served on the pavilion grounds. Taken on the whole, the event proved very successful.

HONOR BALL TEAMS

Girls and Boys Were Guests at Corn Roast in Bethany.

BETHANY, Sept. 1.—A very pleasant and delightful evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinnon on Friday when about 50 young people gathered for the first corn roast of the season, which was held in honor of the ladies' softball team and the baseball team.

The first part of the evening was given over to tennis. After a considerable amount of corn, as well as other good things, had been eaten, the young people danced until midnight on the spacious verandah of the house.

CHOPPY CHANNEL DEFIES SWIMMER

Gertrude Ederle Again Postpones Her Second Attempt.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Aided and abetted by a strong southwesterly breeze, rising suddenly about two two o'clock Monday afternoon, the old English Channel went on a rampage and foiled Miss Gertrude Ederle's determination to enter the water at six o'clock this morning on her second attempt to swim from France to England.

The date for the New York girl's next great effort was tentatively fixed for Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, but every day's delay is a point scored for the Channel against the girl who would conquer it.

With the water getting colder, the nights foggy and damp, the Channel more unruly as the season advances, the prospects for a successful Channel swim in 1925 appear rather dim. Miss Ederle must make her next effort soon, if at all.

MOTHERWELL WAS-WELL-SQUELCHED

At Least It Is Hard to Say What Reply He Could Make.

For some centuries now, no printer who has had experience handling manuscript—no matter how allegedly impeccable—but has stored up in his mental funny-bone memories of "funny cracks" made by those whose business or ambition it is to render language into type. Here is one of comparatively modern vintage:

In the early days of the present century, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Canadian minister of agriculture, was one of the men laying a solid foundation for the Grain Growers' Association in the old Northwest Territories. He was at that time a plain if serious-minded farmer living north of Indian Head, Sask. It is probably true to say that not one of these former progenitors of the now mighty western agarian movement envisioned even in miniature what was to be the fruition of their labors; but at that time, launching a struggling organization yet in its infancy, they frequently spoke and wrote to the papers of their districts in advocacy of the advantages of co-operation among the farmers. A great deal of prejudice had to be worn down, and at time spirited controversies would inundate the meagre columns of these small publications.

In the vicinity of Indian Head there was in particular an elderly Scotch farmer who was slow to see the light, and what light he did see seemed to be rather erratic illumination.

He prided himself on his erudition, and was insistent that his irrefutable effusions should appear in full. The fact was that his writing was abominable and his diction atrocious, and the luckless apprentice typesetter had the task of metamorphosizing a creditable "Voice of the People" product from such a weird mess. He was overly quick to attribute ulterior motives to those who were laboring to improve his lot as well as their own, and was particularly happy if he could work into his letters, however inaptly, some classical reference for the confusion of his opponents. At the conclusion of one telling tirade against Mr. Motherwell, he trumphantly perorated: "O constituency, thou art a jull!"

BABE WILL APOLOGIZE.

Home Run King Will Make Public Amends For Statements About Huggins.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth, the Yankees' Home Run King, announced to-day after a conference with Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the team, that he would publicly apologize for his derogatory statements concerning Manager Miller Huggins.

Ruth said he would immediately go to Huggins and make his apology. The conference lasted half an hour.

Previously Ruth had visited his wife, who is seriously ill at her hotel. With tears streaming down his face, he assured her there was no truth in the sensational stories that have been circulated about him.

SHOT AT HORSE BRINGS FARMER INTO TROUBLE

Man Shot at Horse in Oat Field, Inflicting Fatal Wounds.

LAWYERS DIFFER.

Attorney For Defence Says Case Should Be Heard in Civil Court.

APSLEY, Sept. 1.—An unusual case was heard at Apsley by Police Magistrate Langley, on Monday, when William Johnston was charged under Section 510 of the Criminal Code with unlawfully and wilfully causing damage to a horse by wounding and killing it. The accused elected for summary trial, and pleaded not guilty through his counsel, Mr. Strickland. Crown Attorney Hatton appeared for the prosecution. The evidence showed that the horse was shot on the morning of August 12, and died the same night. Johnston admitted that he had chased the horse out of Simon Windsor's oats, on the farm where he was living, that five minutes afterwards the horse had returned and that he then got his shot gun with a No. 5 shot cartridge and fired in its direction with the intention of frightening it.

Mr. Strickland took exception to the manner in which the charge had been laid and in cross examinaton of Herbert Tucker, the owner of the horse, elicited the fact that he was suing accused for the value of the horse ($125). Mr. Strickland declared that the Criminal Court was being made use of by the legal firm conducting the civil case to procure evidence to support the action. After the evidence had been heard on both sides, and the opposing counsel had presented their arguments, which mainly centered on the interpretation of the word "wilfully," which it is said differs somewhat in Canadian and English law, the magistrate decided to reserve judgment for a week, and Johnston was bound over in the sum of $100 to appear next week in Peterborough.

The maximum penalty for the offence with which Johnston was charged is fourteen years' imprisonment.

This shooting of or at predatory horses and cattle is not an uncommon occurrence in this township, a prominent resident remarking to The Examiner after the trial, that this is said to be the seventh horse shot in that section in the last few years.

PILOT ERRED IN RETAINING SPEED

Should Have Slowed Down When Doubtful About Light, Says Report.

SEVERE REPRIMAND.

OTTAWA, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—A severe reprimand to Fortunat Hamelin, pilot of the Canadian Pacific steamship Metagama, which was damaged by striking the bottom or other object in the St. Lawrence on August 8, is contained in the report of Dominion Wreck Commissioner Demers. He finds Hamelin erred grievously in not calling the master and in not reducing the speed when in doubt as to the nature of the light ahead. The master, who was not on the bridge at the time, is held blameless, while David Pert, second officer, who was on the bride, is censured for remaining neutral instead of objecting to the action of the pilot.

FORMER HEAD OF QUEEN'S DEAD

Dr. Gordon, Principal For Fifteen Years, Died in His Sleep.

MADE MANY CHANGES.

KINGSTON, Ont., September 1.—Canadian Press. — Very Rev. Dr. Daniel Miner Gordon, Principal Emeritus of Queen's University, died during the night after a very brief illness.

Dr. Gordon, who was principal of Queen's from 1902 to 1917, was apparently in good health yesterday and there was nothing to indicate that he was near death. He was was in his 81st year. Dr. Gordon was responsible for many changes which made for the betterment of the University.

Mrs. W. F. Nickle, wife of Attorney-General Nickle, is a daughter of the deceased.

He is survived by one other daughter, Miss Wilhelmina, at home; and by three sons, Lieut.-Colonel Rev. A. M. Gordon, Montreal; W. G. Gordon, Toronto, and G. Huntly, Gordon, Hamilton.

ELECTION DATE FIXED ?

Ottawa Despatch Says Decision Has Already Been Reached For Vote on Oct. 26.

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—A special despatch from Ottawa today says that from present indications, the date of polling day will be October 26. It is believed here, the despatch says, "that the decision to hold a general election has already been reached."

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

"MISS BLUEBEARD."

"Miss Bluebeard," a Paramount picturization of Avery Hopwood's Broadway stage hit, "Little Miss Bluebeard," is the feature at the Royal Theatre now.

Frank Tuttle directed the picture; Townsend Martin wrote the screen play; Bebe Daniels is the star and Robert Frazer, Raymond Griffith, Kenneth MacKenna and others appear in the supporting cast.

"Miss Bluebeard" is a story of Colette Girard (Bebe), French actress, who goes to London. En route she meets a young fellow who poses as Larry Charters, prominent composer. The pair are stranded in a small town railroad station and go to the Mayor's house as the only place of shelter in the little hamlet. The Mayor mistakes them for a young couple he is expecting and marries them. Fancy that! What a mess!

Now Bob Hawley, Colette's temporary husband, had given the name of his friend, Charters, so the girl finds herself with not one husband, but two.

Nothing to do now but get a divorce. But when the real Larry Charters gets a glimpse of his made-to-order bride, he decides it is a honeymoon Colette will get, not a divorce. The girl also falls for him but will not admit it. She's heard a lot about these author fellows and far be it from her to be another of his "inspirations."

Robert Frazer, as usual, comes through with a pleasing performance as leading man. The rest of the cast, too, are all true-to-type.

"So this is love!" Is it? See it!

"THE NIGHT CLUB" FINE LAUGH FILM.

Raymond Griffith at Royal in Latest Paramount Comedy.

"The Night Club," a new Paramount comedy, featuring Raymond Griffith, that funny fellow with the high hat; Vera Reynolds, Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda, comes to the Royal Theatre for a run of three days on Thursday next. The picture is a screen version of the William de Mille stage play, "After Five."

"The Night Club" opens with Griffith at the altar with a girl a head taller than he is. He is just about to slip the ring on when a man dashes in and shouts "Stop." The girl turns around and recognizes the newcomer as her long lost husband and rushes into his arms. Then and there Ray Griffith decides that he is through with all women for good.

Later on his lawyer announces that he has inherited a million dollars from his uncle but to collect the legacy he must marry a certain girl. Griffith decides that no girl is worth a million dollars, and tells the lawyer not to slam the door as he goes out.

What happens after that—how he meets "the one girl in the world," proves unusual screen entertainment.

"The Night Club" is claimed to be far funnier than either "Changing Husbands" or "Lord Chumley," and everyone knows what they were.

GET-TOGETHER NIGHT AT ROYAL ON THURSDAY.

New novelties, amateurs and surprizes are being arranged for Thursday night at the Royal under the inviting title of Get-Together Night.

Mr. McGeachie is getting special slides made for the community singing, and feels sure that everybody is familiar with such old favorites as "On the Banks of the Wabash," "School Days," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "With Some One Like You," "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," etc.

Mr. Sam. Harris is preparing a series of talking songs, made famous by Raymond Hitchcock. The first one to be used Thursday night will be "The Lobster is the Wise Guy After All." Harris is at his best in this type of song.

"The Night Club," Raymond Griffith's latest comedy, should pack the house by itself, so patrons are assured of "good measure" on Thursday night.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Unholy Three" was the principal feature in the fare provided last night in the Capitol Theatre. The plot, which is both striking and original, hinges round the activities of three entertainers in a travelling show. Professor Echo, the ventriloquist, Hercules, the strong man, and Tweedledee, the dwarf, who quit the stage to embark on a career of crime in the expectation of achieving wealth and independence. The ventriloquist is lost to view, re-appearing as Mrs. O'Grady, an old lady in business as a bird seller, whose parrots invariably have a copious vocabulary when exposed for sale in the shop, and are strangely silent when taken to the home of the purchaser. The strong man poses as the son and the dwarf, who unites the stature and limbs of a child with the keen brain of a man and the soul of a devil enacts the role of infant grandson of the pseudo grandmother. The inevitable winsome daughter is Rosie O'Grady, who speedily becomes an object of attraction to the 'boob' Hector McDonald, a young man employed in the bird shop to be used as a scapgoat in case the police "get wise" to the real occupation of the bird sellers. Their plan of action is simple, but effective. Bird lovers who have bought a parrot are naturaly puzzled to find that the loquacious bird has suddenly become morose and tacitum. On complaints being made to the seller, the obliging old lady instantly calls at the house to investigtae the matter, invariably bringing with her the dear little grandchild, who, on being wheeled into the room, generally undertakes a tour of investigation on his own account immediately he is left alone. A series of well planned and successful burglaries of wealthy houses give the police much worry —and the safe in the bird seller's shop rapidly becomes a well filled repository of jewels and other valuables.

On Christmas night the giant and the dwarf carry out a job, "grandmother" remaining at home, tortured by jealousy at the growing fondness springing up between Rosie and the 'boob.' The two return, bringing in plunder in the hands and the guilt of murder on their souls. Police follow a clue that leads to the bird seller's shop. Hector is arrested on suspicion and the unholy trio flee to the mountains, carrying with them the unwilling Rosie.

The dread arm of the law is clutching Hector within a merciless grasp when Rosie prevails on Echo to journey back to the city and give the necessary evidence to free the innocent man. The law releases Hector and pardons Echo, who, inspired by the sacrificial spirit refuses to accept his promised reward and stands aside to allow the nuptials of Rosie and Hector. A horrible fate befalls the strong man and the dwarf, left with the spoil in the mountain cabin— and the picture closes with Professor Echo back on the stage entertaining the crowds with his marvellous ventriloquism.

The honors of the picture are divided by Lon Cheney as Professor Echo, Matt Moore as Hector and Mae Busch as Rosie O'Grady.

TRAIN STARTS FIRE.

Grass Blazes at Park Street Until Firemen Arrive.

Sparks from a passing locomotive ignited the grass on the C. N. R. right-of-way in the vicinity of the intersection of Park and McDonnel Streets yesterday at 3.36 p.m. A miniature prairie fire was in progress when the Fire Department arrived on the scene and put out the flames.

An automobile was enveloped in flames on Hunter Street for a few minutes yesterday forenoon until the firemen got on the job. The cause of the fire was found to be a short circuit arising from defective wiring.

SCHOOLS OPENED AFTER HOLIDAYS

Attendance This Morning Was Rather Better Than in Former Years.

NEW TEACHERS.

All the Peterborough schools reopened this morning, with the attendance slightly above that of the average re-opening day. A larger number of pupils than in previous years came home on time to enter the Collegiate, and this fact probably influenced others.

There will be no insuperable difficulties arising from lack of accommodation. Schools that have room will be called upon to lighten the burden of those that are too heavily taxed for accommodation, and a place will be found for every scholar.

A number of new faces were seen this morning among the teaching staff.

New teachers at the Central School are Misses Paxman, Bonnycastle, Doughty and Tudhope; at Queen Alexandra School, Miss Eagleson; at Queen Mary School, Miss MacNaughton and Miss Millburn; at the Prince of Wales School, Misses Waygarth and Tomlinson; at King Edward School, Miss Elliott; at King George School, Misses Pammett and Outram; at South Central, Miss McConnachie.

NUMBER AND VALUE OF PERMITS DROPS

Fewer Than in August of 1924 or July of This Year.

The building permits issued by the Board of Works for the month of August numbered 23, and were of a value totalling 23,825. This is considerably less than the number and amount of August, 1924, which had 26 permits valuing $33,805. In July, 1925, 36 permits were granted to the value of $36,751, and for July of last year there were 29 issued for a total of $75,281. The total value of permits issued for the period ending August 31, 1925, was $198,192; for the same period of last year the value was $285,381.

OBITUARY.

MRS. NICHOLAS DOIDGE

The death occurred on Monday, August 24, at Gore's Landing, of Margaret Johnston, beloved wife of Nicholas Doidge, after an illness of three months. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Robert Linton of Roseneath and Miss Jessie at home; an aged mother, Mrs. Johnston of Roseneath, and two sisters, Mrs. John Daonard of Hastings and Miss Jessie Johnston of Roseneath.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. McCord and Rev. Mr. Crystal. Interment was made in the Bible Christian Cemetery at Plainville. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The pall bearers were five nephews: Clifford Dainard, Hilliard and Howard Budd, Hilton Doidge and Milton Ames, and her son-in-law, Robert Linton.

MISS ANN SOUCIE

The death occured in Toronto on Sunday evening, at an advanced age, of Miss Ann Soucie. The remains were brought to the city by train last evening, and interment took place this morning from St. Paul's Church, Norwood, to the Norwood Cemetery.

The deceased was a sister of the late Mrs. T. J. Doris, Murray street. Other survivors are two sisters, the Misses Salome and Marie Soucie of Toronto; one brother, Mr. Joseph Soucie of Peterboro; four nieces, Mrs. George Lynch and the Misses Adeline and Mary Doris of this city, and Miss Evelyn Doris, of Toronto; and one nephew, James J. Doris, of Peterboro.

ALEXANDER D. ARMOUR.

The death occurred in New York yesterday of Alexander D. Armour. The funeral will be held in Peterborough, announcement being made later.

Bank Boys Will Become Better Bandit Shooters

PONCA CITY, Okla., Sept. 1.—(United Press).—Irked by the loss of more than a quarter of a million dollars to bandits during the last year, Oklahoma bank cashiers are preparing to improve their marksmanship.

Some time this month bank cashiers from a dozen northern counties, members of the Oklahoma bank vigilantes association now being organized, will assemble at the famous 101 ranch, near here, to practice the art of "trigger squeeze" and quick manipulation of six shooters.

Dummy bank robbers are to be used as targets. Under the instruction of cowboys the bankers expect to improve their aim at least 100 per cent. They will be masked during practice.

Six bandits were killed last year in Oklahoma resisting arrests or during attempted robberies.

CHARIOT RACE ON ARMOUR HILL

Wagon Broke and Teamster Rode on Front Axle Behind Fleeing Horses.

NOBODY HURT.

Last night, shortly before six o'clock, a team and wagon owned by the Peterborough Lumber Company was rounding the corner at the top of Armour Hill, preparatory to coming down Hunter Street. According to the story told by one of the drivers this morning, the horses became frightened by a passing automobile, and cramping quickly overturned the wagon, broke the reach, and with the two front wheels went careening and sliding down the steep gradient. The driver stuck to the moving portion of the wagon and rode it as a Roman would guide a chariot. The horses were disconnected from the wreck at the bottom of the hill, and the incident was over.

This morning, men were on hand to remove the broken wagon. No serious injuries were reported.

OFFER CANADIAN NOTES TO PUBLIC

$70,000,000 Issue Financed By U. S. Banking Syndicate.

NEW YORK, Sept. .1—(Canadian Press.)—Formation of a nation-wide syndicate to market the $70,000,000 issue of Canadian Government one-year four per cent. notes was announced last night by Blair and Company, heading the banking group which was awarded the financing after a spirited competition with other bankers, including J. P. Morgan and Company. Public offering of the notes will be made next Wednesday.

Included in the syndicate are the Chase Securities Corporation, the Equitable Trust Company of New York, the First National Bank of Boston and other large banks throughout the country.

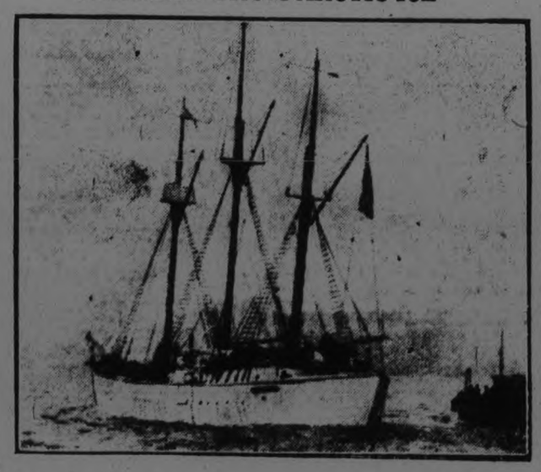
The Blair-Chase group also were the successful bidders for the $90,000,000 note issue sold by the Dominion Government last year and which will be retired on September 15 largely through the proceeds from the sale of the new securities.

FORDS LED MICHIGAN.

Henry Paid More Than $2,500,000, With Son Close Behind.

DETROIT, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Henry Ford and Edsel Ford, his son, together with the Ford Motor Company, paid the largest income tax on 1924 earnings in the first Michigan district, figures made public to-day revealed. Henry Ford paid $2,608,808.85; Edsel Ford paid $2,158,500.99, and the Ford Motor Company paid $16,493,160.91.

RELEASED FROM ARCTIC ICE



The steamer Maude, exploration ship of Captain Roald Amundsen, bound in the ice through last winter in the Arctic ocean, north of Siberia, has freed herself and set out for Nome, Alaska. News of the Maude, which steamed from Seatle, June 3, 1922, to drift over the North Pole, was received Thursday by the Seattle harbor radio in a message from the steamship Oduna, of the Alaska Steamship Co., in the Behring Sea. The Oduna has received a message from the Maude, saying she was off East Cape, Siberia. East Cape is the eastern tip of Asia on the west side of Behring.

Large Operators Cause Sharp Upward Movement

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.— (Canadian Press.)— Sharp advances in stocks under the reported sponsorship of large operators featured today's stock market. Although public participation was in small volume, there was an absence of selling pressure that has characterized some of the recent sessions. Equipment, Tobacco and Merchandising issues gave the best demonstration of group strength with buying influenced by favorable news, and reports of expending earnings. Increased railroad inquiries for cars and locomotives were reflecting in the demand for Baldwin, which showed an extreme gain of 4 points and American Locomotive, Railway Steel Springs, and American Car and Foundry, up 2 to 3 points. Woolworth and R. H. Macy led the merchandising group. The rise in the so-called Whelan stocks attracted fresh buying into Tobaccos, American Tobacco "B," Consolidated Cigar and United Cigar stores selling three or more points above yesterday's final quotations. Except for a five point jump in Soo Preferred and the strength of Atchison,

Trading Less Active. Keora Leading Mines

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press)—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was less active this morning the transactions totaling 140,313 shares. Keora under heavy buying advanced a half point to 15 3-8 while Argonaut declined fractionally to 27 1-4. Dome Mines was ten cents lower at 15.40 and Hattie preferred also dropped fractionally to 5. Premier sold three points lower at 222 and Teck Hughes was two points higher at 174. Canadian Lorraine held three points higher at 57; Crown Reserve advanced one point to 22 and Keeley declined one point to 165.

Mining Corporation was steady at 267.

Trading Set New Mark For Volume and Variety

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press)—Several features were shown in this morning's session of the Toronto Stock Exchange which reached a new mark in the volume of trading and the diversity of issues dealt in. Maple Leaf was the feature, selling up five and one eighth points at 98 1-8 following the news of the merger of the Canadian Banking concerns. Canadian Canners issues, appearing for the first time gained a point both in common and preferred at 14 and 60 respectively.

Dominion Stores advanced 1 3-4 at 56, Smelters a quarter at 120 1-4 and Brazilian, the leader in transactions with a total near 18,000 shares, improved a quarter at 69 1-4. Bell Telephone and Davies A. eased down a quarter, and Atlantic Sugar preferred advanced a half but common dropped 5-8 at 34 1-8.

Opening Advance In Wheat Soon Followed By Setback

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (Canadian Press).—Notwithstanding an upward tendency at the start today, wheat soon underwent a setback.

An advance in quotations at Liverpool was to some extent responsible for the early show of strength by the market here, but weakness ensued when the fact became apparent that the Liverpool trade was being governed by ship strike developments, which would be likely to have a contrary influence on this side of the Atlantic.

Private crop estimates issued today were conflicting, two experts forecasting a decrease of the spring wheat crop as compared with the prospect a month ago, whereas another authority figured out an increase

Opening, 3-c off to 5-8c up, December 153 to 153 1-2, and May 157 7-8 to 158 1-4 was followed by a moderate general advance and then by a drop which took December down to 152 1-4 and May to 156 3-8.

Unofficial corn crop estimates indicated 40,000,000 bushels loss in the yield during August. Largely as a result, the corn market scored decided gains. After opening unchanged to 5-8c higher, December 82 5-8 to 83, the market rose all around, December touching 83 3-4.

Oats lagged owing to continued hedge selling, starting at 1-8c decline to an equal advance, December 41 1-8 to 41 1-4. Prices later eased down somewhat.

Around The City.

It is rumored that R. T. Hill of Orillia will establish a creamery plant in the building which housed the Machine Telephone Company several years ago.

Court Peterborough, of the Independent Order of Foresters has arranged a fine concert of local and Toronto talent for to-morrow night. Mayor Turner will preside and a great variety of songs, dances and readings will be given. Some of the best known artists in these lines, both in Peterborough and in Toronto, will take part and a pleasant evening is promised.
